ON BRIEF: Wesley P. Page, Jonathan D. Byrne, OFFICE OF THE FEDERAL PUBLIC DEFENDER, Charleston, West Virginia, for Appellant. Jessica D. Aber, United States Attorney, Joseph Attias, Assistant United States Attorney, Richmond, Virginia, E. Rebecca Gant, Assistant United States Attorney, Elizabeth M. Before DIAZ, Chief Judge, and NIEMEYER and RICHARDSON, Circuit Judges.

Opinion

Affirmed by unpublished opinion. Chief Judge Diaz wrote the opinion, in which Judge Niemeyer and Judge Richardson joined.

Unpublished opinions are not binding precedent in this circuit.

DIAZ, Chief Judge:

*1 After a nearly five-week trial, a jury convicted Javaid Perwaiz of 52 counts of healthcare fraud and making false statements in relation to healthcare matters. The district court then sentenced him to 708 months' imprisonment.

Perwaiz now asserts two evidentiary challenges from his trial and an ineffective assistance of counsel claim. But because any evidentiary error would be harmless considering the overwhelming evidence of Perwaiz's guilt, we affirm his convictions. And because any ineffective assistance by Perwaiz's counsel doesn't "conclusively appear[] in the trial record," United States v. Mandello, 426 F.2d 1021, 1023 (4th Cir. 1970), we affirm his sentence.

I.

Javaid Perwaiz was a Virginia-licensed OB/GYN who regularly treated pregnant patients and performed procedures such as coloscopies,¹ hysteroscopies,² and hysterectomies³ on other patients. Perwaiz contracted with healthcare benefit companies, including private insurers (like Anthem and Optima) and public insurers (like Medicare and Medicaid), that would pay or reimburse Perwaiz for his services. To be certified as a "participating provider," J.A. 626:6, and to bill for the care he provided, Perwaiz had to enroll (and periodically reenroll) with these insurers.

¹ A colposcopy is a procedure used to examine a patient's cervix that is generally done after an abnormal Pap smear or human papillomavirus test. J.A. 549:25–550:17.

² A hysterectomy is a procedure used to examine a patient's uterine cavity to detect, among other things, cancer, fibroids, or polyps. J.A. 562:15-24.

During the respective enrollment processes, Perwaiz had to agree to certain terms and conditions—such as a 30-day waiting period between obtaining a Medicaid patient's signature consenting to sterilization and conducting the procedure—and to verify certain information—such as listing any type of adverse employment action that had been taken against him or any felony convictions. And once these insurers approved Perwaiz's enrollment, they would only reimburse him for services or procedures that met the appropriate "medical standard of care," J.A. 523:12-19, and were "medically necessary," J.A. 1155:23–1156:2.

In 2018, the FBI received a tip from one of Perwaiz's former colleagues alleging that he had performed unnecessary surgeries on unsuspecting patients. As the FBI investigated Perwaiz, it found that this wasn't the first instance of his medical misconduct.

In 1983, for example, Maryview Hospital in Portsmouth, Virginia, temporarily terminated Perwaiz's clinical privileges "due to poor clinical judgment, unnecessary surgery, lack of documentation, and discrepancies in recordkeeping." J.A. 7484. The Hospital recited that Perwaiz performed eleven hysterectomies on patients, "contrary to sound medical judgment." J.A. 7484–86. The Virginia Board of Medicine⁴ then "[c]ens[u]red" Perwaiz in a separate proceeding based on these findings, citing a "lack of documentation." J.A. 7488. The Board didn't recommend any other disciplinary action, but it noted that his censure would "become part of [his] permanent record for future reference." J.A. 7488.

⁴ At the time, Virginia's medical licensing authority was called the "Department of Health Regulatory Boards."

*2 Perwaiz resumed practicing medicine when Maryview reinstated his privileges. But about a decade later, he was charged with six counts of federal felony tax evasion. He ultimately pleaded guilty to two of those counts. The district court sentenced Perwaiz to five years' probation. Because of those convictions, the Virginia Board of Medicine briefly suspended Perwaiz's medical license.

Perwaiz once more resumed practicing medicine, operating a solo OB/GYN practice with access to the operating room at Chesapeake Regional Medical Center. But between 2017 and 2019, he repeatedly failed to report and falsely denied his earlier disciplinary and criminal history when he enrolled to be a provider in public and private healthcare benefit programs.

Perwaiz's fraud didn't end there.

First, Perwaiz falsified his pregnant patients' estimated due dates so that he could induce labor on a day he had standing operating room time at Chesapeake. Doing so ensured that Perwaiz was the doctor who performed the deliveries and was therefore the doctor who was paid through the patients' insurance coverage. But doing so also meant that many of these elective inductions occurred before 39 weeks' gestation—that is, earlier than medically recommended—and without any "medical indication[s]." J.A. 2247:13. This was contrary to the accepted standard of care, yet Perwaiz still billed insurance companies for full-term or medically necessary deliveries.

Second, Perwaiz performed and billed for medically unnecessary surgeries, including hysterectomies, based on fabricated symptoms. He falsely told several patients, for example, that they had cancer (or would get cancer) and required surgery. He then documented this nonexistent condition and used it as the basis for performing and billing for the eventual procedure.

Third, Perwaiz billed insurers for in-office diagnostic procedures like hysteroscopies and colposcopies that (a) weren't performed, (b) were performed in a non-standard way, or (c) were performed with broken instruments. He then routinely used the results from these procedures to justify other, more invasive surgeries that he also billed for.

Fourth, Perwaiz falsified his Medicaid patients' sterilization consent forms verifying that he had abided by the required 30-day waiting period. He had these patients sign blank consent forms but not date them. He then backdated the forms so that it appeared the patients signed them prior to 30 days before the surgery. And Perwaiz billed Medicaid for the sterilizations, even when he performed them within the 30-day period.⁵

⁵ Several of these patients hadn't even been under Perwaiz's care for 30 days before he performed the sterilizations.

B.

A superseding indictment charged Perwaiz with committing healthcare fraud and making false statements related to healthcare matters.

