MEMORANDUM*

Appeal from the United States District Court for the District of Nevada
Andrew P. Gordon, District Judge, Presiding

Submitted March 31, 2021
San Francisco, California

Before: FERNANDEZ, SILVERMAN, and N.R. SMITH, Circuit Judges.

Nevada state prisoner Taniko C. Smith appeals from the district court's judgment denying his 28 U.S.C. § 2254 habeas corpus petition. We have

* This disposition is not appropriate for publication and is not precedent except as provided by Ninth Circuit Rule 36-3.

 The panel unanimously concludes this case is suitable for decision without oral argument. See Fed. R. App. P. 34(a)(2).

jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1291 and 2253. We review the district court's decision de novo, see Smith v. Ryan, 823 F.3d 1270, 1278 (9th Cir. 2016), and we affirm.

Smith contends that the aiding and abetting instruction given at his trial violated due process because it eliminated the specific intent element required to prove murder and attempted murder. Under the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act (AEDPA), we give considerable deference to state court decisions. Habeas relief may only be granted if the adjudication “resulted in a decision that was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court of the United States” or “resulted in a decision that was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the evidence presented in the state court proceeding.”¹ 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d); see also Harrington v. Richter, 562 U.S. 86, 100 (2011). Neither is present in this case. The challenged instruction amply informed the jury of the requisite mental state and did not have “the effect of relieving the State of the burden of proof” on this critical question. See Sandstrom v. Montana, 442 U.S. 510, 521 (1979); see also Waddington v. Sarausad, 555 U.S. 179, 190-92 (2009).

¹ Even if we were to agree with Smith that de novo review applied, his claim would still fail.

AFFIRMED.

Information Regarding Judgment and Post-Judgment ProceedingsJudgment

- This Court has filed and entered the attached judgment in your case. Fed. R. App. P. 36. Please note the filed date on the attached decision because all of the dates described below run from that date, not from the date you receive this notice.

Mandate (Fed. R. App. P. 41; 9th Cir. R. 41-1 & -2)

- The mandate will issue 7 days after the expiration of the time for filing a petition for rehearing or 7 days from the denial of a petition for rehearing, unless the Court directs otherwise. To file a motion to stay the mandate, file it electronically via the appellate ECF system or, if you are a pro se litigant or an attorney with an exemption from using appellate ECF, file one original motion on paper.

Petition for Panel Rehearing (Fed. R. App. P. 40; 9th Cir. R. 40-1)Petition for Rehearing En Banc (Fed. R. App. P. 35; 9th Cir. R. 35-1 to -3)*(1) A. Purpose (Panel Rehearing):

- A party should seek panel rehearing only if one or more of the following grounds exist:
 - ▶ A material point of fact or law was overlooked in the decision;
 - ▶ A change in the law occurred after the case was submitted which appears to have been overlooked by the panel; or
 - ▶ An apparent conflict with another decision of the Court was not addressed in the opinion.
- Do not file a petition for panel rehearing merely to reargue the case.

B. Purpose (Rehearing En Banc)

- A party should seek en banc rehearing only if one or more of the following grounds exist:

- ▶ Consideration by the full Court is necessary to secure or maintain uniformity of the Court's decisions; or
- ▶ The proceeding involves a question of exceptional importance; or
- ▶ The opinion directly conflicts with an existing opinion by another court of appeals or the Supreme Court and substantially affects a rule of national application in which there is an overriding need for national uniformity.

(2) Deadlines for Filing:

- A petition for rehearing may be filed within 14 days after entry of judgment. Fed. R. App. P. 40(a)(1).
- If the United States or an agency or officer thereof is a party in a civil case, the time for filing a petition for rehearing is 45 days after entry of judgment. Fed. R. App. P. 40(a)(1).
- If the mandate has issued, the petition for rehearing should be accompanied by a motion to recall the mandate.
- See Advisory Note to 9th Cir. R. 40-1 (petitions must be received on the due date).
- An order to publish a previously unpublished memorandum disposition extends the time to file a petition for rehearing to 14 days after the date of the order of publication or, in all civil cases in which the United States or an agency or officer thereof is a party, 45 days after the date of the order of publication. 9th Cir. R. 40-2.

(3) Statement of Counsel

- A petition should contain an introduction stating that, in counsel's judgment, one or more of the situations described in the "purpose" section above exist. The points to be raised must be stated clearly.

(4) Form & Number of Copies (9th Cir. R. 40-1; Fed. R. App. P. 32(c)(2))

- The petition shall not exceed 15 pages unless it complies with the alternative length limitations of 4,200 words or 390 lines of text.
- The petition must be accompanied by a copy of the panel's decision being challenged.
- An answer, when ordered by the Court, shall comply with the same length limitations as the petition.
- If a pro se litigant elects to file a form brief pursuant to Circuit Rule 28-1, a petition for panel rehearing or for rehearing en banc need not comply with Fed. R. App. P. 32.

