UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE THIRD CIRCUIT

No. 19-2974

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

v.

PAUL N. LITTLES, Appellant

(M.D. Pa. Crim. No. 1-98-cr-00056-001)

Present: AMBRO, GREENAWAY, JR., and PORTER, Circuit Judges

Submitted is appellant's request for a certificate of appealability under 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(1) in the above-captioned case.

Respectfully,

Clerk

O R D E R

Appellant's request for a certificate of appealability is denied because jurists of reason would not debate the District Court's denial of his motion under 28 U.S.C. § 2255. See 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(2); Slack v. McDaniel, 529 U.S. 473, 484 (2000). In particular, jurists of reason would not debate the District Court's ruling that appellant's § 2255 motion is untimely under United States v. Green, 898 F.3d 315 (3d Cir. 2018), cert. denied, 139 S. Ct. 1590 (2019).

AND NOW, this 3rd day of September, 2019, upon remand by the Third Circuit Court of Appeals to determine whether a certificate of appealability shall issue (Doc. 181), IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that a certificate of appealability shall not issue as the defendant has failed to demonstrate “a substantial showing of the denial of a constitutional right,” 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(2); see also Miller-El v. Cockrell, 537 U.S. 322, 335-36 (2003).

PAUL N. LITTLES : Judge Sylvia H. Rambo

O R D E R

Before the court is Paul N. Littles' motion to vacate pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 in which Littles seeks to file a successive motion challenging his designation as a career offender under the guidelines based on the United States Supreme Court holding in Johnson that the residual clause in the Armed Career Criminal Act is unconstitutionally vague. (Doc. 163.) In its opposition to the motion, the Government argues that this court must dismiss Littles' motion because the Third Circuit recently held that a motion raising a Johnson challenge to a sentence imposed under the mandatory guidelines is untimely. United States v. Green, 898 F.3d 315 (3d Cir. 2018), cert. denied, 139 S. Ct. 1590 (2019). Littles has filed a reply stating that he agrees this court is bound by the decision in Green with respect to his motion. (Doc. 177.) Accordingly, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the motion is DENIED.

UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE THIRD CIRCUIT

IN RE: :
MOTION OF PAUL LITTLES : No.
UNDER 28 U.S.C. § 2244 FOR :
PERMISSION TO FILE A SECOND :
OR SUCCESSIVE APPLICATION :
FOR RELIEF UNDER 28 U.S.C. § 2255 :

MOTION UNDER 28 U.S.C. § 2244 FOR ORDER
AUTHORIZING DISTRICT COURT TO CONSIDER SECOND OR SUCCESSIVE APPLICATION FOR RELIEF UNDER
28 U.S.C. § 2255 AND JOHNSON v. UNITED STATES, 135 S. Ct. 2251 (2015)

Paul Littles, through undersigned counsel, moves under 28 U.S.C. § 2244(b)(3) and L.A.R. 22.5 for permission to file the proposed second or successive application for relief, which is attached as Exhibit 1, based on Johnson v. United States, 135 S. Ct. 2251 (2015), and in support states the following:

RELEVANT PROCEDURAL HISTORY

1. On July 21, 1998, a jury sitting in the Middle District of Pennsylvania found Mr. Littles guilty of in violation of conspiracy to distribute and possess with intent to distribute heroin, in violation of 21 U.S.C. § 846, and of distribution and possession with intent to distribute heroin, in violation of 21 U.S.C. § 841(a). See Docket 1:98-CR-0056, Middle District of Pennsylvania, attached as Exhibit 2.

2. A Presentence Report was prepared and, although the predicate offenses were not identified, the Probation Office determined that Mr. Littles was a career offender.

3. Mr. Littles had two prior adult convictions for robbery in Philadelphia County and a prior conviction for a controlled substance offense that received criminal history points.

4. Mr. Littles' guideline range was set at 360 months to life.

5. On January 15, 1999, the District Court adopted the Presentence Report and sentenced Mr. Littles, as a career offender, to 360 months.

6. Mr. Littles is currently incarcerated at the Federal Correctional Institution at Schuylkill.

7. On January 19, 1999, Mr. Littles filed a direct appeal to this Honorable Court, which was docketed at 99-7044.

8. On April 5, 2000, this Honorable Court affirmed the District Court.

See United States v. Littles, 208 F.3d 207 (3d Cir. 2000) (Table).

9. On September 4, 2001, Mr. Littles filed his first motion pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255. See Exhibit 2, Docket Entry 90.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Local Appellate Rule 22.5(a)(2) requires copies of all prior petitions under 28 U.S.C. § 2255 to accompany this application; however, this particular document has not been scanned or imaged for access by the Clerk's Office for the United States District Court for the Middle District of Pennsylvania and may only be located in archives.

10. On November 7, 2001, the District Court dismissed Mr. Littles' motion and declined to issue a certificate of appealability. See Exhibit 3.

11. On January 2, 2002, Mr. Littles filed an appeal to this Honorable Court, which was docketed at 02-1170.

12. On May 29, 2003, this Court issued an order denying his request for a certificate of appealability.

13. On November 3, 2003, the United States Supreme Court denied Mr. Littles' petition for writ of certiorari.

14. On January 20, 2006, Mr. Littles filed his second motion pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255. See Exhibit 4.

15. On January 24, 2006, the District Court denied Mr. Littles' second motion and declined to issue a certificate of appealability. See Exhibit 5.

16. On November 15, 2007, Mr. Littles filed his third motion pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255. See Exhibit 6.

17. On November 20, 2007, the District Court directed the clerk to forward Mr. Littles' pro se motion to the Court of Appeals. See Exhibit 7.

18. Mr. Littles' successive motion was docketed at 07-4340.

19. By Order of June 19, 2008, this Court denied Mr. Littles' application for leave to file a second or successive motion under 18 U.S.C. § 2255.

20. On September 17, 2008, Mr. Littles filed a pro se motion styled “Motion to Dismiss for Lack of Territorial and Subject Matter Jurisdiction” with the District Court. See Exhibit 8.

21. On September 18, 2008, the District Court issued a Memorandum and Order treating Mr. Littles’ pro se filing as one filed pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255, dismissing the motion and declining to issue a certificate of appealability. See Exhibit 9.

22. On January 20, 2015, Mr. Littles filed a pro se document styled “28 U.S.C. § 2255(F)(3)(4)(1) Substantial Change of Law Alternative Petition for Writ of Coram Nobis; and Alternative Petition for a Writ of Audita Querela Alternative Petition for Relief Under 28 U.S.C. 2241.” See Exhibit 10.

23. By Memorandum and Order filed January 23, 2015, the District Court dismissed the pro se motion for lack of jurisdiction and declined to issue a certificate of appealability. See Exhibits 11 & 12.

24. On March 30, 2016, Mr. Littles filed a pro se document regarding Johnson. See Exhibit 13.

25. On March 30, 2016, the Federal Public Defender’s Office was appointed to represent Mr. Littles and, on March 31, 2016, counsel moved to hold his pro se filing in abeyance.

26. By Order of April 4, 2016, the District Court granted such motion.

See Exhibit 14.

27. Because Mr. Littles previously filed a motion pursuant to Section 2255, Mr. Littles seeks permission from this Court to file a second or successive motion pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255(h).

28. Mr. Littles seeks to challenge his designation as a career offender based on the United States Supreme Court's holding in Johnson that the residual clause in the Armed Career Criminal Act (ACCA) is unconstitutionally vague.

29. Following Johnson, as explained more fully in the attached proposed 28 U.S.C. § 2255 Motion, the predicate convictions are no longer crimes of violence. See Exhibit 1.

ARGUMENT

I. Movant meets the standard for filing a successive motion

30. This Court should authorize a second or successive motion where the movant makes a prima facie showing that it "contain[s] . . . a new rule of constitutional law, made retroactive to cases on collateral review by the Supreme Court that was previously unavailable." 28 U.S.C. § 2255(h)(2).

31. A prima facie showing "in this context merely means a sufficient showing of possible merit to warrant a fuller exploration by the district court." In re Pendleton, 732 F.3d 280, 282 (3d Cir. 2013)(internal quotation and citations omitted).

32. Mr. Littles need not definitively prove in this application that he is entitled to relief under Johnson. Rather, he need only show that Johnson created “a new rule of constitutional law, made retroactive to cases on collateral review by the Supreme Court, that was previously unavailable.” Pendleton, 732 F.3d at 282.

33. Mr. Littles makes a prima facie showing that he meets the gatekeeping requirements of Section 2255(h)(2) because: (1) Johnson is a new rule of constitutional law that was previously unavailable; (2) the rule is substantive and thus retroactive to cases on collateral review; and (3) the rule is substantive and the Supreme Court has “made” it retroactive.

34. On June 26, 2015, the United States Supreme Court issued its decision in Johnson v. United States, 135 S. Ct. 2251 (2015), holding that the residual clause in the Armed Career Criminal Act is unconstitutionally vague and increasing a defendant’s sentence under the residual clause violates due process of law. Id. at 2557.

35. The Court held the residual clause “vague in all its applications” and overruled its contrary decisions in James v. United States, 550 U.S. 192 (2007) and Sykes v. United States, 131 S. Ct. 2267 (2011). See Johnson, 135 S. Ct. at 2561-63.

36. The residual clause in the ACCA is identical to the residual clause in the career offender provision of the United States Sentencing Guidelines. U.S.S.G. § 4B1.2(a)(2).

37. This Court has consistently relied on cases interpreting the ACCA's residual clause to inform decisions relating to the identically worded residual clause in the guidelines. See United States v. Marrero, 743 F.3d 389, 394 n.2 (3d Cir. 2014)(citing Hopkins v. United States, 555 U.S. 1132 (2009)).

38. Indeed, after Johnson, the Supreme Court granted certiorari, vacated and remanded the sentences of several career offenders who were sentenced under the residual clause of the sentencing guidelines. See, e.g., Jones v. United States, 135 S. Ct. 2944 (June 30, 2015)(remanded to this Court for further consideration in light of Johnson).

39. The rule announced in Johnson is a "new" rule that is "substantive." Schrivo v. Summerlin, 542 U.S. 348, 351 (2004); Teague v. Lane, 489 U.S. 288 (1988); In re Watkins, 810 F.3d 375 (6th Cir. 2015).

40. No pre-Johnson precedent dictated that the residual clause was unconstitutionally vague.

41. To the contrary, pre-Johnson the Supreme Court expressly rejected the argument that the residual clause was unconstitutionally vague. James, 550 U.S. at 210 n.6; Sykes, 131 S. Ct. at 2277.

42. In Johnson, the Supreme Court explicitly overruled its prior decisions in James and Sykes. Johnson, 135 S. Ct. at 2563.

43. “The explicit overruling of an earlier holding no doubt creates a new rule.” Whorton v. Bockting, 549 U.S. 406, 416 (2007)(quoting Saffle v. Parks, 494 U.S. 484, 488 (1990)).

44. The rule in Johnson is one of constitutional law because it rests on the notice requirement of the Due Process Clause. See Johnson, 135 S. Ct. at 2563 (“imposing an increased sentence under the residual clause of the [ACCA] violates the Constitution’s guarantee of due process.”).

45. Several circuit Courts of Appeal agree that Johnson is a new rule of constitutional law. In re Watkins, 810 F.3d 375, 379 (6th Cir. 2015); In re Williams, 806 F.3d 322, 324 & n.6 (5th Cir. 2015); Pakala v. United States, 804 F.3d 139, 139-40 (1st Cir. 2015); In re Gieswein, 802 F.3d 1143, 1146 (10th Cir. 2015); In re Rivero, 797 F.3d 986, 989 (11th Cir. 2015); Price v. United States, 795 F.3d 731, 732-33 (7th Cir. 2015).