During trial, the government introduced two exhibits containing evidence of Perwaiz's suspension from Maryview Hospital and his prior felony tax convictions. Perwaiz had moved in limine to exclude those exhibits under Federal Rules of Evidence 403 and 404. Though the court found the evidence was reliable, and intrinsic to two counts addressing Perwaiz's failure to disclose his disciplinary history to a pair of insurance companies (Anthem and Optima), it didn't admit the exhibits in full. The court allowed only the fact of the suspension and convictions, not the underlying details. It redacted, for example, Perwaiz's indictment so that the jury saw only the two charges to which Perwaiz pleaded guilty.

*3 The government introduced over 500 other exhibits and called 55 witnesses at trial. Six witnesses were former patients who were referenced in the indictment's factual allegations but weren't subjects of any count. They testified about Perwaiz's falsifying the sterilization consent forms or falsifying symptoms to bill for unnecessary surgeries. Perwaiz didn't object to their testimonies at trial. He did, however, testify in his own defense and admitted that he had backdated the Medicaid sterilization consent forms.

The jury convicted Perwaiz on 23 counts of healthcare fraud and 29 counts of making false statements in relation to healthcare matters.

C.

Before sentencing Perwaiz, the district court considered Perwaiz's presentence investigation report. The report put Perwaiz's guidelines range at life imprisonment, restricted to the statutory maximum of 5,700 months' imprisonment.

The district court also considered the sentencing memoranda Perwaiz and the government submitted. And it received victim impact statements from over 60 women, many of whom recounted their physical and emotional trauma. So too did the district court hear that Perwaiz's fraudulent scheme caused over $18 million in losses to insurers.

At sentencing (as in his sentencing memorandum), Perwaiz maintained his innocence, so his counsel objected only generally to the guidelines calculation and associated sentencing enhancements.⁶ And they requested no particular sentence. Rather, at sentencing, Perwaiz's counsel stated that they had "every confidence that the Court will fashion a sentence ... that is sufficient but not greater than necessary" under the  18 U.S.C. § 3553 factors. J.A. 3569:8-10.

⁶ Perwaiz was represented by two lawyers during his trial and sentencing.

Counsel noted, however, that Perwaiz was "71 years old" with "ongoing medical conditions." J.A. 3569:22. Counsel also explained that Perwaiz had a limited prior criminal history, and that, for his earlier felony convictions, he had completed his probationary sentence, paid back the funds, made no effort to flee, and acknowledged his guilt. Counsel concluded by pointing out that Perwaiz no longer had a medical license and wouldn't return to practicing medicine if he were released from prison. The government, meanwhile, requested a prison sentence of 600 months (or 50 years).

The district court imposed a 708-month (or 59-year) sentence. It explained that the "nature and circumstances of the offense and [Perwaiz's] history and characteristics" were the "most important" factors it considered. J.A. 3571:15-18. The court also described the evidence of Perwaiz's guilt as "overwhelming," while chiding him for "abu[sing] the trust" that his patients had placed in him and that his profession had placed in [him]." J.A. 3572:2, 11. And it noted that Perwaiz had "expressed no remorse for such a callous disregard for the welfare of [his] patients and the victims." J.A. 3572:15-17.

This appeal followed.

II.

Perwaiz brings three challenges to his convictions and sentence. He asserts that during trial, the district court erred in (1) admitting into evidence the exhibits concerning his suspension from Maryview Hospital and felony tax convictions, and (2) allowing the testimony of the six patient-witnesses who weren't named in any count of the indictment. And he claims that during sentencing, his lawyers were so ineffective that they all but abandoned him.

We address each argument in turn.

A.

We begin with Perwaiz's evidentiary challenges. As he did at trial, Perwaiz mainly contends that the evidence of his suspension and prior convictions violated the Federal Rules of Evidence because it was unduly prejudicial and impermissibly went to his character rather than to the conduct at issue.

*4 We will overturn a “district court's decision to admit evidence over a Rule 403 objection” only “under the most extraordinary circumstances, where [the district court's] discretion has been plainly abused.”  United States v. Williams, 445 F.3d 724, 732 \(4th Cir. 2006\) (cleaned up). But evidentiary challenges have an additional—and here, dispositive—backstop: harmless error review. See United States v. Walker, 32 F.4th 377, 394 \(4th Cir. 2022\).

“[A]n error is harmless if it's highly probable that it did not affect the judgment.”  United States v. Caldwell, 7 F.4th 191, 204 \(4th Cir. 2021\) (cleaned up). “The decisive factors to consider are the closeness of the case, the centrality of the issue affected by the error, and the steps taken to mitigate the effects of the error.” Id. (cleaned up). There's no dispute then that an error is harmless “where there is a significant amount of evidence which inculpates a defendant independent of the erroneous [evidence].”  United States v. Johnson, 617 F.3d 286, 295 \(4th Cir. 2010\); see also United States v. Scheetz, 293 F.3d 175, 186 \(4th Cir. 2002\) (finding an error harmless where, “[m]ost importantly, absent [the error], the government's case against [the defendant] was overwhelming” (cleaned up)).

Even if we assume the district court erred (which seems unlikely),⁷ the evidence against Perwaiz was overwhelming. Scores of witnesses—former patients and employees, including nurses, billers, and ultrasound technicians; Chesapeake personnel; OB/GYN and insurance experts; and insurance company representatives—testified about Perwaiz's fraudulent conduct. And the government introduced documents to support this testimony and each aspect of Perwaiz's fraudulent scheme.

⁷ We're inclined to agree with the government that the challenged exhibits were intrinsic to the two counts charging Perwaiz with lying to insurers about his disciplinary history.

The government, for example, introduced recordings wherein Perwaiz told a patient that he would falsify her records for insurance purposes, and misrepresented to another patient that she was suffering from tumors when a subsequent ultrasound found no such tumors. Perwaiz also admitted at trial to regularly backdating the Medicaid sterilization consent forms.

This evidence related to Perwaiz's present fraudulent scheme and not to his past disciplinary history. And the district court redacted or otherwise limited the challenged exhibits, mitigating the prejudicial effect the evidence might have on the jury. As Perwaiz concedes, “[e]vidence that is highly probative invariably will be prejudicial to the defense.” Appellant's Br. at 24 (quoting  United States v. Grimmond, 137 F.3d 823, 833 \(4th Cir. 1998\)). The exhibits' probative value easily outweighs any potential unfair prejudice.

