SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

Present: Chief Justice Roberts, Justice Thomas, Justice Alito, Justice Sotomayor, Justice Kagan, Justice Kavanaugh, Justice Barrett, and Justice Jackson.

The Chief Justice said:

“The Court is in special session this afternoon to receive the resolutions of the Bar of the Supreme Court in tribute to Justice Sandra Day O’Connor. The Court recognizes the Solicitor General.”

The Solicitor General said:

“Mr. Chief Justice, and may it please the Court:

“At a meeting today of the Bar of this Court, resolutions memorializing our deep respect and affection for Justice Sandra Day O’Connor were adopted unanimously.

“Today, the Bar of this Court gathers to pay tribute to Justice O’Connor, a trailblazing and bridge-building jurist who served the nation for more than 24 years as an Associate Justice of this Court.

“Justice O’Connor was a towering historic figure, a brilliant lawyer, and a woman of true grit and tremendous personal courage. She was also a great American patriot. Justice O’Connor loved this country deeply and worked every day to help improve it.

“Overcoming discrimination, she expanded the horizons of opportunity for working women and inspired generations with her model of humble, principled public service.

“She also possessed an inexhaustible work ethic. She authored more than 600 opinions for the Supreme Court, each proving her dedication to the service of her country and the principle of equal justice under law.

“Sandra Day was born in 1930 in El Paso, Texas. She grew up on the Lazy B Ranch in southeastern Arizona, where the rigors of ranch life instilled in her the grit and appreciation for hard work that served her throughout her life. In fact, she later described where she grew up as, ‘no country for sissies.’

“She excelled academically, enrolling in Stanford University at the age of 16 and finishing her undergraduate studies and her law degree in six years. At Stanford Law School, she met her future husband of 57 years, John O’Connor, while they were both cite-checking for the Stanford Law Review.

“Despite graduating near the top of her class, Justice O’Connor had difficulties landing a job. The major California law firms of the day refused even to interview women, and the one that did interview her offered her a job as a secretary.

“Undeterred, Justice O’Connor turned her sights to the public sector. She was hired by the District Attorney’s Office in San Mateo, California, at first for no salary and without an office, and thus began what would prove to be a long and storied career in public service.

“After John O’Connor’s graduation, he was commissioned into the Army Judge Advocate Corps. He was posted to Frankfurt, Germany, where Justice O’Connor worked as a civilian attorney for the United States Quartermaster Corps. Following this service, the two returned to Arizona, where Justice O’Connor opened her own law practice.

“During this time, she balanced the competing demands of marriage, raising three sons, and the still-limited opportunities for professional women, all while remaining extensively involved in civic organizations and local politics.

“In 1965, Justice O’Connor took a position as a State Assistant Attorney General. Just a few years later, in 1969, she was appointed to fill a vacant seat in the Arizona State Senate, where she was later elected Senate Majority Leader, the first woman in the country to lead a state legislative upper house.

“In 1975, she won election to a seat on the Superior Court for Maricopa County. And in 1979, she was appointed to the Arizona Court of Appeals.

“In 1981, President Reagan nominated Justice O’Connor to this Court. Recognizing her superior intellect and outstanding qualifications, and, no doubt encouraged by her poise and personal warmth, the Senate confirmed Justice O’Connor unanimously by a vote of 99 to zero.

“As the first woman to serve on the Supreme Court in its then 192-year history, Justice O’Connor left an enduring legacy on this Court, on our law, and on the country in countless ways. For example, her Western roots and her long service in state government gave Justice O’Connor an acute appreciation for the role of the states in our system of federalism.

“She elucidated the principles of federalism in opinions like Gregory against Ashcroft and New York against United States, policing the line between state and federal power.

“She also authored influential opinions on Equal Protection doctrine, emphasizing the equality of all Americans regardless of race before the law.

“Justice O’Connor also wrote eloquently of the Constitution’s promise of religious freedom and religious equality for all, defending the rights of religious people and institutions to participate freely and fully in American life.

“In all areas, Justice O’Connor remained attuned to the practical nature of the law, embracing pragmatism and judicial restraint, qualities that dovetailed with her prior experience in the legislative arena.

“Her deliberate, cautious, moderate approach defined this Court’s jurisprudence for decades on a host of issues, including federalism, constitutional structure, voting rights, affirmative action, civil rights, criminal procedure, and many others.

“Off the bench, Justice O’Connor was no less influential on the Court’s social life. From morning aerobics classes to afternoon tennis matches, Justice O’Connor’s tireless energy and her competitive spirit lifted the building and all those who were brave enough to follow her.

“And her commitment to fostering collegiality was renowned. She was praised by Justice Thomas as the glue of the Court. She revived the tradition of lunches for the Justices after oral arguments and conferences, where everything was on the table for discussion except the cases.

