PETITION FOR REHEARING OF WRIT OF CERTIORARI

Michael Bennett

The Honorable Supreme Court Of The United States,

Thank you for this opportunity to petition the Supreme Court for a Rehearing of my Writ Of Certiorari.

I have been fighting Marvel's defense attorneys from the Alston & Bird law firm for the past 3 and half years, on my own Pro Se, in an attempt to rescue my Owl IP that Marvel Entertainment stole from me in 2008.

During my case I have provided evidence that 90 percent of what happens in the 2014 Captain America the Winter Soldier happens in my Owl books, most of which is in chronological order in addition Marvel Entertainment's 2011-2019 Avenger movie series is inundated with my Owl IP. I have so many exhibits proving this but because of the Court's page and word limitations it would be impossible to send all the evidence I have.

In the 2014 Captain America the Winter Soldier movie Marvel/Mark Millar split and steal Owl's bike jump and Owl's wings in a preprogrammed V shape.

This is James's first bike jump attempt, and he was a little nervous about testing it. He rode his bike to an abandoned airport just outside town, and went back and forth up and down the landing strip trying to pump up some courage. When he came around to the beginning of the runway he pointed his bike down the strip and hits the gas.

Before James knows it he was up to speed. The speedometer reads 170m.p.h. He stands on the seat, and when he lets go of the bars, PUTSSH!H! The hydraulic seat catapult makes quite a sound as it sends James soaring into the air. The wings take a preprogrammed position on James's back in a V shape. As he rockets into the air he lets out an excited cry, "Wooooo!" On his way up he watches as his bike races down the strip by its self only to crash into and over a chain-link fence.

2014 Captain America the Winter Soldier movie

-Owl using his motorcycle to launch himself into the air is like Captain America using his motorcycle to launch himself into the air.

-Both Owl and Falcon's wings take a preprogramed V shape.

-Owl yelling, "Wooooo!" rocketing into the air while he watches his motorcycle crash into a fence on the ground behind him is like Falcon yelling, "Whoo!" rocketing through the air while he watches a missile hits the Helicarrier behind him.

2014 Captain America the Winter Soldier movie Marvel/Mark Millar steal my nothing, nothing, nothing, something line from 2008 Owl Unlikely Crusader book.

Using his listening equipment to scan the terrain it sounds like someone going through all the A.M. radio stations. Nothing...nothing...nothing...then something, something hostile. Owl listens to something that makes the hairs on the back of neck stand up.

-After the nothing, nothing, nothing, something lines something hostile is mentioned in both my Owl book and the 2014 Captain America the Winter Soldier movie.

Because Marvel/Mark Millar have both my 2008 Owl Unlikely Crusader writing inquiry sent into Marvel and my 2012 Owl Knight's Quickening Kindle book Marvel/Mark Millar often jump back and forth from one to the other to steal from both Owl books.

I rewrote the Nothing/Something line for my 2012 Owl Knight's Quickening book.

Owl Knight's Quickening's excerpt: pages 4, 5

Using the wings like a tripod he steadies his head and starts surveying the city, scanning for anything out of the ordinary.

The camera sits on top of his right eye and has night vision, heat vision, the power of a telescope and the ability to zoom in and record anything and everything. On top of his left eye sits a mini satellite dish made of materials that resonates sound waves that originate miles away. The sounds are recorded and cataloged by an advance computer system. The camera and satellite dish appear like two large circles on James's face, because of this, eyewitnesses and the press have given the crime fighter the name Owl. Not the most vicious of creatures but James carries the name with great pride.

Using his listening equipment to scan the terrain it sounds like someone going through all the A.M. radio stations. He picks up a conversation between a man and woman, "Do you want to go to my place babe?" Owl scans again and listens in on two bouncers working a door at a local club, "Do you think Sprockets is going cause any more trouble tonight?"

"You talking about that German dude getting all touchy feely with the girls earlier?"

"Yea that's the one."

"Let him try that s again, I'll choke the kraut out of him." Both men laugh at the prospect of Saturday-night violence.

Now that's not good violence. Two huge jocks beating up a German guy just because he couldn't hold his liquor and became a little overly extraverted... I believe in violence just as much as the next guy. Using violence in the service of good, saving a rape victim, carjacking victim, bringing a home invasion to a quick end, and catching the crooks, now that's good violence.