In short, we have no trouble holding that any evidentiary error by the district court was harmless, considering the extensive evidence of Perwaiz's fraudulent conduct.

B.

Turning to Perwaiz's second evidentiary challenge against the patient-witnesses' testimony, we could reject it too on harmlessness grounds. In any event, Perwaiz all but concedes in his reply brief that our decision in United States v. Bajoghli, 785 F.3d 957 \(4th Cir. 2015\), not only controls this issue but also forecloses his argument on appeal. See Reply Br. at 10–12.

*5 In Bajoghli, which involved a similar healthcare fraud scheme, we held that “the district court abused its discretion in limiting the government's proof to that which is directly relevant to one or more of the 53 executions charged in the indictment, without taking into account the relevance of uncharged conduct to the alleged overarching scheme.” 785 F.3d at 964 (emphasis added). We explained that “in a large and complex healthcare-fraud case where the defendant's criminal intent is placed at issue,” uncharged but relevant evidence is “intrinsic to the ‘scheme’ element” and is therefore admissible. Id. (cleaned up).

The patient-witnesses' testimony fits squarely within Bajoghli's holding given that the proof of a scheme to defraud was a required element of the healthcare fraud counts. The testimony in turn spoke directly to the existence of such a scheme and was thus intrinsic and admissible. So we can't find that the district court erred in allowing the testimony.

C.

Finally, we address Perwaiz's argument that his counsel's performance at sentencing was ineffective. An ineffective-assistance claim is permitted on direct appeal (rather than a motion to vacate under 28 U.S.C. § 2255) only “where it conclusively appears in the trial record itself that the defendant was not provided with effective representation.” Mandello, 426 F.2d at 1023. Perwaiz makes no such showing, nor does he attempt to argue that his counsel’s performance prejudiced him.

Relying on United States v. Cronic, 466 U.S. 648 \(1984\), Perwaiz maintains that his counsel’s performance during sentencing was so deficient that we can presume prejudice. Otherwise, Perwaiz would have to adhere to the traditional two-pronged showing of deficient performance and prejudice under Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668 \(1984\).

Cronic permits such a shortcut in limited “circumstances that are so likely to [have] prejudice[d] the accused that the cost of litigating their effect in a particular case is unjustified.” 466 U.S. at 658. One such circumstance is the “complete denial of counsel,” where “the accused is denied counsel at a critical stage of his trial,” or where “counsel entirely fails to subject the prosecution’s case to meaningful adversarial testing.” Id. at 659.

Cronic’s exception—which results in a structural error—requires “an extremely high showing,” United States v. Regin, 820 F.3d 609, 618 \(4th Cir. 2016\) (cleaned up), and is “exceedingly narrow,” United States v. Theodore, 468 F.3d 52, 56 \(1st Cir. 2006\). To illustrate, we have held Cronic satisfied where defense counsel slept through substantial portions of the trial. Regin, 820 F.3d at 620. But even there, the defendant raised his ineffective assistance of counsel claim on a § 2255 motion. Id. at 613.

Here, Perwaiz’s lawyers submitted a sentencing memorandum, were present (and awake) during sentencing, and spoke on Perwaiz’s behalf regarding the § 3553\(a\) factors. Even if (in Perwaiz’s eyes) counsel didn’t do enough, he can’t argue that they did nothing. At bottom then, any ineffective assistance rendered by Perwaiz’s counsel doesn’t “conclusively appear[] in the trial record.” Mandello, 426 F.2d at 1023. Postconviction proceedings are therefore a better vehicle for that claim.

For these reasons, we affirm the district court’s judgment. And we dispense with oral argument because the facts and legal contentions are adequately presented in the materials before this court and argument would not aid in the decisional process.

Counsel for Petitioner

1 If they don't appear, Your Honor, that is all we have for 2 victim statements.

3 THE COURT: A.M.?

4 MS. GANTT: A.M.

5 THE COURT: And J.P.?

6 MS. GANTT: Yes, ma'am.

7 That's all I have, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Have we checked? Are either one in the 9 overflow courtroom?

10 COURT SECURITY OFFICER: Yes, ma'am. He just 11 notified me they weren't in the overflow courtroom.

12 THE COURT: A.M. and J.P. are not here. If you see 13 them, please let the Court know. There is a court security 14 officer in the overflow courtroom, and that individual has 15 said neither of the two that you have named are in that 16 courtroom.

17 Other than the victim impact statements, is there 18 anything else for the Court to consider, other than the 19 argument?

20 MS. YUSI: No, Your Honor, just argument.

21 Thank you, Your Honor. As the Court is aware, the 22 government is requesting a sentence of 600 months or 50
23 years for Javaid Perwaiz. We believe such a sentence is 24 appropriate under the factors of 18 U.S.C. 3553, as well as 25 it would be a sufficient but not greater sentence than 1 necessary to achieve the purposes of sentencing.

2 We understand the defendant is approximately 69 or 3 71 years old, depending on the date of birth that is being 4 used, and this is equivalent to a life sentence. However, 5 based on the evidence this Court saw at trial, and the 6 damage the defendant has caused to so many women, and the 7 complete lack of remorse, Your Honor, we believe 50 years is 8 entirely appropriate in this matter.

9 The Court and the jury sat through almost four 10 weeks of testimony for this case, and I understand the 11 Court's very aware of the facts underlying the defendant's 12 convictions, and so we are not going to rehash all of those 13 that the Court already saw and that are contained at least 14 in part in the PSR.

15 But while the government has covered the 3553
16 factors in its position sentencing paper, we wanted to touch 17 on a few of the factors the government avers are 18 particularly compelling. As we discussed in our position,
19 general deterrence is an important factor which this Court 20 needs to consider in fashioning a sentence for the 21 defendant.

22 Typically, just by having the title of doctor, you 23 command respect and trust, and with this trust patients feel 24 safe, and they understand that their best interests are 25 being looked after by the doctors or nurses. Typically,

1 patients follow the advice and directions of their 2 caregivers, knowing it's the right thing for them and their 3 family.

