IN RE: JOHN PEYTON ALEXANDER, II,

Clerk, U.S. Court of Appeals, Fifth Circuit

Motion for an order authorizing the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi to consider a successive 28 U.S.C. § 2254 application

Before DAVIS, HAYNES, and HIGGINSON, Circuit Judges.

PER CURIAM:

John Peyton Alexander, II, Mississippi prisoner # 30021, has moved for authorization to file a successive 28 U.S.C. § 2254 application to challenge the sentence imposed for his conviction of murder. He contends that his sentence has expired. Alexander argues that he is serving a non-life sentence in light of a 1979 executive order that reduced his sentence and that, under the earned-time-allowance law in effect at the time of his conviction, he has earned enough time credits to be released. He also maintains that applying the version of the earned-time-allowance law that became effective after his conviction violates the Ex Post Facto Clause. Alexander contends that his proposed application is not successive because, when he asserted the same claims in a prior motion for authorization, this court suggested that the motion should be denied as unnecessary.¹

Appendix A-1

No. 20-60878

This court may authorize the filing of a successive § 2254 application if the prisoner makes a prima facie showing that (1) his claims rely on a new and previously unavailable rule of constitutional law that was made retroactive to cases on collateral review by the Supreme Court; or (2) the factual predicate for the claim could not have been previously discovered through the exercise of due diligence, and the facts underlying the claim, if proven, would establish by clear and convincing evidence that, but for constitutional error, no reasonable trier would not have found the prisoner guilty of the underlying crime. 28 U.S.C. § 2244(b)(2), (b)(3)(C).

Alexander has not made the required showing to obtain authorization to file a successive § 2254 application. See § 2244(b)(2), (b)(3)(C). To the extent he seeks en banc review of the denials of his previous motions for authorization, such relief is unavailable. See § 2244(b)(3)(E). We reiterate that, contrary to Alexander's mistaken belief, this court did not previously hold that he could file a successive § 2254 application presenting the instant challenges to this sentence. In re Alexander, No. 19-60562 (5th Cir. Dec. 18, 2019) (unpublished). Given that this motion for leave is duplicative of his previous two unsuccessful motions, Alexander is again warned that the further filing of repetitive and frivolous motions in this court may result in the imposition of sanctions, including dismissal, monetary sanctions, and restrictions on his ability to file pleadings in this court and any court subject to this court's jurisdiction.

¹ Alexander misunderstands the order's notation about Judge Higginson's view as the ruling of the court; in any event, the majority of the court did not join Judge Higginson, accordingly, his determination is not controlling.

No. 20-60878

Thus, IT IS ORDERED that the motion for authorization and all other outstanding requests for relief are DENIED, and a SANCTION WARNING IS ISSUED.

CIVIL ACTION NO. 3:19cv398-CWR

RESPONDENT

ORDER DENYING MOTION TO AMEND

BEFORE THE COURT is pro se Petitioner John Peyton Alexander, II's Motion for Harmony Intervention [14], which the Court construes as a motion to amend. Alexander is incarcerated with the Mississippi Department of Corrections. On July 23, 2019, the Court transferred this case to the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals. On December 18, the Fifth Circuit denied Alexander leave to pursue this successive habeas action. On March 10, 2020, he filed the instant motion, asking for permission to file an amended petition in this case. The Court has considered Petitioner's submission and the relevant legal authority.

The motion to amend is denied. This case was transferred to the Fifth Circuit, and it denied Petitioner leave to proceed with this action. The case is therefore closed.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED AND ADJUDGED that pro se Petitioner John Peyton Alexander, II's Motion for Harmony Intervention [14], which the Court construes as a motion to amend, should be, and is hereby, DENIED.

SO ORDERED AND ADJUDGED, this the 20th day of March, 2020.

JURY VERDICT AND SENTENCING OF THE DEFENDANT BY THE COURT

Now comes the District Attorney who prosecuted for and on behalf of the State of Mississippi and the Defendant, John Alexander II, in his own proper person, in custody and by counsel, being called to answer a charge of Murder, being arraigned upon the charge in the indictment duly entered a plea of Not Guilty thereto.