46. The rule in Johnson was “previously unavailable” because it was issued after Mr. Littles was sentenced on January 15, 1999, and after he pursued his first motion to vacate in 2001. See In re Turner, 267 F.3d 225, 228 (3d Cir. 2001)(new rule was “previously unavailable” because it was announced more than a year after first § 2255 motion was decided).

47. Pre-Johnson any successive collateral attack on this basis would have been futile. See, e.g., United States v. Blair, 734 F.3d 218, 223 (3d Cir. 2013)(rejecting argument that residual clause is unconstitutionally vague as foreclosed by binding Supreme Court and Circuit precedent); United States v. Gibbs, 656 F.3d 180, 188-89 (3d Cir. 2011)(rejecting “fair notice” argument and holding that the residual clause is not unconstitutionally vague); see also Price, 795 F.3d at 733 (“Until Johnson was decided, any successive collateral attack would have been futile.”).

48. This Court must give retroactive effect to new substantive rules of constitutional law. Teague v. Lane, 489 U.S. 288 (1989); Montgomery v. Louisiana, 136 S. Ct. 718, 729-30 (2016).

49. The rule announced in Johnson is substantive because it forbids criminal punishment of certain primary conduct or prohibits a certain category of punishment for a class of defendants because of their status or offense. Montgomery, 136 S. Ct. at 732.

50. The Supreme Court has “made” Johnson retroactive “through multiple holdings that logically dictate the retroactivity of the new rule.” Tyler v. Cain, 533 U.S. 656, 668 (2001)(O’Connor, J., concurring).

51. Nevertheless, the circuits are divided on the question of retroactivity and the Supreme Court granted certiorari in Welch v. United States, No. 15-6418, a first 28 U.S.C. § 2255 case, to address whether Johnson is retroactive.

II. Movant's Motion is Timely

52. Section 2255(f)(3) of Title 28 of the United States Code, 28 U.S.C. § 2255(f)(3), establishes a one-year statute of limitations for a motion to vacate, set aside or correct the sentence based upon a “right [that] has been newly recognized by the Supreme Court and made retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review” with such period commencing upon “the date on which the right asserted was initially recognized by the Supreme Court.”

53. Because Johnson was decided on June 26, 2015, this Motion is timely.

54. Mr. Littles recognizes that a decision from the Supreme Court with regard to the retroactivity of Johnson is pending, Welch v. United States, No. 15-6418; however, because Mr. Littles’ motion is based on Johnson, to meet the statute of limitations in Section 2255(f)(3), Mr. Littles is required to file his motion prior to June 26, 2016. See Dodd v. United States, 545 U.S. 353, 357 (2005)(finding that the one-year limitation period runs from the date on which the Supreme Court initially recognized the right asserted, not from the date on which the right asserted was made retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review).

III. Conclusion

55. Pursuant to Section 2244(b)(3)(C), Mr. Littles has made a timely prima facie showing that his application satisfies the requirements set forth in Section 2255(h)(2) and he has made a “sufficient showing of possible merit to warrant a fuller exploration by the district court.”

56. His proposed motion to vacate, demonstrating that he is entitled to relief, is attached in accordance with Local Appellate Rule 22.5. See Exhibit 1.

WHEREFORE, the Movant requests that this Court grant him permission to file the attached successive motion to vacate, set aside or correct sentence pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 in the District Court in the Middle District of Pennsylvania.

MOTION TO CORRECT SENTENCE
UNDER 28 U.S.C. § 2255

Petitioner, Paul Littles, through undersigned counsel, Melinda C. Ghilardi, Esquire, First Assistant Federal Public Defender, respectfully files this motion to vacate and correct his sentence pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 in light of Johnson v. United States, 135 S. Ct. 2551 (June 26, 2015).<sup>1</sup>

Procedural and Factual Background

On July 21, 1998, a jury sitting in the Middle District of Pennsylvania found Mr. Littles guilty of conspiracy to distribute and possess with intent to distribute heroin in violation of 21 U.S.C. § 846 and distribution and possession with intent to distribute heroin in violation of 21 U.S.C. § 841(a). A Presentence Report was prepared. Mr. Littles was determined to be a career offender. (PSR ¶ 28). Although the particular predicate offenses were not identified in the Presentence Report, Mr. Littles had two prior adult convictions for robbery in Philadelphia County and a prior conviction of a controlled substance offense which received criminal history points. (PSR ¶¶ 32, 33 & 38). Within the Presentence Report, Mr. Littles' sentencing guideline range was determined to be 360 months to life based on a total offense level of 37 and a criminal history category of VI. (PSR ¶ 74). Without the career offender enhancement and following Amendment 782 to the United States Sentencing Commission Guidelines Manual, it is estimated that Mr. Littles' sentencing guideline range would be reduced to 262 to 327 months based on an offense level of 34 and a criminal history category of VI.

On January 15, 1999, this Court adopted the Presentence Report and sentenced Mr. Littles, as a career offender, to 360 months. Mr. Littles is now serving his sentence at the Federal Correctional Institution at Schuylkill.

On January 19, 1999, Mr. Littles filed a direct appeal. (Doc. 60). On March 31, 2000, the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit affirmed the judgment. (Doc. 81).

Mr. Littles argues that in light of Johnson he is not a career offender, he was prejudiced by the career offender status due to his longer sentence and his sentence violates due process of law. He respectfully requests that this Court grant this motion, vacate his sentence, and resentence him without reference to the career offender provision.<sup>2</sup>

Basis for 28 U.S.C. § 2255 Relief

I. The Supreme Court’s Decision in Johnson is Applicable to Mr. Littles Who Was Determined to Be a Career Offender Based on the Residual Clause of the Definition of Crime of Violence Within the Sentencing Guidelines.

On June 26, 2015, the Supreme Court declared that the residual clause of the Armed Career Criminal Act (ACCA), which defines “violent felony” as including an offense that “otherwise involves conduct that presents a serious potential risk of physical injury to another,” is “unconstitutionally vague.” Johnson, 135 S. Ct. at 2557. The Court reasoned that the “indeterminacy of the wide-ranging inquiry required by the residual clause both denies fair notice to defendants and invites arbitrary enforcement by judges.” Id. Thus, “[i]ncreasing a defendant’s sentence under the [residual] clause denies due process of law.” Id. The Court held the residual clause “vague in all its applications” and overruled its contrary decisions in James v. United States, 550 U.S. 192 (2007) and Sykes v. United States, 131 S. Ct. 2267 (2011). 135 S. Ct. at 2561-63.

<sup>2</sup> Because Mr. Littles has previously sought relief under 28 U.S.C. § 2255, he has filed in the Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit an Application to File a Successive Motion to raise the within Johnson claim. See 28 U.S.C. § 2255(h); 28 U.S.C. § 2244(b)(3)(C). This Motion has been attached as Exhibit 1 to that Application.

The career offender provision in the United States Sentencing Guidelines currently includes a residual clause identical to the residual clause in the ACCA. U.S.S.G. § 4B1.2(a)(2). To qualify as a career offender under the sentencing guidelines, a defendant must, inter alia, have two prior felony convictions of either a crime of violence or a controlled substance offense. U.S.S.G. § 4B1.1(a). A crime of violence is defined as:

any offense under federal or state law, punishable by imprisonment for a term exceeding one year, that—
(1) has an element the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against the person of another, or
(2) is burglary of a dwelling, arson, or extortion, involves use of explosives, or otherwise involves conduct that presents a serious potential risk of physical injury to another.

U.S.S.G. § 4B1.2(a).

Although Johnson addressed the residual clause in the ACCA, the decision also applies to the definition of crime of violence set forth in the sentencing guidelines. The United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit has consistently relied on cases interpreting the ACCA's residual clause to inform decisions relating to the identically worded residual clause in the guidelines. See United States v. Marrero, 743 F.3d 389, 394 n.2 (3d Cir. 2014)(citing Hopkins v.

United States, 555 U.S. 1132 (2009)). Recently, in a case involving the direct appeal of a career offender, the Third Circuit vacated the sentence and remanded for resentencing in light of Johnson noting, in an unpublished opinion, that authority interpreting the residual clause in the ACCA is generally applied to the identical language in the career offender enhancement. United States v. Townsend, ___ F. App'x ___, 2015 WL 9311394, *4 (3d Cir. 2015).<sup>3</sup>

Further, the United States Sentencing Commission proposed amendments to the career offender guideline which were informed by Johnson. On January 8, 2016, the Sentencing Commission released a proposed amendment to the definition of “crime of violence” within U.S.S.G. § 4B1.2(a) and if no action is taken by Congress, it will become effective on August 1, 2016.<sup>4</sup> The amendment deletes the residual clause and revises the list of enumerated offenses.<sup>5</sup>

<sup>3</sup> The Court further noted that the defendant’s prior Pennsylvania conviction for attempting to elude a police officer is not a crime of violence following Johnson and sentencing the defendant under the career offender provision was error. In addition, the government conceded that the defendant should be resentenced.

<sup>5</sup> With respect to the enumerated offenses, the proposed amendment eliminates burglary of a dwelling and adds murder, voluntary manslaughter, kidnapping,

II. In Light of Johnson, Mr. Littles' Prior Pennsylvania Convictions for Robbery Are No Longer Crimes of Violence.

Following Johnson, the residual clause may not serve as a legal basis for finding that Mr. Littles has been convicted of a crime of violence. To qualify as a crime of violence, the crime must either have as an element the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against the person of another or the elements of the crime must match the generic enumerated crimes of burglary of a dwelling, arson, extortion or crimes involving explosives. U.S.S.G. § 4B1.2(a).<sup>6</sup>

With regard to the force clause, the United States Supreme Court defined “physical force” under the identical ACCA force clause to mean “violent force—that is, force capable of causing physical pain or injury to another person.”

Johnson v. United States, 559 U.S. 133, 140 (2010)(emphasis in original). The Court noted that the word “violent” connotes a substantial degree of force and aggravated assault, a forcible sex offense, robbery and use or unlawful possession of a firearm described in 26 U.S.C. § 5845(a) or explosive material as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 841(c). See www.ussc.gov.

<sup>6</sup> The additional offenses listed in Application Note 1 to Section 4B1.2 do not survive Johnson. See United States v. Stinson, 508 U.S. 36, 43-45 (1993) (recognizing that commentary that does not interpret or explain any existing text of a guideline is invalid and commentary that is inconsistent with or a plainly erroneous reading of the existing text must be disregarded in favor of the text).

using the adjective “violent” to modify the word “felony,” clearly suggested “strong physical force.” Id.

Mr. Littles was identified as a career offender within his Presentence Report based on two prior convictions for robbery in Pennsylvania and a controlled substance offense.<sup>7</sup> (PSR ¶¶ 32, 33 & 38). In 1976 and 1992, he was convicted of robbery in Philadelphia County. At the time of his offense, the applicable Pennsylvania statute provided:

- (1) A person is guilty of robbery if, in the course of committing a theft, he:
  - (i) inflicts serious bodily injury upon another;
  - (ii) threatens another with or intentionally puts him in fear of immediate serious bodily injury;
  - (iii) commits or threatens immediately to commit any felony of the first or second degree;
  - (iv) inflicts bodily injury upon another or threatens another with or intentionally puts him in fear of immediate bodily injury; or
  - (v) physically takes or removes property from the person of another by force however slight.

18 Pa. C.S. § 3701(a)(1) (effective June 6, 1973 to May 16, 2010).<sup>8</sup> The grading subsection provided that “[r]obbery under subsection (a)(1)(iv) is a felony of the second degree; robbery under subsection (a)(1)(v) is a felony of the third degree; otherwise, it is a felony of the first degree.” 18 Pa. C.S. § 3701(b).

<sup>8</sup> Today this particular portion of the statute remains the same. A subsection has been added regarding removing money from a financial institution and the grading has been amended to include robbery of a controlled substance or designer drug. 18 Pa. C.S. § 2701 (effective February 21, 2014).