4 This case, Your Honor, has turned that concept of 5 trust on its head. Not only have the women who were 6 defendant's patients all started questioning the care by 7 Dr. Perwaiz, that this case has also been a shock to the 8 community and public at large, and a call to many to start
9 questioning the trust that they have had in their doctors 10 and medical caregivers.

11 Not only do the victims in this case deserve the 12 defendant to receive a lengthy sentence of imprisonment, I 13 believe the community deserves to know that this type of 14 crime, healthcare fraud, that directly affected the health
15 and bodies of these women, just for the defendant's 16 financial gain, will not be tolerated by the Court and the 17 law.

18 The community deserves to know that the medical 19 establishment is not above the law. The government also 20 believes the nature and circumstances of the offense and the 21 history and characteristics of the defendant are extremely 22 vital in its decision-making on the sentence and believe 23 that the nature and circumstances of the offense and the 24 history and characteristics of the defendant go hand in 25 hand.

1 The only way Javaid Perwaiz was able to get away
2 with and perpetrate this fraud and damage over so many years 3 was because of who he is or, rather, who he purported to be.
4 As for who he purported himself to be, as the Court heard
5 from the victims at trial and from the defendant himself,
6 Dr. Perwaiz was extremely confident in his abilities as a 7 doctor and surgeon. He sat up on that witness stand for 8 hours talking about his alleged skills and experience, 9 bragging about his abilities.

10 He stated repeatedly that his vast experience
11 supported all of his medical decisions. He was unequivocal 12 about it. He even became indignant when questioned by the 13 government about his shortcomings, and when questioned by 14 Your Honor about why he didn't bother buying a $3 bottle of 15 vinegar in order to properly perform a colposcopy, he just 16 stated he didn't need to because he knew better because of 17 his vast experience.

18 As for who Javaid Perwaiz really is, he was a 19 master manipulator. He would lie to these women that they 20 were sick or that they had cancer or that they were going to 21 get cancer or that the baby was ready to be born or that 22 they would be able to have more children if they let him 23 sterilize them.

24 Then what he actually did, he would take these 25 women, perform unnecessary surgeries on them, remove organs,

1 take away their ability to have children, put them at risk
2 for infection and complication, put their babies at risk by 3 forcing them to be born too early. What it caused, Your 4 Honor, the government is going to rely on what these women 5 have told the Court about what happened to them and how they 6 feel, which is far more powerful than anything the 7 government can say today.

8 What the 63 women who wrote impact statements to 9 the Court, and the women who spoke in terms of the damage 10 the defendant has caused to them, is just stunning, Your 11 Honor. This is not clearly a monetary crime. This was a 12 crime that caused physical and emotional damage to countless 13 women, and some women have permanent damages to their 14 bodies. They can't have more children. They can't go to 15 the bathroom ever again without being reminded of what 16 Javaid Perwaiz did to them. Some can't be intimate anymore
17 because of the physical pain due to these unnecessary 18 surgeries and procedures, and emotionally, as the Court has 19 heard, many of the victims are now questioning the entire 20 medical establishment. They're scared to go to doctors.
21 They don't trust what they're being told is true anymore by 22 the doctors.

23 One question that got there is why did the 24 defendant do all of these things? The easy answer is that 25 the defendant wanted to make as much money as possible. He

1 wanted to continue to buy and have luxurious cars, expensive 2 watches, nice clothes, sunglasses, jewelry, to keep his 3 paramours comfortable. He committed these crimes due to all 4 and out greed.

5 But, Your Honor, the government believes the better
6 question to ask is how could he do these things? It's not a 7 crime to be arrogant, it's not a crime to want nice things, 8 but it is a crime to be so callous in greed that you 9 repeatedly lie to women's faces, tell them there is 10 something wrong with them, scare them into agreeing to 11 surgeries and procedures or early birth, lying to insurance 12 companies, all for money or the feeling of power and 13 complete disregard for the fact that these are human beings.

14 From the jail calls that this Court has heard 15 during trial and knows about from our position paper, the 16 defendant appears to have an actual general disgust for 17 these women who were his patients, who he claimed to be 18 helping for decades. I understand that the defendant is 19 maintaining his innocence. However, you can maintain your 20 innocence and still feel empathy or at least a general 21 recognition for these women's lives and feelings, and not 22 the defendant. Not once did the defendant admit that he did 23 something wrong. Not once did he pause to consider that 24 what he revealed as skilled and experience was actually 25 reckless, dangerous, and criminal.

1 Your Honor, if the defendant was allowed to go out
2 that door today, he has shown that he would go right ahead
3 and continue these crimes today. The sentence cannot let 4 that be a possibility. Javaid Perwaiz stood on that stand 5 during trial, and he blamed his former partners from the 6 1980s for his problems then. He blamed jealous doctors 7 throughout his practice for his continued problems. He 8 blamed the hospitals. He blamed the victims. Not once had 9 he turned the mirror on himself, nor does the government 10 ever expect him to do so. It's just unfathomable how anyone 11 can listen to the evidence and hear from these women and not 12 think twice or feel anything.

13 I understand, and the government understands, that 14 a long sentence of imprisonment will not heal these women or 15 solve all of these problems, Your Honor, but perhaps it can 16 at least help with the healing process. Therefore, Your 17 Honor, we believe that a sentence of 600 months is 18 appropriate in this matter.

19 Thank you.

20 THE COURT: When you say 600 months, Ms. Yusi, but 21 a Court just doesn't say 600 months. You've got a number of 22 counts here, and so you set forth just a number, 600 months.
23 There are counts, and they involve different matters. So a 24 Court can't sentence or just say under federal law you get 25 600 months. The statutory maximum is 240 months on counts

1 8, 14 through 16, 18 through 22 and 24, and the maximum is 2 120 months on each of the counts 1 through 7, 9, 10, 17, 23, 3 25 and 26, and there is a five-year maximum on the remaining 4 counts of making the false statement, five years on making a 5 false statement on healthcare.