Thereupon came a Jury of Wm. Paul A. Purvis and eleven other good and lawful citizens who being duly empanelled, sworn and charged to well and truly try the issue joined and a true verdict render according to the law and the evidence.

After hearing all the evidence and arguments of counsel, and giving the instructions of the Court, retired and presently returned into open Court the following verdict, to wit:

That the jury find the defendant guilty as charged.
Therefore ordered and adjudged that the Defendant, John Alexander II, for such his crime of Murder to which he has been found guilty as charged, be and hereby is sentenced to serve a term

Life in the Mississippi State Penitentiary

EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 217

WHEREAS, the Superintendent of the Mississippi State Penitentiary is authorized and empowered to assign inmates of the Penitentiary to duty at the Governor's Mansion; and

WHEREAS, from time to time the Superintendent does assign certain inmates to perform duty at the Governor's Mansion; and

WHEREAS, the State's policy therefor is to encourage rehabilitation and a sense of public responsibility on the part of inmates, and a furtherance of said policy is accomplished through such duty assignments; and

WHEREAS, those inmates who satisfactorily perform and who have heretofore satisfactorily performed the aforesaid duty should be compensated, and the best way to compensate them therefor is to grant a commutation and reduction of sentence commensurate with the work performed by them:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Cliff Finch, Governor of the State of Mississippi, pursuant to the authority vested in me by Article 5, Section 124, Mississippi Constitution of 1890, do hereby order as follows:

Any inmate of Mississippi State Penitentiary assigned by the Superintendent thereof to duty at the Governor's Mansion who has satisfactorily performed work thereat, as reflected by the work day schedule maintained by the Superintendent, is hereby granted thirty (30) days of earned time for the first full day he satisfactorily completed on said assignment and ten (10) days earned time for each subsequent day he completed satisfactorily on said assignment, and such allowance of earned time shall reduce the statutory time required for said inmate to become eligible for consideration for parole.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Mississippi to be affixed.

28 U.S. Code § 2241 - Power to grant writ

(a) Writs of habeas corpus may be granted by the Supreme Court, any justice thereof, the district courts and any circuit judge within their respective jurisdictions. The order of a circuit judge shall be entered in the records of the district court of the district wherein the restraint complained of is had.

(b) The Supreme Court, any justice thereof, and any circuit judge may decline to entertain an application for a writ of habeas corpus and may transfer the application for hearing and determination to the district court having jurisdiction to entertain it.

(c) The writ of habeas corpus shall not extend to a prisoner unless—

(1) He is in custody under or by color of the authority of the United States or is committed for trial before some court thereof; or

(2) He is in custody for an act done or omitted in pursuance of an Act of Congress, or an order, process, judgment or decree of a court or judge of the United States; or

(3) He is in custody in violation of the Constitution or laws or treaties of the United States; or

(4) He, being a citizen of a foreign state and domiciled therein is in custody for an act done or omitted under any alleged right, title, authority, privilege, protection, or exemption claimed under the commission, order or sanction of any foreign state, or under color thereof, the validity and effect of which depend upon the law of nations; or

(5) It is necessary to bring him into court to testify or for trial.

~~(d) Where an application for a writ of habeas corpus is made by a person in custody under the judgment and sentence of a State court of a State which contains two or more Federal judicial districts, the application may be filed in the district court for the district wherein such person is in custody or in the district court for the district within which the State court was held which convicted and sentenced him and each of such district courts shall have concurrent jurisdiction to entertain the application. The district court for the district wherein such an application is filed in the exercise of its discretion and in furtherance of justice may transfer the application to the other district court for hearing and determination.~~

(1) No court, justice, or judge shall have jurisdiction to hear or consider an application for a writ of habeas corpus filed by or on behalf of an alien detained by the United States who has been determined by the United States to have been properly detained as an enemy combatant or is awaiting such determination.