Owl scans again, when he hears sounds that make the hairs on the back of his neck stand up.

2014 Guardians of the Galaxy movie

2008 Owl Unlikely Crusader excerpt: page 35

"She's actually more beautiful in person if you can believe that."

"Wait; let me picture Rebecca Stewarts in person." A smile crosses Brian's face; he raises his eyebrows and cries out, "Wooooooooo yea...that's what I'm talking about!" James picks up a rag and throws it at Brian, "That enough picturing old man."

-Owl using a computer screen to search for people by zooming in and scanning them while pontificating about them is like Rocket Raccoon using a computer screen to search for people by zooming in and scanning them while pontificating about them.

-There is a man and woman hooking up just like in Owl.

-The guy with blonde hair looks like a guy that would be on the Saturday Night Live Mike Myer's skit "Sprockets" about a New Wave German show.

-In Owl Sprockets is getting touchy feely with some girls Mark Millar switches it to the man with the woman who is getting touchy feely.

2014 Guardians of the Galaxy movie Marvel/Mark Millar steal Owl's flashback.

Owl Knight's Quickening excerpt: page 55

Owl stands up and looks down at Dr. Morikaido dangling by his neck. The doctor in agony looks up at James as he slowly spins. James wants to start stomping on the diamond fiber cable shaking the Dr. loose so he can fall to his death. When a memory from his childhood flashes before him.

James was a little boy and had stepped on an ant. His dad grabbed little James by the arm and asks him, "What did you just do?"

"I stepped on the ant and killed it."

"Why did you do that James?"

"I don't know."

"What if somebody or something stepped on you and killed you?" Little James stood there with a blank face not understanding his father's question. His father poses another question to his son, "What if the ant's leg was torn off and your leg was torn off, would it hurt the ant any less than it would you?"

Little James stood silent thinking about the question his father had asked him, and tried to imagine how much it would hurt to have your leg torn off... When the answer came to him, little James's face started producing tears and screams of a kid that would do anything to turn back time, and take back his act of killing that ant that laid there smashed into the cement.

James's father reaches down and picks up little James and says to him, "Now don't you cry you're going to make your old man cry. Look... you didn't know. You're a smart kid but I can't expect you to know everything. You know now?" Being carried by his father, James was still crying and nods his head yes as the two continue down the road.

2014 movie Guardians of the Galaxy movie

-Owl having a flashback where he is with his late father and an innocent ant is killed is like Star-lord having a flashback where he is with his late mother and an innocent frog is killed.

-Owl's line "smashed into the cement" is like Guardians of the Galaxy's line "Smushed it with a stick."

2015 Avengers: Age of Ultron Marvel/Mark Millar steal Owl's scanning red laser for Iron Man.

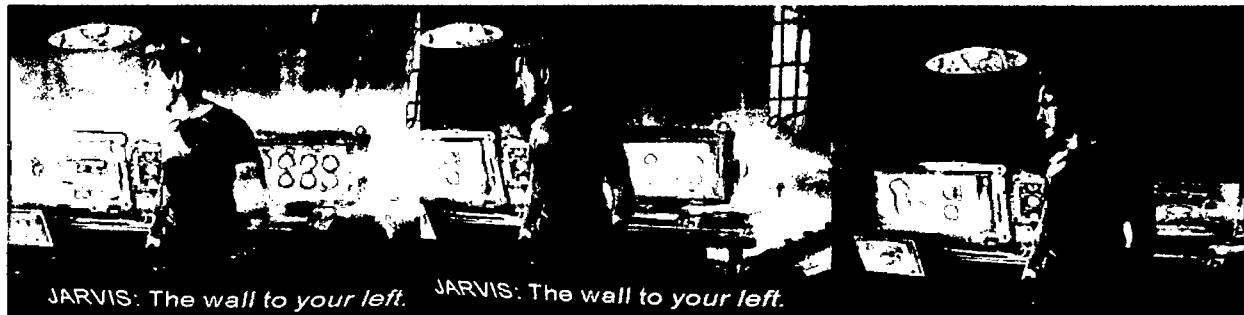

Owl excerpt: page 33

"Then a red laser came out the top of the man's helmet. The man interrupts him, "You're at the party Carlos Guzman. I'm placing all of you under arrest." They laughed at him. The one he called Carlos said, "Hey man you shot a laser into my eye man. You're not supposed to shoot lasers into people's eyes like that man; you're going to have to pay."

