Case No. 3:23-cv-00266-MMD-CSD

Petitioner,

ORDER

v.

WARDEN TIM GARRETT, et al.,

Respondents.

I. SUMMARY

This habeas matter is before the Court on Petitioner Henry Altamirano's Response (ECF No. 7) to the Court's Order to Show Cause as to why the petition should not be dismissed as untimely (ECF No. 5). Also before the Court are Petitioner's Motions for Judicial Notice. (ECF Nos. 11, 12.) For the reasons discussed below, the Court dismisses the petition for writ of habeas corpus with prejudice as untimely and denies Petitioner's motions as moot.

II. BACKGROUND

Petitioner challenges a conviction and sentence imposed by the Eighth Judicial District Court for Clark County. State of Nevada v. Altamirano, Case No. C-16-314317-1. On October 31, 2017, the state court entered a judgment of conviction for one count of lewdness with a child under the age of fourteen and one count of attempted sexual assault of a minor under fourteen years of age. The state court sentenced Petitioner to life with the possibility of parole after ten years for the lewdness with a child under the age of fourteen conviction and a term of 96 to 240 months in prison for the attempted sexual assault of a minor under fourteen conviction. Petitioner filed an untimely notice of appeal and the Nevada appellate court dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

Appendix B1

1 On October 13, 2022, Petitioner filed a motion to correct illegal sentence. The state
2 district court denied his motion to correct illegal sentence and the Nevada Court of 3 Appeals affirmed the denial of relief. Petitioner did not file a state habeas petition. On 4 June 12, 2023, Petitioner filed his federal habeas petition. (ECF No. 1-1.)

5 III. DISCUSSION

6 The Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act ("AEDPA") establishes a one-
7 year limitation period for state prisoners to file a federal habeas petition pursuant to 28
8 U.S.C. § 2254. The one-year limitation period, i.e., 365 days, begins to run from the latest 9 of four possible triggering dates, with the most common being the date on which the 10 petitioner's judgment of conviction became final by either the conclusion of direct 11 appellate review or the expiration of the time for seeking such review. Id. § 2244(d)(1)(A).
12 For a Nevada prisoner who pursues a direct appeal, his conviction becomes final when 13 the 90-day period for filing a petition for certiorari in the United States Supreme Court
14 expires after a Nevada appellate court enters judgment or the Nevada Supreme Court
15 denies discretionary review. See Harris v. Carter, 515 F.3d 1051, 1053 n.1 (9th Cir. 2008);
16 Shannon v. Newland, 410 F.3d 1083, 1086 (9th Cir. 2005); Sup. Ct. R. 13.

17 The AEDPA limitations period is tolled while a "properly filed" state post-conviction
18 proceeding or other collateral review is pending. 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(2). However, an 19 untimely state petition is not "properly filed" and thus does not toll the federal statute of 20 limitations. Pace v. DiGuglielmo, 544 U.S. 408, 417 (2005).

21 No statutory tolling is allowed for the period of time between finality of a direct 22 appeal and the filing of a petition for post-conviction relief or other collateral review in 23 state court because no state court proceeding is pending during that time. Nino v. Galaza,
24 183 F.3d 1003, 1006-07 (9th Cir. 1999); Rasberry v. Garcia, 448 F.3d 1150, 1153 n.1 (9th
25 Cir. 2006). Additionally, no statutory tolling is allowed for the period between the finality
26 of a post-conviction appeal and the filing of a federal petition. Nino, 183 F.3d at 1007.

27 ///

28 ///

1 When a state appellate court dismisses a direct appeal as untimely, the date of 2 finality is the date on which the time for filing a timely appeal expired, i.e., 30 days from
3 entry of the judgment of conviction. Randle v. Crawford, 604 F.3d 1047, 1054-55 (9th Cir.
4 2010) (rejecting petitioner's argument that the "conclusion of direct review" in his case
5 occurred on the date the Nevada Supreme Court dismissed his direct appeal as untimely).

6 The show cause order explained that because Petitioner did not file a timely notice
7 of appeal after the state district court entered the judgment of conviction, Petitioner's
8 conviction became final when the time expired for filing a notice of appeal with the Nevada
9 appellate courts on November 30, 2017. (ECF No. 5 at 3.) The AEDPA limitations period
10 began to run the day after time expired for Petitioner to file a timely appeal. Absent
11 another basis for tolling or delayed accrual, the limitations period expired 365 days later
12 on November 30, 2018.

13 Accordingly, absent another basis for tolling or delayed accrual, Petitioner filed his 14 petition four years and six months after the limitations period expired. Even if the Court 15 assumes, without deciding, that the limitations period tolled during the pendency of 16 Petitioner's motion to correct illegal sentence, Petitioner did not file his motion to correct
17 illegal sentence until October 13, 2022—nearly four years after the limitations period
18 expired. Given these facts, the Court ordered Petitioner to show cause why this action
19 should not be dismissed with prejudice as untimely. (ECF No. 5.)