(2) Except as provided in paragraphs (2) and (3) of section 1005(e) of the Detainee Treatment Act of 2005 (10 U.S.C. 801 note), no court, justice, or judge shall have jurisdiction to hear or consider any other action against the United States or its agents relating to any aspect of the detention, transfer,

United States Code Service - Titles 1 through 54 > TITLE 28. JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE > PART VI. PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS > CHAPTER 161. UNITED STATES AS PARTY GENERALLY

§ 2403. Intervention by United States or a State; constitutional question

(a) In any action, suit or proceeding in a court of the United States to which the United States or any agency, officer or employee thereof is not a party, wherein the constitutionality of any Act of Congress affecting the public interest is drawn in question, the court shall certify such fact to the Attorney General, and shall permit the United States to intervene for presentation of evidence, if evidence is otherwise admissible in the case, and for argument on the question of constitutionality. The United States shall, subject to the applicable provisions of law, have all the rights of a party and be subject to all liabilities of a party as to court costs to the extent necessary for a proper presentation of the facts and law relating to the question of constitutionality.

(b) In any action, suit, or proceeding in a court of the United States to which a State or any agency, officer, or employee thereof is not a party, wherein the constitutionality of any statute of that State affecting the public interest is drawn in question, the court shall certify such fact to the attorney general of the State, and shall permit the State to intervene for presentation of evidence, if evidence is otherwise admissible in the case, and for argument on the question of constitutionality. The State shall, subject to the applicable provisions of law, have all the rights of a party and be subject to all liabilities of a party as to court costs to the extent necessary for a proper presentation of the facts and law relating to the question of constitutionality.

History

(June 25, 1948, ch 646, 62 Stat. 971; Aug. 12, 1976, P.L. 94-381, § 5, 90 Stat. 1120.)

Prior law and revision:

Based on title 28, U.S.C., 1940 ed., § 401 (Aug. 24, 1937, ch 754, § 1, 50 Stat. 751).

Word "action" was added before "suit or proceeding", in view of Rule 2 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

Since this section applies to all Federal courts, the word "suit" was not required to be deleted by such rule.

"Court of the United States" is defined in section 451 of this title. Direct appeal from decisions invalidating Acts of Congress is provided by section 1252 of this title.

Changes were made in phraseology.

United States Code Service - Titles 1 through 54 > TITLE 28. JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE > PART VI. PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS > CHAPTER 153. HABEAS CORPUS

§ 2244. Finality of determination

(a) No circuit or district judge shall be required to entertain an application for a writ of habeas corpus to inquire into the detention of a person pursuant to a judgment of a court of the United States if it appears that the legality of such detention has been determined by a judge or court of the United States on a prior application for a writ of habeas corpus, except as provided in section 2255 [28 USCS § 2255].

(b)

(1) A claim presented in a second or successive habeas corpus application under section 2254 [28 USCS § 2254] that was presented in a prior application shall be dismissed.

(2) A claim presented in a second or successive habeas corpus application under section 2254 [28 USCS § 2254] that was not presented in a prior application shall be dismissed unless—

(A) the applicant shows that the claim relies on a new rule of constitutional law, made retroactive to cases on collateral review by the Supreme Court, that was previously unavailable; or

(i) the factual predicate for the claim could not have been discovered previously through the exercise of due diligence; and

(ii) the facts underlying the claim, if proven and viewed in light of the evidence as a whole, would be sufficient to establish by clear and convincing evidence that, but for constitutional error, no reasonable factfinder would have found the applicant guilty of the underlying offense.)

(3) (A) Before a second or successive application permitted by this section is filed in the district court, the applicant shall move in the appropriate court of appeals for an order authorizing the district court to consider the application.

(B) A motion in the court of appeals for an order authorizing the district court to consider a second or successive application shall be determined by a three-judge panel of the court of appeals.

(C) The court of appeals may authorize the filing of a second or successive application only if it determines that the application makes a prima facie showing that the application satisfies the requirements of this subsection.

(D) The court of appeals shall grant or deny the authorization to file a second or successive application not later than 30 days after the filing of the motion.