"The laser beam is harmless but I am not."

2015 Avengers: Age of Ultron movie

-A scanning red laser coming out of Owl is like a scanning red laser coming out of the Iron Man suit in 2015 movie Avengers: Age of Ultron.

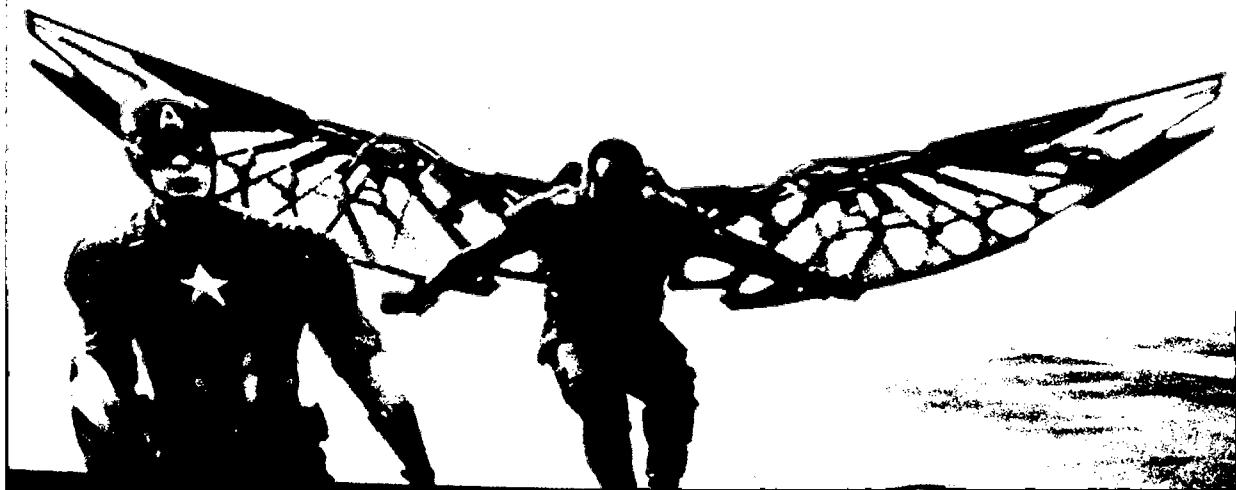

-The red laser washing over Carlos Guzman in the Owl book is like the red laser washing over Tony Stark in the 2015 movie Avengers: Age of Ultron.

Exhibit 2 in my case provides proof that the Defendants used my Owl Cover Drawing like an autopsy diagram as they applied 7 matching wounds depicted in the Owl Drawings to the Marvel character Captain America in the 2014 Captain America The Winter Soldier movie is proof positive Marvel/Mark Millar are stealing Owl IP specifically from me.

The 7 matching wounds happens in a movie with the first look at Marvel's revamped character Falcon that act likes and looks strikingly similar to Owl from the neck down the picture below on the right is 3 Owl bodies and wings with Falcon heads on them.

2014 Captain America the Winter Soldier movie

After receiving my 2008 Owl submission Marvel/Mark Millar use my contact information to hack my phone to spy on, taunt and steal IP from me and they don't mind admitting it in fact they love to rub my nose in it.

My phone was hijacked by an Algerian and there is an Algerian hijacker in the Winter Soldier movie.

Using their illegal phone hack Marvel/Mark Millar placed 35 "Null" comments on my YouTube Videos over a 3 year period. This computer data on this phone hack and its perpetrators could still be out there should still be out there.

Around 2013 Mark Millar was about to surpass Marvel's co-founder Stan Lee for TV and Movie Creative Contributions. Proving this case could be as simple as taking a look at Mark Millar's Career and Creative Contributions over the past decade to see if they are congruent with my claims.

Using their illegal phone hack Marvel/Mark Millar find my 2012 Owl Knight's Quickenning book available on Amazon and steal it and it's cover art. The computer data of Marvel/Mark Millar should still be out there.

Exhibit 1 shows using their illegal phone hack Marvel/Mark Millar find my published time stamped YouTube videos which are mentioned on my 2012 Owl Knight's Quickenning book's advertisement and use them to taunt and threaten me in the 2014 Winter Soldier movie by dressing the Marvel character Falcon up like I am dressed in a 2012 YouTube video and by highlighting and maliciously wrecking into a vehicle like the one I am driving in the same 2012 YouTube video.