“That compassion for the individual extended to her generations of law clerks, who fondly remember her as a lifelong mentor who cared for them and their families long after they left her service.

“Even after Justice O’Connor retired from the Court to care for her husband’s health, she remained active in public life. Her proudest contribution was her work to promote civic education, a commitment dating back to her days in Arizona.

“Today, millions of students across the country learn about our nation’s basic founding ideals through programs founded in her retirement by Justice O’Connor.

“When President Reagan announced her nomination to the Supreme Court, he admirably summarized Justice O’Connor’s character by stating, ‘She is truly a person for all seasons possessing those unique qualities of temperament, fairness, intellectual capacity, devotion to the public good, which have characterized the 101 Justices who have preceded her.’

“Gathered here together to look back at her life, the members of the Bar of the Supreme Court express our profound admiration and respect for the late Justice Sandra Day O’Connor, our deep sense of loss upon her death, our appreciation for her contributions to the law and the nation, and our gratitude for her life of trailblazing and extraordinary achievements.

“On behalf of the Supreme Court Bar, it is my privilege to present to the Court the Resolutions adopted today so that the Attorney General may move their inscription on the Court’s permanent record.”

The Chief Justice said:

“Thank you, General Sauer.

“The Court recognizes the Attorney General of the United States.”

The Attorney General said:

“Mr. Chief Justice, and may it please the Court:

“To the O’Connor family, to members of this Court, and to the members of the Bar, I am honored to be here today to pay tribute to the life and legacy of Justice Sandra Day O’Connor.

“Justice O’Connor’s life embodied the American dream. She grew up on a ranch in southeastern Arizona far from this great institution where she would one day leave her mark. Yet, through her determination, extraordinary work ethic, brilliant intellect, unwavering commitment to serving her country, she rose to serve on the highest court in the land.

“She not only shaped the laws of our nation but inspired generations of judges, lawyers, and law students. As a girl, I vividly remember my mom giving me a plaque with her picture on it.

“Yet one of my favorite quotes was, ‘I think the important thing about my appointment is not that I will decide cases as a woman but that I am a woman who will get to decide cases.’

“Justice O’Connor’s opinions reflect a deep commitment to the rule of law while also understanding the real-world impact of the Court’s decisions in cases affecting the rights of victims involved in prosecutions who witness some of the most difficult questions in front of the Court.

“In Maryland v. Craig, Justice O’Connor wrote for the Court that the Constitution permitted a child victim of sexual abuse to testify through closed-circuit television instead of having to testify face-to-face with the accused abuser. This protected children for generations.

“In doing so, she endeavored to faithfully apply the Constitution’s guarantees for criminal defendants while still protecting the most vulnerable in our judicial system. Of course, many law students will forever associate Justice O’Connor with her opinion in Strickland v. Washington, which established the standard for ineffective assistance of counsel claims.

“Decisions such as these and many others reflect the thoughtfulness and practical wisdom that defined Justice O’Connor’s approach as a Justice. This approach earned the deep respect and admiration of her colleagues, her clerks, and the many members of the Court staff who worked alongside her.

“And this respect and admiration for her was evident long before she arrived at the Supreme Court. It was evident when she served as an Assistant Attorney General in Arizona, Majority Leader of the Arizona State, on the Arizona Superior Court for Maricopa County, and the Arizona Court of Appeals.

“In every role she held throughout her career, she served her country with absolute distinction, and she did so for 24 years as the first woman ever to serve on this Court.

“She leaves behind more than just influential court opinions, but a legacy of integrity, dedicated public service, and love for America and its civic institutions.

“In her own words, ‘We don’t accomplish anything in this world alone, and whatever happens is the result of the whole tapestry of one’s life and all the weavings of individual threads from one to another that create something.’

“It is my distinct privilege to submit these Resolutions to honor the lasting legacy of Justice O’Connor.

“Mr. Chief Justice, I respectfully request that the Resolutions presented in honor of Justice Sandra Day O’Connor be accepted by the Court and that together with the chronicle of these proceedings they be ordered preserved for all time in the records of this Court.

“Thank you.”

The Chief Justice said:

“Your motion is granted, and the Resolutions and chronicle of these proceedings will be made part of the permanent record of the Court.

“Thank you, General Bondi and General Sauer, for your presentations in memory of Justice Sandra Day O’Connor.

“We also extend our appreciation to Co-Chairs William Nardini and Patricia Bellia and members of the Committee on Resolutions and to Co-Chairs Ruth McGregor and Scott Bales and members of the Arrangements Committee.

