How can I get an ID card if I don't have a birth certificate?

Question

How can I get an ID card if I don't have a birth certificate?

Answer

Identification card applicants who are 65 years or older, and can attest that they have never been issued a birth certificate because their birth was never recorded with a state office of vital statistics, may present other forms of identification as a primary document of identification, along with the necessary secondary document of identification, for an Indiana identification card. Please view the BMV's identification requirements list \(http://www.in.gov/bmv/3470.htm\) to make sure you have proper identification before visiting a license branch. Indiana residents of any age may obtain an identification card from any license branch in any county.

Individuals who are 65 years or older may present, as primary documents:

- Medicaid/Medicare card
- Social Security benefits statement
- Property deed
- Property tax statement
- Bank statement
- US Veteran's Access Photo ID card
- Marriage/divorce decree
- Pension statement

Please note that secondary documents, and other documents proving residency, are still required for most transactions. Identification card applicants who are younger than 65 years of age and who do not have an original copy of their birth certificate should bring another document from the primary group of identification documents or contact the health department or department of vital statistics in their county or state of birth to obtain a new copy of their original birth certificate.

To be accepted by the BMV, a birth certificate must be an original copy with a raised seal issued by the health department or department of vital statistics in the applicant's county or state of birth. Birth certificates issued by hospitals or other organizations will not be accepted.

For more information, please visit "Getting an ID card" (<http://www.in.gov/bmv/3700.htm>) or e-mail the BMV at bmvresponse@bmv.in.gov.