(E) The grant or denial of an authorization by a court of appeals to file a second or successive application shall not be appealable and shall not be the subject of a petition for rehearing or for a writ of certiorari.

(4) A district court shall dismiss any claim presented in a second or successive application that the court of appeals has authorized to be filed unless the applicant shows that the claim satisfies the requirements of this section.

Appendix E-17

28 USCS § 2244

(c) In a habeas corpus proceeding brought in behalf of a person in custody pursuant to the judgment of a State court, a prior judgment of the Supreme Court of the United States on an appeal or review by a writ of certiorari at the instance of the prisoner of the decision of such State court, shall be conclusive as to all issues of fact or law with respect to an asserted denial of a Federal right which constitutes ground for discharge in a habeas corpus proceeding, actually adjudicated by the Supreme Court therein, unless the applicant for the writ of habeas corpus shall plead and the court shall find the existence of a material and controlling fact which did not appear in the record of the proceeding in the Supreme Court and the court shall further find that the applicant for the writ of habeas corpus could not have caused such fact to appear in such record by the exercise of reasonable diligence.

(d)(1) A 1-year period of limitation shall apply to an application for a writ of habeas corpus by a person in custody pursuant to the judgment of a State court. The limitation period shall run from the latest of—

(A) the date on which the judgment became final by the conclusion of direct review or the expiration of the time for seeking such review;

(B) the date on which the impediment to filing an application created by State action in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States is removed, if the applicant was prevented from filing by such State action;

(C) the date on which the constitutional right asserted was initially recognized by the Supreme Court, if the right has been newly recognized by the Supreme Court and made retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review; or

(D) the date on which the factual predicate of the claim or claims presented could have been discovered through the exercise of due diligence.

(2) The time during which a properly filed application for State post-conviction or other collateral review with respect to the pertinent judgment or claim is pending shall not be counted toward any period of limitation under this subsection.

History

Prior law and revision:

This section makes no material change in existing practice. Notwithstanding the opportunity open to litigants to abuse the writ, the courts have consistently refused to entertain successive "nuisance" applications for habeas corpus. It is derived from H. R. 4232 introduced in the first session of the Seventy-ninth Congress by Chairman Hatton Sumners of the Committee on the Judiciary and referred to that Committee.

The practice of suing out successive, repetitious, and unfounded writs of habeas corpus imposes an unnecessary burden on the courts. See Dorsey v Gill (1945) 148 F.2d 857, cert den 325 U.S. 890, 89 L.Ed. 2003, 65 S.Ct. 1580, in which Miller, J., notes that "petitions for the writ are used not only as they should be to protect unfortunate persons against miscarriages of justice, but also as a device for harassing court, custodial, and enforcement officers with a multiplicity of repetitious, meritless requests for relief. The most extreme example is that of a person who, between July 1, 1939, and April 1944, presented in the District Court 50 petitions for writs of habeas corpus; another person has presented 27 petitions; a third, 24; a fourth, 22; a fifth, 20. One hundred nineteen persons have presented 597 petitions—an average of 5."

This section was enacted as amended by the Senate with the following explanation:

"The amendment to section 2244 is proposed by the Judicial Conference of Senior Circuit Judges. The original language of the section denies to Federal judges the power to entertain an application for a writ of habeas corpus where the legality of the detention has been determined on a prior application for such a writ, and the later application presents no new grounds. The amendment proposed to modify this provision so that, while a judge need not entertain such a later application for the writ under such circumstances, he is not prohibited from doing so if in his discretion he thinks the ends of justice require its consideration.

Appendix E-18

"In view of the amendment which will permit a second application to be considered when the ends of justice require it, the original provision of the section, authorizing the judge who heard the original application to grant a rehearing thereof, is omitted by the amendment as unnecessary. Accordingly, the reference to rehearing in the catch line of the section is omitted."

