JERRY W. WELLS APPELLANT

ON APPEAL FROM COURT OF APPEALS

V. CASE NO. 2018-CA-001467-OA
WARREN FAMILY COURT NO. 14-CI-00479

HON. CATHERINE HOLDERFIELD, APPELLEE
JUDGE, WARREN FAMILY COURT,

AND

ROBBIN NELSON; ROBERT REAL PARTIES
ANDREW SHARP, JR.; HEATHER IN INTEREST
ANNE GREENE SHARP; A.K.S,
A MINOR CHILD; AND R.A.S. III,
A MINOR CHILD

MEMORANDUM OPINION OF THE COURT

AFFIRMING

This appeal from the denial of a writ of mandamus stems from a Warren Family Court child custody action involving A.K.S. and R.A.S., III., the minor children of Robert Andrew Sharp, Jr. and Heather Anne Greene Sharp. Jerry Wells is married to Robbin Nelson, the paternal grandmother of the children, but was not a party to the action below. In May 2014, Robert and

App. 2

Heather Sharp, while still married<sup>1</sup>, entered into an agreed order that permanent de facto custody of their children be placed with Nelson.

In 2015, Heather filed motions seeking to modify custody and set visitation. The family court established a visitation schedule for the parents at that time. Citing medical and educational reasons, Nelson sought and was granted permission, over Heather's objection, to move with the minor children to Nashville, Tennessee.

Approximately six months later, Nelson and Wells both filed a petition to adopt the children in Tennessee. In April 2016, before the adoption proceedings could be finalized, Heather filed a motion for contempt in Warren Family Court against Nelson for her failure to allow visitation. The Warren Family Court entered an order asserting continuing, exclusive jurisdiction over the child custody issues in accordance with the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Enforcement Act (UCCJEA).<sup>2</sup>

Around September 2016, Heather filed a motion to modify custody in the Warren Family Court. The Tennessee court stayed the adoption proceedings pending the outcome of the Kentucky custody determination. In July 2017, the Warren Family Court granted temporary custody to Heather. On November 28, 2017, the family court granted a motion filed by Heather and entered an order which prohibited contact between the minor children and Nelson.

<sup>2</sup> UCCJEA § 202(a). The UCCJEA is a codified uniform state law drafted by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws for the purpose of determining which state has jurisdiction to decide custody decisions. Kentucky adopted the UCCJEA through Kentucky Revised Statutes (KRS) 403.800 to 403.880.

A final custody hearing was scheduled in Warren Family Court for October 12, 2018. It was not until September 20, 2018 that Wells filed a motion, without an accompanying petition, seeking to intervene in the custody action. Wells asserted he should have been named as a de facto custodian along with his wife, Nelson, and therefore should be a party to the action.

On October 8, 2018, Wells filed a pro se petition for a writ of mandamus with the Court of Appeals and requested immediate relief of the family court's ruling. The Court of Appeals denied the request for emergency relief on October 8, 2018. The next day, Judge Holderfield entered an order denying his motion to intervene and set a final hearing on the modification of custody. It does not appear from an online review of CourtNet<sup>3</sup> that Wells filed a motion to alter, amend or vacate the order denying his motion to intervene, nor does it appear that he filed a notice of appeal. Wells filed a motion for reconsideration in the writ action, and it was denied on October 12, 2018. While the writ action was still pending before the Court of Appeals, Judge Holderfield entered findings of fact and conclusions of law on December 20, 2018.<sup>4</sup> On January 9, 2019, the assigned Court of Appeals panel entered an order denying the extraordinary writ. In its order, the Court of Appeals declined to address several of Wells' claims, including his request to disqualify Judge Holderfield from presiding over the case, a request he also argues before this Court. We agree with the Court of Appeals that as a non-party without standing or a stake in the family court proceedings, Wells did not have standing to seek disqualification of the judge. Wells timely sought review regarding the writ of mandamus in this Court.