- The petition or answer must be accompanied by a Certificate of Compliance found at Form 11, available on our website at www.ca9.uscourts.gov under Forms.
- You may file a petition electronically via the appellate ECF system. No paper copies are required unless the Court orders otherwise. If you are a pro se litigant or an attorney exempted from using the appellate ECF system, file one original petition on paper. No additional paper copies are required unless the Court orders otherwise.

Bill of Costs (Fed. R. App. P. 39, 9th Cir. R. 39-1)

- The Bill of Costs must be filed within 14 days after entry of judgment.
- See Form 10 for additional information, available on our website at www.ca9.uscourts.gov under Forms.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

DISTRICT OF NEVADA

TANIKO C. SMITH,

Case No.: 2:12-cv-00952-APG-VCF

Petitioner

Order

V.

BRIAN E. WILLIAMS, SR., et al.,

Respondents.

9 Taniko C. Smith, a Nevada prisoner, filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus under 28
10 U.S.C. § 2254. I deny Smith's habeas petition, grant him a certificate of appealability, and direct 11 the Clerk of the Court to enter judgment accordingly.

12 | I. BACKGROUND

13 In my previous order, dated September 30, 2015, I described the crime as revealed by the 14 evidence at Smith's trial as follows:

15 Petitioner and three others robbed Christopher Brown and Mario Wesley in the 16 parking lot of a restaurant. Brown grabbed his gun, shot at the robbers, in turn was 17 shot through the legs, and fled. Wesley laid on the ground pleading for his life.
18 Petitioner and the three others started walking away. One of the other robbers, Richard Gaston, turned around and shot Wesley. Petitioner stood by while this happened. Then all four together walked away from the restaurant. Wesley later died.

19 ECF No. 54 at 6 (citing ECF No. 39 at 59-60). Following a jury trial, Smith was found guilty of 20 first-degree murder with the use of a deadly weapon, attempted murder with the use of a deadly 21 weapon, two counts of robbery with the use of a deadly weapon, and attempted robbery with the 22 use of a deadly weapon. ECF No. 40-10. The Nevada Supreme Court affirmed Smith's 23 convictions on December 3, 1998. ECF No. 41-3.

1 Smith filed a federal habeas petition on December 2, 1999, case number CV-S-99-1691-
2 PMP-LRL. ECF No. 41-5. This court dismissed the petition because Smith had not exhausted
3 his available state-court remedies. ECF No. 41-10. Smith filed a state habeas petition on October
4 30, 2000. ECF No. 41-13, 41-14, 41-17. The state district court denied Smith's petition, and the 5 Nevada Supreme Court affirmed, determining that the petition was untimely under Nev. Rev.
6 Stat. § 34.726(1). ECF No. 41-26, 41-27.

7 On January 30, 2002, Smith filed another state habeas petition. ECF No. 41-29, 42. The 8 state district court denied the petition, and the Nevada Supreme Court affirmed, again
9 determining that the petition was untimely. ECF No. 42-11, 42-18. The Nevada Supreme Court
10 denied rehearing on May 13, 2003. ECF No. 42-20.

11 While Smith's second state habeas petition was pending, he filed another federal habeas 12 petition in this court on March 26, 2002, case number CV-N-02-0121-HDM-VPC. ECF No. 42-
13 4. This court appointed the Federal Public Defender to represent Smith. ECF No. 42-3. Smith
14 filed a counseled, amended petition, and the respondents moved to dismiss. ECF No. 42-13, 42-
15 15. This court determined that the petition was untimely under 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d) and denied a 16 certificate of appealability. ECF No. 43, 43-4. The Ninth Circuit denied a certificate of 17 appealability. ECF No. 43-6.

18 On April 8, 2005, Smith moved to correct an illegal sentence in the state district court.
19 ECF No. 43-8. The state district court denied the motion. ECF No. 43-11. The Nevada Supreme 20 Court affirmed, noting that Smith's arguments were outside the narrow scope allowed for such a 21 motion, that the doctrine of the law of the case prevented further litigation of the issues raised by 22 Smith, and that Smith's claims did not appear to implicate the jurisdiction of the state district
23 court. ECF No. 43-13.

1 Smith filed another federal habeas petition on January 25, 2006, case number 3:06-cv-
2 00003-RCJ-VPC. ECF No. 43-15. This court dismissed the action as successive under 28 U.S.C.
3 § 2244(b). ECF No. 43-17. The Ninth Circuit denied Smith's application for authorization to file
4 a successive federal habeas petition. ECF No. 43-20. On August 14, 2006, Smith filed another
5 federal habeas petition, case number 06-cv-00976-RCJ-RJJ. ECF No. 43-21. The respondents
6 moved to dismiss the petition. ECF No. 44-1. This court granted the motion. ECF No. 44-13.

7 On January 31, 2007, Smith filed another state habeas petition. ECF No. 44. The state
8 district court granted Smith's petition, overturning his convictions for murder and attempted 9 murder and vacating his sentence. ECF No. 44-6. The state district court entered an amended
10 judgment of conviction on August 21, 2007. ECF No. 44-5. On January 20, 2009, the Nevada
11 Supreme Court reversed and remanded, finding that the petition was untimely under Nev. Rev.
12 Stat. § 34.726 and that Smith had not shown good cause to excuse the procedural defect. ECF
13 No. 44-14. The Nevada Supreme Court denied rehearing and en banc reconsideration. ECF No.
14 44-16, 44-19. The United States Supreme Court denied Smith's petition for a writ of certiorari.
15 ECF No. 45-3.