6 So when a Court sentences, and as far as I'm 7 concerned, every human being that is part of this case,
8 particularly those for which the jury found beyond a 9 reasonable doubt that they were a victim and found that some 10 were a victim that incurred serious bodily injury, so there 11 has to be some distinction made because a Court can't just 12 go in and blanket sentence. You have to separate them. I
13 say this also so that the victims and individuals 14 understand. I know you're asking, when you do all of that 15 together, that the sentence be 50 years.

16 MS. YUSI: Yes, Your Honor. I understand that. I
17 apologize that we did not break it out further, Your Honor.
18 What the government was trying to do was compare some of the 19 white collar cases, which this is technically a white collar 20 case and what the court and courts have provided and what 21 the government had asked for for that compared to drug 22 sentences, compared to child exploitation sentences, and 23 looking at that as a whole as to what we believe would be 24 sufficient, Your Honor, and I apologize for not breaking it 25 down between the different counts.

1 THE COURT: I know that it may be confusing for 2 some, but the guidelines here set forth different amounts of 3 years, as I've indicated, and if you look at the guidelines 4 as calculated, and this would be difficult, I know, for many 5 people to understand, but if you look at the guidelines, and 6 they were calculated without what's called a restricted
7 range, it would be life in prison. However, under the law, 8 I just said what the maximum sentence is, 240 months on 9 certain counts, 120 months on certain counts, five years on 10 certain counts. Given that, I want to make it clear on the 11 record and for those involved in the case, it may sound 12 strange, but a sentence for a term of months or years under 13 the law is considered below a sentence of life.

14 So, consequently, a Court can never sentence an 15 individual for longer than the statutory maximum. So even 16 if you did a full guidelines calculation here, it would come 17 out to life in prison. Each of the counts themselves carry 18 a statutory maximum of years, and even though ultimately it 19 well may work out to a life sentence, you still have to 20 render it in terms of years or months and not life.

21 I just want that to be clear so everyone realizes 22 his offense level is 43 with a criminal history category of 23 one. We start the sentencing, and I just read the statutory 24 maximums for each, which life is not one of them, but you're 25 arguing for, in effect, life.

1 MS. YUSI: That's correct, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: You compared in your position papers, I
3 think you referred to the Madoff case as well as to another 4 physician.

5 MS. YUSI: Dr. Fata.

6 THE COURT: Dr. Fata. I believe in Fata's case he 7 was sentenced to 45 years.

8 MS. YUSI: He was, Your Honor, and pled guilty
9 through a plea agreement and did not go to trial.

10 THE COURT: Exactly. You pointed out those 11 differences, that he pled guilty, he did not go to trial.
12 Again, his guideline sentence would have been life but for 13 the statutory maximums in years on each of the counts. He 14 was sentenced to 45 years. You argued that Dr. Perwaiz
15 should receive a higher sentence than that because Dr. Fata 16 pleaded guilty and did express remorse for his crimes.

17 So, consequently, for Dr. Perwaiz, there should be 18 some consideration for the lack of remorse and putting the 19 victims through what they've been through. Consequently, 20 you argue for that higher sentence. Then I believe on the 21 Madoff case, and I'm saying a lot of this to help whoever is 22 arguing, Ms. Munn, Mr. Woodward, the argument was that it
23 didn't make sense in the Madoff case to sentence somebody 24 beyond their life expectancy.

25 I believe Judge Chin was the judge there who

1 indicated that you had to follow the law and sentence in 2 terms of years, even though you realize it's past the life 3 expectancy, because it also carries a symbolic message of 4 deterrence to anyone else inclined, as well as to vindicate 5 the victims.

6 So I did read the two transcripts, although they're 7 different cases, and they're different sentencing, but you 8 argued them to avoid unwarranted sentencing disparity.

9 You've cited the Madoff case and the Fata case.

10 MS. YUSI: I did, Your Honor. Thank you.

11 THE COURT: Ms. Munn.

12 MS. MUNN: Thank you, Judge. At the outset I will 13 say that Dr. Perwaiz and Mr. Woodward and myself stand on 14 its position paper. He does, as the government mentioned, 15 and the Court has acknowledged, reserve his right to 16 maintain his innocence, and I will say that his lack of 17 testimony today, and I expect his lack of allocution to the 18 Court, is in no way affront to the Court's authority or 19 disrespect to the Court.

20 To the contrary, he would acknowledge his respect 21 for the system and for the process. He is grateful for the 22 fact that the Court gave him the right to proceed to trial
23 and to assert his innocence, which is his constitutional 24 right.

25 The Court was committed to providing him with a

1 safe trial during a very difficult time in this courthouse
2 and in the United States. The Court provided him with a 3 trial. We brought a jury. He testified. He had the 4 ability and exerted his right to confront his accusers, and 5 he is grateful for that process and for the Court's 6 commitment to that.

7 I would note that while Mr. Woodward and 8 Dr. Perwaiz and I have every confidence that the Court will 9 fashion a sentence, understanding all of that, that is 10 sufficient but not greater than necessary pursuant to 18 11 U.S.C. 3553, I would note that it's impossible for us to 12 compare to other cases, given that all cases that are tried 13 in courts are so fact specific. We don't have the trial
14 transcripts for Dr. Fata or for Mr. Madoff.

15 Both of those cases were high publicity, but 16 Dr. Perwaiz nor Mr. Woodward and I were able to watch those 17 victims testify to understand what evidentiary objections
18 there were pretrial or during the trial. So it's difficult
19 for us to make an argument about where Dr. Perwaiz's 20 sentence should fall among two other unrelated cases with 21 very different facts and very different testimony.

22 What we can note for the Court is that Dr. Perwaiz 23 is 71 years old. He does have ongoing medical conditions.
24 He does have no prior criminal history.

25 THE COURT: He does have the one conviction in this

1 court for tax evasion.

2 MS. MUNN: Yes, ma'am. That's correct. He did
3 complete that probationary period. He did pay back the 4 funds to the United States. He made no effort to flee or to 5 avoid that process. He faced that obligation and satisfied 6 it. He acknowledged his guilt in a case for which he 7 believed he was guilty, and he agreed.

