v.

City of Madison, Wisconsin, et al.

The petition for a writ of certiorari is denied

(Rule 44. Rehearing)

The Federal Government with all the branches had discriminating against me and my child on the basis of my origin and they did prevent me from getting legal help or attorney .all the lawsuit in all the state courts and federal courts had been dismissed base on discriminating the soled evidence is the beaten of my child and I'm going to send the picture to the supreme court and the family court had proving the abuse of my child she was only 3 years old when she got beat on her right eye on front of her mom and I got beaten very badly from the Madison police department and the Madison police department did cover all the crimes and they did not give me all the videos .and all my lawsuit had evidences but the police and the city order the judges to dismissed my cases. and the prove they don't allow me to see my child unless I pay $ 50 dollars per hour to see my child and the law said I have the right to see my daughter if I pay child support and I do .and the police keep harassing me and intimidating me all the time even after I file mu lawsuit in supreme court and the prove I did ask for the name of officer he keep provoking me to attack him the Madison police department did not give his name or call me back and I have all the reports and the officer how beaten my child kraig kalka kept harassing me and intimidating me all the time until present . And the police told my bank uw credit union in Madison Wisconsin to make false transactions and to add more charges to my account to but presser on me to drop the lawsuit. For the foregoing reasons, the petition for rehearing should be granted.