I admittedly gave Marvel/Mark Millar plenty to be angry with me.

In 2011 I figured out that Marvel/Mark Millar used my 2008 Marvel Owl submission to make the 2010 movie Kick-Ass.

In another act of revenge Marvel/Mark Millar stole Batman characters from DC Comics to make the 2010 Kick-Ass movie most likely because in 2007 DC Comics rejected Mark Millar's Communist Superman Screenplay "Red Son".

I contacted DC Comic's Vice President of Legal Jay Kogan and told him that Marvel/Mark Millar stole DC Comics Batman Characters and inserted them into my 2008 Marvel Owl Submission to make the 2010 Kick-Ass movie.

I sent Mr. Jay Kogan all of the evidence of the Kick-Ass Copyright Infringement I had on this matter.

I put all this evidence of Copyright Infringement on a proof disk and sent it to many people trying to find anyone associated with Marvel/Mark Millar who cared that Marvel/Mark Millar were stealing my Owl IP to no avail; all I accomplished was making Marvel/Mark Millar very angry at me and wanting revenge.

I turned in a copy of this proof disk to the State Court and to the Defendant's attorneys but I believe the Defendants omitted this Proof Disk evidence when removing my case from the State Court thus omitting the motive for Marvel/Mark Millar's many Taunts/Threats/Admissions of Guilt.

Does the Defense omitting important evidence make the Removal of my case from the State Court unlawful?

Could the Supreme Court send my case back to the State Court where I could process serve subpoenas to uncover evidence for a jury trial if the Defense executed an unlawful removal of my case?

Appendix C & D in my case a Federal Appels Court Chief Judge allowed a copy of this same Proof Disk to be entered into my case as an amended exhibit then denied my petition for a Panel Rehearing on the same day probably in the same breath; how can this be equal justice under the law?

Since 2011 I have done everything I could think of to fight Marvel/Mark Millar in an attempt to rescue my Owl IP from them all the while looking over my shoulder waiting for them to make good on their many threats to kill me.

Not only did Marvel steal my Owl IP they stole my sense of humor, my sense of safety, my sense of fair play in the world, my trust in others and all because I made the mistake of answering their advertisement for comic book submissions in 2008.

I wouldn't wish what Marvel/Mark Millar did to me on any other American citizen.

Marvel/Mark Millar have systematically dissected my Owl IP and divvied it out to many of their Marvel Characters and storyline in the 2011-2019 Avenger Series movies thus nullifying my Owl IP.

Very much like Marvel/Mark Millar's 35 taunting "Null" comments they posted on my YouTube videos with their phone hack; Marvel/Mark Millar made my Owl IP null.

As Marvel/Mark Millar reap the rewards of stealing my Owl IP breaking box office records, winning Academy Awards for their efforts but Marvel/Mark Millar are using my Owl IP to push some of the most enraging, divisive, dangerous media messaging I have ever seen.

To say I am offended and object to their media messaging is an immense understatement.

I don't like how Marvel/Mark Millar uses their Superheroes and racism to subliminally enrage and program unsuspecting, susceptible audience members like in the pictures below.

Step 1: Marvel/Mark Millar subject unsuspecting audiences to racist, enraging, and divisive subliminal imagery.

2014 Captain America the Winter Soldier movie

A Washington DC Police car pulls up to African-American Nick Fury's SUV.

Nick Fury does a double take and notices white policemen seem to profile him.

