QUESTION(S) PRESENTED

What is at stake? If a person with a disqualifying conflict of interest or bias participates in a matter the legal results will depend on the kind of matter at hand. (It is important to note here that if no one challenges the board's decision in court the only consequences are the political ramifications of eroded justice, where the principles and integrity of the justice system are weakened or undermined, leading to a decline in public trust and fairness. This can manifest in various ways, including: delayed or inefficient legal processes, compromised independence of the judiciary, unequal access to justice, and a weakening of fundamental rights.