(1) An inmate shall not be eligible for the earned time allowance if:

(a) The inmate was sentenced to life imprisonment; but an inmate, except an inmate sentenced to life imprisonment for capital murder, who has reached the age of sixty-five (65) or older and who has served at least fifteen (15) years may petition the sentencing court for Discharge Plan: Patient will be discharged when he is able to employ appropriate coping skills to manage mood instability, and no longer require psychotropic medications. Per patient's request, It should be noted in the discharge plan that patient is expected to take Haldol shots for remainder of life, will remain on treatment plan indefinitely.

Patient Strengths: Patient's strengths are identified as being flexible with situation changes, being "easily redirected," able to verbalize needs and wants, and having a 29 year uninterrupted history of medication compliance with Haldol decanoate shot "Which has brought about long-term remission, having maintained continuous treatment for approximately the last 44 years, from beginning of entry into prison, 1977, and has accepted responsibility for crime."

Patient Weaknesses: Patient's weakness is identified as having a "disease to please people," which has further alienated estranged family members.

Problem #1: Patient reports that he needs assistance with rebuilding his family relationships, due to the estrangement affecting his mood, and his family's reaction to his crime.

Goal: Short Term Goal: In 60 days, patient will be able to identify problems and strengths in at least one identified familial relationship, including his own role in it.

Long Term Goal: In 180 days, patient will develop the necessary skills for effective, and open communication.

Measurable Objectives: Patient will verbalize at least 3 appropriate communication skills that will assist him in improving his relationships with identified family members, over the next 30-60 days.

Interventions: Psychotropic medications will be prescribed, but per patient's request, no new psychotropic medications be added to current psychotropic medication regime "as long as I am medication compliant with current medications." In addition, 30-day Access to Care will be completed, individual sessions will be offered/scheduled to address issues regarding symptoms of mood, and individual will work with case manager to gain contact with siblings.

Patient Responsibilities: Patient will remain compliant with prescribed psychotropic medications, and will attend all psychiatric/MHP scheduled appointments.

To Whom It May Concern:

Re: John P. Alexander, #30021 - Unit 23

John has been under my care since I came to the Department as the Mississippi Department of Corrections Psychiatrist in July, 1989. Prior to his entry into the system John had been diagnosed as suffering from a _____ disorder and had been under treatment for that during his entire stay here in the prison. For several years now John has been treated with monthly injections of Haldol Decanoate. This is a long acting form of Haldol which is a anti-psychotic medication. The medication is suspended in oil which means that it is slowly absorbed and provides a therapeutic level of Haldol for a month at a time. John has been very faithful in taking his medication as ordered. He has done extremely well on this medication and as long as he continues to take his medicine I would anticipate that he will do fine wherever he is. One potential consequence of the medication is some possible liver damage however, we have monitored John for this problem and he has no evidence of liver damage up to this point. He is comfortable taking the medicine and I feel certain that he would continue to take the medication if he were back in the community.

If I can provide any additional information concerning inmate Alexander's condition or questions concerning the medication that he is taking, I will be glad to do so.

Sincerely,

Parchman Farm - Parchman

The Mississippi State Penitentiary at Parchman has inspired many songs, including "Parchman Farm Blues" by singer-guitarist Booker "Bukka" White, who was once an inmate here, and "Parchman Farm" by jazz singer-pianist Mose Allison. Folklorists from the Library of Congress and other institutions also came to Parchman beginning in the 1930s to document the pre-blues musical forms of field hollers and work songs, which survived here due to the prison's relative isolation from modern cultural influences.

Parchman Farm In 1900 the state of Mississippi began buying parcels of land near this site for a penitentiary and soon accumulated about 16,000 acres, over half of which had been owned by the Parchman family. For decades the prison operated essentially as a for-profit cotton plantation; prisoners grew their own food, made their own clothing, raised livestock, and even served as armed guards or "trusty shooters." The harsh working and living conditions made "Parchman Farm" notorious, but the state was later able to improve Parchman's image by implementing prison reforms.

