REASON FOR GRANTING THE PETITION

Appellant asserts that judicially and logically in order for Appellant and/or his trial counselor to have raised this pertinent newly discovered evidence a long time ago under the appeal and postconviction process would have been with present or prior divulged personal knowledge of the Appellants or the Appellant's trial counselor that Judge Lindsey's renewed retention office of elections loyalty of oath was in violation for the Appellant and/or his trial counselor to have exercise reasonable due diligence to discover that Judge Lindsey's was in fact not under his renewed retention elections loyalty oath of office requirements by federal law and the Florida's Constitution jurisdiction and judicial circuit authorized courts authority to impose a judgment and sentencing of defendants to object and request for and conduct a judiciary update standards questionnaire interrogations of Judge Lindsey's oath of office status for the presiding six years term beginning in 1999-2004 before the trial was to begin, otherwise there was not an alarming present of information with obvious reasons of legal law to question and suspect that Judge Lindsey was not functioning and operating under and in judicial circuit compliance of the Federal Law and the Florida Constitution until the acquired pertinent newly discovered evidence was discovered through due diligence research of the Appellant with the Department of State.

CONCLUSION

The petition for a writ of certiorari should be granted.
