QUESTIONS PRESENTED

In the District Court of Mobile, AL Donijah Virgo's constitutional rights were violated when complaint was not officially served to the parties involved promptly after filing with the court on 12/14/2021. At a subsequent time, on 1/7/2022 the petitioner observed proceedings in action against him. Upon acknowledgment Virgo appeared at the office of the attorney on file, Charles Barber of Green & Phillips LLC, demanding that the complaint be handed over. Mr. Barber exclaimed that the case had been dismissed and there was no proceeding taking place regarding Mr. Virgo. When Mr. Virgo produced the docket number Mr. Barber then turned over the filings.

Did the Circuit Court of Mobile, AL err in judgment granting summary judgment in favor of Heather Roberts in the appellate court violate Donijah's constitutional rights of due process by affirming summary judgment to dismiss a case on contributory negligence?

OPINION BELOW

The Opinion of the AL. Supreme Court of appeals on March 29,2024 SC-2024-0476 is reprinted herein as Appendix A.

STATEMENT

This petition followed the ruling of the Alabama supreme court affirmative of summary judgement. Proceeding SC-2023-0476 Donijah Virgo vs. Heather

Roberts and Geico on March 29,2024. Al. Supreme court panel of judges, Justice Parker, and Mitchell Shaw and Bryan. The case in question (02-DV-2021-903672.00) emerged from an automobile accident that took place on 10/20/2020 and was presented to the district court of Mobile, AL on 12/14/2021. At no time after the original filing of complaint documents were not officially served to Donijah Virgo by the Mobile County Sheriff's Department. (Lathan V. Phillips Ala 1991) “The filing must be made with the intention of serving process upon the opposing party or parties.” also outlined in (Mace V. Central Business Systems) “filed with a bonified intention of having it immediately served.”

In the circuit court of Mobile AL. Petitioner contests that his constitutional rights were not observed by the court. Both parties have asserted counter claims of contributory negligence. Mrs. Roberts entered in a demand for a jury trial. The question of contributor negligence should not be deposed by matter of law, and it should be heard by a jury. (Hawkins V. Simmon) (Ridgeway V. CSX Transportation INC.)

“The issue of contributory negligence is generally one for the jury to resolve”

REASONS FOR GRANTING WRIT

It is the right of every citizen to be trailed fairly by the way of due process. The Fourteenth amendment and fifth amendment. This case presents an opportunity for resolving constitutional deprivation in lower courts. To deprive the fundamentals of the fourteenth and fifth Amendment. Rights to due process bearing subject, that are deemed to be factually different up bringing from previous published cases authorized. When compliant aren't served to defendant and case are tossed out in summary judgement as a matter of law is in inconsistent with the bill of rite and the court and should put a stop to this, by disaffirm summary judgement wen due process is not satisfied.

CONCLUSION

Respectfully, I declare that for the foregoing reason, this petition should be granted. This court should overturn the lower court judgement granting orders so that Mrs. Roberts may be deposed.