Wells argues for granting his writ of prohibition, claiming that the Warren Family Court is acting outside of its jurisdiction and there is no remedy through an intermediate court. There are two classes of extraordinary writs available to litigants.<sup>5</sup> The first class of writs applies when a lower court is acting outside of its subject matter jurisdiction and there is no adequate remedy through application to an intermediate court.<sup>6</sup>

<sup>4</sup> Information gleaned from CourtNet step sheet of underlying custody action. It is unclear from the record if this was a final judgment or not. However, a review of the Court of Appeals dockets show that Robbin Nelson has filed an appeal, (Robbin Nelson v. Heather Anne Sharp, et al) with an associated Circuit case listed as Warren Family Court, Judge Holderfield, 14-CI-00479.

Wells claims that the family court lost subject matter jurisdiction after the children lived in Tennessee for six (6) months, arguing that Tennessee became the children's home state pursuant to the UCCJEA. However, even though Nelson, Wells and the children moved to Tennessee, Kentucky could and did retain exclusive, continuing jurisdiction over the child custody and visitations matters. When the action commenced in May 2014, all parties were Kentucky residents, Kentucky entered the initial child custody determination, and Heather maintained her residency and exercised parenting time with the children in Kentucky throughout. Pursuant to KRS § 402.824,

(1) [A] court of this state which has made a child custody determination consistent with KRS 403.822 or 403.826 has exclusive, continuing jurisdiction over the determination until:

(a) A court of this state determines that neither the child, nor the child and one parent, nor the child and a person acting as a parent have significant connections with this state and that substantial evidence is no longer available in this state concerning the child's care, protection, training, and personal relationship[.]

Wells argues that Kentucky lost jurisdiction to Tennessee, noting that adoption proceedings had been initiated in Tennessee. However, Williams v. Bittel<sup>7</sup> held that even a final Georgia adoption decree did not divest Kentucky of its jurisdiction in a child custody matter. The court in Bittel opined “Our reading of both the UCCJEA and PKPA<sup>8</sup> persuades us that exclusive, continuous jurisdiction of the custody matters remains in Kentucky as long as Bittel resides in Kentucky and maintains a significant relationship with M.K. (internal citation omitted).”<sup>9</sup> Therefore, the Warren Family Court was acting within its continuing jurisdiction regarding child custody and visitation.

App. 6

In the alternative, Wells argues that he is entitled to a writ under the second class of writs. The second class requires a showing that: 1) the lower court is acting or is about to act erroneously, although within its jurisdiction; 2) there exists no adequate remedy by appeal or otherwise; and 3) great injustice and irreparable injury will result if the petition is not granted.<sup>10</sup> The problem with Wells’ argument as to either class of writs is the same, there is (or was) a remedy available to him by appeal.

This Court has consistently held that an order denying a motion to intervene is immediately appealable.<sup>11</sup> In City of Henderson v. Todd:

It was well settled under the former Civil Code that the filing of an intervening petition by an interested party was a matter of right and a denial thereof was an appealable order. Civil Rule 24.01 provides that upon timely application anyone shall be permitted to intervene in an action under described conditions, and CR 24.02 permits intervention under stated conditions. While it would appear that the denial of a motion for leave to intervene is interlocutory and not forthwith appealable, unless intervention is a matter of right we regard an appeal from an order denying intervention under either rule to be proper after final judgment in the case, even though a forthwith appeal would have been proper where intervention was a matter of right under CR 24.01. (internal citations omitted).<sup>12</sup>

App. 7

Furthermore, in A.H. v. W.R.L.<sup>13</sup>, this Court held that a mother's former same sex partner asserted a cognizable custodial interest and, thus, had a right to intervene under Kentucky Rule of Civil Procedure (CR) 24.01.<sup>14</sup> Similarly, Wells asserts he has a custodial interest in the children because he is Nelson's husband and helped co-parent the children.

