

APPENDIX

LIST OF AMICI

The National Association of Manufacturers (“NAM”) represents small and large manufacturers in every industrial sector nationwide. Manufacturing employs more than 12 million men and women, contributes $2.25 trillion to the U.S. economy annually, has the largest economic impact of any major sector, and accounts for more than three-quarters of all private-sector research and development in the nation. The NAM is the voice of the manufacturing community and the leading advocate for a policy agenda that helps manufacturers compete in the global economy and create U.S. jobs. See <https://www.nam.org/>.

The American Fuel & Petrochemical Manufacturers (“AFPM”) comprises nearly all U.S. refining and petrochemical manufacturing capacity. AFPM’s members supply consumers with products that are used daily in homes and businesses, help meet the fuel and petrochemical needs of the nation, strengthen economic and national security, and support nearly three million American jobs. See <https://www.afpm.org/>.

The American Petroleum Institute (“API”) and its more than 600 members operate in transportation, exploration, production, shipping, refining, marketing, and all other aspects of the oil and gas industry. API members also include service and supply firms. See <https://www.api.org/>.

The Interstate Natural Gas Association of America (“INGAA”) represents most U.S. interstate natural gas transmission pipeline companies. Its 28 members operate approximately 200,000 miles of interstate natural gas pipelines, serving as an indispensable link between natural gas producers and consumers. INGAA has a substantial interest in pipeline development, continued investment in energy infrastructure, and the development of predictable, consistent, rational, and fair law and policy affecting natural gas transportation. See <https://www.ingaa.org/>.

The Association of Oil Pipe Lines (“AOPL”) represents oil pipeline owners and operators. AOPL’s members operate pipelines carrying approximately 96 percent of the crude oil and petroleum products moved by pipeline throughout the U.S. Its members deliver crude oil and refined products to market through pipelines extending approximately 215,000 miles nationwide. See <http://www.aopl.org/>.

The Natural Gas Supply Association (“NGSA”) represents integrated and independent companies that produce, market, and transport domestic natural gas on interstate pipelines. NGSA encourages the use of natural gas within a balanced national energy policy, and promotes the benefits of competitive markets to ensure reliable and efficient transportation and delivery of natural gas. See <https://www.ngsa.org/>.

The National Mining Association (“NMA”) is the leading national representative of America’s mining industry. NMA’s members are producers of most of America’s coal, metals, industrial and agricultural minerals; manufacturers of mining and mineral processing machinery, equipment, and supplies; transporters; and the engineering and consulting firms, financial institutions, and other firms serving the industry. See <https://nma.org/>.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America (“U.S. Chamber”) is the world’s largest business federation. It represents 300,000 direct members and indirectly represents the interests of over three million companies and professional organizations of every size, in every industry, from every region. Its members include producers, transporters, and users of oil and natural gas, and they depend on stable, predictable, and national transportation of North-American-produced oil and gas. See <https://www.uschamber.com/>.

The Edison Electric Institute (“EEI”) represents all U.S. investor-owned electric companies. Its members provide electricity for approximately 220 million Americans and operate in all states and the District of Columbia. The electric power industry supports more than seven million jobs in communities across the United States. EEI’s members, which generate electricity with a range of fuels, are the largest U.S. users of natural gas. See www.eei.org/.

The American Gas Association (“AGA”) represents more than 200 local energy companies that deliver natural gas throughout the United States. More than seventy-one million residential, commercial, and industrial gas customers in the country (which is 95% of all such customers) receive their gas from AGA members. See <https://www.aga.org/>.

The Marcellus Shale Coalition (“MSC”) was formed in 2008 and is comprised of approximately 150 producing, midstream, transmission and supply chain members who are committed to working with local, county, state and federal government officials and regulators to facilitate the development of the natural gas resources in the Marcellus, Utica and related geological formations. MSC members represent many of the largest and most active companies in the nation in natural gas production, gathering, processing and transmission, as well as the suppliers and contractors who service the industry. See <https://marcelluscoalition.org/>.

The West Virginia Manufacturers Association (“WVMA”) represents manufacturers from across West Virginia. The WVMA provides advocacy work and access to experts in the area of environmental protection, workers’ compensation, unemployment compensation, tax, safety and other areas of interest to manufacturers. See <https://www.wvma.com/>.