At the time that Mr. Littles was sentenced in 1999, Third Circuit precedent directed that “any conviction for robbery under the Pennsylvania robbery statute, regardless of the degree, has as an element the use of force against the person of another.” United States v. Cornish, 103 F.3d 302, 309 (3d Cir. 1997)(finding specifically that subsection (a)(1)(v) proscribing robbery by force however slight qualified as a violent felony). Long after Mr. Littles was sentenced and after the Supreme Court’s Johnson decision in 2010, the Third Circuit, in an unpublished opinion, realized that every subsection of the robbery statute did not necessarily satisfy the force clause. See United States v. Hollins, 514 F. App’x 264, 267 (3d Cir. 2013)(finding that robbery by force however slight under subsection (a)(1)(v) fails to qualify as a crime of violence under the force clause but does qualify under the residual clause).

In another case involving the Pennsylvania robbery statute, the Third Circuit concluded that the statute is “obviously” a divisible statute, meaning that the statute sets forth alternative elements, permitting application of the modified categorical approach to determine which set of elements formed the basis of the conviction. United States v. Blair, 734 F.3d 218, 225 (3d Cir. 2013)(citing Descamps v. United States, 133 S. Ct. 2276 (2013)). When a statute is divisible, a court is permitted to apply the modified categorical approach to determine which subsection formed the basis of the conviction. Descamps, 133 S. Ct. at 2285.

In this case, no records were presented to show which subsection of the robbery statute formed the basis of Mr. Littles' conviction. Therefore, the conviction would only qualify as a predicate offense if the least of the acts in the statute satisfied the force clause. Johnson, 559 U.S. at 137; Moncrieffe v. Holder, 133 S. Ct. 1678, 1684 (2013). In this case, the Third Circuit has held that robbery involving force however slight as set forth in subsection (a)(1)(v) does not satisfy the force clause. Hollins, 514 F. App'x at 267. Moreover, subsection (a)(1)(iii) which involves the commission or threat immediately to commit any felony of the first or second degree does not satisfy the force clause, because not all first or second degree felonies in Pennsylvania have force as an element. Consequently, Mr. Littles' prior convictions for robbery under Pennsylvania law cannot be used as predicate offenses following Johnson.<sup>9</sup>

<sup>9</sup> Even if the government is permitted at resentencing to produce approved documents pursuant to Shepard v. United States, 544 U.S. 13 (2005) to show the particular subsection of the robbery statute to which Mr. Littles was convicted, Mr. Littles reserves the right to supplement his argument with regard to the particular subsection and to raise any applicable argument following the decision of the United States Supreme Court in Mathis v. United States, No. 15-6092 (cert.

III. Mr. Littles Is Entitled to Resentencing Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255.

A. Mr. Littles’ Erroneous Career Offender Sentence Was Imposed “In Violation of the Constitution or Laws of the United States” and Violates Due Process, Warranting Relief Under 28 U.S.C. § 2255.

A federal prisoner may move to “vacate, set aside or correct” his sentence if it “was imposed in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States.” 28 U.S.C. § 2255(a). In Johnson, the United States Supreme Court held that “[i]ncreasing a defendant’s sentence under the [residual] clause denies due process of law.” 135 S. Ct. at 2557. As set forth above, Johnson’s constitutional holding regarding the ACCA’s residual clause applies equally to the identically worded residual clause in the career offender provision of the sentencing guidelines. See Marrero, 743 F.3d at 394 n.2 (noting that cases analyzing the sentencing enhancements under the ACCA “bind” the analysis under similar sections of the sentencing guidelines).

granted Jan. 19, 2016, argument scheduled for April 26, 2016). In Mathis, the Court is expected to decide whether the modified categorical approach may be used whenever there is an “or” between the methods of committing the offense or whether it may be used only when those methods are actually elements.

At the time of his sentencing Mr. Littles was determined to be a career offender based on prior convictions which no longer qualify as “crimes of violence.” Thus, his career offender sentence is now in violation of the Constitution of the United States and violates due process pursuant to Johnson. Mr. Littles is prejudiced by the longer sentence than he would have received absent application of the career offender provision. His claim for relief is cognizable under the plain language of 18 U.S.C. § 2255(a). See United States v. Doe, 810 F.3d 132 (3d Cir. 2015)(finding a claim under Begay v. United States, 535 U.S. 137 (2008) involving the mandatory sentencing guidelines is cognizable in a motion to vacate sentence under 28 U.S.C. § 2255); see also United States v. Maurer, 639 F.3d 72 (3d Cir. 2011)(permitting a vagueness challenge to the sentencing guidelines pre-Johnson).

B. The Rule Announced in Johnson Applies Retroactively on Collateral Review.

A Supreme Court decision applies retroactively to cases on collateral review if it announces a “new” rule that is “substantive.” Schriro v. Summerlin, 542 U.S. 348, 351 (2004); Teague v. Lane, 489 U.S. 288 (1989). The rule announced in Johnson satisfies both requirements. See In re Watkins, 810 F.3d 375 (6th Cir. 2015).

The rule announced in Johnson is “new” because the Court explicitly overruled its prior decisions in James v. United States, 550 U.S. 192 (2007) and Sykes v. United States, 131 S. Ct. 2267 (2011), in which it had affirmed sentences imposed under the residual clause and declined to find the clause unconstitutionally vague. See Johnson, 135 S. Ct. at 2563 (“Our contrary holdings in James and Sykes are overruled.”); Watkins, 810 F.3d at 380. “The explicit overruling of an earlier holding no doubt creates a new rule.” Whorton v. Bockting, 549 U.S. 406, 416 (2007)(quoting Saffle v. Parks, 494 U.S. 484, 488 (1990)).

The rule announced in Johnson is “substantive” because it “narrow[s] the scope of a criminal statute by interpreting its terms.” Schrivo, 524 U.S. at 353 (citing Bousley v. United States, 523 U.S. 614, 620-21 (1998)). Further, it “alters the range of conduct or the class of persons that the law punishes.” Schrivo, 514 U.S. at 353 (citing Bousley, 523 at 620-21, and Saffle, 494 U.S. at 495). “A substantive rule. . . , forbids ‘criminal punishment of certain primary conduct’ or prohibits ‘a certain category of punishment for a class of defendants because of their status or offense.’” Montgomery v. Louisiana, 136 S. Ct. 718, 732 (2016) (citations omitted). The Johnson rule is substantive because it “decides the meaning of a criminal statute enacted by Congress,” Bousley, 523 U.S. at 620, and it “prohibit[s] a certain category of punishment for a class of defendants because of their status or offense.” Saffle, 494 U.S. at 494. See also Watkins, 810 F.3d at 383 (finding that there is no escaping the logical conclusion that the Supreme Court itself made Johnson categorically retroactive to cases on collateral review and quoting Price v. United States, 795 F.3d 731, 734 (7th Cir. 2015)).<sup>10</sup>

C. Mr. Littles’ Claim is Timely.

A motion to vacate, set aside or correct a sentence is subject to a one-year limitations period. 28 U.S.C. § 2255(f)(1). A federal prisoner must file his motion within one year from the date on which (1) the judgment became final; (2) the government created impediment to filing the motion was removed; (3) the United States Supreme Court initially recognized the right asserted and made it retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review; or (4) the petitioner could have discovered, through due diligence the factual predicate for the motion. The United States Supreme Court decided Johnson on June 26, 2015, recognizing a new rule that is substantive and that is retroactive to cases on collateral review.

Mr. Littles is filing his motion within one year of that date.<sup>11</sup>

Conclusion

Mr. Littles is entitled to relief under Section 2255 because, in light of Johnson, his sentence violates due process of law. This Court should vacate his erroneous career offender sentence and re-sentence him without application of the career offender provision of U.S.S.G. § 4B1.1.

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE MIDDLE DISTRICT OF PENNSYLVANIA

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA : CRIMINAL NO. 1:CR-98-056

FILED
HARRISBURG, PA

NOV 07 2001

PAUL N. LITTLES

MEMORANDUM AND ORDER

I. Background

Before the court is a motion filed pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 and a motion to expand the record. On July 21, 1998, Petitioner Paul N. Littles was found guilty of conspiracy to distribute and possess with intent to distribute in excess of one kilogram of heroin and distribution and possession with intent to distribute in excess of one kilogram of heroin. The instant petition alleged incompetency of counsel in the trial of said charges.

Specifically, Littles alleges that defense counsel failed to (A) request a bill of particulars; (B) move to dismiss the indictment because one laboratory report found some cocaine mixed in with the heroin; (C) move to dismiss for selective prosecution; (D) cross-examine coconspirator Killinger about a possible unrelated conspiracy; (E) challenge the jury pool due to a perceived lack of minorities in the pool; (F) call the assistant United States attorney prosecuting the case as a defense witness; (G) raise an Apprendi issue prior to the jury verdict; (H) object to the government referring to Petitioner as a “snake”; (I) failed to file a motion for acquittal; and (J) to raise miscellaneous issues regarding sentencing.

Discussion

The United States Supreme Court has held that to establish a claim of ineffective assistance, a petitioner must show that his attorney's performance was objectively deficient and such deficient performance prejudiced his defense. Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 687 (1984). Specifically, the Supreme Court stated:

A convicted defendant's claim that counsel's assistance was so defective as to require reversal of a conviction or . . . sentence has two components. First, the defendant must show that counsel's performance was deficient. This requires showing that counsel made errors so serious that counsel was not functioning as the "counsel" guaranteed by the Sixth Amendment. Second, the defendant must show that the deficient performance prejudiced the defense. This requires showing that counsel's errors were so serious as to deprive the defendant of a fair trial, a trial whose result is reliable. Unless a defendant makes both showings, it cannot be said that the conviction or . . . sentence resulted from a breakdown in the adversary process that renders the result unreliable.

Id. If the claim or claims that counsel failed to raise are devoid of legal merit, a defendant suffers no prejudice and cannot establish a claim of ineffective assistance of counsel. With the above standards in mind, the claims will be examined.

A. Failure to Request a Bill of Particulars

A request or motion to compel the government to confirm or deny the existence of evidence filed pursuant to Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 12 was filed by counsel. This had the same effect as a request for a bill of particulars. Furthermore, the assistant United States attorney provided extensive discovery and Jencks material showing the extent of the heroin distribution operation and the persons involved.

B. Failure to Move to Dismiss the Indictment Due to One Lab Report

Littles claims ineffective counsel because counsel failed to move to dismiss the indictment based on one lab report, on one bag of heroin, that showed some cocaine mixed with the heroin. Presumably, Littles is referring to Government Exhibit 9. However, even had such exhibit been excluded, at least four witnesses testified as to their distribution of heroin on behalf of Littles. Thus, he has not been prejudiced by the lab report.

C. Failure to Move to dismiss for Selective Prosecution

Littles claims all his other unindicted coconspirators received short prison terms or probation in state court. He further alleges there was racial profiling in bringing the charges against him.

Littles has a history of violence and prior convictions for heroin related offenses. He targeted women and drug addicts to sell drugs for him; he was the head of an organization that involved five or more persons over a period of a year and one half. It was apparent that his earlier state convictions did not deter him and the government was justified in seeking his prosecution.

D. Failure to Cross-Examine Killinger Concerning an Alleged Other Conspiracy

Littles contends that he was prejudiced because had a showing been made that there were multiple conspiracies instead of a single conspiracy, the government would have had to charge all participants. Littles claims he was unable to defend against the presentation of a single conspiracy. Littles' argument makes no sense. The evidence supported a single conspiracy charge.

E. Jury Pool Not Representative

This issue was partially addressed by the court of appeals in the direct appeal. Littles has failed to supply any statistics that the jury venire, chosen from eleven counties, is not representative of the population.