16 On July 2, 2009, before the state district court did anything on the remand, Smith asked 17 the Ninth Circuit for authorization to file a successive petition, case number 09-72049. ECF No.
18 45. The Ninth Circuit denied the application on January 20, 2010. ECF No. 45-5. On March 14, 19 2012, the state district court entered a second amended judgment of conviction, reinstating the 20 convictions and sentences for first-degree murder and attempted murder. ECF No. 45-6. Smith
21 appealed, and the Nevada Supreme Court affirmed on May 15, 2013. ECF No. 46-3.

1 Smith filed another federal habeas petition on April 5, 2012, case number 2:12-cv-00570-
2 GMN-PAL. ECF No. 45-8. This court dismissed the petition without prejudice due to Smith's 3 failure to submit an in forma pauperis application. ECF No. 45-9.

4 Smith's current federal habeas petition was filed on August 8, 2012. ECF No. 5. Smith
5 moved to amend this petition on August 17, 2012. ECF No. 6. The respondents opposed the 6 motion arguing, among other things, that this petition was successive. ECF No. 9-1. This court
7 issued an order on August 23, 2012, for Smith to show cause why his present petition should not
8 be dismissed as a successive petition due to his failure to first obtain an order from the Ninth
9 Circuit authorizing this court to consider the petition. ECF No. 11. Smith responded to the order
10 to show cause on September 4, 2012. ECF No. 13. On April 11, 2013, this court found that 11 Smith had shown good cause not to dismiss his petition for being successive; however, this 12 court's review of the state-court dockets revealed the possibility that this action was premature 13 and unexhausted. ECF No. 14. Thus, this court issued another order to show cause why this 14 court should not dismiss the action for lack of exhaustion. Id. Thereafter, this action was 15 reassigned to me for all further proceedings. ECF No. 17.

16 Smith moved to stay the proceedings, for a status check, for clarification, for the 17 appointment of counsel, and to lift the stay. ECF No. 15, 24, 25, 26, 27. The respondents moved 18 for reconsideration of the April 11, 2013 order. ECF No. 19. On May 28, 2014, I denied the 19 respondents' motion for reconsideration, granted Smith's previous motion to amend, appointed 20 counsel for Smith, and denied Smith's motions for a stay, for a status check, for clarification, and 21 to lift the stay. ECF No. 29. I also explained that the question of exhaustion was no longer an 22 issue following the Nevada Supreme Court's order dated May 15, 2013. Id.

1 Smith filed a counseled, amended petition and an errata to the amended petition on 2 November 17, 2014, and December 5, 2014, respectively. ECF No. 35, 47. The respondents
3 moved to dismiss Smith's amended petition. ECF No. 49. On September 30, 2015, I granted the 4 motion, dismissed the action with prejudice as untimely, and directed the clerk of the court to 5 close this action. ECF No. 54. In my analysis of whether Smith established actual innocence to 6 excuse a violation of the statute of limitations, I concluded that the aiding and abetting jury
7 instruction used at Smith's trial complied with Sharma v. State, 118 Nev. 648, 56 P.3d 868
8 (2002). Id. at 5. Judgment was entered in favor of the respondents. ECF No. 55.

9 Smith appealed. ECF No. 56. On September 8, 2017, the Ninth Circuit reversed the 10 dismissal of the petition, holding that "whenever there is a new judgment by the state court, the 11 procedural limitation on second or successive habeas petitions under AEDPA applies anew."
12 ECF No. 62 at 7. The Ninth Circuit remanded the matter for further proceedings. Id. at 11. The 13 Ninth Circuit also indicated that "[t]here is no procedural hurdle to Smith's making his Sharma
14 claims on the merits," and if I "reject[] that claim on the merits, Smith will then have the 15 opportunity to appeal that decision." Id. at 11.

16 Smith moved for dismissal of Ground Two and Ground Three of his amended petition.
17 ECF No. 66. I granted the motion. ECF No. 67. Accordingly, Smith's amended petition
18 contains only a single remaining ground: the aiding and abetting jury instruction used at his trial
19 violated Sharma. ECF No. 35. The respondents answered this remaining ground (ECF No. 76)
20 and Smith filed a reply (ECF No. 79).

21 II. STANDARD OF REVIEW

22 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d) sets forth the standard of review generally applicable in habeas 23 corpus cases under the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act ("AEDPA"):

1 An application for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of a person in custody pursuant 2 to the judgment of a State court shall not be granted with respect to any claim that 3 was adjudicated on the merits in State court proceedings unless the adjudication of 4 the claim –

5 (1) resulted in a decision that was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application
6 of, clearly established Federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court of the 7 United States; or

8 (2) resulted in a decision that was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts
9 in light of the evidence presented in the State court proceeding.