20 In his response to the order to show cause, Petitioner provides that he did not 21 initiate a direct appeal, but appealed the denial of his motion to correct illegal sentence in 22 November 2022. (ECF No. 7 at 1-2.) He further provides that because he is challenging
23 the jurisdiction of the state court, the grounds are not subject to the one-year limitation
24 period. (Id. at 2.) Petitioner cites to Kelly v. U.S., 29 F.3d 1107 (7th Cir. 1994), arguing 25 that when challenging jurisdiction error, the defendant need not show cause and 26 prejudice. (Id.) The petitioner in Kelly, however, challenges his sentence under 28 U.S.C.
27 § 2255 because the district court did not make specific findings of fact required under the 28 Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure. 29 F.3d at 1108. Here, Petitioner is challenging a

1 state court conviction and sentence under 28 U.S.C. § 2254. Petitioner's argument to 2 avoid the application of the limitation period based on lack of jurisdiction is without merit.

3 Petitioner alleges no other basis for tolling, equitable or statutory, or delayed
4 accrual of any of his claims. Petitioner does not argue that he is actually innocent.
5 Accordingly, the petition, filed more than four years after the expiration of the AEDPA
6 statute of limitations, is untimely and must be dismissed.

7 IV. CONCLUSION

8 It is therefore ordered that the petition (ECF No. 1-1) is dismissed with prejudice
9 as untimely. The Clerk of Court is directed to file the petition.

10 It is further ordered that Petitioner's motions for judicial notice (ECF Nos. 11, 12)
11 are denied as moot.

12 It is further ordered that Petitioner is denied a certificate of appealability, as jurists
13 of reason would not find the Court's dismissal of the petition as untimely to be debatable
14 or wrong.

15 The Clerk of Court is further directed to enter final judgment accordingly and close 16 this case.

DEPUTY CLERK

ORDER OF AFFIRMANCE

Henry Altamirano appeals from an order of the district court denying a motion to correct an illegal sentence filed on October 13, 2022. Eighth Judicial District Court, Clark County; Kathleen E. Delaney, Judge.

In his motion and supporting memorandum, Altamirano claimed that the Statutes of Nevada were repealed and the Nevada Revised Statutes were not properly created by the Legislature. Altamirano also appeared to argue that his conviction was invalid because the Nevada Revised Statutes do not contain enacting clauses as required by the Nevada Constitution. Altamirano contended that the sentencing court had no authority or jurisdiction to convict him or impose his sentence because the Nevada Revised Statutes were not valid.

A motion to correct an illegal sentence may only challenge the facial legality of the sentence: either the district court was without jurisdiction to impose a sentence or the sentence was imposed in excess of the statutory maximum. Edwards v. State, 112 Nev. 704, 708, 918 P.2d 321, 324 (1996). "A motion to correct an illegal sentence presupposes a valid conviction and may not, therefore, be used to challenge alleged errors in proceedings that occur prior to the imposition of sentence.” Id. (internal quotation marks omitted).

Altamirano’s claim did not implicate the jurisdiction of the courts. See Nev. Const. art. 6, § 6; United States v. Cotton, 535 U.S. 625, 630 (2002) (“[T]he term jurisdiction means . . . the courts’ statutory or constitutional power to adjudicate the case.” (internal quotation marks omitted)); Landreth v. Malik, 127 Nev. 175, 183, 251 P.3d 163, 168 (2011) (“Subject matter jurisdiction is the court’s authority to render a judgment in a particular category of case.” (internal quotation marks omitted)). Moreover, Altamirano did not demonstrate that the Statutes of Nevada were repealed and no longer effective. We note the Statutes of Nevada contain the laws with the enacting clauses required by the constitution. The Nevada Revised Statutes simply reproduce those laws as classified, codified, and annotated by the Legislative Counsel. See NRS 220.110; NRS 220.120. Because Altamirano’s claims did not implicate the jurisdiction of the courts, he failed to demonstrate the sentencing court was without jurisdiction to convict him or impose a sentence.

In addition, the sentencing court imposed a term of life in prison with the possibility of parole after 10 years for the conviction of lewdness with a child under the age of 14 and a term of 96 to 240 months in prison for the conviction of attempted sexual assault of a minor under 14 years of age. And Altamirano’s consecutive sentences fell within the parameters of the relevant statutes. See NRS 176.035(1); NRS 193.153(1)(a)(1); 2015 Nev. Stat., ch. 399, § 8, at 2235-36 (NRS 200.366); NRS 201.230(2). Altamirano thus did not demonstrate that the sentences imposed were in excess of the statutory maximum. Accordingly, we conclude the district court did not err by denying the motion.