F. Failure to Call Prosecutor as a Witness

Littles claims that his attorney's failure to call the assistant United States attorney to the stand to question him as to what rule of law the assistant United States attorney applied in determining a statement that "quantity isn't the important thing." Such a procedure would have been improper. Whether the quantity of drugs should have been submitted to the jury is a legal issue to be determined by the court and not the jury. A prosecutor's interpretation of the law is not relevant to a jury's determination of the facts.

G. Failure to Raise Apprendi issues

Littles' drug charges alleged in "excess of one kilogram of heroin." At trial, testimony was introduced as follows: If Littles made only two trips per week and obtained only 20 bundles of heroin per trip with only 12 bags in each bundle and with each bag weighing approximately .046 grams, then this would result in a total of 1,148.16 grams or 1.15 kilograms. These are conservative figures and only cover one year. Witnesses testified there were as many as three trips per week, sometimes obtained up to 30 bundles where each bag within the bundle weighed 0.06 grams. (Testimony of Keyes, Killinger, Downs and Reitz.) Others took additional trips to Philadelphia to obtain heroin (Killinger). Furthermore, the above calculations covered only one year – not the year and one half covered by the conspiracy.

In United States v. Vazquez, No. 99-3845, 2001 U.S. App. LEXIS 21611 (3d Cir. October 9, 2001), the Third Circuit Court of Appeals held that even if an Apprendi violation occurred, where the undisputed evidence of drug quantity is attributable to a defendant and his sentence did not exceed the statutory maximum for the drug amount introduced at trial, there is no plain error and relief is not available. Id. at *32-34.

Thus, assuming an Apprendi issue was applicable, Littles suffered no prejudice.

H. Failure to Object to Assistant United States Attorney's Reference to Littles as a "Snake"

Perhaps the use of the word "snake" was not prudent, but it did not so infect the proceedings such that a jury could not judge the evidence fairly. Contrary to Littles' assessment of the evidence, it was overwhelming against him. Furthermore, it may have been counsel's strategy to not bring more attention to the remark by objecting and asking for curative instructions.

I. Failure to file a Motion for Acquittal

Littles has failed to show how the failure of counsel to file a motion for acquittal was prejudicial to him and how the issues raised by him would have impacted on the outcome of the trial. The Third Circuit Court of Appeals on direct appeal found that "the evidence adduced at trial, . . . was extremely strong and more than sufficient to uphold the conviction." (Slip op. January 14, 2001(unpublished).)

J. Miscellaneous Issues Regarding Sentencing

The Third Circuit Court of Appeals upheld this court's calculation of the sentence and overruled the same objections on direct appeal as raised in the instant motion. Therefore, these issues will not be addressed.

III            Order

Based on the foregoing, Littles has failed to show that counsel's performance was deficient or that any deficient performance prejudiced the defense. Accordingly, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED THAT:

- 1) The motion filed pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 is DISMISSED.
- 2) The motion to expand the record is DENIED.
- 3) This court declines to issue a certificate of appealability.
- 4) The Clerk of Court shall close the file.

COMES NOW, Paul M. Littles (Petitioner) and presents his argument/memorandum in support of his pro se motion under § 2255(6)(4).

(1) This petition is brought forth in timely fashion, as to the "mail-box rule" i.e., Houston v. Lack, 487 U.S. 266, 101 L.Ed. 245 (1998). This motion was delivered to the hands of a federal Corrections Officer for mailing, by pre-paid U.S. first class mail, on January 12, 2006. See CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE attached.

ARGUMENT

Petitioner's sentence was illegally enhanced in violation of the Fifth, Sixth, and Fourteenth Amendments of the U.S. Constitution as was expressed in United States v. Booker, 543 U.S. __, 125 S.Ct. __, (2005) [No. 04-104].

This argument is currently forceclosed by Griffith v. Kentucky's retroactivity analysis, but is respectfully submitted pursuant to the recent U.S. Supreme Court's ruling in Dodd v. United States, 545 U.S. __, 125 S.Ct. __, [No. 04-5286] effectively to preserve the argument for review, as the Supreme Court is currently entertaining a petition which deals with "Substantive error" in lieu of the Booker ruling.

RELIEF SOUGHT

Relief sought is simply to preserve the issue for review, if or when, the Supreme Court makes Booker retroactive.

Respectfully submitted,

CRIMINAL NO. 1:CR-98-056

v.

PAUL N. LITTLES

MEMORANDUM AND ORDER

Before the court is a motion filed by Paul N. Littles pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 to vacate, set aside or correct a sentence. Petitioner was sentenced by this court on January 15, 1999. He filed an appeal on January 19, 1999. The decision of this court was affirmed by the court of appeals on April 5, 2000. On September 4, 2001, he filed a motion pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 which was denied by this court on November 7, 2001. Petitioner's appeal of that decision was denied by the circuit court on June 3, 2002. A petition for a writ of certiorari was denied on October 1, 2003. On January 20, 2006, Petitioner filed the instant petition.

In the present motion, Petitioner alleges violations of his Fifth, Sixth and Fourteenth Amendment rights. He alleges that his claim is filed pursuant to United States v. Booker, 543 U.S. ___, 125 S. Ct. 738 (2005) and Dodd v. United States, ___ U.S. ___, 125 S. Ct. 2478 (2005). Defendant also alleges a claim of ineffective assistance of counsel.<sup>1</sup>

Defendant has two problems with the motion: (1) it is a second or successive motion; and (2) the petition is untimely. Title 28 U.S.C. § 2255 provides, in pertinent part:

A second or successive motion must be certified as provided in 28 U.S.C. § 2244 by a panel of the appropriate court of appeals to contain –

(1) newly discovered evidence that, if proved and viewed in light of the evidence as a whole, would be sufficient to establish by clear and convincing evidence that no reasonable factfinder would have found the movant guilty of the offense; or

(2) a new rule of constitutional law, made retroactive to cases on collateral review by the Supreme Court, that was previously unavailable.

Petitioner has not sought leave from the court of appeals to file the instant motion.

It appears that Petitioner believes his motion to be valid under subsection 2 quoted above and relies on Dodd, supra, to file a petition to preserve his right to raise the Booker issue at such time as the Supreme Court makes Booker retroactive. Petitioner recognizes that Booker has not been made retroactive.

In Dodd, the majority of the Court held that the only natural reading of Section 2255 ¶ 6(3) is that one date only is the date from which the one year statute of limitation runs: “The date on which the right asserted was initially recognized by the Supreme Court.” Id., ___ U.S. ___, ___ S.Ct. at 2282.

Petitioner’s one year limitation period to file a § 2255 motion expired on September 30, 2004. He has also not received permission from the court of appeals to file a second or successive petition.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED THAT:

pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 and was found to be meritless.

- 1) The motion filed pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 is DENIED.
- 2) The court declines to issue a certificate of appealability.
- 3) The Clerk of Court shall close the file.

In United States v. Garth, 188 F.3d 99 (3d Cir. 1999).
(quoting Bousley v. United States, 523 U.S. 614 (1998),

The second exception to the procedural default bar requires the defendants to establish that constitutional error in trial has probably resulted in the conviction of one who is actually innocent. This requires the petitioner to establish that in light of all the evidence, it is more likely than not that no reasonable juror would have convicted him." id. Thus, actual innocence' means factual innocence, not mere legal insufficiency."
id. Accordingly, petitioner should be excused from any noted procedural default, based on actual innocence theory for tolling any applicable federal statutory limitation.

THE COURT SHOULD LOOK INTO THE PETITIONER'S MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT OF THE PETITION UNDER SECTION 2244(b) and 2255, allowing this court to review other greater precedent compelling the court to overlook the procedural bar. Per _____ Deputy Clerk

Comes now before this Honorable Court, Paul N. Littles, known, now as "Petitioner" pro-se, the accused, who hereby demands of this legislative tribunal and judicial assembly for the Dismissal of this cause because of the lack of exclusive jurisdiction over the exact geographical location where the alleged criminal activity took place; and hereby files this formal Motion to Dismiss for Lack of Territorial and Subject Jurisdiction.

JURISDICTION OF THIS COURT

1. The petitioner presents this Motion to Dismiss for Lack of the Government's Territorial and Subject matter Jurisdiction. This Honorable Court who holds exclusive jurisdiction over the matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C.S §§ 1291,3231,3742(a)(2).

OPENING HISTORY OF PETITIONER

2. On 1/15/99, the petitioner was unlawfully found guilty and convicted for allegedly violating Federal Statutes under Title 21 U.S.C. §§ 841 and 846, and is now being unlawfully held at the United States Penitentiary, "Canaan" in Pennsylvania.

ARGUMENT I

3. Under Title 18 §4001, "No Citizen shall be held or confined in a United States Prison without the Act of Congress"

4. Act of Congress defined June 25,1948, Rule 54(c); defines the Act of Congress, application of terms as used in these rules. The following terms have the designated meanings of "Acts of Congress" which would include any Act of Congress that is locally applicable to or in force in the District of Columbia, in Puerto Rico, In Territory, or Insular possession. in the United States Constitution Art I § 8, To exclusive legislation in all places whatever, over such district(Not exceeding Ten Miles a Square).

ARGUMENT II

5. The petitioner contends that, this Government lacked the Territorial Jurisdiction and Subject Jurisdiction over him, that the claims alleged in the Indictment were indeed false. That nowhere was there a mention that the petitioner had committed a crime against the United States Government. When in fact the sole crimes alleged occurred within the Territorial boundaries in the City of Harrisburg, and Dauphin County, in the State of Pennsylvania, and not in any Territory ceded to or purchased by the United States. That in order to Charge by Grand jury, hold trial, or Convict the petitioner, the alleged crimes had to have been solely committed on Sovereign Government grounds. And unless the State of Pennsylvania inadvertently transferred powers to prosecute state crimes, he is a citizen, and one of thousands that have been abducted by the United States Government and taken unlawfully into their Territorial limits. See: Courts Records of the State that crimes were in fact committed there (Exhibits A,B,C,D. Attached) Neither had the United States even filed a Complaint, Or Warrant for his arrest See: United States Court Docket (#1:CR-98-56). Wherefore he's being held captive Unlawfully.

LACK OF TERRITORIAL JURISDICTION

8. A dismissal is warranted in this case because of the lack of exclusive jurisdictional authority over the exact geographical location where the alleged criminal activity mentioned in the indictment took place; and hereby moves this court and the United States Government on its lack of jurisdiction.

A recent Supreme Court decision, decided April 26, 1995, addresses the issues of exclusive jurisdiction of the Congress, The powers of the Federal Government, and the Subsequent Subject Matter of a Federal District Court.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas in the Concurring majority opinion in the case of United States V. Lopez, 93-1260, 115 S.Ct. 1624, 131 L.Ed. 2d 626(1995); states very clearly:

"Indeed, on this crucial point, the majority and Justice Breyer [the justice writing the dissenting opinion] agree in principle: the Federal Government has nothing approaching a police power." (pg. 64)

Then Justice Thomas went on to discuss "a regulation of police" (pg. 86); wherein he stated: "United States v. Dewitt, 76 US 41 9 Wall 4, 19 L.Ed 593 (1870); marked the first time the court struck down as exceeding the power conveyed by the commerce clause. In a two page opinion, the court invalidated a nation-wide law prohibiting all sales of naptha, and illuminating oils. In so doing, the court remarked that the commerce clause has always been understood as limited by its terms; and a virtual denial of any power to interfere with the internal trade of the separate states."

Further support for this understanding is readily available from courts: "special provisions is made in the Constitution for cession of jurisdiction from the states over places where the Federal Government shall establish forts or other military works. And it is only in these places, or in territories of the United States, where it can exercise general jurisdiction" [New Orleans v. United States, 35 US. (10 Pet.) 662(1836).]