10 A state court decision is contrary to clearly established Supreme Court precedent, within the 11 meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 2254, “if the state court applies a rule that contradicts the governing 12 law set forth in [the Supreme Court’s] cases” or “if the state court confronts a set of facts that 13 are materially indistinguishable from a decision of [the Supreme] Court.” Lockyer v. Andrade, 14 538 U.S. 63, 73 (2003) (quoting Williams v. Taylor, 529 U.S. 362, 405-06 (2000), and citing 15 Bell v. Cone, 535 U.S. 685, 694 (2002)). A state court decision is an unreasonable application 16 of clearly established Supreme Court precedent within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d) “if 17 the state court identifies the correct governing legal principle from [the Supreme] Court’s
18 decisions but unreasonably applies that principle to the facts of the prisoner’s case.” Id. at 75
19 (quoting Williams, 529 U.S. at 413). “The ‘unreasonable application’ clause requires the state court decision to be more than incorrect or erroneous. The state court’s application of clearly established law must be objectively unreasonable.” Id. (quoting Williams, 529 U.S. at 409-10) (internal citation omitted).

20 The Supreme Court has instructed that “[a] state court’s determination that a claim lacks 21 merit precludes federal habeas relief so long as ‘fairminded jurists could disagree’ on the 22 correctness of the state court’s decision.” Harrington v. Richter, 562 U.S. 86, 101 (2011) (citing 23 Yarborough v. Alvarado, 541 U.S. 652, 664 (2004)). The Supreme Court has stated “that even a

1 strong case for relief does not mean the state court's contrary conclusion was unreasonable." Id.
2 at 102 (citing Lockyer, 538 U.S. at 75); see also Cullen v. Pinholster, 563 U.S. 170, 181 (2011)
3 (describing the standard as a "difficult to meet" and "highly deferential standard for evaluating 4 state-court rulings, which demands that state-court decisions be given the benefit of the doubt"
5 (internal quotation marks and citations omitted)).

6 III. DISCUSSION

7 Smith argues that his federal constitutional rights were violated when the jury convicted
8 him under a faulty aiding and abetting liability theory that did not require the State to prove all 9 the elements of the crime. ECF No. 35 at 10. Specifically, Smith contends the aiding and 10 abetting jury instruction improperly failed to provide that the State must prove that he had the 11 specific intent to commit murder and attempted murder; rather, the instruction only contained a 12 general intent requirement. Id. at 12; ECF No. 79 at 20. Smith contends that this error cannot 13 be considered harmless because the evidence did not demonstrate his guilt for murder and 14 attempted murder under any of the three alternative theories of liability. ECF No. 35 at 14-16.
15 Contrarily, the respondents argue that the aiding and abetting jury instruction required the jury 16 to find specific intent and that any error was harmless because there was sufficient evidence of 17 Smith's specific intent to convict him of murder and attempted murder. ECF No. 76 at 5-6.

18 In the State's appeal of the order granting Smith's state habeas petition, the Nevada
19 Supreme Court held:

20 In his petition, respondent asserted that his convictions for murder with the use of 21 a deadly weapon and attempted murder with the use of a deadly weapon were based 22 on aiding and abetting jury instructions that violated Sharma v. State. He claimed 23 that this court's decision in Mitchell v. State, which held that Sharma should be applied retroactively, constituted good cause for his failure to raise this claim in a timely petition.

1 We conclude that the district court erred in finding that respondent demonstrated 2 good cause sufficient to excuse his procedural defects. In Sharma, we rejected the 3 natural and probable consequences doctrine and held that “in order for a person to 4 be held accountable for the specific intent crime of another under an aiding and 5 abetting theory of principal liability, the aider and abettor must have knowingly 6 aided the other person with the intent that the other person commit the charged 7 crime.” In Mitchell, this court held that Sharma was a clarification of the law. As 8 Sharma reflects a clarification of the law, the underlying reasoning in Sharma 9 existed at the time of respondent’s trial and presented a basis for which appellant could have presented a claim on direct appeal. Additionally, respondent failed to establish prejudice. The jury was not instructed in accordance with the natural and probable consequences doctrine. Rather, the jury was properly instructed “[a] person aids and abets the commission of a crime if he knowingly and with criminal intent aids, promotes, encourages or instigates by act or advice, the commission of such crime.” Therefore, we conclude that the district court erred in finding that respondent established good cause and prejudice to excuse the filing of an untimely habeas petition.

10 ECF No. 44-14 at 3-6. The Nevada Supreme Court’s ruling regarding the merits of Smith’s 11 claim was reasonable.

12 The Amended Indictment accused Smith of murder with the use of a deadly weapon
13 “under the following theories of criminal liability, to-wit: (1) Premeditation; (2) Felony 14 Murder . . . ; (3) Aiding or Abetting.” ECF No. 36-14 at 2-3. The Amended Indictment also 15 accused Smith of attempted murder with the use of a deadly weapon and provided that Smith, his 16 co-defendant Richard Gaston, Darnell Robinson, and Rodney Harris “aid[ed] or abet[ed] each 17 other by counsel and encouragement and by entering into a course of conduct.” Id. at 3. The jury 18 was instructed regarding aiding and abetting as follows:

19 Where two or more persons are accused of committing a crime together, their guilt 20 may be established without proof that each personally did every act constituting the offense charged.