8 I would say that, to respond to Ms. Yusi's argument
9 that if Dr. Perwaiz were allowed to walk out this door there 10 is every indication that he wouldn't stop, I would note for 11 the record today, Your Honor, that Dr. Perwaiz has no
12 license to practice medicine. He has not practiced medicine 13 or attempted to do so since he was taken into custody. He's 14 been in jail since November of 2019.

15 There is no expectation, and I will just say that 16 I'm sure the Court -- this should go without saying, but 17 there is no expectation if Dr. Perwaiz were released from 18 custody at any point that he would resume the practice of 19 medicine. He will have no offices. He has no staff. He 20 has no malpractice insurance. He has no license to 21 practice. There is no reason, based on his history, to 22 believe that he wouldn't follow the terms of probation as he 23 did in the tax case.

24 So, Judge, again, I would just stand on our 25 position paper. I would tell you that Dr. Perwaiz is

1 grateful for the opportunity to proceed to trial. He does 2 preserve all of his objections and his right to appeal to 3 the Fourth Circuit, and does preserve his innocence, as is 4 his right. Thank you.

5 THE COURT: Dr. Perwaiz, is there anything you'd 6 like to say before the Court pronounces sentence?

7 THE DEFENDANT: No, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: In sentencing you, Dr. Perwaiz, as the 9 Court does in every federal sentencing, it has to follow the 10 federal criminal sentencing statute for imposition of 11 sentence, and that is found at 18 United States Code Section
12 3553(a), and the Court has to consider the factors 13 thereunder to determine a sentence that is sufficient but 14 not greater than necessary.

15 The first factor under this statute is the nature 16 and circumstances of the offense and your history and 17 characteristics as a defendant. Obviously, this particular 18 factor is one of the most important for the Court to 19 consider in this case. I'm not going to go back through all 20 of the victims, but I was the trial judge, and so I heard 21 the victims testify upon which the convictions are based.

22 There have been 63 victim impact statements
23 submitted to the Court, and the victims that testified here
24 today, there have been four more that did not submit victim 25 impact statements. There have been e-mails that were

1 attached to the position paper. There were 12 from former 2 patients who believe they are victims. It's overwhelming
3 the number of victims, the procedures that were performed, 4 and the healthcare fraud that was perpetrated not only upon 5 the victims but upon the insurance entities and the public 6 because ultimately when there is this kind of fraud and 7 action, the victims are not only the individuals and the 8 healthcare providers but the public. Because of the 9 position of trust that you were in and you had, I agree with 10 the United States, that it's particularly difficult because 11 you abused the trust that your patients had placed in you, 12 that your profession had placed in you. So, consequently, 13 it is a very serious matter.

14 It's a bit overwhelming to encounter a defendant
15 that has expressed no remorse for such a callous disregard 16 for the welfare of the patients and the victims. Not only 17 no remorse for these patient victims but also the only 18 reason that one can determine from all of this is that it 19 was done for greed and to enhance a very lavish lifestyle.
20 In the Court's mind this conduct is simply unconscionable.

21 I do agree that there is no way for many of these 22 victims to recover their certain losses, but each human 23 being has dignity and worth, and, hopefully, they will be 24 able to go on and recover in the long run their dignity and 25 at least their mental well-being.

1 The nature and circumstances of the offense are 2 overwhelming. Your history and characteristics as a
3 defendant, it's disturbing to the Court that you had this 4 tax conviction in this court, I was not the judge, but that 5 you had this tax conviction that was a fraudulent 6 conviction. So even then, I know that you served your 7 probationary sentence, and you got through that, but the 8 Court still looks at your criminal history. That's part of 9 your history and characteristics as a defendant.

10 Then this case involves falsified hysteroscopies 11 and colposcopies and procedures that weren't necessary and 12 that were physically damaging to individuals. I'm not going 13 to go back through all the trial evidence and the 14 presentence report, which re-captures it, and all of the 15 victims' statements, but you falsified patient symptoms, 16 their diagnosis. You gave people false cancer scares to the 17 point that they were willing to subject themselves to 18 unnecessary surgery that prevents them from ever proceeding 19 naturally and normally with their life in terms of their 20 child-bearing and their other incidents of life.

21 You falsified the sterilization consent forms. You
22 not only did that, but you misrepresented on provider 23 applications. So, consequently, when you look at all of 24 this, it's tremendous. You look at the restitution here, 25 it's over $18 million that's in restitution, $18,563,323.18.

1 I'll get to the restitution in a moment, but the 2 overwhelming amount of fraud at every point in the process 3 from representations to victims to falsifying forms to 4 making the statements to providers, all of that goes into 5 this crime. So it wasn't a one-time occurrence. It was 6 repetitive over so many years. That's why there were so 7 many counts involved in this case. When I sentence, I will 8 go through it count by count in terms of the sentencing.

9 It's also sad that you were able to come to this 10 country and then not take advantage of education or the 11 medical profession here to practice your profession with 12 honesty. Yes, you came from a difficult background and 13 difficult circumstances, and you came here, and you achieved 14 at what other people would look at as great levels of 15 success. The sad thing is that this success was hiding a 16 lot of this fraud and the actions that you were taking.

17 So I just can't overlook the length of time, the 18 number of victims, the depth of the fraud, the depth of the 19 misrepresentation not only to the patients but for 20 reimbursement, and then no remorse at all.

21 I think this was something that the United States
22 wrote in the position paper, with which I agree, you acted 23 "without remorse or hesitation" and you "lied to the Court 24 and the jury and blamed everyone but yourself," and you 25 still continue to do that. You blame everybody else but

1 yourself. The only motive, as the United States put forward
2 that anyone can determine, was for financial gain to fund a 3 lavish lifestyle, and there doesn't seem to be any motive 4 for good. Consequently, that is very disturbing to the 5 Court.

6 Moving on to some other factors is the seriousness
7 of the offense. I won't belabor that. I can't imagine 8 anything more serious than performing these procedures that 9 result in bodily harm to an individual, and the jury found 10 that beyond a reasonable doubt on certain counts.

11 You have not shown respect for the law in terms of 12 the false information that you've put on forms, your lack of 13 remorse. You are, obviously, entitled to plead not guilty
14 and to persist in the not guilty plea, but a Court sentences 15 you based upon the trial and the jury's verdict, and that's 16 where we are now.