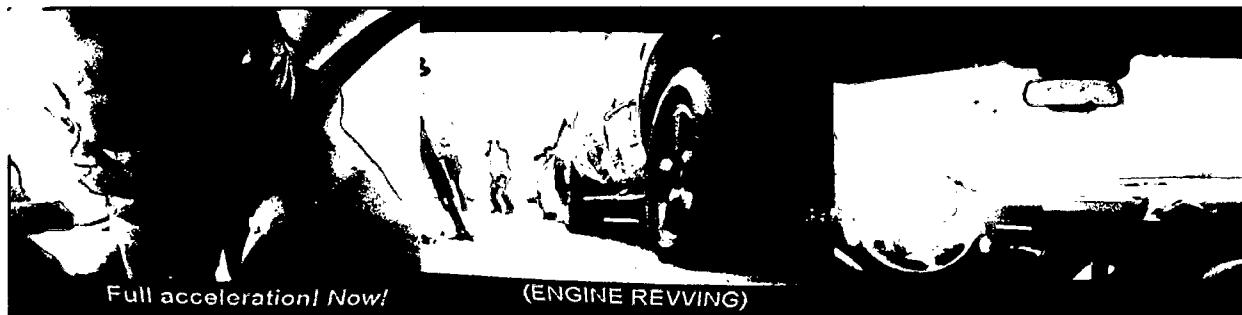

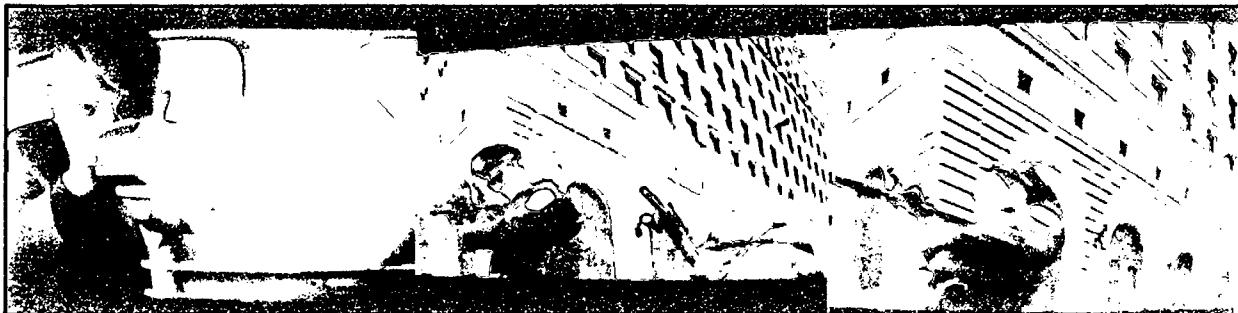

Nick Fury says, "Want to see my lease?" to show his disgust with the policemen.

Step 2: Marvel/Mark Millar immediately follow Step 1 with an intense subliminal homicidal police killing fantasy where Marvel Avenger Superhero Nick Fury mows down Washington DC police officers with his car and machine gun.

Repeat Steps 1 & 2 and it looks like to me Marvel & Mark Millar are teaching or brainwashing American children to be more combative when dealing with the police.

So is it possible all the riots and civil unrest plaguing our country today due to Police Brutality is not because the Police are racist or white supremacists but actually what we are seeing is the by-product of Marvel/Mark Millar's and others' divisive and enraging subliminal programming at work as it exhausts and overwhelms our country's police officers with the number of radicalized, combative individuals the police are coming in contact with on a daily basis?

I believe during the past decade this coordinated effort to spread divisive Anti-American propaganda Marvel/Mark Millar have been involved with has made it nearly impossible for any African-American to feel comfortable in his or her own country.

I don't like how Marvel/Mark Millar uses their Superheroes to teach children that it is ok to steal something if you want it more than the person who owns it.

Below Marvel/Mark Millar's Superhero infuses unsuspecting, susceptible children with this harmful rational sending them down an illegal, dangerous path for the past 6 years.

2014 Guardians of the Galaxy movie

I believe Marvel/Mark Millar uses the last sentence above, "Do you understand?", as a teaching tool evoking children's minds to ponder Marvel/Mark Millar's harmful rational.

I don't like how Marvel/Mark Millar uses slavery to subliminally enrage unsuspecting audiences while at the same time degrading symbols of American Government like in the pictures below.

2017 Spider-Man Homecoming movie

I do not like my Owl IP being used for these harmful purposes so this is another reason I am here fighting as hard as I can, trying to get my Owl IP back.

I believe that Marvel's Anti-American media demonstrates their poor character.

I am here begging the court to please hold Marvel Entertainment LLC accountable for their Willful, Criminal Copyright Infringement on my Owl books, Owl drawings and their illegal hack on my phone which they have used their own words and they have used their own media to admit guilt for.

Please tell Marvel that it is not ok to steal submissions sent to them that they asked for and use the contact information to hack into their victims' phones to spy on them, to steal more IP from them and to taunt and threaten them.

Please show Marvel no matter how big of a company you are that this type of illegal activity victimizing American citizens should not and will not be tolerated in The United States of America.

Supreme Court Of The United States please let my case move forward.

Respectfully Submitted,

Michael Bennett