Appendix C1

Altamirano also contends that the district court erred by permitting the State to untimely file its opposition to his motion, permitting his documents to be received before being file-stamped on a later date, and failing to ensure that hearings occurred in a timely manner. Altamirano also contends he is entitled to relief due to cumulative effects of these errors. Because we conclude that the district court properly denied Altamirano's motion to correct an illegal sentence, any errors concerning these issues were harmless. We therefore conclude Altamirano is not entitled to relief. See NRS 178.598 ("Any error, defect, irregularity or variance which does not affect substantial rights shall be disregarded."). Accordingly, we

1 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Defendant's Motion to Correct Illegal Sentence,
2 shall be, and it is DENIED. The Court is persuaded by the arguments in the State's Opposition
3 that there is no, in fact, illegal sentence imposed. Further, motion indicates Nevada Revised
4 Statutes are not valid or they were used improperly in this case and are belied by the record
5 and belied by the legal statutes and laws as we know them to be. There was a procedural 6 argument made by the State that these arguments should have been raised on direct appeal,
7 which was not filed, and the Court is also persuaded that procedural bar also applies. State to 8 prepare order and include procedurally it is barred based on failure to raise on direct appeal
9 and substantively barred because it is not a legally valid argument.

SEC. 6. Severability of Provisions. If any provision of the Nevada Revised Statutes or amendments thereto, or the application thereof to any person, thing or circumstance is held invalid, such invalidity shall not affect the provisions or application of the Nevada Revised Statutes or such amendments that can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of Nevada Revised Statutes and such amendments are declared to be severable.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Jurisdiction over foreign nationals.

While the phrase ". . . whether an inhabitant of this state, or any other state, or of a territory or district of the United States, . . ." does not specifically refer to inhabitants of foreign countries, it is elucidative and descriptive of the term "every person" rather than a legislative expression to exclude those classes of persons not specifically mentioned; therefore, a state court had the jurisdiction to try a nonresident alien who committed a crime while in this state. *Paulette v. NEVADA CASES:

Venue is material allegation and must be proved; use of circumstantial evidence. Venue in a criminal case is material allegation and must be proved, and proof may be made by the use of circumstantial evidence. People v. Gleason, 1 Nev. 173 (1865)

Statutes considered together show legislative intent that incarceration of convicted murderer upon life sentence does not preclude trial under indictment for another murder. RL § 6908 (cf. NRS 171.010), making every person who commits a crime liable to punishment, RL § 6921 (cf. NRS 171.080), permitting prosecution for a murder to be commenced at any time after the death of the victim, and RL § 7459 (cf. NRS 174.325), authorizing an order directing a person in prison brought before a court of criminal jurisdiction when it is necessary for any purpose, disclose legislative intent that incarceration of the convicted murderer upon a life sentence does not preclude his trial under indictment for another murder. In re Tranner, 35 Nev. 56, 126 Pac. 337 (1912)

Venue may be established by circumstantial evidence. Where, in a prosecution for the attempted grand larceny of a store, the manager of the store where the larceny was attempted testified he lived in the county and managed a store in a city located in the county, employees testified as to the address of the store and the defendant testified that he knew that the incident in which he was involved occurred in a certain store, there was sufficient circumstantial evidence to establish venue in the county of trial although no specific mention of the county was made at trial. (See NRS 171.010.) Dixon v. State, 83 Nev. 120, 424 P.2d 100 (1967), cited, Najarian v. Sheriff, Clark County, 87 Nev. 495, at 496, 489 P.2d 405 (1971), Hyler v. Sheriff, Clark County, 93 Nev. 561, at 564, 571 P.2d 114 (1977), James v. State, 105 Nev. 873, at 875, 784 P.2d 965 (1989)

Statute does not exclude prosecution of foreign national. The fact that NRS 171.010, relating to the jurisdiction of offenses committed in the state, mentioned the inhabitants of the United States but did not specifically refer to the inhabitants of foreign countries would not be construed to exclude prosecution of a foreign national who committed a crime while traveling through Nevada. Paulette v. State, 92 Nev. 71, 545 P.2d 205 (1976), cited, Therault v. State, 92 Nev. 185, at 189, 547 P.2d 668 (1976), Johnstone v. State, 92 Nev. 241, at 242, 548 P.2d 1362 (1976), Johnstone v. State, 93 Nev. 427, at 428, 566 P.2d 1130 (1977)

Jurisdiction over crimes committed on land owned by Federal Government. Where an incident for which the defendant was accused of felony driving while intoxicated (see former NRS 484.379; cf. NRS 484C.110), occurred on land owned by the Federal Government, the courts of this State had jurisdiction to try the case because NRS 171.010 gives district court jurisdiction over crimes committed in a county except where the United States has exclusive jurisdiction, the Nevada Admission Acts revealed no retention of jurisdiction by the United States over the land in question, there was no affirmative cessation of jurisdiction by Nevada and affirmative acceptance by the United States and NRS 328.110 requires recording in the office of the county recorder to effectuate cessation of jurisdiction. Pendleton v. State, 103 Nev. 95, 734 P.2c 693 (1987)

Where dispute concerned which court had jurisdiction over defendant, district court erred in directing dismissal of matter. As a general rule, except for criminal offenses cognizable exclusively in federal court, some court always has jurisdiction over a criminal defendant. (See NRS 171.010.) Thus, where felony charges were awaiting a preliminary examination in justice court and the justice court had rejected the defendant's contention that the juvenile court had jurisdiction, the district court erred in granting a writ of mandamus directing the justice court to dismiss the matter for lack of jurisdiction. (See NRS 34.160.) The issue was not whether any court had jurisdiction over the defendant if he were held to answer for the charges, but which court had jurisdiction. State v. Barren, 128 Nev. 337, 279 P.3d 182 (2012)

ORDER OF AFFIRMANCE

*1 This is an appeal from a judgment of conviction, pursuant to a plea in accordance with North Carolina v. Alford, 400 U.S. 25 (1970), of a single count of coercion. Eighth Judicial District Court, Clark County; Donald M. Mosley, Judge. The district court sentenced appellant Lance Krig to serve a term of 12 to 48 months in prison.