17 You do have to be justly and properly punished with 18 a sentence that is sufficient but not greater than 19 necessary. The Court has to look at deterrence, and I agree 20 that deterrence here is a very important factor. There has 21 to be deterrence for you, to protect the public from you for 22 further crimes, but also deterrence in terms of the 23 professional obligations that doctors, all professionals 24 have when someone comes to you, and they put their trust in 25 you. You're in the position of trust. Rather than treating

1 them honestly and legitimately, you engage in criminal 2 conduct. That can't be tolerated. It shouldn't be 3 tolerated from anyone, but they're licensed professionals, 4 and they're licensed in states, and they are licensed in 5 their profession.

6 When you go to someone, you should be able to rely 7 on that professionalism and that licensure. So I do have to 8 look at deterrence here. It's a very important factor.
9 Greed can't overcome your professional ethics, your 10 professional creeds, and the law. That's something that is 11 very important.

12 The Court does have to look at any needed
13 rehabilitation or medical care, and certainly I will direct 14 that while he is incarcerated that he undergo a full medical 15 and mental health evaluation and receive any and all 16 appropriate medical care and any and all appropriate mental 17 health counselling.

18 I also have to look at all of the kinds of 19 sentences available, and I'll go through that in a moment.
20 I do have to look at the victims involved, and that is a 21 very important aspect of this case. I do have to be aware 22 of unwarranted sentencing disparity. It's very difficult 23 because, thankfully, there are not that many cases that 24 would be comparable. I agree with what Ms. Munn said, I
25 mean, most comparable in terms of what occurred factually

1 would be Dr. Fata's case, but there were differences there 2 in pleading guilty and showing remorse, not that you have 3 to, but those are factors that both Ms. Munn and 4 Mr. Woodward and any of the lawyers in the courtroom know 5 about is acceptance of responsibility. That is a very 6 important factor in determining a sentence under the 7 guidelines and also for rehabilitation purposes in the long 8 run.

9 So with all that being said, I've indicated the 10 statutory maximums on this, but I would say if all of the 11 sentences were running consecutive, which they could run 12 that way, it would be 5,700 months or 475 years. So I would 13 note that. Now, I know the United States is not asking for 14 that, and I will sentence and explain my sentence as I go 15 along.

16 As I indicated earlier, a life sentence, while that 17 certainly is more than any life sentence, life under the law
18 is considered a different sentence than a sentence in years.
19 I won't go back through that again. But in sentencing you 20 on the various counts, I do have to indicate the amount of 21 years or months.

22 So I will go through my sentences. I'll start with 23 the healthcare fraud sentences, and I will say the counts on 24 the healthcare fraud sentence. The maximum statutory 25 sentence there is 120 months on a count. On the healthcare

1 fraud counts, count 1 is the healthcare fraud relating to 2 patient A.B., I impose the 120 months maximum sentence 3 there.

4 With respect to count 2, healthcare fraud relating 5 to patient C.L., I impose a sentence of 120 months.

6 Count 3, with respect to the healthcare fraud
7 relating to L.R., I impose a sentence of 120 months.

8 Count 4, with respect to count 4, this is the 9 healthcare fraud relating to A.C., again, 120 months or ten
10 years.

11 With respect to count 5, the healthcare fraud
12 relating to H.M., 120 months or ten years.

13 With respect to counts 6, healthcare fraud relating 14 to patient B.P., I impose 120 months or 10 years.

15 With respect to count 7, healthcare fraud relating 16 to A.B., I impose -- that's a different -- I know there are 17 two A.B. initials here, but we made that clear during the 18 trial.

19 MS. GANTT: Your Honor, counts 1 and 7, as Your 20 Honor may recall, is the same individual but she had two 21 deliveries.

22 THE COURT: That's right. Okay.

23 MS. GANTT: There is an A.M.B. later.

24 THE COURT: I know there are two there, but I'm 25 only going to use initials here.

1 Count 7, healthcare fraud relating to A.B., again,
2 120 months or ten years.

3 With respect to count 9, healthcare fraud relating 4 to patient A.N., that would be 120 months or ten years.

5 With respect to count 10, healthcare fraud relating 6 to A.M.B., that would be 120 months or ten years.

7 With respect to count 17, healthcare fraud relating 8 to patient S.N., that would likewise be 120 months or ten
9 years.

10 Count 23, with respect to that count of healthcare
11 fraud as to patient A.F., that would be 120 months or ten 12 years.

13 With respect to count 25, healthcare fraud relating 14 to L.G., that would be 120 months or ten years.

15 With respect to count 26, healthcare fraud relating 16 to L.G., that would be, again, 120 months or ten years.

17 I would run all of those 10 years concurrently. So 18 it will be 120 months or 10 years running concurrently on 19 the counts that I just went through, 1 through 7, 9 through 20 10, 17, 23, and 25 through 26.

21 Now in regard to the counts that were healthcare
22 fraud that the jury found unanimously that the healthcare 23 fraud resulted in serious bodily injury, and the maximum 24 sentence on those counts are 240 months on each count or 20
25 years.

1 On count 8, with respect to the healthcare fraud
2 relating to patient W.B. resulting in serious bodily injury, 3 I impose a sentence of 240 months or 20 years.

4 On count 14, with respect to healthcare fraud
5 relating to patient M.F., which also the jury found 6 unanimously resulted in serious bodily injury, I impose the 7 20 years, 240 months.

8 With respect to count 15, that's the healthcare
9 fraud relating to patient D.P., which also the jury found 10 resulted in serious bodily injury, I impose the 20 years or 11 240 months.

12 Count 16, with respect to healthcare fraud relating 13 to patient D.P., which the jury found resulted in serious
14 bodily injury, I impose a sentence of 240 months or 20
15 years.

16 With respect to count 18, that was the healthcare
17 fraud relating to patient S.N. in which the jury also found 18 it resulted in serious bodily injury, I impose 240 months or 19 20 years.

20 With respect to count 19, that's the healthcare
21 fraud with W.H.W., which the jury unanimously found resulted 22 in serious bodily injury, I impose the maximum of 240 months 23 or 20 years.