- (1) Upon timely application anyone shall be permitted to intervene in an action (a) when a statute confers an unconditional right to intervene, or (b) when the applicant claims an interest relating to the property or transaction which is the subject of the action and is so situated that the disposition of the action may as a practical matter impair or impede the applicant's ability to protect that interest, unless that interest is adequately represented by existing parties.

(2) Anyone possessing a statutory right of intervention under (1)(a) above, may move the court to intervene in a pending action and, on failure of a party to file an objection within ten (10) days to the intervention and a notice of hearing on the objection, have an order allowing the intervention without appearing in court for a hearing.

Significantly, CR 24.03 requires that a pleading be submitted with the motion to intervene. According to the family court order denying his intervention, Wells failed to file a petition with his motion to intervene.

CR 24.03 states as follows:

A person desiring to intervene shall serve a motion to intervene upon the parties as provided in Rule 5. The motion shall state the grounds therefor and shall be accompanied by a pleading setting forth the claim or defense for which intervention is sought. The same procedure shall be followed when a statute gives a right to intervene. When the constitutionality of an act of the General Assembly affecting the public interest is drawn into question in any action, the movant shall serve a copy of the pleading, motion or other paper first raising the challenge upon the Attorney General.

Wells had an opportunity to pursue a direct appeal regarding the denial of the intervention but has failed to do so. Consequently, Wells has failed to show a lack of potential remedy through an intermediate court and is not entitled to a writ of mandamus. Likewise, as a non-party, Wells has no standing to assert that Judge Holderfield should be removed as Judge in the underlying case.

For the foregoing reasons, we affirm the Court of Appeals.

All sitting. All concur.

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION AND
EXTRAORDINARY WRIT

BEFORE: CLAYTON, CHIEF JUDGE; DIXON AND NICKELL, JUDGES.

Petitioner, Jerry W. Wells, hereinafter Wells, seeks a writ asserting the circuit court does not have jurisdiction and made numerous erroneous rulings. Simultaneously with the petition, Wells filed a motion for intermediate relief to stay an October 12, 2018 hearing. This motion was denied. Wells thereafter filed a motion for reconsideration. This motion is DENIED. Wells filed a motion seeking to supplement the writ with an exhibit that was not previously available. The motion is GRANTED and the tendered supplement is ORDERED FILED. Wells has filed a second motion to supplement his petition with a complaint from an unrelated action against Judge Holderfield. This motion is DENIED. Heather Ann Greene Sharp, hereinafter Heather, a Real Party in Interest, has responded objecting to the petition. Having considered the pleadings herein and being otherwise sufficiently advised, the Court hereby DENIES the petition.

The underlying circuit court case is a child custody action involving Real Parties in Interest A.K.S. and R.A.S., III. In 2014, Robbin Nelson, the children's grandmother, petitioned for and was granted permanent sole custody of them. Wells is Nelson's husband but he was not included in the initial action and was not named in the custody decree. Heather and Robert Andrew Sharp, Jr. are the biological parents of the minor children.

In 2015, Heather filed motions seeking to modify custody and set visitation. Ultimately, a visitation schedule was established for the parents. Nelson sought and was granted permission, over Heather's objection, to move with the children to Tennessee but, the visitation schedule was maintained and Heather exercised her visitation in Bowling Green, Kentucky.

In 2016, an adoption action was initiated in Tennessee by Nelson and Wells. Heather filed in Warren Circuit Court a motion for Nelson to be held in contempt for failure to allow visitation. The Warren Circuit Court entered an order asserting continuing, exclusive jurisdiction over child custody issues. Heather then filed a motion to modify custody. In 2017, the circuit court granted temporary custody to Heather.

On September 20, 2018, Wells filed a motion seeking to intervene in the custody action. Wells asserted that he should have been named as a de facto custodian with his wife, Nelson, and therefore, he is a necessary party to the action. The circuit court denied the motion and set a final hearing on the modification of custody. This petition followed.