"All legislation is prima facie territorial"

[American Banana Co v. United States Fruit, 213, US 347 at 357-358]

"There is a canon of legislative construction which teaches Congress that, unless a contrary intent appears [legislation] is meant to apply only within a ....territory jurisdiction of the United States." [U.S. v. Spelar, 338 U.S. 217];

"...The United States never held any municipal sovereignty, jurisdiction, or right of soil in Rhode Island, or any new states which were formed...The United States has no Constitutional capacity to exercise municipal jurisdiction, sovereignty or eminent domain, within the limits of a state or elsewhere, except in cases in which it is expressly granted..." [Pollard v. Hagen, 44 U.S.C 213, 221, 223]

"...The states are separate sovereigns with respect to the Federal Government" [Heath v. Alabama, 474 U.S. 187]

"No sanction can be imposed absent proof of jurisdiction" [Stanard v. Olesen, 74 S. Ct. 768]

"Once challenged, cannot be assumed and must be proved to exist." [Stuck v. Medical examiners, 94 Ca2d 751. 211 P2s 389]

"Jurisdiction, once challenged, cannot be assumed and must be decided." [Maine v. Thiboutot, 100 S.Ct. 250]

"...Federal jurisdiction cannot be assumed, but must be clearly shown." [Brooks v. Yawkey, 200 F.2d 633]

"The law requires proof of jurisdiction to appear on record of the administrative agency and all administrative proceedings." [Hagens v. Lavine, 415 U.S. 533]

"If any tribunal finds absence of proof of jurisdiction over a person and subject matter, the case must be dismissed." [Louisville R.R v. Motley, 211 U.S. 149, 29 S.Ct. 42]

Other cases also such as McNutt v. G.M., 56 S.Ct. 789, 80 L.Ed. 1135, Griffin v. Mathews, 310 Supp. 341, 423 F. 2d 272, Basso v. U.P.L., 495 F. 2d. 906, Thomason v. Gaskiel, 62 S.Ct. 673, 83 L.Ed. 111, and Albrecht v. U.S. 1, also confirm, that, when challenged, jurisdiction must be documented, shown, and proven, to lawfully exist before a cause may lawfully proceed in the courts. Title 18 U.S.C. §7 specifies...

...that the "Territorial Jurisdiction" of the United States extends only outside the boundaries of lands belonging to any of the 50 states, and Title 40 U.S.C. §§ 255 specifies the legal conditions that must be fulfilled for the United States Government to have exclusive or shared jurisdiction within the area of lands belonging to the States of the Union.

LACK OF SUBJECT MATTER JURISDICTION

Title 18 governs the Rules of Criminal Procedures. Title 18 was enacted into positive law by an Act of Congress on June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 645. A "positive law" title is one which has been enacted into law and the underlying statutes repealed: it is more than prima facia evidence of the law and constitutes the law itself.

Rule 4. (Title 18) Arrest Warrant or Summons upon Complaint reads at (d)(2) Territorial Limits the warrant may be executed or the summons may be served at any place "WITHIN THE JURISDICTION OF THE UNITED STATES".

In the United States, there are two separate and distinct jurisdictions, such as being the jurisdiction of the States within their own Territorial boundaries and the other being Federal jurisdiction. Broadly speaking, State jurisdiction encompasses the legislative power to Regulate, Control and govern real and personal property, individuals and enterprises within the territorial boundaries of any given States. In contrast, Federal jurisdiction is extremely limited, with the same being exercised only in areas external to state legislative power and territory.

The legal effect of the Declaration of Independence was to make each new States a separate and independent sovereign over which there was no other government of superior power or jurisdiction. This was clearly shown in M'Ilvaine v. Coxe's Lessee, 8 U.S. (4 Cranch) 209, 212 (1808), where it was held:

"This opinion is predicated upon a principle which is believed to be undeniable, that the several states which composed this Union, so far at least as regarded their municipal regulations, became entitled, from the time when they declared themselves independent, to all rights and powers of sovereign states, and that...

...they did not derive them from concessions made by the British King. The treaty of peace contains a recognition of their independence, not a grant of it.. From hence its results, that the laws of several state governments were the laws of sovereign states, and as such were obligatory upon the people of such states, from the time they were enacted."

And further expression of similar import is found in Harcourt v. Gaillard, 25 U.S.(12 Wheat)523,526,527(1827); where the Court stated:

"There was no territory within the United States that was claimed in any other right than that of some one confederated states, therefore, there could be no acquisition of territory made by the United States distinct from, or independent of some one of the States."

The jurisdiction of a court is subject to territorial limitations, its jurisdiction cannot extend beyond the territory belonging to the sovereignty on behalf of which it functions, and its jurisdiction can be further limited, by the Constitutional or statutory provisions, to only a part of the territory of the sovereignty to which it belongs. The "Local action rule" is not a venue concept; rather, it pertains to a court's territory boundary. Bauman v. Rayburn, 878 So 2d 1273(Fla. Dist. App. 5th Dist. 2004).

Regarding the requisites for an indictment, See Am. Jur. 2d. Indictments and informations §§ 65 to 83; regarding the indictment or information as a jurisdictional prerequisite, see Am. Jur. 2d. Indictments and Information §18. see also sections on the topic of Indictment in chapters relating to various crimes. for example, Am. Jur. 2d. Arson and related offenses §§ 28 to 39, Am. Jur. 2d. Burglary §§ 33 to 41; Am. Jur. 2d. Robbery §§ 33 to 41. See also Predecessor to 18 USCS § 7, clearly included a crime of murder committed on any land within exclusive jurisdiction of the United States and not within any judicial district, as well as crimes committed on the high seas wherein the United States enjoys plenary powers.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

"Each declared itself sovereign and independent, according to the limits of its territory.

"[T]he soil and sovereignty within their acknowledged limits were as much theirs at the declaration of independence as at this hour."

Thus, unequivocally, in July, 1776, the new States possessed all sovereignty, power, and jurisdiction over all the soil and persons in their respective territorial limits.

The essence of the retention of state jurisdiction was embodied in Art. I, §8, Cl. 17 of the U.S. Constitution, which read as follows:

"To exercise exclusive Legislation in all Cases whatsoever, over such District (not exceeding ten Miles square) as may, by Cession of particular States, and the Acceptance of Congress, become the Seat of the Government of the United States, and to exercise like Authority over all Places purchased by the Consent of the Legislature of the State in which the Same shall be, for the Erection of Forts, Magazines, Arsenals, dock-Yards, and other needful Buildings."

The above clause filled an essential need by permitting the federal government to acquire land for the seat of government and other purposes from certain of the States. Such possessions were deemed essential to enable the United States to perform the powers conveyed by the Constitution, and a cession of lands by any particular State would grant exclusive jurisdiction of such lands to Congress.

Since the time of the ratification and implementation of the present U.S. Constitution, the U.S. Supreme Court and all lower courts have had many opportunities to construe and apply the above provision of the Constitution. And the essence of all these decisions is that the States of this nation have exclusive jurisdiction of property and persons located within their borders, excluding such lands and persons residing thereon which have been ceded to the United States.

Perhaps one of the earliest decisions on this point was United States v. Bevans, 16 U.S. (3 Wheat.) 336 (1818), which involved a federal prosecution for a murder committed on board the Warship, Independence, anchored in the harbor of Boston, Massachusetts. The defense complained that only the state had jurisdiction to prosecute and argued that the federal Circuit Courts had no jurisdiction of this crime supposedly committed within the federal government's admiralty jurisdiction. In argument before the Supreme Court, counsel for the United States admitted as follows:

"The exclusive jurisdiction which the United States have in forts and dock-yards ceded to them, is derived from the express assent of the states by whom the cessions are made. It could be derived in no other manner; because without it, the authority of the state would be supreme and exclusive therein," 3 Wheat., at 350, 351.

In holding that the State of Massachusetts had jurisdiction over the crime, the Court held:

"What, then, is the extent of jurisdiction which a state possesses?

"We answer, without hesitation, the jurisdiction of a state is co-extensive with its territory; co-extensive with its legislative power," 3 Wheat., at 386, 387.

"The article which describes the judicial power of the United States is not intended for the cession of territory or of general jurisdiction. ... Congress has power to exercise exclusive jurisdiction over this district, and over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the state in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards, and other needful buildings.

"It is observable that the power of exclusive legislation (which is jurisdiction) is united with cession of territory, which is to be the free act of the states. It is difficult to compare the two sections together, without feeling a conviction, not to be strengthened by any commentary on them, that, in describing the judicial power, the framers of our constitution had not in view any cession of territory; or, which is essentially the same, of general jurisdiction," 3 Wheat., at 388.

Thus in Bevans, the Court established a principle that federal jurisdiction extends only over the areas wherein it possesses the power of exclusive legislation, and this is a principle incorporated into all subsequent decisions regarding the extent of federal jurisdiction. To hold otherwise would destroy the purpose, intent and meaning of the entire U.S. Constitution.

The decision in Bevans was closely followed by decisions made in two state courts and one federal court within the next two years. In Commonwealth v. Young, N.P. 302, 309 (Pa. 1818), the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania was presented with the issue of whether lands owned by the United States for which Pennsylvania had never ceded jurisdiction had to be sold pursuant to state law. In deciding that the state law of Pennsylvania exclusively controlled this sale of federal land, the Court held:

"The legislation and authority of congress is confined to cessions by particular states for the seat of government, and purchases made by consent of the legislature of the state, for the purpose of erecting forts. The legislative power and exclusive jurisdiction remained in the several states, of all territory within their limits, not ceded to, or purchased by, congress, with the assent of the state legislature, to prevent the collision of legislation and authority between the United States and the several states."

A year later, the Supreme Court of New York was presented with the issue of whether the State of New York had jurisdiction over a murder committed at Fort Niagara, a federal fort. In People v. Godfrey, 17 Johns. 225, 233 (N.Y. 1819), that court held that the fort was subject to the jurisdiction of the State since the lands therefore had not been ceded to the United States. The rationale of its opinion stated:

"To oust this state of its jurisdiction to support and maintain its laws, and to punish crimes, it must be shown that an offense committed within the acknowledged limits of the state, is clearly and exclusively cognizable by the laws and courts of the United States. In the case already cited, Chief Justice Marshall observed, that to bring the offense within the jurisdiction of the courts of the union, it must have been committed out of the jurisdiction of any state; it is not (he says,) the offence committed, but the place in which it is committed, which must be out of the jurisdiction of the state."

The decisional authority upon which this court relied was U.S. v. Bevans, supra.

At about the same time that the New York Supreme Court rendered its opinion in Godfrey, a similar fact situation was before a federal court, the only difference being that the murder committed in the case occurred on land which had been ceded to the United States. In United States v. Cornell, 25 Fed.Cas. 646, 648 No. 14,867 (C.C.D.R.I. 1819), the court held that the case fell within federal jurisdiction, describing such jurisdiction as follows:

"But although the United States may well purchase and hold lands for public purposes, within the territorial limits of a state, this does not of itself oust the jurisdiction or sovereignty of such State over the lands so purchased. It remains until the State has relinquished its authority over the land either expressly or by necessary implication.

"When therefore a purchase of land for any of these purposes is made by the national government, and the State Legislature has given its consent to the purchase, the land so purchased by the very terms of the constitution ipso facto falls within the exclusive legislation of Congress, and the State jurisdiction is completely ousted."

Almost 18 years later, the U.S. Supreme Court was again presented with a case involving the distinction between State and federal jurisdiction. In New Orleans v. United States, 35 U.S. (10 Pet.) 662, 737 (1836), the United States claimed title to property in New Orleans likewise claimed by the city. After holding that title to the subject lands was owned by the city, the Court addressed the question of federal jurisdiction and stated:

"Special provision is made in the Constitution for the cession of jurisdiction from the States over places where the federal government shall establish forts or other military works. And it is only in these places, or in the territories of the United States, where it can exercise a general jurisdiction."

