Gary Peel challenges the district court's denial of his petition for a writ of habeas corpus (and further denial of a post-judgment motion) under 28 U.S.C. §§ 2241 and 2255(e). We affirm, as Peel has no debatable argument that he qualifies for habeas corpus review.

Long ago, Peel had a sexual relationship with his then-wife's younger sister. When this sister-in-law was 16 years old, Peel took nude photos of her. At the time, pictures of a 16-year-old did not count as child pornography. But eventually child-pornography statutes were crafted to cover 16-year-olds, and Peel retained the photos.

Years passed. Decades after taking the pictures, Peel found himself in bankruptcy and divorce proceedings. Attempting to win concessions from the woman