There are two classes of extraordinary writs. Hoskins v. Maricle, 150 S.W.3d 1, 10 (Ky. 2004); see also Lee v. George, 369 S.W.3d 29, 32 (Ky. 2012). The first class of writs only applies when the claim involves a lower court acting outside of its subject matter jurisdiction and there is no remedy through an application to an intermediate court. Hoskins, 150 S.W.3d at 10; see also Goldstein v. Feeley, 299 S.W.3d 549 (Ky. 2009). The second class requires a showing that: 1) the lower court is acting or is about to act erroneously, although within its jurisdiction, 2) there exists no adequate remedy by appeal or otherwise, and 3) great injustice and irreparable injury will result if the petition is not granted. Hoskins, 150 S.W.3d at 10.

Wells has raised several claims. He argues the circuit court lacks jurisdiction, the circuit court judge is biased and should be recused, and the circuit court judge and Heather's counsel need to be recused as they are necessary witnesses. Additionally, Wells argues the court made the following errors: denying Wells's motion to intervene as a necessary party, destroying Wells's pleadings, restricting the children from being in Tennessee, denying requests to have Heather undergo a neuropsychiatric evaluation, and failing to require Heather to produce the children's medical records. Wells argues that as a non-party an appeal is not a viable remedy and therefore he is entitled to a writ. Wells's arguments fail.

The Court will first address Wells's claim that the circuit court erred in denying his motion for intervention and a writ is necessary to remedy the error. Where the circuit court is acting within its subject matter jurisdiction, it is "an absolute prerequisite" to the issuance of a writ that the petitioner demonstrates no adequate remedy by appeal exists. The Independent Order of Foresters v. Chauvin, 175 S.W.3d 610, 615 (Ky. 2005). "No adequate remedy by appeal" means that any injury to [the petitioner] 'could not thereafter be rectified in subsequent proceedings in the case.'" Id. at 614-15 (quoting Bender v. Eaton, 343 S.W.2d 799, 802 (Ky. 1961)).

Herein, the circuit court is acting within its subject matter jurisdiction. When the action commenced all parties were Kentucky residents and Kentucky entered an initial child custody determination. Despite the fact Nelson and the children moved to Tennessee, Kentucky retained exclusive, continuing jurisdiction over child custody modification because at least one parent, Heather, remained and exercised her parenting time with the children here in Kentucky. KRS 403.822. The fact Nelson and Wells initiated adoption proceedings in Tennessee does not change this analysis. See Williams v. Bittel, 299 S.W.3d 284 (Ky. App. 2009) (holding Georgia adoption decree did not divest Kentucky courts of child custody jurisdiction). Even assuming the circuit court did err in denying intervention, Wells has an adequate remedy by way of an appeal and therefore this claim fails. See City of Henderson v. Todd, 314 S.W.2d 948 (Ky. 1958); Hazel Enterprises, LLC v. Community Financial Services Bank, 382 S.W.3d 65 (Ky. App. 2012); Bailey v. Bertram, 471 S.W.3d 687 (Ky. 2015).

The Court need not address Wells's remaining claims of erroneous discovery rulings and matters of recusal because, as a non-party without standing or a stake in the circuit court proceedings, he does not have standing to seek a writ against the circuit court. Interactive Media Entertainment and Gaming Association, Inc., 320 S.W.3d 692 (Ky. 2010).

Based on the above, the petition for a writ is DENIED.

v. IN AN ORIGINAL ACTION ARISING FROM
WARREN FAMILY COURT
ACTION NO. 14-CI-00479

HONORABLE CATHERINE
RICE HOLDERFIELD, JUDGE,

ROBBIN NELSON, ROBERT
ANDREW SHARP, JR., HEATHER

A MINOR CHILD, AND R.A.S. III, REAL PARTIES
A MINOR CHILD IN INTEREST

ORDER DENYING MOTION FOR INTERMEDIATE RELIEF

This matter is before the Court on a motion for intermediate relief in an original action by which the petitioner, Jerry W. Wells, seeks, among other things, to prevent a custody hearing that is scheduled for Friday, October 12, 2018, in the Warren Family Court. He also asks this Court to grant him de facto custodial status of the minor children involved in this matter. Having considered the motion for intermediate relief and having been otherwise sufficiently advised, the Court ORDERS that the motion be DENIED.