The single most important case regarding the subject of federal jurisdiction appears to be Fort Leavenworth R. Co. v. Lowe, 114 U.S. 525, 531, 5 S.Ct. 995 (1885), which sets forth the law on this point fully. There, the railroad company property which passed through the Fort Leavenworth federal enclave was being subjected to taxation by Kansas, and the company claimed an exemption from state taxation. In holding that the railroad company's property could be taxed, the Court carefully explained federal jurisdiction within the States:

"The consent of the states to the purchase of lands within them for the special purposes named, is, however, essential, under the constitution, to the transfer to the general government, with the title, of political jurisdiction and dominion. Where lands are acquired without such consent, the possession of the United States, unless political jurisdiction be ceded to them in some other way, is simply that of an ordinary proprietor. The property in that case, unless used as a means to carry out the purposes of the government, is subject to the legislative authority and control of the states equally with the property of private individuals."

Thus, the cases decided within the 19th century clearly disclosed the extent and scope of both State and federal jurisdiction. In essence, these cases, among many others, hold that the jurisdiction of any particular State is co-extensive with its borders or territory, and all persons and property located or found therein are subject to such jurisdiction; this jurisdiction is superior. Federal jurisdiction results only from a conveyance of state jurisdiction to the federal government for lands owned or otherwise possessed by the federal government, and thus federal jurisdiction is extremely limited in nature. And there is no federal jurisdiction if there be no grant or cession of jurisdiction by the State to the federal government. Therefore, federal territorial jurisdiction exists only in Washington, D.C., the federal enclaves within the States, and the territories and possessions of the United States.

One of the first cases to acknowledge the proposition that a State could retain a degree of jurisdiction over property ceded to the federal government was Surplus Trading Co. v. Cook, 281 U.S. 647, 50 S.Ct. 455 (1930). In this case, a state attempt to assess an ad valorem tax on Army blankets located within a federal army camp was found invalid and beyond the state's jurisdiction. But, in regards to the proposition that a State could make a qualified cession of jurisdiction to the federal government, the Court held:

"[T]he state undoubtedly may cede her jurisdiction to the United States and may make the cession either absolute or qualified as to her may appear desirable, provided the qualification is consistent with the purposes for which the reservation is maintained and is accepted by the United States. And, where such a cession is made and accepted, it will be determinative of the jurisdiction of both the United States and the state within the reservation," 281 U.S., at 651, 652.

Two cases decided in 1937 by the U.S. Supreme Court further clarify the constitutionality of a reservation of any degree of state jurisdiction over lands ceded to the jurisdiction of the United States. In James v. Dravo Contracting Company, 302 U.S. 134, 58 S.Ct. 208 (1937), the State of West Virginia sought to impose a tax upon the gross receipts of the company arising from a contract which it had made with the United States to build some dams on rivers. One of the issues involved in this case was the validity of the state tax imposed on the receipts derived by the company from work performed on lands to which the State had ceded "concurrent" jurisdiction to the United States. In the Court's opinion, it held that a State could reserve and qualify any cession of jurisdiction for lands owned by the United States; since the State had done so here, the Court upheld this part of the challenged tax notwithstanding a partial cession of jurisdiction to the U.S. A similar result occurred in Silas Mason Co. v. Tax Commission of State of Washington, 302 U.S. 186, 58 S.Ct. 233 (1937). Here, the United States was undertaking the construction of several dams on the Columbia River in Washington, and had purchased the lands necessary for the project. Silas Mason obtained a contract to build a part of the Grand Coulee Dam, but filed suit challenging the Washington income tax when that State sought to impose such tax on the contract proceeds. Mason's argument that the federal government had exclusive jurisdiction over both the lands and such contract was not upheld by either the Supreme Court of Washington or the U.S. Supreme Court. The latter Court held that none of the lands owned by the U.S. were within its jurisdiction and thus Washington clearly had jurisdiction to impose the challenged tax; see also Wilson v. Cook, 327 U.S. 474, 66 S.Ct. 663 (1946).

A final point which must be made regarding federal jurisdiction involves the point as to when such jurisdiction ends or ceases. This point was considered in S.R.A. v. Minnesota, 327 U.S. 558, 66 S.Ct. 749 (1946), which involved the power of a State to tax the real property interest of a purchaser of land sold by the United States. Here, a federal post office building was sold to S.R.A. pursuant to a real estates sale contract, which provided that title would pass only after the purchase price had been paid. In refuting the argument of S.R.A. that the ad valorem tax on its equitable interest in the property was really an unlawful tax on U.S. property, the Court held:

"In the absence of some such provisions, a transfer of property held by the United States under state cessions pursuant to Article I, Section 8, Clause 17, of the Constitution would leave numerous isolated islands of federal jurisdiction, unless the unrestricted transfer of the property to private hands is thought without more to revest sovereignty in the states. As the purpose of Clause 17 was to give control over the sites of governmental operations to the United States, when such control was deemed essential for federal activities, it would seem that the sovereignty of the United States would end with the reason for its existence and the disposition of the property. We shall treat this case as though the Government's unrestricted transfer of property to non-federal hands is a relinquishment of the exclusive legislative power," 327 U.S., at 563, 564.

acquisition of legislative jurisdiction -- by State consent under Article I, section 8, clause 17.... Justice McLean suggested that the Constitution provided the sole mode for transfer of jurisdiction, and that if this mode is not pursued, no transfer of jurisdiction can take place," Id., at 41.

"It scarcely needs to be said that unless there has been a transfer of jurisdiction (1) pursuant to clause 17 by a Federal acquisition of land with State consent, or (2) by cession from the State to the Federal Government, or unless the Federal Government has reserved jurisdiction upon the admission of the State, the Federal Government possesses no legislative jurisdiction over any area within a State, such jurisdiction being for exercise by the State, subject to non-interference by the State with Federal functions," Id., at 45.

"The Federal Government cannot, by unilateral action on its part, acquire legislative jurisdiction over any area within the exterior boundaries of a State," Id., at 46.

"On the other hand, while the Federal Government has power under various provisions of the Constitution to define, and prohibit as criminal, certain acts or omissions occurring anywhere in the United States, it has no power to punish for various other crimes, jurisdiction over which is retained by the States under our Federal-State system of government, unless such crime occurs on areas as to which legislative jurisdiction has been vested in the Federal Government," Id., at 107.

Thus, from an abundance of case law, "jurisdiction of the United States" is carefully circumscribed and defined as a very precise portion of America. The United States is one of the 51 jurisdictions existing on this continent, excluding Canada and its provinces.

Title 18 USC §7 The term "special maritime and territorial jurisdiction of the United States" as used in this title, includes:

(3) Any lands reserved or acquired for the use of the United States, and under the exclusive or concurrent jurisdiction thereof, or any place purchased or otherwise acquired by the United States by consent of the legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of a fort, magazine, arsenal, dockyard, or other needful building.

Title 40 USC §255 specifies the legal conditions that must be fulfilled for the United States government to have exclusive or shared jurisdiction within the area of lands belonging to the States of the Union.

Therefore, the defendant would demand of this court to establish the required Federal jurisdiction that has been merely assumed in this matter consisting of:

1. Documentation of the legal standing of the "United States of America" and if in fact it has standing within the States of the Union(i.e. Pennsylvania, New York, Jew Jersey Ect.)
2. Documentation showing ownership of each and every part of the geographical location mentioned in the instant Indictment that has been merely assumed in this matter, consisting of the Indictment wherein the alleged criminal activity took place.
3. Documentation from legislation's of each States of the Union surrendering jurisdiction to the Federal Government over each State, and its territory.
4. Documentation pursuant to Title 40 U.S.C. § 255, wherein the United States accepted jurisdiction to the same geographical locations specified in #1, Or, Documentation showing concurrent jurisdiction with the sovereign States of the Union.

Absent the production of such required documents showing lawful Federal jurisdiction over the States, requires a Dismissal of the action and cause entirely, and immediately without delay.

PRAYER TO THE COURT

The petitioner has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that no crime has in fact been committed against the "United States of America" and that this Honorable Court should grant the petitioner's Motion to Dismiss for lack of Territorial and Subject matter Jurisdiction, and that if it does not, it should explain why it shouldn't on all the merits presented.

Wherefore, the petitioner prays to this Court to Vacate, Set aside, and Dismiss this action forthwith and without delays.

Very Respectfully Submitted

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA : CRIMINAL NO. 1:CR-98-056
v. :
PAUL N. LITTLES :

MEMORANDUM AND ORDER

Before the court is a motion to dismiss for lack of territorial and subject matter jurisdiction filed on September 17, 2008 by Paul N. Littles. Petitioner has also filed an application to proceed in forma pauperis. The motion alleges that the criminal activity for which he was prosecuted occurred in Dauphin County, Pennsylvania and, therefore, the federal government and this court had no lawful jurisdiction over his criminal offense.

The motion will be deemed to be one pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255. Title 28 U.S.C. § 2255(a) and (b) are the proper methods to raise the jurisdiction of the court.

Petitioner was sentenced by this court on January 15, 1999. He filed an appeal on January 19, 1999. The decision of this court was affirmed by the court of appeals on April 5, 2000. On September 4, 2001, Petitioner filed his first motion pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 which was denied by this court on November 7, 2001. Petitioner was denied a certificate of appealability by the circuit court on June 3, 2002 and his petition for a writ of certiorari was denied on October 1, 2003. On January 20, 2006, Petitioner filed a second motion pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 which was denied by this court on January 24, 2006. On November 15, 2007, Petitioner filed a third motion to pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255. Accompanying that motion was a motion and brief filed under 28 U.S.C. § 2244 seeking permission to file a second or successive petition. By order dated November 20, 2007, this court directed the Clerk of Court to forward Petitioner's documents to the Third Circuit Court of Appeals for consideration by that court. On July 7, 2008, the court of appeals denied Petitioner's request to file a second or successive petition.

Once again, Petitioner has filed a collateral motion on an issue that could have been raised on direct appeal or in a previously filed § 2255 petition. Petitioner has failed to obtain from the court of appeals authorization to bring a successive motion as required by 28 U.S.C. § 2255(b) and 28 U.S.C. § 2244. This court is without jurisdiction to entertain the instant motion.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED THAT:

- 1) Petitioner is granted leave to proceed in forma pauperis.
- 2) The motion entitled "Motion to dismiss for Lack of Territorial and Subject Matter Jurisdiction" is deemed to be a motion filed pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 and the motion is DISMISSED.
- 3) The court declines to issue a certificate of appealability.
- 4) The Clerk of Court shall close the file.

SUBSTANTIAL CHANGE OF LAW

ALTERNATIVE PETITION FOR WRIT OF CORAM NOBIS; AND

ALTERNATIVE PETITION FOR A WRIT OF AUDITA QUERELA

ALTERNATIVE PETITION FOR RELIEF UNDER 28 § U.S.C. 2241:

---

Petitioner, in proper-person and by way of pro-se, hereby and moves this Court to vacate his sentence and enter a new sentence that is based on substantial change of law, using a Supreme Court ruling re-interpretation of 21 U.S.C. § 841(b) in Burrage v. United States, 571 U.S. 134 S.Ct 881, 187 L.Ed.2d 715 (2014). Petitioner sentence was dramatically increased because, as we now understand, he was improperly enhanced by his drug quantity amounts..

The petitioner now uses the standards of Haines v. Kerner that this court should not hold the petitioner to the same standards as an attorney.

FIRST FINDING OF FACTS

1. The petitioner states that this court has jurisdiction over said matter.
2. The petitioner is being held as a Federal Prisoner at F.C.I. SCHUYLKILL Minersville, PA. 17954.