Folklorists Alan Lomax, his father John A. Lomax, Herbert Halpert, and William Ferris found Parchman to be a rich repository of older musical traditions. Prisoners had little access to radio or records and, to help pace their labors and pass the day, often joined in work songs that had survived from earlier decades. Alan Lomax observed that such songs "revived flagging spirits, restored energy to failing bodies, [and] brought laughter to silent misery." The Lomaxes first visited Parchman in 1933 and returned numerous times to record blues, work songs, spirituals, and personal interviews with inmates. The unaccompanied vocals by female inmates recorded in the prison's sewing room in 1936 and 1939 have been cited by blues scholar Samuel Charters as an invaluable document of the way blues must have sounded in its earliest stages. Other notable recordings include a 1939 session with bluesman Booker "Bukka" White and a 1959 recording of James Carter's gospel song "Po Lazarus," which later appeared on the Grammy-winning soundtrack to the film O Brother, Where Art Thou?

White also recorded several memorable songs about his imprisonment, including "When Can I Change My Clothes" and "Parchman Farm Blues" in 1940, shortly after his release from Parchman. Other blues artists who served sentences here include R. L. Burnside, John "Big Bad Smitty" Smith, Terry "Big T" Williams, and, reportedly, Aleck "Rice" Miller (Sonny Boy Williamson No. 2), while songs with Parchman themes were recorded by Charley Patton, Wade Walton, and others. Mose Allison, who grew up in nearby Tippo, first recorded his "Parchman Farm" in 1957, and many artists including John Mayall and Johnny Winter later recorded it. Former rockabilly singer Wendell Cannon organized a prison band program here in 1960 and took groups consisting of trusty inmates to perform across the state for several decades. Blues artists who participated in the band program included David (Malone) Kimbrough, Jr., and Mark "Muleman" Massey.

EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 280

WHEREAS, on April 14 through 16, 1979, the Cities of Jackson and Flowood, Mississippi, were hit by severe flooding which caused great destruction of public and private property; and

WHEREAS, certain inmates at Mississippi State Penitentiary volunteered their assistance to the Penitentiary, Federal, State and Municipal authorities to alleviate the emergency conditions; and

WHEREAS, these inmates performed services to the Federal, State and Local governments which was a laborious task resulting in the restoration of levees, facilities, removal of debris and the saving of public funds; and

WHEREAS, the State's policy therefor is to encourage rehabilitation and a sense of public responsibility on the part of inmates and provide for the urgent need for assistance during an emergency situation; and

WHEREAS, these inmates who satisfactorily performed the aforesaid services should be compensated, and the best way to compensate them therefor is to grant a commutation and reduction of sentence commensurate with the volunteer work performed by them:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Cliff Finch, Governor of the State of Mississippi, pursuant to the authority vested in me by Article 5, Section 124, Mississippi Constitution of 1890, do hereby order as follows:

Any inmate of Mississippi State Penitentiary who volunteered and satisfactorily performed work under the above emergency conditions, as reflected by the work day schedule maintained by the Warden, is hereby granted thirty (30) days good time for every day he or she satisfactorily completed on said project, and such allowance of good time shall reduce the statutory time required for said inmate to become eligible for consideration for release.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto

EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 747

WHEREAS, during the month of February, 1994, freezing rain and sleet produced by a severe winter storm caused massive damage to the northern part of the State of Mississippi. The list of inmates who volunteered to participate in the cleanup work detail is attached to this Executive Order and made a part hereof.

WHEREAS, these inmates satisfactorily performed services for the citizens of Mississippi, and the State's policy is to encourage rehabilitation and a sense of public responsibility on the part of inmates, and to provide urgently needed assistance during emergency situations.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Kirk Fordice, Governor of the State of Mississippi, under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and applicable statutes of this State, do hereby grant to the individuals named on the attached list, as reflected by the work schedule maintained by the Commissioner of the Mississippi Department of Corrections, fifteen days executive good time for each day worked, not to exceed one hundred eighty (180) days. Persons under sentence for life are prohibited from having time applied toward parole eligibility.

All executive good time granted by this Order will count toward parole and/or discharge.

This executive good time is granted at the request of the Department of Corrections and is based upon the recommendation of the Commissioner of the Department of Corrections.

