Message Board Overview

Listen

You Are Not Alone

The power and comfort of learning from and sharing with others who face the same challenges can be invaluable. Most of our message board members have told us that their community experience at WebMD truly helped them cope, manage, and, for many, thrive in ways they could not have achieved alone.

WebMD Message Boards is a gathering spot for WebMD members. The message board area provides opportunities to read what other members are talking about, to share your opinion and ask questions, and get information from our experts.

WebMD Newsletters address the important issues that affect your health and well-being. Sign up and you'll receive medical information and features on the latest health discoveries and topics, interactive tools to help you assess your health, and information from our experts on staying healthy or combating illness. In addition, newsletter subscribers also receive News Alerts that offer bulletins on the most important health news in your area of interest.

WebMD has always been at the forefront of community development. Our message board members have published books, written poetry, and even formed lifelong friendships. We hope you can make a valuable connection as well.