STATEMENT OF CASE

3. On July 21, 1998, a jury in the United States District Court for the Middle District Of Pennsylvania found the petitioner, Paul N. Littles guilty of distribution of heroin and conspiracy to distribute heroin.
4. On January 15, 1999, the United States District Court for the Middle District of Pennsylvania, Rambo, J., sentenced Mr. Littles to thirty years imprisonment for distribution of heroin. and thirty years imprisonment for conspiracy to distribute heroin. and ordered that the sentence run concurrently,.
5. By unpublished order dated January 14. 2000. the judgement of District Court was affirmed by the United States Court Of Appeals for The Third Circuit.
6. By order date October 2. 2000, a petition for Writ Of Certiorari was denied.
7. Petitioner's sentence of thirty years imprisonment resulted from the following calculations

Petitioner Is Entitled to § 2255
Because the Imposition of His Sentence Violates Due Process, Constitutes a Miscarriage of Justice, and No Previous Channel of Review Available Was Available Due to Circuit Precedent

8. 28 U.S.C. §2255 provides relief in a variety of contexts. Relief must be granted if (1) judgment was rendered without jurisdiction; or (2) the sentence imposed was not authorized by law; or (3) the sentence is otherwise open to collateral attack; or (4) "there has been such a denial or infringement of the constitutional rights of the prisoner as to render the judgment vulnerable to collateral attack." 28 U.S.C. §2255(b). The text of §2255 is "broad enough" to cover a claim that "an enhanced federal sentence violates due process".
Daniels v. United States, 532 U.S. 374, 382 (2001). if the sentencing court imposes a sentence based on a mandatory minimum which was erroneously applied, it is an "arbitrary disregard of the petitioner's right to liberty [and] is a denial of due process of law." Hicks v. Oklahoma, 100 S.Ct. 2227, 2229 (1980). Further relief is available under §2255 for fundamental defects or errors "which inherently result in a complete miscarriage of justice" or "an omission inconsistent with the rudimentary demands of fair procedure."
Hill v. United States, 386 U.S. 434, 428 (1962); see also United States v. Addonizio, 99 S.Ct. 2235 (1979). The Fourth Circuit has specifically held that "a change in the law can serve as the basis for a section 2255 motion, whether the change is constitutional or nonconstitutional." United States v. Bonnettem 781 F.3d 357, 364 (4th Cir. 1986)(citing Davis v. United States, 417 U.S. 333 (1974)).

9. Through generic sentencing guidelines miscalculations are typically not be cognizable in a § 2255 proceedings. It has long been recognized that this bar does not encompass extraordinary circumstances that result in a miscarriage of justice of justice, nor circumstances where a petitioner had no previous meaningful avenue of review. Post-conviction relief is available to one "sentenced on the basis of assumption concerning his criminal record which were materially untrue. "United States v. Tucker, 92 S.Ct. 589, 592 (1972)(granting habeas relief because the trial judge based sentence in part by the probation agency enhancement of his drug quantity amount and later determine to be invalid); See Burrage v. United States, 571 U.S. ___, 134 S.Ct. 881, 187 L.Ed.2d 715 (2014). The Supreme Court has recognized that the inability to seek review or otherwise challenge the legality of a sentence can result in a miscarriage of justice:

there may be rare cases in which no channel of review was actually is defendant with respect to a drug enhancement, due to no fault of his own, in which case a prisoner might be able to use a motion under §2255 to challenge the drug enhancement as well as the sentence based on it.

Petitioner Has Filed His Motion Within The Applicable Statute Of Limitations.

Petitioner not only grounds for relief, but his claim is timely. 28 U.S.C. §2255 F, directs that a one year statute of limitations runs from the latest of:

- (1) the date on which the judgment of conviction becomes final;
- (2) the date on which the impediment to making a motion created by government action in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States is removed, if the movant was prevented from making a motion by such governmental action;
- (3) the date on which the right asserted was initially recognized by the Supreme Court and made retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review; or

(4) the date on which the facts supporting the claim or claims presented could have been discovered through the exercise of due diligence. The one-year limitation period ends on January 27, 2015.

Notice of this §2255(f)(4) triggering fact does not occur until the petitioner receives notice of the court order and the court order is final. Johnson, 544 U.S. 295 at 307 (emphasis added); Gadsen, 32 F.3d 224 at 227 (the fact of court decision was "not conclusive" for § 2255(f)(4) purposes "until the South Carolina Supreme Court denied the government's petition for "certiorari" on the vacated conviction.) The facts supporting Petitioner's claim could not have been discoverable for purposes of challenging his federal conviction through § 2255 any earlier than when the Third Circuit's decision in Burrage became final - 90 days after the entry of the Order in Burrage.

EVEN IF PETITIONER FILED THIS MOTION OUTSIDE THE LIMITATIONS PERIOD, EQUITABLE TOLLING IS WARRANTED

10. Even if this Court concludes that Petitioner filed his motion outside the one-year limitations period of §2255(f), Petitioner presents an "appropriate case[ ]" that warrants an equitable exception to the statute of limitations. Holland v. Florida, 130 S.Ct. 2549, 2560 (2010). Notwithstanding the one-year limitations period, the Supreme Court has recently held that a petitioner is entitled to equitable tolling in the habeas corpus context if he shows" (1) that he has been pursuing his rights diligently, and (2) that some extraordinary circumstances stood in his way' and prevented timely filing," Id. at 2562 (quoting Pace v. DiGuglieimo, 544 U.S. 408, 418 (2005)).

Moreover, a determination of whether "extraordinary circumstances" exist such that equitable relief is warranted, must be made on "case-by-case" basis, but certainly applies to "correct...particular injustices." Holland, 130 S.Ct. at 2563 (internal quotations omitted). It would be particularly unjust to allow Petitioner to serve a lengthy, enhanced sentence that everyone agrees is unlawful.

Alternatively, Petitioner Is Entitled to § 2241 Relief

11. The Court explained that § 2255 was designed to strengthen, not dilute, the protections of the writ of habeas corpus by "providing that a writ of habeas corpus would be available if the alternative process proved inadequate or ineffective." Id. And the Court "considered it uncontroversial.. that the privilege of habeas corpus entitles the prisoner to a meaningful opportunity to demonstrate that he is being held pursuant to 'the erroneous application or interpretation' of relevant law." Id. at 799 (quoting INS v. St. Cyr, 533 U.S. 289, 302 (2001). The Court further explained that, while the power to order release or retrial "are the easily identified attributes of any constitutionally adequate habeas corpus proceeding... depending on the circumstances, more may be required." Id. at 779. Because "common-law habeas corpus was, above all, an adaptable remedy[, its] precise application and scope changed depending on the circumstances." Id.

If this Court concludes that gate-keeping measures preclude Petitioner from making a viable challenge under § 2255, as the government has argued in McClain and Powell, then that is exactly the type of "inadequate" and "ineffective" remedy that can give rise to a § 2241 claim.

Alternatively, even if Petitioner has not satisfied the precise requirements laid out in In re Jones, the Supreme Court's decision in Boumediene makes clear that the In re Jones framework must be interpreted with some degree of flexibility in order to provide a prisoner with "a meaningful opportunity to demonstrate that he is being held" under an "erroneous application or interpretation" of relevant law." 553 U.S. at 799 (quoting St.Cyr, 533 U.S. at 302); see also Schlup v. Delo, 513 U.S. 298, 319 (1995) (habeas is an equitable remedy). Petitioner has been deprived of the opportunity to present his claim to the courts under §2255 through no fault of his own, and under Boumediene, he must be allowed to present his claim that he has been sentenced unlawfully. Depriving him of the opportunity ever to have a court consider his claim creates an untenable risk of an erroneous deprivation of his liberty for years, particularly in the face of such a clear and easily remediable mistake, and would violate his rights under the Due Process Clause. See Boumediene, 553 U.S. at 781 (citing Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319, 335 (1976)) (test for procedural due process requires assessment of risk of erroneous deprivation of liberty and probable value of additional procedural safeguards).

If Petitioner Is Precluded from Relief Under §§2255 and 2241, He is Entitled to Coram Nobis Relief

12. If the Court concludes that neither 28 U.S.C. §2255 nor 28 U.S.C. §2241 entitled Petitioner to relief from his erroneous sentence, Petitioner nevertheless is entitled to relief under 28 U.S.C. §1651(a), through a writ of error coram nobis. See, generally, United States v. Morgan, 346 U.S. 502 (1954). Although courts infrequently resort to that common-law remedy, it is appropriate in cases where unusual circumstances compel its use to achieve justice. United States v. Akinsade, 686 F.3d 248, 252 (4th Cir. 2012).

To obtain a writ of error coram nobis, a petitioner must show that:

"(1) a more usual remedy is not available; (2) valid reasons exist for not attacking the conviction earlier; (3) adverse consequences exist from the conviction sufficient to satisfy the case or controversy requirement of Article III; and (4) the error is of the most fundamental character."

Id. (quoting Hirabayashi v. United States, 828 F.2d 591, 604 (9th Cir. 1987)). if this Court denied relief under §§2255 and 2241, Petitioner, like the petitioner in Akinsade, will satisfy all four requirements.

This case prevents an unusual example of injustice: the defendant is serving a prison sentence that everyone recognizes is illegal under Burrage and that is substantially longer than the sentence he should have received. If the Court concludes that §§2255 and 2241 are unavailable to Petitioner, it should a writ of coram nobis vacating Petitioner's sentence.

If Petitioner Is Denied Relief Under
§§ 2255 and 2241 and Is Denied a Writ of Error
Cram Nobis, He is Entitled Relief by Writ of Audita Querela

13. If no other avenue of relief is open to Petitioner, he is entitled to relief through a writ of audita querela. The common law writ of audita querela is available to a petitioner who raises a legal-as opposed to an equitable-objection to a conviction or sentence that has arisen after his conviction and that cannot be redressed under another post-conviction remedy. United States v. Richter, 510 F.3d 103, 104 (2nd Cir. 2007); United States v. Johnson, 962 F.2d 579, 581-82 (7th Cir. 1992). Audita querela relief is available under the Supreme Court's decision in United States v. Morgan if it is "necessary to plug a gap in the system of federal postconviction remedies." Johnson, 962 F.2d at 583 (quoting United States v. Kimberlin, 675 F.2d 866, 869 (7th Cir. 1982)).

Where there is no other avenue of relief "available to a party who claims that [he] is factually or legally innocent as a result of a previously unavailable statutory interpretations," the writ of audita querela may be available, because the absence of any avenue of collateral attack would present "a thorny constitutional issue. "Richter, 510 F.3d at 104 (quoting In re Dorsainvil, 119 F.3d 245, 248 (3rd Cir. 1997)). Where a new rule of law-like the rule announced in Burrage-applies, one year limitation that ends of January 27, 2015, but if a habeas relief is unavailable under §255 and §2241, a writ of audita querela may lie. Cf. id. (writ of audita querela was not available to petitioner who raised a Booker error, because Booker did not apply retroactively to cases on collateral review).

14. If the Court concludes that no other avenue of relief is open to Petitioner, then a writ of audita querela should lie. Otherwise, petitioner will be forced to serve an illegal prison sentence with no possibility redress. Unlawfully imprisoning a defendant while providing no avenue for relief would present a significant Fifth Amendment due process issue. See Heiser v. Ryan, 951 F.2d 559, 563 (3rd Cir. 1991)(due process clause guarantees the right to attack a conviction). It may also violate Article I, Section 9 of the Constitution, which prohibits Congress from suspending "[t]he privilege of the Writ of Habeas Corpus....unless when in Cases of Rebellion or Invasion the public Safety may require it. "U.S. Const. Art. I, § 9. Cf. Felker v. Turpin, 518 U.S. 651 (1996)(restriction on successive petitions to impose restraint on "abuse of the writ" do not amount to suspension of the writ of habeas corpus contrary to Article I, §9. Thus, if no other avenue of redress provides a remedy for petitioner, a writ of audita querela is justified.