“As you have heard, Justice Sandra Day O’Connor was born in El Paso, Texas, on March 26, 1930, and grew up on the 198,000-acre Arizona ranch called the Lazy B. She attended Stanford University for college and law school, and despite graduating near the top of her law school class, a class that included William Rehnquist, she was unable to find paid employment in the law. The future Justice thus began her legal career in 1952 as an unpaid Assistant District Attorney.

“She later followed her husband and fellow Stanford law grad, John O’Connor, to Germany during his Army posting, and over the next decade, the O’Connor family grew to five with the addition of three boys, born in 1958, 1960, and 1962.

“Between 1965 and 1980, Sandra O’Connor served in all three branches of the Arizona government. She began as an Assistant Attorney General before entering the state Senate in 1969. Four years later, she became the first woman to serve as Arizona’s or any state’s Majority Leader.

“Now, after two terms in the Senate, she found her true calling as a judge. Following four years as a trial judge, Judge O’Connor was elevated to the Arizona Court of Appeals, where she was serving when President Reagan came calling in the summer of 1981 upon the retirement of Associate Justice Potter Stewart.

“Now, although Judge O’Connor was largely unknown in most Washington circles, she was not at all a stranger to the Supreme Court. In addition to her friendship with then Justice Rehnquist from their Stanford days, soon to be Justice O’Connor was known and admired by Chief Justice Warren Burger, whom the O’Connors had helped host during a boating trip on Lake Powell a few years earlier.

“I met then Judge O’Connor 45 years ago at the time of her nomination to serve as the 102nd member of the Supreme Court. As a rookie lawyer fresh off a clerkship with Justice Rehnquist, I had just taken a job as a Special Assistant to Attorney General William French Smith. Among my first assignments was helping the nominee prepare for her confirmation hearing.

“Now I later learned from biographer Evan Thomas that her main recollection of my role was that I was slow in getting materials to her. All I can say is that it was 1981 and Xeroxing took time.

“In any event, I think it’s safe to say that Justice O’Connor did not really need our help anyway as she was confirmed 99 to zero. The absent vote was that of Max Baucus of Montana, an ardent O’Connor supporter who was so chagrined about missing the historic vote that he sent her a gift to make amends.

“It is difficult today to appreciate what it was like to be a woman lawyer or judge before Justice O’Connor blazed the trail as the first. The distance between now and then is not only a measure of time but also a measure of Justice O’Connor’s life and work. In nearly a quarter century on the Court, she was a strong, influential, and iconic jurist. Her leadership reshaped the entire legal profession.

“Indeed, she was so successful that the barriers she broke are today almost unimaginable. But not so in her lifetime. Sandra Day O’Connor had to study and launch a career in the law when the profession did not welcome women lawyers let alone judges. That was true in politics too, where she began her public life.

“At every turn, she ignored the critics and doubters, moving forward in her own inimitable style and always getting it done with characteristic excellence in every role.

“She and her husband, John, were supremely skilled at bringing people together, combining a rich social life with their devotion to each other and their three sons of whom they were so proud, all as Justice O’Connor rose to become the most important woman in our government and in many ways in the country as a whole.

“I admired Justice O’Connor from a distance of approximately six feet, which is all that separates the advocates at the lectern from the bench in this courtroom. She was on the bench for all of my arguments. As a questioner, as in most other things in her life, she was direct. Her questions typically came early and always cut right to the heart of the matter.

“When Justice O’Connor found out that I had been nominated to fill her seat, she is reported to have said that I was good in every way except one—I did not wear a skirt. Fortunately, that qualified endorsement seemed to be good enough, so I was not put to any difficult personal choices.

“Of course, Chief Justice Rehnquist passed away shortly thereafter. That meant a different promotion for me and the unforgettable opportunity to sit alongside Justice O’Connor for my first four months on the Court, as she graciously postponed her planned retirement until her successor, Justice Alito, joined the Court. By then, of course, Justice O’Connor was a living legend and a role model for the next generation of lawyers, women and men, who aspired to careers in the law and public service.

“She left the bench at age 75, which is early in our line of work. Once again, duty called, in this instance, to care for her husband and to embark on a new mission to promote civics education.

“One of her signal projects, iCivics, has brought quality educational materials to almost 10 million U. S. students since its founding in 2009. It stands today as an enduring legacy of the Justice’s path-breaking work off the bench.

“From her earliest days on the Lazy B, Sandra Day O’Connor approached every challenge with courage and determination. She changed for the better what it meant to be and to look like a judge. Her boundless energy and utter lack of pretense served her and our branch well.

“And her model as a wife, mother, legislator, jurist, educator, public servant, and historic first continues to inspire all of us to, in her words, ‘get it done.’ She was, as President Reagan so memorably put it, a person for all seasons.”
