ASCAP DOES NOT LICENSE...

ASCAP does not license "dramatic" rights...

ASCAP members who write musical plays, operas, or ballet scores deal directly with those who want to perform their works "dramatically." The ASCAP license does authorize non-dramatic performances of songs from dramatic productions.

ASCAP does not license the right to record music...

ASCAP does not license the right to print copies of musical works...

ASCAP does not license rights for recording artists, musicians, singers or record labels...

ASCAP is the U.S. Performing Rights Organization owned and run by songwriters, composers and music publishers.