The West Virginia Chamber of Commerce (“WV Chamber”) seeks to facilitate the continued operation and expansion of West Virginia business. Its member businesses come from every county and employ more than half of the state’s workforce. Collectively, its members constitute a major portion of the engine driving West Virginia’s economy. See <https://www.wvchamber.com/>.

The West Virginia Oil and Natural Gas Association (“WVONGA”) serves the entire oil and natural gas industry, including construction, environmental services, drilling, completion, gathering, transporting, distribution, and processing of oil, natural gas, and their constituents. Members have cumulatively invested nearly $10 billion in West Virginia, account for most production and well work permits, operate more than 20,000 miles of pipeline across the state, and fuel over 300,000 West Virginia homes and businesses. See <https://www.wvonga.com/>.

With over 750 members, the Independent Oil and Gas Association of West Virginia (“IOGAWV”) represents the exploration, extraction, production, and transmission of natural gas and oil in West Virginia, and the companies and individuals supporting these activities. IOGAWV promotes and protects a strong, competitive, and capable independent natural gas and oil producing industry in West Virginia. See <https://iogawv.com/>.

The Pennsylvania Chamber of Business and Industry (the “PA Chamber”) is the largest, broad-based business association in Pennsylvania. It has close to ten thousand member businesses throughout Pennsylvania, who employ more than fifty percent (50%) of the Commonwealth’s private workforce. Its members range from small companies to mid-size and large business enterprises. The PA Chamber’s mission is to advocate on public policy issues that will expand private sector job creation, to promote an improved and stable business climate, and to promote Pennsylvania’s economic development for the benefit of all Pennsylvania citizens. See <https://www.pachamber.org/>.

The Virginia Chamber of Commerce (“Virginia Chamber”) is the largest business association in the Commonwealth, with an underlying membership of more than 26,000 businesses of every size, in every industrial and business sector. Membership in the Virginia Chamber also includes various business and trade associations and local chambers of commerce. The Virginia Chamber’s members employ millions of Virginians and invest billions of dollars annually into the Commonwealth. The Virginia Chamber advocates the Virginia business community’s interests in cases involving issues that affect Virginia's economy and its general economic climate. A central aim of the Virginia Chamber is to ensure the Commonwealth continues to foster a business-friendly environment that aids businesses already operating in the Commonwealth and encourages new businesses to open or relocate here. See <https://www.vachamber.com/>.

The North Carolina Chamber Legal Institute ("Institute") is the litigation arm of the NC Chamber, a business advocacy organization that conducts legislative advocacy and exerts policy influence on behalf of its members. The Institute is charged with developing legal strategies to protect North Carolina businesses at the legislature and in the courts. The Institute has a significant interest in cases that threaten North Carolina's competitive business climate, including matters such as this one that directly impact the state's energy infrastructure and market. See <https://ncchamber.com/legal-institute/overview/>.

The South Carolina Chamber of Commerce is the unified voice of business in South Carolina. It represents the interests of the most diverse industry sectors and sizes, ranging from small, family-owned businesses to global enterprises. Its mission is to strategically create and advance a thriving, free-market environment where South Carolina businesses can prosper. See <https://www.scchamber.net/>.

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce ("Ohio Chamber") is Ohio's largest and most diverse statewide business advocacy organization. Founded in 1893, it works to promote and protect the interests of its more than 8,000 business members and the thousands of Ohioans they employ while building a more favorable Ohio business climate. As an independent point of contact for government and business leaders, the Ohio Chamber is a respected participant in the public policy arena. See <https://ohiochamber.com/>.

The Kentucky Chamber of Commerce (“Kentucky Chamber”) is the major catalyst, consensus builder, and advocate for a thriving economic climate in the Commonwealth of Kentucky. The Kentucky Chamber supports a prosperous business climate in the state and works to advance Kentucky through advocacy, information, program management, and customer service to promote business retention and recruitment. Representing the interests of more than 68,000 employers across the commonwealth and a membership base with more than 470,000 employees, the Kentucky Chamber advocates for growth-oriented policies, infrastructure investment, workforce solutions, and sensible regulations to spur economic growth and opportunity in Kentucky. See <https://www.kychamber.com/>.