On appeal, Krig claims that the district court erred in denying his pretrial motion to dismiss for lack of subject matter jurisdiction. Specifically, Krig argues that the statutes under which he was charged and convicted¹ are unconstitutional, as they each lack the enacting clause mandated by Article 4, Section 23 of the Nevada Constitution. This argument is without merit.

The enacting clause of the Nevada Constitution states, "The enacting clause of every law shall be as follows: 'The people of the State of Nevada represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows,' and no law shall be enacted except by bill." Nev. Const. art 4, § 23. This court has interpreted the enacting clause to require that all laws express upon their face "the authority by which they were enacted." State of Nevada v. Rogers, 10 Nev. 250, 261, 1875 WL 4032, at *7 (1875). Krig asserts that the laws under which he was charged and convicted, as compiled in the Nevada Revised Statutes, lack this enacting clause and are therefore unconstitutional.

However, Krig fails to recognize that each of the acts creating and last amending the statutes at issue, as published in the Advanced Sheets of Nevada Statutes (Statutes of Nevada), begins with the phrase "THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS." 1997 Nev. Stat., ch. 313, at 1174; 1995 Nev. Stat., ch. 293, at 508; 2007 Nev. Stat., ch. 528, at 3245; 1995 Nev. Stat., ch. 443, at 1167. Thus, the statutes under which Krig was charged and convicted comply with the constitutional mandate of Article 4, Section 23. See Ledden v. State, 686 N.W.2d 873, 876-77 (Minn.2004) (holding that, where appellant argued that his convictions were unconstitutional because statutes under which he was charged did not contain constitutionally required enacting clauses, appellant's convictions were not unconstitutional as acts creating and amending laws began with required phrase); State v. Wittine, No. 90747, 2008 WL 4813830, *4 (Ohio Ct.App. Nov. 6, 2008) (holding that omission of constitutionally required enacting clauses in Ohio Revised Code "in no way affects the validity of the statutes themselves" where clauses were contained in senate bill enacting laws).

Appendix H

Further, Krig's argument conflates the laws of Nevada with the codified statutes. The Nevada Revised Statutes "constitute the official codified version of the Statutes of Nevada and may be cited as prima facie evidence of the law." NRS 220.170(3). The Nevada Revised Statutes consist of enacted laws which have been classified, codified, and annotated by the Legislative Counsel. See NRS 220.120. The actual laws of Nevada are contained in the Statutes of Nevada, which as mentioned above, do contain the mandatory enacting clauses. Moreover, NRS 220.110, which sets forth the required contents of the Nevada Revised Statutes, does not mandate that the enacting clauses be republished in the Nevada Revised Statutes. Thus, we conclude that the fact that the Nevada Revised Statutes do not contain enacting clauses does not render the statutes unconstitutional. Therefore, Krig's convictions are not constitutionally deficient. Accordingly, we

ORDER OF AFFIRMANCE

This is an appeal from a district court order denying a postconviction petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Eighth Judicial District Court, Clark County; William D. Kephart, Judge. Appellant Donald Taylor argues that he received ineffective assistance of trial and appellate counsel. The district court denied the petition after conducting an evidentiary hearing. We affirm.

To demonstrate ineffective assistance of counsel, a petitioner must show that counsel's performance was deficient in that it fell below an objective standard of reasonableness and that prejudice resulted in that there was a reasonable probability of a different outcome absent counsel's errors. Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 687-88, 104 S. Ct. 2052, 80 L. Ed. 2d 674 (1984); Warden v. Lyons, 100 Nev. 430, 432-33, 683 P.2d 504, 505 (1984) (adopting the test in Strickland); see also Kirksey v. State, 112 Nev. 980, 998, 928 P.2d 1102, 1113 (1996) (applying Strickland to claims of ineffective assistance of appellate counsel). The petitioner must demonstrate the underlying facts by a preponderance of the evidence, Means v. State, 120 Nev. 1001, 1012, 103 P.3d 25, 33 (2004), and both components of the inquiry must be shown, Strickland, 466 U.S. at 697. For purposes of the deficiency prong, counsel is strongly presumed to have provided adequate assistance and exercised reasonable professional judgment in all significant decisions. Id. at 690. We defer to the district court's factual findings that are supported by substantial evidence and not clearly wrong, but review its application of the law to those facts de novo. Lader v. Warden, 121 Nev. 682, 686, 120 P.3d 1164, 1166 (2005).

