Documentations presented with perjury statements further in violation of Supreme Court ruling of Cabel v. Case stating that delay in the entering of any judgments in PCR cases are invalid and void due to petitioner being incompetent to move forward in PCR proceedings in which this delay in the entering of judgment only applies to criminal proceedings and since PCR are civil proceedings with civil rules PCR cases do not apply. Thus all (8) delays were void and unconstitutional done meaningfully to delay judgment thus further due process violations state and federal as well as equal protection violation unduly delay in entering of judgment in PCR proceedings done to Statutes clearly states that if the state proceedings are ineffective to the petitioner's rights he has the right to by pass the state proceedings and move forward with federal review in which the petitioner has done yet still denied. If this court review case thoroughly with all filings pro se exhibits evidence and supporting documents there would be no way any court would rule against the petitioner other than due to being bias racist and perjury in which this country has been built upon refusing to change or let go of such ways.