I authorize and direct you, upon receipt of this Order, to take notice and be governed accordingly.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Mississippi to be affixed.

Gangs running prisons

A dirty little secret is finally coming to light in our state: Mississippi's prisons are run by gangs. The Marshall Project, a non-profit group dedicated to reforming the criminal justice system through journalism, reports the warden of Wilkinson County Correctional System in Woodville, Mississippi, admitted that gangs are running that prison. This corroborates testimony in a recent federal trial that gangs are running the East Mississippi Correctional Facility.

The Marshall Project obtained an audit of the Wilkinson prison, which revealed that warden Joey Bradley responded to staffing shortage by turning to the gangs' leaders to maintain control of the prison. The report states: "Bradley's response to this problem, according to the audit: 'He speaks with the gang lords/leaders and asks them to control their men. If they do not control the individuals on the unit, the warden will place the unit on lockdown . . .

Using gangs this way is just how Mississippi prisons operate, the warden said: 'It ain't right, but it's the truth.' He told the auditors that the head of the criminal investigations division at the Mississippi Department of Corrections, who was not named, had encouraged him to partner with the gang leaders."

The private prison companies are making money by halving staff and letting the gangs keep order in return for the contraband franchise. One recent gang killing inside the Wilkinson prison was caught on camera. No one has been prosecuted.

This is a despicable practice unworthy of a civilized state. It is unconscionable for our state leaders to allow this to carry on. Even worse, by partnering with gangs, the government is legitimizing the gangs' power and gives gangs the ability to exercise control both inside and out of prison. The ultimate cost of this travesty will be far more than the cost of properly staffing and running our prisons in the first place.

Generational appreciation

Dear Editor:

An Open Letter to the Members of My Parents' Generation

Many of you came into this world in poverty during the economic crisis known as the Great Depression. At that time, the world had not yet seen the scientific advances which my generation takes for granted.

You were prepared by the Great Depression for the next crisis: World War II.

I can only imagine the depth of the suffering and sacrifices many of you endured: not only in the European and Pacific Theaters, but also on the home front.

Through this struggle, you saved the world for democracy; and you came back to the states to rear families.

After the War, in a real way, the world was your oyster. You had overcome, and you enjoyed the fruits of your labors.

Many of you were able to travel all over the world. On the basis of your triumph in World War II, Americans were respected around the globe.

Many of you went on to make economic fortunes. You enjoyed the best of scientific advances: big automobiles, home appliances, modern conveniences, battery operated toys for your children.

You made sure that the schools taught your children the ideals of democracy for which you fought, and for which many had died.

And when your children rebelled against you as "The Establishment," you bore it with dignity and patience. The ingratitude of my generation did not quench the tolerance and forbearance of parental love.

Through the Marshall Plan, you rebuilt the countries which you defeated. Through the Great Society, you provided for the less fortunate. You brought about prison reform, choosing to be kind to people who had hurt you.

When one of your presidents forsook the ideals of democracy, you put principle above filial loyalty and removed him from office.

When the Iranian students took over the American Embassy in Tehran, you were humbled; and you bore it with poise and patience. You put the value of human life above the value of your pride; and all of the hostages came home alive.

In the Cold War, you looked your adversary in the eye, and did not blink. And in the last 10 years, with the collapse of the communist regime in Eastern Europe, your generation once again saved the world for democracy.

The story of your generation is a story of triumph and tragedy: of exhilarating victories, and of defeats where you did lose many things of tremendous value.

Some of you may look on your life's work with a sense of mission; many of your children look on your lives' work with a sense of gratitude.

The torch has now passed to our generation. You have filled your unforgiving minute with 60 seconds' worth of distance run.

The children of your generation have the reins now. We have made some faltering starts; but you have taught us well: not only by what you have said, but by what you have done!

Jesus of Nazareth left the future of the Christian Church in the care and keeping of a small number of people. He prepared them well. They were able to carry on.

So will we be.

Well done, good and faithful servants!

John Peyton Alexander II