24 With respect to count 20, the healthcare fraud
25 relating to patient A.G., which the jury unanimously found

1 resulted in serious bodily injury, I impose 240 months or 20
2 years.

3 With respect to count 21, that's the healthcare
4 fraud relating to patient A.G., which the jury further found 5 resulted in serious bodily injury, I impose the maximum 6 sentence of 20 years or 240 months.

7 With respect to count 22, which is the healthcare
8 fraud relating to patient Y.S., which the jury found
9 resulted in serious bodily injury, I impose a sentence of 20
10 years or 240 months.

11 With respect to count 24, which was the healthcare
12 fraud relating to patient N.B., which the jury also found
13 resulted in serious bodily injury, I again impose the 240 14 months or 20 years.

15 In respect to these counts, which would be counts
16 8, 14 through 16, 18 through 22 and 24, those sentences
17 would run concurrently for the 240 months or 20 years.

18 Now I'm going to sentence on the counts of making a 19 false statement. This would be count 27, which is the false
20 statement relating to healthcare matters to patient D.W., 21 count 28 with respect to false statements relating to 22 healthcare matters to patient T.T., count 29 with all of 23 these are making false statements, and this would relate to 24 patient A.P.C., count 30 is a false statement relating to 25 healthcare matters for patient T.C., count 31 is a false

1 statement relating to healthcare false statement with 2 patient A.B., count 33 is making false statement related to 3 healthcare matters for patient L.R., count 34 is with 4 respect to a healthcare false statement relating to patient
5 A.C., count 35 is with respect to making the false 6 statements relating to patient H.M., 36 is with respect to 7 making the false statements related to healthcare matters
8 for patient B.P., count 37 is with respect to making a false
9 statement relating to healthcare matters for patient A.B., 10 Count 38 is with respect to making a false statement related 11 to healthcare matters for patient W.B., is with respect to 12 count 39, that's false statement related to healthcare
13 matters for patient A.N., count 40 is making a false
14 statement related to healthcare matters for patient A.M.B., 15 Count 44 is with respect to making the false statement
16 related to healthcare matters relating to patient M.F., 17 Count 45 is with respect to making false statement related 18 to healthcare matters for patient D.P., count 46 is with 19 respect to making a false statement relating to healthcare
20 matters for patient D.P., Count 47 relates to false
21 statement for healthcare matters for patient S.N., count 48 22 is with respect to making a false statement relating to 23 patient S.N., count 49 is with respect to making a false 24 statement for patient W.H.W., count 50 is with respect to 25 making a false statement on the healthcare matters related

1 to patient A.G., count 51 is with respect to making a false
2 statement relating to healthcare matters for patient A.G., 3 count 52 is with respect to making false statements on 4 healthcare matters with regard to patient Y.S., count 53 is 5 with respect to making a false statement related to 6 healthcare matters for patient A.F., count 54 is with 7 respect to making a false statement on healthcare matters
8 relating to N.B., and count 55 is with respect to making 9 false statements regarding patient L.G., count 56 is in 10 respect to making false statements in regard to patient
11 L.G., count 57 is with respect to making a false statement 12 on healthcare matters relating to patient D.B., count 58 is 13 with respect to making false statements related to 14 healthcare matters to an attestation to Anthem, and count 59 15 is with respect to making false statement related to 16 healthcare matters to attestation to Optima.

17 On those counts, that should be 29 counts, and 18 those are counts 27 through 31, 33 through 40, and 44
19 through 59, I impose a sentence of 12 months or one year for 20 each of the false statements counts, but that is to run 21 consecutively. So that would be a total of 29 years on 22 making the false statements.

23 So in summary, the sentence is one of 708 months, 24 which is 59 years incarceration. It would consist of the 25 240 months on the counts, and I say this repeatedly, I want

1 to be sure that the clerk can get all of this down, but the 2 240 months on all of the counts that were related to the 3 healthcare fraud in regard to the patients that resulted in 4 serious bodily injury, and the 120 months is related to the 5 patients that had the healthcare fraud relating to them are 6 to run consecutively. In other words, so the 120 months are 7 concurrent with each other but consecutive to the other 8 sentences. The 240 months are concurrent with each other 9 but consecutive each other and to the other sentences. The 10 29 years, one year on each of these healthcare frauds, 11 making a false statement, is consecutive to the other 12 sentences. So that is a total sentence of 708 months, which 13 is 59 years when they are served consecutively in the three 14 different groups; concurrent within the first group, 15 concurrent within the second group, consecutive within the 16 third group, but each group is consecutive to the other. So 17 that is the sentence itself, a total of 708 months or 59
18 years.

19 In terms of supervised release, there will be the 20 maximum of three years on each count of conviction, all to 21 be served concurrently. The probation officer has not 22 recommended a fine because of the restitution amount, the 23 special assessment, and the forfeiture, which I will go 24 through.

25 I do waive the cost of the prosecution and the

1 incarceration. To the extent that there is any supervised 2 release in the case, the defendant will have to bear the 3 costs of any programs he's on if he's on supervised release.

4 In terms of the restitution, I will enter that 5 order that has been presented to the Court. This is for 6 restitution in the total amount of $18,563,323.18. The 7 interest is waived. That is very difficult to calculate 8 under the statute on this amount of money. You haven't 9 asked for it not to be waived; is that correct?

10 MS. YUSI: Correct, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: I'm going to set the payments. Right 12 now they are set at 1,000 a month. Again, I don't know if 13 this will be able to be paid given the other, but I'm going 14 to set them at a thousand a month or 25 percent of net
15 income, whichever is greater. That would begin 60 days 16 after release from any period of confinement; however, 17 obviously, while you're incarcerated, it's subject to the 18 inmate financial responsibility program. I do order the 19 full amount of the restitution. I believe that it's signed 20 by the defendant and the attorneys. Everyone agrees that 21 the restitution will be paid to Optima and Anthem on a pro
22 rata basis, and TRICARE and Medicare and Medicaid then on a 23 pro rata basis. So that's all set forth in the restitution, 24 for Optima, Anthem, Medicaid, Medicare, and TRICARE are 25 listed as an attachment to the order.