This original action stems from a custody action out of Warren County Family Court. Petitioner, Jerry W. Wells, is the step-paternal grandfather of the minor children, A.K.S. and R.A.S., III. He is married to real party in interest, Robbin Nelson, the paternal grandmother of the minor children. Real parties in interest, Robert Andrew Sharp, Jr.<sup>1</sup> and Heather Anne Greene Sharp are the natural parents of the minor children.

In May 2014, Mr. Sharp and Ms. Sharp agreed to make Ms. Nelson the de facto custodian of the minor children in Warren Family Court Case No. 14-CI-00479 while they resolved marital and other issues. Since that time, Mr. Sharp and Ms. Sharp were divorced through Warren Family Court Case No. 14-CI-00704. On September 30, 2016, Ms. Sharp filed a motion to modify custody. On March 21, 2017 the Warren Family Court entered an order granting Ms. Sharp temporary custody of the minor children. Although this matter has been ongoing for over four years in Warren Family Court, Mr. Wells did not move to intervene or seek to be granted de facto custodial status until September 20, 2018—approximately three weeks before a custody hearing was scheduled to be held on October 12, 2018. On September 28, 2018, the Warren Family Court held a hearing on Mr. Wells' motions and made a ruling from the bench denying Mr. Wells' motions.<sup>2</sup> On October 8, 2018, Mr. Wells, pro se, filed a Petition for Writ of Prohibition/Mandamus and a Motion for Intermediate Relief pursuant to CR 76.36(4). An order denying Mr. Wells' motions to intervene and to be declared a de facto custodian was entered on October 9, 2018.

At this stage, the Court does not adjudicate the original action; however, the necessity of demonstrating a likelihood of success on the underlying petition is implicit in the required showing for CR 76.36(4) relief. Consequently, the Court must consider whether Mr. Wells may be entitled to the issuance of a writ. The standard governing the issuance of an extraordinary writ is well established:

A writ of prohibition may be granted upon a showing that (1) the lower court is proceeding or is about to proceed outside of its jurisdiction and there is no remedy through an application to an intermediate court; (2) that the lower court is acting or is about to act erroneously, although within its jurisdiction, and there exist no adequate remedy by appeal or otherwise and great injustice and irreparable injury will result if the petition is not granted.

<sup>2</sup> Courts speak "only through written orders entered upon the official record." Kindred Nursing Centers Ltd. Partnership v. Sloan, 329 S.W.3d 347, 349 (Ky. App. 2010). This Court does not review oral orders. However because a written order was entered one day after Mr. Wells filed the instant motion, the Court will consider the motion under the general rational of James v. James, 313 S.W.3d 17 (Ky. 2010).

Hoskins v. Maricle, 150 S.W.3d 1, 10 (Ky. 2004). Demonstrating the lack of an adequate remedy by appeal or otherwise is an “absolute prerequisite” to the issuance of a writ in cases where the circuit court is acting within its jurisdiction. The Independent Order of Foresters v. Chauvin, 175 S.W.3d 610, 615 (Ky. 2005). Here, the Warren Family Court is clearly acting within its subject matter jurisdiction. Mr. Wells must therefore demonstrate that he has no adequate remedy by appeal or otherwise. “No adequate remedy by appeal” means that any injury to [the petitioner] ‘could not thereafter be rectified in subsequent proceedings in the case.’” Id. at 614-15 (quoting Bender v. Eaton, 343 S.W.2d 799, 802 (Ky. 1961)).