21 All persons concerned in the commission of a crime who either directly or actively 22 commit the act constituting the offense or who knowingly and with criminal intent aid and abet in its commission or, whether present or not, who advise and encourage 23 its commission, are regarded by the law as principals in the crime thus committed and are equally guilty thereof.

1 A person aids and abets the commission of a crime if he knowingly and with 2 criminal intent aids, promotes, encourages or instigates by act or advice, or by act and advice, the commission of such crime.

3 The state is not required to prove precisely which defendant actually committed the 4 crime and which defendant aided and abetted.

5 ECF No. 40-2 at 55 (Jury Instruction No. 44). Regarding intent generally, the jury was 6 instructed: “[i]ntent refers only to the state of mind with which the act is done.” Id. at 22. The 7 jury found Smith guilty of murder with the use of a deadly weapon and attempted murder with 8 the use of a deadly weapon. ECF No. 40-3 at 2-3. The jury’s reliance on a particular theory of 9 liability is unclear. Cf. Hedgpeth v. Pulido, 555 U.S. 57, 58 (2008) (“A conviction based on a 10 general verdict is subject to challenge if the jury was instructed on alternative theories of guilt
11 and may have relied on an invalid one.”). The jury later confirmed that its verdict for murder 12 with the use of a deadly weapon was first-degree murder. ECF No. 40-4 at 10-11.

13 Issues relating to jury instructions are not cognizable in federal habeas corpus unless they 14 violate due process. Estelle v. McGuire, 502 U.S. 62, 72 (1991); see also Gilmore v. Taylor, 508
15 U.S. 333, 342 (1993) (“[W]e have never said that the possibility of a jury misapplying state law 16 gives rise to federal constitutional error.”). The question is “‘whether the ailing instruction by 17 itself so infected the entire trial that the resulting conviction violates due process’, . . . not merely 18 whether ‘the instruction is undesirable, erroneous, or even universally condemned.’” Henderson
19 v. Kibbe, 431 U.S. 145, 154 (1977) (quoting Cupp v. Naughten, 414 U.S. 141, 146-47 (1973)).
20 Furthermore, jurors are presumed to follow the instructions that they are given. United States v.
21 Olano, 507 U.S. 725, 740 (1993). Even if an instruction contains constitutional errors, the court
22 must then “apply the harmless-error analysis mandated by Brecht v. Abrahamson, 507 U.S. 619
23

1 (1993)].” Calderon v. Coleman, 525 U.S. 141, 146 (1998). The question is whether the error had 2 a “substantial and injurious effect or influence in determining the jury’s verdict.” Id. at 145.

3 At the time of Smith’s trial in 1996, the law in Nevada on the mental state required to 4 convict an aider or abettor was inconsistent. See Sharma v. State, 56 P.3d 868, 872 (Nev.
5 2002). “In one line of cases, for example, [the Nevada Supreme Court] required the State to 6 show that the defendant knowingly and intentionally aided another to commit the charged 7 crime.” Id. (citing Tanksley v. State, 944 P.2d 240 (Nev. 1997), as an illustrative example of 8 this line of cases). Following Smith’s trial, in 1998, the Nevada Supreme Court abandoned this 9 line of cases and instead adopted the “natural and probable consequences doctrine,” which held 10 “aiders and abettors . . . criminally responsible for all harms that [we]re a natural, probable, and 11 foreseeable result of their actions.” Mitchell v. State, 971 P.2d 813, 820 (Nev. 1998), overruled
12 in relevant part by Sharma, 56 P.3d at 872. Years later in 2002, the Nevada Supreme Court 13 stepped back from Mitchell and narrowed the definition of aiding and abetting by holding that 14 “in order for a person to be held accountable for the specific intent crime of another under an 15 aiding or abetting theory of principal liability, the aider or abettor must have knowingly aided 16 the other person with the intent that the other person commit the charged crime.” Sharma, 56
17 P.3d at 872; see also Bolden v. State, 124 P.3d 191, 200-01 (Nev. 2005) (holding that “a 18 defendant may not be held criminally liable for the specific intent crime committed by a 19 coconspirator simply because that crime was a natural and probable consequence of the object 20 of the conspiracy”), overruled on other grounds by Cortinas v. State, 195 P.3d 315, 324 (Nev.
21 2008). First degree murder and attempted murder are specific-intent crimes. See Keys v. State, 22 766 P.2d 270, 273 (Nev. 1988); Hancock v. State, 397 P.2d 181, 182 (Nev. 1964).

1 The heart of Smith's argument is that a petitioner's due process rights are violated if a 2 jury instruction "ha[s] the effect of relieving the State of the burden of proof enunciated in 3 Winship on the critical question of petitioner's state of mind." Sandstrom v. Montana, 442 U.S.
4 510, 521 (1979); see also In re Winship, 397 U.S. 358, 364 (1970) ("[T]he Due Process Clause
5 protects the accused against conviction except upon proof beyond a reasonable doubt of every 6 fact necessary to constitute the crime with which he is charged."); Evanchyk v. Stewart, 340 F.3d
7 933, 939 (9th Cir. 2003) ("It is a violation of due process for a jury instruction to omit an 8 element of the crime."). The issue at hand is whether Jury Instruction No. 44 ran afoul of 9 Sharma by eliminating the requirement that the jury find that Smith had the requisite mental 10 state, thus violating his due process rights. It did not.