Taylor first argues that trial counsel should have moved to suppress the evidence obtained following his traffic stop on the basis that he was detained for more than one hour without probable cause. He argues that the show-up identification that took place within that one-hour period could not provide

Taylor next argues that trial and appellate counsel should have challenged prospective juror 121 for cause because she was unwilling to consider all possible punishments in a penalty phase. While prospective juror 121 stated that she believed that murder warranted "the ultimate punishment," she assented that she would consider all possible punishments and follow the court's instructions. Taylor accordingly has shown neither deficient performance nor prejudice regarding trial counsel's omitting a meritless challenge for cause on this basis. See Leonard v. State, 117 Nev. 53, 65, 17 P.3d 397, 405 (2001) (providing that a prospective juror should be removed for cause if her "views would prevent or substantially impair the performance of [her] duties as a juror in accordance with [her] instructions and [her] oath" (internal quotation marks omitted)). Further, Taylor has not shown that an appellate claim on this basis had merit and thus has not shown deficient performance or prejudice in that regard. Cf. Blake v. State, 121 Nev. 779, 796, 121 P.3d 567, 578 (2005) (recognizing that the right to an impartial jury is not violated unless a juror empaneled was unfair or biased). The district court therefore did not err in denying this claim.

Taylor next argues that Carpenter v. United States, 138 S. Ct. 2206, 201 L. Ed. 2d 507 (2018), applies retroactively and that the seizure of his cell site location information without a warrant violated the Fourth Amendment. Carpenter was decided after Taylor's conviction became final, and Taylor argues that it clarified existing law, rather than announcing a new rule of constitutional procedure. We disagree. Carpenter announced a new rule, as it overruled a line of authority permitting warrantless seizure of cell site data under certain circumstances. See United States v. Carpenter, 819 F.3d 880, 887 (2016) (citing circuit court decisions declining to apply Fourth Amendment protections to cell site metadata), revel, 138 S. Ct. 2206, 201 L. Ed. 2d 507; United States v. Yang, 958 F.3d 851, 864 (9th Cir. 2020) (Bea, J., concurring in the judgment, recognizing that Carpenter set forth a new rule); United States v. Goldstein, 914 F.3d 200, 201-02 (3d Cir. 2019) (same); see also Bejarano v. State, 122 Nev. 1066, 1075, 146 P.3d 265, 272 (2006) ("[A] rule is new when it overrules precedent, disapproves a practice sanctioned by prior cases, or overturns a longstanding practice uniformly approved by lower courts."). And as Carpenter's extension of the warrant requirement to cell site location data did not "establish that it is unconstitutional to proscribe certain conduct as criminal or to impose a type of punishment on certain defendants because of their status or offense" or "establish a procedure without which the likelihood of an accurate conviction is seriously diminished," it does not apply retroactively. See Bejarano, 122 Nev. at 1074-75, 146 P.3d at 271. The district court therefore did not err in denying this claim.

Taylor next argues that trial and appellate counsel should have challenged the constitutionality of the legislative processes leading to the codification of the Nevada Revised Statutes. He argues that the 1951 statute that created a statute revision commission to revise and compile Nevada's laws of which Supreme Court justices would be three members violated a constitutional provision barring justices from holding another nonjudicial office. He also argues that this deprived the trial court of subject matter jurisdiction and violated the separation of powers. Taylor has not demonstrated deficient performance or prejudice because Taylor did not show that the trial court lacked subject matter jurisdiction. See Nev. Const. art. 6 § 6; NRS 171.010. Taylor further did not show that justices of the Nevada Supreme Court violated the constitution by serving in a nonjudicial public office because he did not show that participating in the commission "[i]nvolve[d] the continuous exercise, as part of the regular and permanent administration of the government, of a public power, trust or duty." Nev. Const. Art. 6, § 11; NRS 281.005(1) (defining "Public officer"); 1963 Nev. Stat., ch. 403, preface, at 1011 (providing that the act serves to abolish the statute revision commission and to assign its duties to the Legislative Counsel Bureau). Moreover, the Legislature enacts the actual laws of Nevada, while the Legislative Counsel Bureau—which succeeded the statute revision commission—codifies and classifies those laws as the Nevada Revised Statutes, grouping laws of similar subject matter together in a logical order, but not itself exercising the legislative function. See NRS 220.110; NRS 220.120(3); NRS 220.170(3); 1963 Nev. Stat., ch. 403, preface, at 1011. Taylor accordingly has not shown that the statute revision commission improperly encroached upon the powers of another branch of government, violating the separation of powers. See Comm'n on Ethics v. Hardy, 125 Nev. 285, 291-92, 212 P.3d 1098, 1103 (2009) ("The purpose of the separation of powers doctrine is to prevent one branch of government from encroaching on the powers of another branch."). The district court therefore did not err in denying this claim.

