IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

No. 24-6818

MATTHEW RYAN HUNT, PETITIONER

v.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

ON PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI
TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE FOURTH CIRCUIT

MEMORANDUM FOR THE UNITED STATES IN OPPOSITION

Petitioner contends (Pet. 7-18) that 18 U.S.C. 922(g)(1), the federal statute that prohibits a person from possessing a firearm if he has been convicted of "a crime punishable by imprisonment for a term exceeding one year," ibid., violates the Second Amendment on its face and as applied to him. For the reasons set out in the government's brief in opposition in French v. United States, No. 24-6623 (filed Apr. 11, 2025), the contention that Section 922(g)(1) is facially unconstitutional does not warrant this Court's review. As the government explained in French, that contention plainly lacks merit, and every court of appeals to consider the issue since United States v. Rahimi, 602 U.S. 680 (2024), has determined that the statute has at least some valid applications.

Similarly, for the reasons set out in the government's brief in opposition in Jackson v. United States, No. 24-6517 (filed Apr. 11, 2025), the contention that Section 922(g)(1) violates the Second Amendment as applied to petitioner does not warrant this Court's review. Although there is some disagreement among the courts of appeals regarding whether Section 922(g)(1) is susceptible to individualized as-applied challenges, that disagreement is shallow. See Br. in Opp. at 12-15, Jackson, supra (No. 24-6517). This Court has previously denied plenary review when faced with a similarly narrow disagreement among the circuits about the availability of as-applied challenges to Section 922(g)(1). See id. at 15. And any disagreement among the circuits may evaporate given the Department of Justice's recent re-establishment of the administrative process under 18 U.S.C. 925(c) for granting relief from federal firearms disabilities. See Br. in Opp. at 15-16, Jackson, supra (No. 24-6517).

For two independent reasons, this case would also be a poor vehicle to determine whether Section 922(g)(1) is susceptible to individualized as-applied challenges. First, Section 922(g)(1) does not raise any constitutional concerns as applied to petitioner. Petitioner's lengthy criminal record includes felony convictions for burglary and breaking and entering, as well as convictions for domestic battery and gross neglect of a child.

PSR ¶¶ 54, 60-61, 65, 67. Given petitioner's criminal history, he cannot show that he would prevail on an as-applied challenge in any circuit. See, e.g., United States v. Schnur, No. 23-60621, 2025 WL 914341, at *5 (5th Cir. Mar. 26, 2025) (rejecting an as-applied challenge brought by a felon with a previous conviction for burglary).

Second, petitioner did not preserve a Second Amendment challenge in the district court. See Gov't C.A. Br. 12; Gov't C.A. Supp. Br. 10-12. Throughout the time that Rahimi was pending and after it was decided, this Court consistently denied petitions raising Second Amendment challenges to Section 922(g)(1) when the petitioners failed to preserve their claims in the lower courts. See, e.g., Trammell v. United States, 145 S. Ct. 561 (2024) (No. 24-5723); Chavez v. United States, 145 S. Ct. 459 (2024) (No. 24-5639); Dorsey v. United States, 145 S. Ct. 457 (2024) (No. 24-5623). At the very least, the parties' dispute about whether petitioners' claims are subject to plain-error review, see Pet. App. 3a-6a, makes this case a poor vehicle for addressing the questions presented.

The petition for a writ of certiorari should be denied.*

Respectfully submitted.