Denial of a motion to intervene is an issue that is remediable by direct appeal. See City of Henderson v. Todd, 314 S.W.2d 948 (Ky. 1958); Hazel Enterprises, LLC v. Community Financial Services Bank, 382 S.W.3d 65 (Ky. App. 2012); Bailey v. Bertram, 471 S.W.3d 687 (Ky. 2015). Because Mr. Wells has a remedy by direct appeal, he cannot show a likelihood of success on the underlying petition for writ of prohibition and mandamus.

Because Mr. Wells fails to show a likelihood of success on the underlying petition, the Court ORDERS the CR 76.36(4) motion for intermediate relief DENIED. The original action will come before a three

This matter, having come before the Court upon sua sponte review, the Court having had multiple hearings in this action and the family's related actions, over the past several years, the Court having been made aware at a recent hearing that adoption proceedings have been filed in another state even though the proposed adoptive parent has failed to comply with this Court's orders, may be evading service with regards to a long pending show cause order regarding the court ordered visitation for the mother of the children, no UCCJEA hearing has occurred as required by Kentucky Revised Statutes, the Petitioner having obtained de facto custody under somewhat questionable but reportedly agreed circumstances, and the Court being otherwise sufficiently advised;

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that this Court specifically asserts and retains jurisdiction of this action and the actions related thereto in Warren Circuit Family Court.

ORDER APPOINTING GUARDIAN
AD LITEM AND SUSPENDING VISITATION

This Order is entered in response to the Motion of Petitioners Robbin Kelly Nelson and, Jerry Wayne Wells and Co-Petitioner Robert Andrew Sharp, Jr. (Mr. Sharp)/ heard on May 13, 2016 pursuant to Tenn. R. Civ. Proc. 40A to appoint a Guardian ad Litem in this cause and to suspend visitation by the Respondent, Heather Anne Sharp pending observation by the Guardian ad Litem of the conditions and best interests of the children sought to be adopted.

Pursuant to Tennessee Code Annotated §36-1-116(f)(1), this Court has had exclusive jurisdiction of all matters pertaining to the children sought to be adopted in this cause since November 25, 2015, the date of the filing of the Petition for Guardianship,

Termination of Parental Rights and Adoption by the Petitioners and Co-Petitioner (the “Petition”)

Further, pursuant to Tennessee Code Annotated §36-1-116(h), the filing of the Petition constituted the commencement of a custody proceeding for purposes of the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA) codified in Tennessee Code Annotated §36-6-201 et seq., and Tennessee is the home state of the children in this proceeding. Therefore, this Court also has had jurisdiction of this child custody proceeding pursuant to Tennessee Code Annotated §36-6-216(a) since November 25, 2015, the date of the filing of the Petition.

Accordingly, any order entered by any other court after November 25, 2015, including orders by the 8th Judicial Circuit Warren Circuit Court – Div. IV Family Court of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, is unenforceable for want of jurisdiction.

This Court customarily appoints a Guardian ad Litem in a contested adoption case, and because the verified Petition and affidavits filed in this cause raise concerns regarding the children’s best interests that may not be adequately protected by the parties, the Court has determined that separate representation of the children by a Guardian ad Litem is warranted pursuant to Tenn. R. Civ. Proc. 40A. Accordingly, the Court hereby appoints Valerie M. Cantrell, Supreme Court No. 14640 as Guardian ad Litem to represent the best interest of the children in this cause, the cost of which will be born equally by the Petitioners and the Respondent.

The Court also finds that the concerns raised in the verified Petition and affidavits filed in this cause justify a suspension of any visitation by the Respondent with the children for a period of two (2) weeks following the entry of this Order so that the Guardian ad Litem may make a preliminary assessment of the children's best interests with respect to visitation. Such suspension is hereby ordered and may be extended by motion of the Petitioners or the Guardian ad Litem.