11 The Nevada Supreme Court held that Sharma "applies to cases that were final [at the 12 time] it was decided" because "Sharma was a clarification of the law, not a new rule." Mitchell v.
13 State, 149 P.3d 33, 38-39 (Nev. 2006).¹ Because Sharma merely clarified the law, its 14 renouncement of the "natural and probable consequences doctrine" signaled a return to the line
15 of cases, illustrated by Tanksley, that "required the State to show that the defendant knowingly 16 and intentionally aided another to commit the charged crime." Sharma, 56 P.3d at 871. Jury
17 Instruction No. 44's language mirrors this requirement: "A person aids and abets the commission 18 of a crime if he knowingly and with criminal intent aids, promotes, encourages or instigates by

20 ¹ Smith argues that "[t]he Nevada Supreme Court found a Sharma violation based on 21 the[] instructions in Mitchell," which were identical to the instructions used in his case. ECF No.
22 79 at 19-20. However, the Nevada Supreme Court merely concluded that Sharma "applied to 23 Mitchell," and "under Sharma, Mitchell should not have been convicted of attempted murder as an aider or abettor unless he . . . had the specific intent that [the victim] be killed." Mitchell, 149
P.3d at 38. The Nevada Supreme Court then vacated the conviction in Mitchell because the State
"acknowledged that Mitchell did not have the specific intent to kill." Id. The Nevada Supreme Court did not analyze the instructions used in Mitchell.

1 act or advice, or by act and advice, the commission of such crime.” ECF No. 40-2 at 55.
2 Accordingly, as I held previously, “the instruction actually given at trial satisfies the 3 requirements of Sharma.” ECF No. 54 at 6. The Nevada Supreme Court, the final arbiter of the 4 Nevada law reflected in the jury instruction, read the instruction in the same way. ECF No. 44-14
5 at 5. Because Smith fails to establish that the jury instructions “so infected the entire trial that 6 the resulting conviction violates due process” (Henderson, 431 U.S. at 154), the Nevada
7 Supreme Court’s ruling was not contrary to, or an unreasonable application of, clearly
8 established federal law as determined by the Supreme Court. 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d). I deny Smith
9 habeas corpus relief.²

10 The standard for the issuance of a certificate of appealability requires a “substantial 11 showing of the denial of a constitutional right.” 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c). “Where a district court has 12 rejected the constitutional claims on the merits, the showing required to satisfy § 2253(c) is 13 straightforward: The petitioner must demonstrate that reasonable jurists would find the district
14 court’s assessment of the constitutional claims debatable or wrong.” Slack v. McDaniel, 529 U.S.
15 473, 484 (2000); see also James v. Giles, 221 F.3d 1074, 1077-79 (9th Cir. 2000).

16 Reasonable jurists could debate my conclusion that Smith's due process rights were not 17 violated. The Nevada Supreme Court explained that Sharma was not a new rule. But its 18 ultimate holding in Sharma was a retreat to an earlier line of cases and might be read to establish 19 a narrower requirement than some of those earlier cases regarding the mental state required to 20 convict an aider and abettor of a specific-intent crime. Compare Sharma, 56 P.3d at 871

22 ² Smith argues I should conduct an evidentiary hearing to properly review this claim.
23 ECF No. 79 at 26. Because I decided this claim based on a legal issue such that a harmless-error analysis and a review of the facts is unnecessary, further factual development is also unnecessary. See 28 U.S.C. § 2254(e)(2).

1 (explaining that “[i]n one line of cases” before the adoption of the natural and probable
2 consequences doctrine, the law “required the State to show that the defendant knowingly and 3 intentionally aided another to commit the charged crime”), with Sharma, 56 P.3d at 871
4 (“hold[ing] that in order for a person to be held accountable for the specific intent crime of 5 another under an aiding or abetting theory of principal liability, the aider or abettor must have 6 knowingly aided the other person with the intent that the other person commit the charged
7 crime.” (Emphasis added)). Because Jury Instruction No. 44 did not contain the additional intent
8 language, reasonable jurists could find debatable my conclusion that Smith’s due process rights
9 were not violated. See Nelson v. State, 123 Nev. 534, 548-49, 170 P.3d 517, 527 (2007)
10 (impliedly affirming the following jury instruction: “A person aids and abets the commission of a 11 crime if he knowingly and with criminal intent aids, promotes, encourages or instigates by act or 12 advice, or by act and advice, the commission of such crime with the intention that the crime be 13 committed” (emphasis added)). Accordingly, I grant Smith a certificate of appealability.

14 V. CONCLUSION

15 I THEREFORE ORDER that the First Amended Petition for a Writ of Habeas Corpus by 16 a Person in State Custody Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2254 (ECF No. 35) is DENIED.