Lastly, Taylor argues cumulative error. Even assuming that multiple deficiencies in counsel's performance may be cumulated to demonstrate prejudice in a postconviction context, see McConnell v. State, 125 Nev. 243, 259, 212 P.3d 307, 318 (2009), Taylor has not demonstrated multiple instances of deficient performance to cumulate.

Having considered Taylor's contentions and concluded that they do not warrant relief, we ORDER the judgment of the district court AFFIRMED.

Taylor argues that the district court denied this and other claims without an evidentiary hearing. The record belies this contention, as an evidentiary hearing was held and postconviction counsel had the opportunity to ask trial counsel about this omission or any other claim raised in the pleadings.

Taylor does not argue that appellate counsel should have raised a claim on this basis.

Taylor did not contemporaneously object to Rogers' representation while Phillips was unavailable.

The Carpenter decision was entered after Taylor's conviction had become final, and thus, his claim based on Carpenter could not have been raised on direct appeal. See NRS 34.810(1)(b), (3).

Opinion

Patrick Doyle Olson appeals from a district court order dismissing the postconviction petition for a writ of habeas corpus he filed on November 4, 2016.¹ Eighth Judicial District Court, Clark County; Michael Villani, Judge.

Olson did not file a direct appeal and his habeas petition was filed more than three years after the judgment of conviction was entered on April 30, 2013; consequently, Olson's petition was untimely filed and procedurally barred absent a demonstration of good cause—cause for the delay and undue prejudice. See NRS 34.726(1).

Olson claimed he had good cause to overcome the procedural bar because his claims were based on newly discovered evidence that the bill creating the Nevada Revised Statutes was not properly enacted into law and because subject matter jurisdiction can be raised at any time. Olson argued that the bill was flawed and unconstitutional because the procedural requirements for enacting a bill into law were not followed, justices of the Nevada Supreme Court improperly participated in the legislative process, and the law does not contain an enacting clause.

Olson has failed to demonstrate good cause because his claims regarding the Nevada Revised Statutes were available to be raised in a timely petition and ignorance of the law is not an impediment external to the defense. See Hathaway v. State, 119 Nev. 248, 252-53, 71 P.3d 503, 506 (2003); Phelps v. Dir., Nev. Dep't of Prisons, 104 Nev. 656, 660, 764 P.2d 1303, 1306 (1988). Olson also failed to demonstrate his claims regarding the Nevada Revised Statutes implicated the jurisdiction of the district court. See Nev. Const. art. 6, § 6; NRS 171.010; United States v. Cotton, 535 U.S. 625, 630, 122 S. Ct. 1781, 152 L. Ed. 2d 860 (2002) ("[T]he term jurisdiction means . . . the courts' statutory or constitutional power to adjudicate the case." (internal quotation marks omitted)).

Olson confuses Nevada's actual laws with Nevada's codified statutes. The Nevada Revised Statutes "constitute the official codified version of the Statutes of Nevada and may be cited as prima facie evidence of the law." NRS 220.170(3). The Nevada Revised Statutes consist of enacted laws which have been classified, codified, and annotated by the Legislative Counsel. See NRS 220.120. The actual laws of Nevada are contained in the Statutes of Nevada.²

Having concluded Olson failed to demonstrate good cause to overcome the procedural bar and the district court did not err by dismissing his petition as procedurally barred, we

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL'S PREFACE

History and Objectives of the Revision

Nevada Revised Statutes is the result of the enactment, by the 45th Session of the Legislature of the State of Nevada, of chapter 304, Statutes of Nevada 1951 (subsequently amended by chapter 280, Statutes of Nevada 1953, and chapter 248, Statutes of Nevada 1955), which created the Statute Revision Commission and authorized the Commission to undertake, for the first time in the state's history, a comprehensive revision of the laws of the State of Nevada of general application. Although revision was not commenced until 1951, the need for statutory revision had been recognized as early as 1865 when an editorial published in the Douglas County Banner stated:

One subject which ought to engage the early, and serious consideration of the Legislature, about to convene, and one which should be acted upon without delay, is the revision and codification of the laws of Nevada. Amendment has been added to amendment, in such manner as to leave, in many instances, the meaning of the Legislature, that last resort of the jurist, in determining the application of the law, more than doubtful * *

*. The most serviceable members of the Legislature will be those gentlemen who will do something toward reducing to order our amendment-ridden, imperfectly framed and jumbled up statutes at large.

From 1861 to 1951 the Legislature made no provisions for statutory revision, although during that period 8,423 acts were passed by the Legislature and approved by the Governor. During the period from 1873 to 1949 eight compilations of Nevada statutes were published. "Compiling" must be distinguished from "revising." Ordinarily, the "compiling" of statutes involves the following steps: Removing from the last compilation the sections that have been specifically repealed since its publication; substituting the amended text for the original text in the case of amended sections; inserting newly enacted sections; rearranging, to a limited extent, the order of sections; and bringing the index up to date.