IT IS SO ORDERED this 17th of May, 2016.

CASE ACTION NO. 14-CI-00479

IN RE: THE INTEREST OF
R.A.S. III, a minor child
A.K.S., a minor child

ROBBIN NELSON PETITIONER

VS. FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW AND JUDGMENT OF DE FACTOR AND PERMANENT CUSTODY

ROBERT ANDREW SHARP,
JR. and HEATHER ANNE
SHARP RESPONDENTS

This matter has been brought before the Court pursuant to a petition for de facto custody status, custody, visitation and child support of two minor children, RAS.,III and A.K.S., and the Court having reviewed the agreement makes the following findings of facts and conclusions of law.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. The Court finds that Robert Andrew Sharp, Jr. and Heather Anne Sharp are the parents of two minor children, R.A.S., III and A.K.S. The petitioner, is the mother of Respondent, Robert Andrew Sharp, Jr. and is the paternal grandmother of the minor children. All parties live in Warren County, Kentucky.

2. The Court finds that the minor children have lived with the Petitioner and her husband for a continuous period of more than one (1) year.

3. The Court also finds that Petitioner has been the primary financial caregiver for R.A.S., III. and A.K.S. for a continuous period of more one (1) year.

4. The Court finds that the Petitioner has been the emotional caregiver for R.A.S., III and A.K.S. for a continuous period of more than one (1) year.

5. Respondent, Robert Andrew Sharp, Jr., Currently suffers from a number of medical conditions, including reverse narcolepsy and cataplexy, which make him unable to adequately care for the children on a full time basis. He is taking medication to help combat his medical condition, but these medications also have other side effects that make it unsafe for the children to be alone with him at this time when under influence of the medication.

6. Respondent, Heather Anne Sharp, struggles with depression. She has been unable to bond with the children since their respective births. These circumstances have led Respondents to place the children with Petitioner to live and use since the children were just weeks old. Several years ago respondent Heather Sharp suffered a head injury at Paris Island and still to this day struggles from this injury.

7. The Court finds that the parents have signed a custody agreement granting petitioner sole custody. The Petitioner has testified that she desires to be the custodian of these children. The Court further finds that these children have been cared for, nurtured and supported by Petitioner since these children were weeks old.

8. The Court finds that the minor children are well adjusted into the Petitioner's home and that it is in their best interest that the Petitioner be designated as De Facto Custodian and that she be awarded sole custody pursuant to the testimony received and the agreement signed by all parties.

9. The Court finds good cause to set child support for both Respondents at $0 dollars monthly. The Court further finds that the petitioner has not only been providing financially for the minor children but also to each Respondent parent. Good cause exists to deviate from the child support guidelines.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

1. The Court concludes that it has jurisdiction in this matter and that the parties are properly before the Court.

2. The Court finds and concludes that the custody agreement relating to R.A.S., III and A.K.S. is reasonable and in the best interests of these children. Therefore, the Court concludes that Petitioner Robbin Nelson has satisfied the requirements of KRS 403.270(1) and (2) and is granted the status of a de facto custodian of these minor children.

3. The Court concludes that it is in the best interests of R.A.S., III and A.K.S. that permanent sole custody be granted to Robbin Nelson and that is so ordered. The Court concludes that reasonable visitation will occur by agreement of the parties.

4. The Court concludes that the Petitioner has sufficient financial means to adequately provide for these two minor children and the Court believes that it is appropriate to deviate from the child support guidelines and that no child support shall be due from either of the Respondents.

DECREE

THE COURT HEREBY ORDERS THE FOLLOWING:

1. That the Petitioner, Robbin Nelson shall be designated the De Facto Custodian of R.A.S., III and A.K.S.;

2. That the Petitioner, Robbin Nelson is granted sole custody of R.A.S., III and A.K.S. and that reasonable visitation will occur by agreement of the parties.

3. That both Respondent's child support shall be set at $0 dollars monthly.
