Appendix B

II. APPELLANT'S CONVICTIONS AND SENTENCES SHOULD BE REVERSED BECAUSE HE WAS CONVICTED BY A SIX-PERSON JURY.

Florida allows trial by a jury of six in non-capital cases. Art. I, § 22, Fla. Const.; § 913.10, Fla. Stat. Accordingly, this case involved a trial by a jury of six rather than twelve members. Appellant contends that the federal constitution requires a jury of twelve, so that fundamental error occurred because he was deprived of this right. He acknowledges contrary authority, as discussed below.

Williams v. Florida, 399 U.S. 78 (1970), held that state court juries as small as six were constitutionally permissible, despite the determination in Thompson v. Utah, 170 U.S. 343, 349-50 (1898), that the jury guaranteed by the Sixth Amendment consists “of twelve persons, neither more nor less.”

Thompson held that the Sixth Amendment enshrined the right to a jury of twelve as provided at common law. Id. at 349-50. In addition to the authorities cited there, one may note that Blackstone stated that the right to a jury of twelve is even older, and more firmly established than the unqualified right to counsel in criminal cases. 4 William Blackstone, Commentaries on the Laws of

Appendix C

England, ch. 27 (“Of Trial and Conviction”).³ Blackstone traced the right back to ancient feudal right to “a tribunal composed of twelve good men and true,” and wrote that “it is the most transcendent privilege which any subject can be enjoy or wish for, that he cannot be affected in his property, his liberty or his person, but by the unanimous consent of twelve of his neighbours and equals.”³

Blackstone, ch. 23 (“Of the Trial by Jury”).⁴

Thus, at the time of the amendment’s adoption, the essential elements of a jury included “twelve men, neither more nor less.”

Patton v. United States, 281 U.S. 276, 288 (1930).

Williams itself has now come into question in light of Ramos v. Louisiana, 140 S. Ct. 1390 (2020), which concluded that the Sixth Amendment’s jury requirement encompasses what the term “meant at the Sixth Amendment’s adoption.” Id. at 1395. (Of course, the requirement that the jury be composed of men has been overturned by a subsequent amendment – the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment.. See J.E.B. v. Alabama ex rel. T.B., 511

U.S. 127, 146 (1994).

In this case, Appellant did not receive a trial by a jury as the term was meant at the Sixth Amendment's adoption, or at the time of the Fourteenth Amendment for that matter, as he was not tried by a jury of twelve. It is acknowledged that this Court has rejected this argument. Guzman v. State, 350 So. 3d 72 (Fla. 4th DCA 2022).

The error is fundamental and structural, as the conviction arose from a sheer denial of this fundamental right. Waiver of the constitutional right of trial by the proper number of jurors must be made personally by the defendant. See Blair v. State, 698 So. 2d 1210, 1217 (Fla. 1997) (finding valid defendant's agreement to verdict by five-member jury valid when made "in a colloquy at issue here, including a personal on-the-record waiver," and sufficient to pass muster under the federal and state constitutions," and his decision was made "toward the end of his trial, after having ample time to analyze the jury and assess the prosecution's case against him. He affirmatively chose to proceed with a reduced jury as opposed to a continuance or starting with another jury."). Such was not the case here. A new trial should be ordered.