"Revising" the statutes, on the other hand, involves these additional and distinguishing operations: (1) The collection into chapters of all the sections and parts of sections that relate to the same subject and the orderly arrangement into sections of the material assembled in each chapter. (2) The elimination of inoperative or obsolete, duplicated, impliedly repealed and unconstitutional (as declared by the Supreme Court of the State of Nevada) sections and parts of sections. (3) The elimination of unnecessary words and the improvement of the grammatical structure and physical form of sections.

The revision, instead of the recompilation, of the statutes was undertaken, therefore, first, to eliminate sections or parts of sections which, though not specifically repealed, were nevertheless ineffective and, second, to clarify, simplify, classify and generally make more accessible, understandable and usable the remaining effective sections or parts of sections.

With respect to the accomplishment of the second purpose of revision specified above, the following revisions, in addition to those mentioned elsewhere in this preface, were made:

1. Long sections were divided into shorter sections. The division of long sections facilitates indexing and reduces the complications and expense incident to future amendment of the statutes.
2. Whole sections or parts of sections relating to the same subject were sometimes combined.
3. Sentences within a section, and words within a sentence, were rearranged, and tabulations were employed where indicated.
4. Such words and phrases as "on and after the effective date of this act," "heretofore," "hereinafter," "now," and "this act" were replaced by more explicit words when possible.
5. The correct names of officers, agencies or funds were substituted for incorrect designations.

The general types of revisions to be made by the reviser, as well as the broad policies governing the work of revision, were determined by the Statute Revision Commission at frequent meetings. Precautions were taken to ensure the accomplishment of the objectives of the program without changing the meaning or substance of the statutes.

Upon completion of the revision of the text of the statutes in December 1956, the Commission turned to the solution of a vital problem: Would it recommend the enactment of the revised statutes or would it request the Legislature merely to adopt the revised statutes as evidence of the law? The Commission concluded that the enactment of the revised statutes as law, rather than the mere adoption thereof as evidence of the law, would be the more desirable course of action. Accordingly, Nevada Revised Statutes in typewritten form was submitted to the 48th Session of the Legislature in the form of a bill providing for its enactment as law of the State of Nevada. This bill, Senate Bill No. 2 (hereafter referred to in this preface as "the revision bill"), was passed without amendment or dissenting vote, and on January 25, 1957, was approved by Governor Charles H. Russell.

On July 1, 1963, pursuant to the provisions of chapter 403, Statutes of Nevada 1963, the Statute Revision Commission was abolished, and its powers, duties and functions were transferred to the Legislative Counsel of the State of Nevada.

METHOD AND FORM OF PUBLICATION

As required by NRS 220.120, all volumes are "bound in loose-leaf binders of good, and so far as possible, permanent quality." The use of the loose-leaf method makes it possible to keep Nevada Revised Statutes up to date, without using pocket parts or supplements or completely reprinting and rebinding each volume, simply by the insertion of new pages. As required by NRS 220.160, replacement and supplementary pages to the statute text made necessary by the session of the Legislature are prepared as soon as possible after each session. Complete reprintings of Nevada Revised Statutes were made in 1967, 1973 and 1979, and after each regular session beginning in 1985. Replacement pages are additionally provided periodically between legislative sessions as necessary to update the annotations to NRS, including federal and state case law. Occasionally these replacement pages will contain material inadvertently omitted in the codification of NRS and the correction of manifest clerical errors, as well as sections or chapters of NRS which have been recodified pursuant to chapter 220 of NRS for clarification or to alleviate overcrowding.

The outside bottom corner of each page of NRS contains a designation which indicates the reprint or group of replacement pages with which the page was issued. A designation consisting of four numerals contained in parentheses means that the page was issued as part of a reprint of NRS immediately following the legislative session held in the year indicated by the four numerals. For example, the designation "(2019)" means that the page was issued as part of the reprint of NRS immediately following the 80th Legislative Session which was held in 2019. A designation consisting of four numerals contained in parentheses immediately followed by the capitalized letter "R" and a numeral means that the page was issued as part of a group of replacement pages in the year indicated by the four numerals in parentheses. The numeral following the "R" indicates the number of the group of replacement pages. The groups begin with the number one and increase sequentially by one number so that the later group will always have a higher number. For example, the designation "(2019) R1" means that the page was part of the first group of replacement pages issued in 2019. Similarly, the designation "(2019) R4" means that the page was part of the fourth group of replacement pages issued in 2019.

NUMBERING OF PAGES

The pages of each chapter of NRS are numbered independently of the other chapters with Arabic numerals at the center of the bottom of each page. Each page number consists of one to three numerals or numerals and a letter to the left of a hyphen and one or more numerals to the right of the hyphen. The numerals or numerals and letter to the left of the hyphen indicate the NRS chapter number. The number to the right of the hyphen indicates the sequential order of the page within the chapter. For example, the designation "616D-14" would appear on the fourteenth page of chapter 616D of NRS. On rare occasions, an abundance of replacement pages may cause the use of decimal points and additional numbers immediately following the page number to the right of the hyphen. The numbers following the decimal point are consecutively ordered. For example, the designation "616D-14.2" would appear in chapter 616D of NRS following the page numbered "616D-14.1" which would follow the fourteenth page of the chapter.