17 I FURTHER ORDER that Smith is granted a certificate of appealability.

18 I FURTHER ORDER the Clerk of the Court to enter judgment accordingly.

ORDER OF REVERSAL AND REMAND

This is the State's appeal from an order of the district court granting respondent's post-conviction petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Eighth Judicial District Court, Clark County; Lee A. Gates, Judge.

On May 2, 1997, the district court convicted respondent, pursuant to a jury verdict, of one count of first-degree murder with the use of a deadly weapon (Count 1), one count of attempted murder with the use of a deadly weapon (Count 2), two counts of robbery with the use of a deadly weapon (Counts 3 and 4), and one count of attempted robbery with the use of a deadly weapon (Count 5). The district court sentenced respondent to serve two equal and consecutive terms of life in the Nevada State Prison without the possibility of parole for Count 1 with additional terms totaling sixty years for the remaining counts. This court dismissed respondent's direct appeal.¹ The remittitur issued on December 22, 1998.

¹Smith v. State, Docket No. 30243 (Order Dismissing Appeal, December 3, 1998).

On October 30, 2000, respondent filed a proper person post-conviction petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the district court. On January 31, 2001, the district court denied respondent's petition as untimely. This court affirmed the district court's order on appeal.²

On January 30, 2002, respondent filed a second proper person post-conviction petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the district court. On July 10, 2002, the district court denied respondent's petition as untimely after conducting an evidentiary hearing. This court affirmed the district court's order on appeal.³

On February 23, 2005, respondent filed a motion to correct an illegal sentence in the district court. The district court denied the motion on May 18, 2005. This court affirmed the district court's order on appeal.⁴

On January 31, 2007, respondent, through counsel, filed a post-conviction petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the district court. The State opposed the petition arguing that it was untimely filed. In addition, the State specifically pleaded laches. The district court did not conduct an evidentiary hearing. However, on August 21, 2007, the district court granted respondent's petition and vacated respondent's convictions for murder with the use of a deadly weapon and attempted murder with the use of a deadly weapon. This appeal followed.

The State argues that the district court erred in finding that respondent demonstrated good cause to excuse his delay in filing the petition.

Respondent filed his petition more than 7 years after this court issued the remittitur from his direct appeal. Thus, respondent's petition was untimely filed.⁵ Respondent's petition was procedurally barred absent a demonstration of good cause and prejudice.⁶

In his petition, respondent asserted that his convictions for murder with the use of a deadly weapon and attempted murder with the use of a deadly weapon were based on aiding and abetting jury instructions that violated Sharma v. State.⁷ He claimed that this court's decision in Mitchell v. State,⁸ which held that Sharma should be applied retroactively, constituted good cause for his failure to raise this claim in a timely petition.

We conclude that the district court erred in finding that respondent demonstrated good cause sufficient to excuse his procedural defects. In Sharma, we rejected the natural and probable consequences doctrine and held that “in order for a person to be held accountable for the specific intent crime of another under an aiding and abetting theory of principal liability, the aider and abettor must have knowingly aided the other person with the intent that the other person commit the charged crime.”⁹ In Mitchell, this court held that Sharma was a clarification of the law.¹⁰ As Sharma reflects a clarification of the law, the underlying reasoning in Sharma existed at the time of respondent’s trial and presented a basis for which appellant could have presented a claim on direct appeal.¹¹ Additionally, respondent failed to establish prejudice. The jury was not instructed in accordance with the natural and probable consequences doctrine. Rather, the jury was properly instructed “[a] person aids and abets the commission of a crime if he knowingly and with criminal intent aids, promotes, encourages or instigates by act or advice, the commission of such crime.” Therefore, we conclude that the district court erred in finding that respondent established good cause and

2 The evidence which you are to consider in this case consists of the testimony of the 3 witnesses, the exhibits, and any facts admitted or agreed to by counsel.

4 There are two types of evidence; direct and circumstantial. Direct evidence is the 5 testimony of a person who claims to have personal knowledge of the commission of the crime
6 which has been charged, such as an eyewitness. Circumstantial evidence is the proof of a chain
7 of facts and circumstances which tend to show whether the Defendant is guilty or not guilty.
8 The law makes no distinction between the weight to be given either direct or circumstantial
9 evidence. Therefore, all of the evidence in the case, including the circumstantial evidence, 10 should be considered by you in arriving at your verdict.

11 Statements, arguments and opinions of counsel are not evidence in the case. However,
12 if the attorneys stipulate to the existence of a fact, you must accept the stipulation as evidence 13 and regard that fact as proved.

14 You must not speculate to be true any insinuations suggested by a question asked a 15 witness. A question is not evidence and may be considered only as it supplies meaning to the 16 answer.

17 You must disregard any evidence to which an objection was sustained by the court and 18 any evidence ordered stricken by the court.

19 Anything you may have seen or heard outside the courtroom is not evidence and must 20 also be disregarded.

2 The credibility or believability of a witness should be determined by his manner upon the 3 stand, his relationship to the parties, his fears, motives, interests or feelings, his opportunity to 4 have observed the matter to which he testified, the reasonableness of his statements and the 5 strength or weakness of his recollections.