BASIS FOR MOTION

On January 27, 2014, the Supreme Court made a "substantive" change to 21 U.S.C. §§ 846 and 841(a)(1), which was not available to the movant at the time of his conviction, any appeal or 28 U.S.C. § 2255. This "substantive" change was due to the re-interpretation of 21 U.S.C. § 841(b), in Burrage v. United States, 571 U.S. __, 134 S. Ct. 881, 187 L. Ed. 2d 715 (2014). And this "substantive" change directly affects the movant's sentence, as it makes the former sentencing factors in § 841(b), elements of the offense in §§ 846 and 841(a)(1).

The newly established elements must transplant the same Sixth Amendment procedural safeguards allotted to the previously established elements in §§ 846 and 841(a)(1). And because these facts were not elements at the time of the movant's trial, but were used to enhance his sentencing range, without ever being charged in his indictment by a grand jury; presented to a petit jury; nor found beyond a reasonable doubt, he is permitted to challenge the sentence in this Court.

Also, "a new rule of substantive criminal law is presumptively retroactive". United States v. Mandanici, 205 F3d 519, 525 (2nd Cir. 1999).

SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

The movant will also assert that he was not able to present this issue during trial, on any appeal or § 2255 motion, because the Supreme Court's interpretation on § 841(b) factors, was that they had to be determined by the court, not the jury, See e.g., Neal v. United States, 516 U.S. 284, 296, 116 S. ct. 763, 133 LEd 2d 709 (1996), and beyond a reasonable doubt. Hence, the only means of redress is through a motion filed pursuant to § 2255.

ARGUMENT

The movant was erroneously sentenced beyond one year of imprisonment on each count of his indictment at 21 U.S.C. §§ 846 and 841(a)(1). As a matter of retroactive statutory construction in Burrage, he was never charged with the identity of the controlled substance in 21 U.S.C. § 841(b)-as an element of §§ 846 and 841(a)(1)-by a grand jury nor did the petit jury ever unanimously find it beyond a reasonable doubt during his trial process. Entitling him to immediate release.

APPLICABLE LEGAL PRINCIPLE(S)

Any fact in 21 U.S.C. § 841(b), used to increase a sentencing range from the "catchall" or "default" statutory range of not more than one year, is an element of the offense in 21 U.S.C. §§ 846 and 841(a)(1), that must be charged in the indictment by a federal grand jury, as an element of an aggravated offense, subject to the Sixth Amendment's triumvirate of procedural safeguards. Cf. Burrage v. United States, 187 LEd 2d at 722.

DISCUSSION

The movant was found guilty as charged in his indictment by a petit jury in this court, after being indicted by a grand jury, that did not include the identity of the controlled substance from 21 U.S.C. § 841(b), as a statutory element of the offense in 21 U.S.C. §§ 846 and 841(a)(1)-but a mere sentencing factor to be determined by a preponderance of the evidence during a sentencing hearing.

On January 27, 2014, the Supreme Court's opinion in facts in § 841(b), are not mere sentencing purposes, and are (as a matter of statutory construction) elements of an aggravated offense. 187 LEd 2d at 722. which belied the former interpretation for the same facts in § 841(b), as construed in Neal, 516 U.S. at 296. And it is well established that a judicial construction of a criminal statute is an authoritative statement of what the statute meant before, as well as after the decision of the case giving rise to that construction. Rivers v. Roadway Express Inc., 511 U.S. 298,

312-13, 114 S. ct. 1510, 128 LEd 2d 274 (1994). Hence, the Court's "authoritative statement" of what the elements are for an aggravated offense in §§ 846 and 841(a)(1) are can be found in Burrage; a decision of substantive criminal law, that functions and addresses the meaning and scope of a substantive criminal statute, see Bousley v. United States, 523 U.S. 614, 620, 118 S. ct. 1604, 140 LEd 2d 828 (1998), and narrowed the scope of aggravated offenses in §§ 846 and 841(a)(1)- as it relates to § 841(b). Cf. Schrirro v. Summerlin, 542 U.S. 348, 351, 124 S. ct. 2519, 159 LEd 2d 442 (2004).

However, at the time of the movant's trial, time of appeal or 28 U.S.C. § 2255 motion, no elements of an aggravated offense in §§ 846 and 841(a)(1) was of issue, necessarily rest on a determination of what the identity of the controlled substance was; nor was it found unanimously beyond a reasonable doubt, in order to enhance his sentence his sentence above the "default" or "catchall" statutory maximum of more than one year, Cf. 21 U.S.C. § 841(b) (3). And once Burrage reinterpreted the elements of §§ 846 and 841(a)(1), to require aggravated elements, in order to establish an aggravating offense, all the legal aspects attributable to elements, were automatically transplanted with that decision. As the Supreme Court held in Richardson v. United States, 526 U.S. 813, 818, 119 S. ct. 1707, 143 LEd 2d 985 (1999), "[c]alling a particular kind of fact, an 'element' carries certain legal consequences". Id. See e.g., Apprendi v. New Jersey, 530 U.S. 466, 501, 120 S. ct. 2348, 147 LEd 2d 435 (2000) ("if the legislature defines some core crime and then provides for increasing the punishment of whatever sort...--- the core crime and aggravating fact together constitute an aggravated crime.") (Thomas J. concurring).

Also, Burrage's new statutory interpretation extends § 841(a)'s "knowledge" (means rea) element to the necessary elements in §841(b) in establishing an aggravated offense.

While the phrase "knowingly or intentionally" only appears in § 841(a), that mental state must extend to all subsequent elements of an aggravated offense in § 841(b), which depends on the identity of the controlled substance. See Flores-Figueroa v. United States, 556 U.S. 646, 646-47, 129 S. Ct. 1886, 173 LEd 2d 853 (2009) (finding that "knowingly" applied to subsequent elements of an offense). So, clear "analysis requires that the question of the kind of culpability required to establish the commission of an offense be faced separately with respect to each material element of the crime". United States v. Bailey, 444 U.S. 394, 406, 100 S. Ct. 624, 62 LEd 2d 575 (1980) (quoting Model Penal Code Comments 123).

In other words, after Burrage, courts must read §§ 841(a) and 841(b) together, and that the "knowingly or intentionally" element of § 841(a) now applies equally to the "involved" element of § 841(b), as well as § 841(a) to § 841(b) by the grand jury, or petit jury; nor was the extention determined beyond a reasonable doubt.

The Supreme Court, long ago, expressly held that a sentencing court has no authority to impose a sentence other than which the law provides for the offense on which a defendant was indicted and convicted. In re Bonner, 151 U.S. 242, 254, 14 S. Ct. 323, 38 LEd 149(1894). And even "[i]f the court is authorized to impose imprisonment, based on the elements found by the petit jury beyond a reasonable doubt.

CONCLUSION

WHEREFORE, based on all of the above, and the motion ✓ that this memorandum of law, points and authorities was incorporated into, the movant humbly requests that this Honorable Court grants the motion, and provide the above relief sought, in the interest of justice.

RELIEF SOUGHT

The movant seeks an order from this Court, that states, that due to the Supreme Court's new "substantive" change in its jurisprudence, regarding §§ 846 and 841(a)(1), and their relationship to § 841(b), the portion of the judgement that reflects a sentence on any count beyond one year, be vacated since, the enhancement of any sentence was not conducted in accord with the Sixth Amendment's triumvarate of procedural safeguards.

And that while the movant has been in custody beyond one year on the counts of his indictment consecutively, he should be released from custody.

JUDICIAL NOTICE LEGAL STANDARD

The movant also made an attempt to file a motion pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255, which this court denied on 2001 but, because this court did not provide him with the Castro v. United States, 540 U.S. 375, 383, 124 S. ct. 786, 157 LEd 2d 778 (2003) warning, that motion cannot serve as a first motion for second or successive purpose; See Norwood v. United States, 472 Fed. Appx. 113, 117 (3rd Cir. 2012); Wilson v. United States, 287 Fed Appx. 490, 492 (6th Cir. 2008).

MEMORANDUM

Before the court is a petition filed by Paul N. Littles filed pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 (f)(3)(4) and, in the alternative, a petition for writ of coram nobis or writ of audita querela, or for relief under 28 U.S.C. § 2241. This court will preliminarily review the petition pursuant to Rule 4 of the Rules Governing Section 2254 and appropriately applied to proceedings under 28 U.S.C. § 2255 and § 2241 to determine if the petitioner is entitled to relief. For the following reasons, the motion will be denied.

I. Discussion

The instant motion seeks relief pursuant to Burrage v. United States, __ U.S. ___, 134 S. Ct. 881 (2014). In that case, the petitioner was charged with unlawful distribution of heroin and that death resulted from the use of that substance. (Id. at 883.) The United States Supreme Court held, “At least where use of the drug distributed by the defendant is not an independently sufficient cause of the victim’s death or serious bodily injury, a defendant cannot be liable for penalty enhancement under § 841((b)(1)(C)) unless such use is a but-for cause of the death or injury.” (Id. at 886-92.)

The Burrage case is not applicable to the facts of the case at bar. Littles was charged with conspiracy to distribute and possess with intent to distribute in excess of a kilogram of heroin pursuant to 21 U.S.C. § 841(a)(1) and actual possession and distribution of the same amount of heroin in violation of 21 U.S.C. § 841(a)(1) and 18 U.S.C. § 2. Littles was not charged with the death or serious bodily injury of anyone to whom he allegedly distributed heroin nor was there any enhancement applied for this element in determining his sentence. Littles’ offense level computation was based on the following:

|  |           |
|--|-----------|
| Base offense level (drug amount)                         | 32        |
| Role in the offense                                      | +4        |
| Classification as a career offender(USSG § 4B1.1(H)) | +1 |
| Total computation:                                       | 37        |

No consideration involved any claim that his crime resulted in the death of any person.

In addition, under the AEDPA, a prisoner may not bring a second or successive petition under 2 U.S.C. § 2255 unless “a panel of the appropriate court of appeal” certifies that the motion contains (1) newly discovered evidence that, if proven and viewed in light of the evidence as a whole would be sufficient to establish by clear and convincing evidence that no reasonable factfinder would have found the movant guilty of the offense; or (2) a new rule of constitutional law made retroactive to cases on collateral review by the United States Supreme Court that was previously unavailable.

Burrage was decided on January 27, 2014. If Burrage does as Petitioner argues, and if it applies to his case and creates a new right that is retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review, the one year limitations period would commence on January 27, 2014 and close on January 26, 2015. Petitioner has had almost a full year to seek permission from the Third Circuit Court of Appeals to file a second or successive petition in this court and still has time to do so. An appropriate order will be issued.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup>An application for a writ of coram nobis is an impermissible successive collateral attack. Robinson v. Johnson, 313 F.2d 125, 139-40 (3d Cir. 2002); nor under the facts and procedural history of this case does a writ of audita querela provide a basis to seek relief. Massey v. United States, 581 F.3d 172, 174 (3d Cir. 2009).

RE: Whether I can get relief under the Johnson Supreme Court Decision (June 26,2015), as I have been incarcerated since 1998 and sentenced as a "Career Offender", with 2 prior robbery offenses which were used as predicate offenses. One was in 1976, and the other in '82.

Dear Clerk of Court:

I am wondering if I am eligible for relief consistent with the Supreme Court decision in Johnson?

Many inmates here at Schuylkill have been receiving letters from the District Courts and Federal Public Defenders/Attorneys, regarding the fact that they may be eligible for relief as many of our predicate and/or enumerated offenses which were used to enhance our sentences under the ACCA or "Career Offender" classifications, are no longer acceptable to the courts as predicate offenses, and many predicates can not withstand a test of "violence".

Will you please look into my history and sentencing, and let me know if I qualify to have an attorney appointed, and whether I may be resentenced in the future?

Sincerely, Paul Littles