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

→ The legislative history for each section of Nevada Revised Statutes enacted as a part of the revision bill, up to the time of enactment, has been inserted in brackets immediately following the section. Each legislative history contains a reference to the section, chapter and year of the Statutes of Nevada from which the section of NRS is derived, together with references to subsequent amendments and, when applicable, section numbers in prior compilations.

Certain abbreviations have been employed by the reviser in order to shorten the bracketed material:

- B—Bonnifield and Healy, The Compiled Laws of the State of Nevada (1873)
- BH—Baily and Hammond, The General Statutes of the State of Nevada (1885)
- C—Cutting, Compiled Laws of Nevada (1900)
- RL—Revised Laws of Nevada (1912)
- 1919 RL—Revised Laws of Nevada (1919)
- NCL—Nevada Compiled Laws (1929)
- 1931 NCL—Nevada Compiled Laws 1931—41 Supplement (1941)
- 1943 NCL—Nevada Compiled Laws 1943—49 Supplement (1949)

In the case of the Civil Practice Act, Criminal Practice Act and Crimes and Punishments Act of 1911, which were omitted from Statutes of Nevada 1911 as authorized by chapter 84, Statutes of Nevada 1911, the reviser has employed the following abbreviations in the legislative history:

- 1911 CPA—Civil Practice Act of 1911
- 1911 C&P—Crimes and Punishments Act of 1911

Appendix L

1 This material fact was actually disclosed in Petitioner's Writ
2 of Habeas Corpus Petition (See ECF No. 1 at 41). The only
3 Notice of Appeal on record was filed on 11/15/2022 which
4 was timely filed after the district court denied Petitioner's
5 Motion To Correct Illegal Sentence and Supporting Memorandum
6 on 11/7/2022 (See Exhibit 1, District Court Docket, and 7 Exhibit 2, Notice of Appeal).

8 Furthermore, the Nevada Supreme Court/Court of Appeals
9 actually dismissed Petitioner's Appeal based on the merits
10 rather than lack of jurisdiction (See Exhibit 3, Order of Affirmance).
11 The Petitioner's Supreme Court "Appellant's Opening Brief"
12 implicated the district court's jurisdiction in the very first 13 ground of his argument (See Exhibit 4, Appellant's Opening Brief).
14 This argument was made and based upon Nevada's own
15 established caselaw, Edwards v. State, 112 Nev. 704 (1996) and/or 16 the provisions of NRS 176.555 (The court may correct an illegal 17 sentence at any time).

18 The grounds in this Petition challenge the jurisdiction of 19 Nevada courts to utilize the Nevada Revised Statutes (a.k.a. "NRS")
20 These grounds are not subject to the one-year limitation period
21 as explained in Kelly v. US, 29 F.3d 1107, 1113-1114 (7th Cir. 1994)
22 "When challenging a jurisdiction error the defendant need not show
23 cause and prejudice..." quoting an unpublished opinion US v. Broadwell, 24 LEXIS 6366 (9th Cir. 1992). The court's jurisdiction cannot be waived.
25 See Freytag v. Commissioner of Int. Revenue, 501 US 868 (1991) (discussing 26 the "non-waivability" of lack of subject-matter jurisdiction).
27 Arguments attacking a court's subject-matter jurisdiction can 28 neither be waived nor forfeited. Class v. US, 138 S. Ct. 798, 200

1 L. Ed. 2d 37 (2018). Rule 12(h)(3) of the Federal Rules of 2 Civil Procedure further addresses the lack of Subject-Matter
3 Jurisdiction: "If the court determines at any time that it
4 lacks subject-matter jurisdiction, the court must dismiss the 5 action." In addition, the motion vehicle used in the Petitioner's
6 post-conviction petition in the state court is also exempted from 7 time limitations "motions to correct an illegal sentence are not
8 subject to the time bars and procedural hurdles limiting other
9 types of appeals." Collier v. Bayer, 408 F. 3d 1279, 1287 (9th Cir. 2005),
10 Every Nevada court has an independent duty to assure
11 itself that its jurisdiction is properly had, and as a result parties
12 can raise jurisdictional defect at any time. Kelly at 113, quoting
13 Landreth v. Malik, 127 Nev. 175, 179 (2011); Barber v. State, 131
14 Nev. 1065, 1069 (2015). Ineffective assistance of counsel is a
15 ground, for example, which would trigger the one-year
16 limitation period. A Due Process claim (5th and 14th U.S.
17 Constitutional violation) as demonstrated by Petitioner's Habeas
18 Petition would not trigger a time bar (supra).

19 This is the Petitioner's initial Federal post-conviction review, 20 not a successive petition, and is entitled to bring a claim to 21 Federal Court to determine whether or not he is being held 22 unconstitutionally in violation of his Due Process rights as 23 guaranteed by the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to 24 the U.S. Constitution. To dismiss Petitioner's Habeas action
25 with prejudice as untimely would be a fundamental 26 miscarriage of justice.
