Darrel R. Fisher Case # 18-2874

Question 9:

I expect my financial position will improve in the next year. I expect the federal government will return to me my property they stole at gunpoint on Jan. 29, 1999 and are holding for ransom, reward or otherwise for over 20 years now. I do expect the federal government will pay to me what it took from me in lost income and personal property they cost me and what they stole from me.

Question 11:

Your demand for a "fee" to file a suit against government's common thieves and murderers is a subtle punishment those of us citizens who demand your kind of temporary hired hand servants answer to us for your misdeeds violative of our laws of society that you so wilfully violate and to hold each of you accountable for your criminal acts. This "fee" is not written into the Constitution nor are any "fees" required to petition for the redress of grievances nor can any "fee" not paid stop my from filing my appeal to your act to cover-up the acts of your fellow federal government temporary hired hand servants. Anyone can file a civil suit against any public servant at any time he is deprived of any civil, constitutional or legal right, and due to your negligence to duty in the past, these fellow public servants keep on violating our rights under color of official right, so we have to stop those acts from happening over and over again by suits against those who commit them.

If your kind of federal government servant had not violated my rights 22 years ago, I would not have been forced to file these suits against your fellow public servants to get justice your kind denied me so many times.
