- 5.) The United States Court of Appeals "Affirmed" the Petitioner's sentence finding there was no procedural sentencing error, and the district court was not required to either accept the joint recommendation in the parties plea agreement.
- 6.) Petitioner now seeks Writ of Certiorari to this United States Supreme Court.

REASONS FOR GRANTING THE PETITION

This Court should grant certiorari review the proceedings below, reverse the judgment of the Court of Appeals for the First Circuit, and "Remand" the Case to the district court with instructions to vacate the Petitioner's conviction in Criminal Case Number. 17-622 and resentence him in accordance with the "Legal and Binding Contract" that was construed by the United States and Accepted by the United States District Court to 120 months as to Count One of the Indictment and to 96 months as to Count to of the Indictment.

Plea bargains are essentially contracts and the traditional principles of contract law guide the interpretation of the terms and performance of a plea agreement. Puckett v. United States, 556 U.S. 129, 137 (2009); United States v. Brown, 31 F.4th 39, 50 (1st. Cir. 2022). The Application of traditional contract law principles allows the court to interpret plea agreements and evaluate the parties performances of duties thereunder. Id. at 50. When the government enters into a plea agreement with a defendant, the court should hold the government to the most meticulous standards of both promise and performance because a defendant who enters into a plea agreement waives fundamental constitutional rights. United States v. Marin-Echeverri, 846 F.3d 473, 478 (1st Cir. 2017). The prosecutors are duty-bound to carry out both the letter and spirit of the governments plea agreement and they have a concurrent and equally solemn obligation to provide relevant information to the sentencing court ensuring that all relevant information is provided to the court related to the promises made in the plea agreement. United States v. Almonte-Nunez, 771 F.3d 84, 86, 90 (1st Cir. 2014). This includes the full and accurate information about the offense and the offender. Id. at 86. With this concurrent obligation, the court has recognized that general principles are that the government has a duty to provide to the court reliable information relevant to sentencing and the fact that certain factual omissions, helpful to a defendant, may be an implicit part of the bargain in a plea agreement. United States v. Davis, 923 F.3d 228, 327 (1st Cir. 2019) (quoting United States v. Miranda-Martinez, 790 F.3d 270, 274 (1st. Cir. 2015)). Overall, the government has a duty to stand by the plea agreement and provide that information to the court at sentencing. United States v. Ubiles-Rosario, 867 F.3d 277, 283 (1st Cir. 2017) (quoting United States v. Cruz-Vazquez, 841 F.3d 546, 549 (1st Cir. 2016)). The First Circuit's binding case law specifically states that prohibits a explicit repudiation of the governments assurance, but must in the interest of fairness be read to forbid end-runs around them. United States v. Saxena, 229 F.3d 1, 6 (1st Cir. 2000).

In the present case before this Court, this is not the way ordinary contracts work and it is the principles of contract law that governs plea agreements and the traditional principles of contract law and the terms and performance of the plea agreement entered by the Petitioner and the government have been breached. Puckett v. United 556 U.S. 129, 137 (2019); Garza v. Idaho, 139 S. Ct. 738, 744 (2019). Here the Petitioner, a first time offender, with no criminal history waived a panoply of his constitutional rights in order to receive the benefits of the plea bargain of a sentence of 120 months as to Count (1) of the indictment and a consecutive sentence of 96 months of Count (2) of the indictment to total 216 months. A far cry from the 260 month sentence imposed by the district court. The Petitioner clearly relied on the spirit of the plea agreement in his decision whether to plead guilty or putting the government to the burden of a trial by jury.

CONCLUSION

Therefore, in light of the foregoing, the Petitioner asks this Honorable Court to "Grant Certiorari" as the United States has breached the plea agreement and the United States District Court followed suit. The Petitioner asks this Honorable Court to "Vacate" this sentence and "Remand" this case back to the District Court to enter a Consecutive sentence of 120 months as to Count (1) of the Indictment and 96 months as to Count (2) of the indictment to total 216 months of incarceration as the parties had agreed under the "Spirit of the Plea Agreement" which was a legal and binding contract.

Respectfully Submitted,

Abimael Narvaez-Rosa