6 If you believe that a witness has lied about any material fact in the case, you may 7 disregard the entire testimony of that witness or any portion of his testimony which is not proved

2 The Defendant is presumed innocent until the contrary is proved. This presumption
3 places upon the State the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt every material element
4 of the crime charged and that the Defendant is the person who committed the offense.

5 A reasonable doubt is one based on reason. It is not mere possible doubt but is such a 6 doubt as would govern or control a person in the more weighty affairs of life. If the minds of 7 the jurors, after the entire comparison and consideration of all the evidence, are in such a 8 condition that they can say they feel an abiding conviction of the truth of the charge, there is not 9 a reasonable doubt. Doubt to be reasonable must be actual, not mere possibility or speculation.

10 If you have a reasonable doubt as to the guilt of the Defendant, he is entitled to a verdict 11 of not guilty.

If, during your deliberation, you should desire to be further informed on any point of law or hear again portions of the testimony, you must reduce your request to writing signed by the foreperson. The officer will then return you to court where the information sought will be given you in the presence of, and after notice to, the district attorney and the Defendant and his counsel.

7 Readbacks of testimony are time-consuming and are not encouraged unless you deem it
8 a necessity. Should you require a readback, you must carefully describe the testimony to be read

2 To constitute the crimes charged, there must exist a union or joint operation of an act

7 instantaneous as successive thoughts of the mind. If the jury believes from the evidence
8 that the act constituting the killing was preceded by and is the result of premeditation, no 9 matter how rapidly the premeditation is followed by the act constituting the killing, it is 10 willful, deliberate and premeditated murder.

11 Premeditation is a question of fact for the jury and may be determined from the 12 facts and circumstances of the killing, such as the use of an instrument calculated to 13 produce death, the manner of the use and the circumstances surrounding the act.

1 INSTRUCTIONNO. 15

2 Malice aforethought, as used in the definition of Murder, means the intentional killing of another
3 human being without legal cause, legal excuse or what the law considers adequate provocation. The 4 condition of mind described as malice aforethought may rise, not alone from anger, hatred, revenge or 5 from particular ill will, spite, or grudge toward the person killed, but may result from any unjustifiable
6 or unlawful motive or purpose to injure another which proceeds from a heart fatally bent on mischief or 7 with reckless disregard of consequence and social duty. Malice aforethought does not imply deliberation
8 or the lapse of any considerable time between the malicious intention, but denotes rather an unlawful 9 purpose and design in contradistinction to accident and mischance.

2 There are certain kinds of murder which carry with them conclusive evidence of malice
3 aforethought. One of these classes of murder is murder committed in the perpetration or attempted
4 perpetration of robbery. Therefore, a killing which is committed in the perpetration of robbery is deemed 5 to be murder of the first degree, whether the killing was intentional or unintentional or accidental. This 6 is called the Felony-Murder rule.

7 The Felony-Murder rule may be applied to this case even though the Defendant has not been charged 8 with the crime of Robbery.

9 The specific intent to perpetrate or attempt to perpetrate
10 robbery must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt.

2 The elements of an attempt to commit a crime are: 1) the intent to commit the crime; 2)
3 performance of some act towards its commission; and 3) failure to consummate its commission.

4 In determining whether or not such an act was done, it is necessary to distinguish between 5 mere preparation, on the one hand, and the actual commencement of the doing of the criminal
6 deed, on the other. Mere preparation, which may consist of planning the offense or of devising,
7 obtaining or arranging the means for its commission, is not sufficient to constitute an attempt;
8 but acts of a person who intends to commit a crime will constitute an attempt where they 9 themselves clearly indicate a certain, unambiguous intent to commit that specific crime, and, in 10 themselves, are an immediate step in the present execution of the criminal design, the progress 11 of which would be completed unless interrupted by some circumstance not intended in the 12 original design.

INSTRUCTION NO. 32

2 Robbery is the unlawful taking of personal property from the person of another, or in his
3 presence, against his will, by means of force or violence or fear of injury, immediate or future, to his 4 person or property. Such force or fear must be used to obtain or retain possession of the property, or 5 to prevent or overcome resistance to the taking, in either of which cases the degree of force is immaterial.
6 Such taking constitutes robbery whenever it appears that, although the taking was fully completed 7 without the knowledge of the person from whom taken, such knowledge was prevented by the use of 8 force or fear.

9 The value of property or money taken is not an element of the crime of Robbery, and it is only

INSTRUCTION NO. 7

Where two or more persons are accused of committing a crime together, their guilt may be established without proof that each personally did every act constituting the offense charged.

All persons concerned in the commission of a crime who either directly and actively commit the act constituting the offense or who knowingly and with criminal intent aid and abet in its commission or, whether present or not, who advise and encourage its commission, are regarded by the law as principals in the crime thus committed and are equally guilty thereof.

A person aids and abets the commission of a crime if he knowingly and with criminal intent aids, promotes, encourages or instigates by act or advice, or by act and advice, the commission of such crime.
