

Supreme Court of the United States

OCTOBER TERM-1970

In the Matter of:

JAMES EDMUND GROPPY

Appellant

vs.

STATE OF WISCONSIN

Appellee

Docket No. 26

RECEIVED
SUPREME COURT, U.S.
MARSHAL'S OFFICE
DEC 21 12 34 PM '70

Duplication or copying of this transcript by photographic, electrostatic or other facsimile means is prohibited under the order form agreement.

Place Washington, D.C.

Date December 7, 1970

ALDERSON REPORTING COMPANY, INC.

300 Seventh Street, S. W.

Washington, D. C.

NA 8-2345

C O N T E N T S

ARGUMENTS

PAGE

MRS. ELIZABETH B. DUBOIS, ESQ.
10 Columbus Circle
New York, New York, 10019
On Behalf of Appellant

4

MR. SVERRE O. TINGLUM, ESQ.
State Capitol
Madison, Wisconsin 53702
On Behalf of Appellee

24

FURTHER ARGUMENT OF MRS. DUBOIS
On Behalf of Appellant

43

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

OCTOBER TERM -- 1970

JAMES EDMUND GROPP

Appellant

vs.

STATE OF WISCONSIN

Appellee

No. 26

Washington, D.C.

Monday, December 7,
1970

The above-entitled matter came on for argument at 1:25 o'clock, p.m.

BEFORE:

WARREN E. BURGER, Chief Justice
HUGO L. BLACK, Associate Justice
WILLIAM O. DOUGLAS, Associate Justice
JOHN M. HARLAN, Associate Justice
WILLIAM J. BRENNAN, JR., Associate Justice
POTTER STEWART, Associate Justice
BYRON R. WHITE, Associate Justice
THURGOOD MARSHALL, Associate Justice
HENRY BLACKMUN, Associate Justice

1
2 APPEARANCES:

3 MRS. ELIZABETH DUBOIS, ESQ.
4 On Behalf of James Edmund Groppi

5 MR. SVERRE O. TINGLI
6 On Beh. of the State of Wisconsin
7
8

9 *****
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

P R O C E E D I N G S

1 MR. CHIEF JUSTICE BURGER: We'll hear argument next in 2 No. 26, Groppi against Wisconsin. Mrs. DuBois, you may pro-
3 ceed whenever you're ready.

4 ARGUMENT OF MRS. ELIZABETH B. DUBOIS, ESQ.

5 ON BEHALF OF APPELLANT

6 MRS. DUBOIS: Mr. Chief Justice and may it please the 7 Court. This case is here on appeal from the Supreme Court of 8 Wisconsin. It involves the criminal conviction of Father James 9 E. Groppi for resisting arrest during the civil rights demon-
10 stration which took place in August of 1967.

11 At issue is the constitutionality of the Wisconsin stat-
12 ute which prohibited the change in venue in Father Groppi's 13 case because he was charged with a misdemeanor rather than a 14 felony.

15 The facts of the case, briefly stated, are as follows:
16 Father Groppi, a Roman Catholic priest, advisor to the NAACP
17 youth council has been an active civil rights leader for a num-18 ber of years in Milwaukee. He was arrested on August 31, 1967.
19 He was charged with resisting arrest, a misdemeanor punishable 20 under Wisconsin law by a maximum of one year and a $500 fine.

21 He was convicted after a jury trial, on February 9, 1968.
22 The testimony at trial is laid out in some detail in our brief, 23 is significant in two respects. First it is clear that the ac-
24 tivities from which his criminal charge arose are considered 25 crimes of major proportions by the People of Milwaukee, what-

1 ever the technical classification of the crime in which he 2 was charged.

3 Thus the defendants' arrest occurred in the course of a 4 civil rights march, protesting a proclamation issued by the 5 mayor of Milwaukee banning all marches and demonstrations from 6 4:00 p.m. to 9:00 a.m. for a thirty day period.

7 That proclamation had itself been issued in response to 8 a series of civil rights demonstrations, marches, and activities 9 participated in by Father Groppi and the youth council. The 10 testimony is also significant in that the States and the Def-
11 enses' versions of the facts essential to his guilt or innocence 12 on the resisting arrest charge were in basic conflict. The 13 States' witnesses testified that while Father Groppi was being 14 carried in a limp position to the police wagon, he kicked the 15 policeman who was carrying him by the left leg, meanwhile 16 shouting a profanity. Defense witnesses testified that that 17 same officer had gouged Father Groppi's leg and that it was in 18 response to that that Father Groppi demanded his name and badge 19 number. The Defense denied that there had been any kicking and 20 any profanity.

21 The defendant moved prior to trial for a change in venue 22 on the grounds that massive and prejudicial news coverage that 23 he had received as a civil rights leader and in connection with 24 this case in Milwaukee County had created community prejudice 25 preventing an impartial jury trial in that county. He asked for

1 an opportunity to proove the nature and extent of that news
2 coverage and its effect on the community and on the liklihood 3 of an impartial trial in that county.

4 This motion was denied without an evidentury hearing on 5 the sole ground that the Wisconsin statute at issue prohibited
6 a change of venue in misdemeanor cases. The defendant charged 7 the validity and constitutionality of--

8 Q. At this point did the statute in so many terms pro-9 hibit the change in venue in misdemeanor cases?

10 A. Today, Your Honor, or at the time of--- 11 Q. Then. At that time.

12 A. At that time the statute as interpreted by the trial
13 court in its terms probibited. The trial court interpreted it 14 very specifically to prohibit change of venue. It was on that 15 ground that it denied the motion. The Supreme Court of Wiscon-16 sin, in its opinion, again interprets that statute to absolutely 17 prohibit change in venue in a misdemeanor case.

18 Q. The statute certainly does not mention misdemeanors, 19 does it?

20 A. It does not mention it. It says only that in a felony 21 case a change in venue may be allowed, but the Wisconsin Sup-22 reme Court opinion specifically says both that the motion was 23 denied on the ground that the statute provided for change in 24 venue only in felony matters, that's 208 of the record, and then 25 the Supreme Court itself said the applicable statute specifies

1 that a change in venue based on community prejudice shall only 2 be permitted in felony cases.

3 Q Is there a constitutional right to a change in venue
4 in any kind of a case? Fully apart from the statute?

5 A Your Honor, it's our contention that---

6 Q On sufficient showing of community prejudice.

7 A On a sufficient showing of community prejudice, a 8 change of venue may be constitutionally required and that this 9 statute is subject to due process challenge. Because it absol-
10 utely prohibits change of venue without even according a right 11 to hearing in which one can show the kind of community prejud-12 ice that would justify a change of venue.

13 Q You can sense I'm struggling with the question of 14 why the Wisconsin Court interpreted its statute in the way it 15 did when it didn't refer, make any mention to misdemeanor 16 cases whatsoever.

17 A Maybe it's because the statute, the language of the 18 statute seems to assume that no change of venue exists except 19 for the statute and that it's because of the statute that 20 a change of venue is allowed in a felony case. And Wisconsin 21 itself recognized a federal due process right to change of ven-22 ue, only after the statute had been enacted.

23 Q Is it possible, Mrs. DuBois, that you might have a 24 situation where the original jurisdiction having a special mis-25 demeanor court conceivable there might be no other place where

1 they had a comparable court. What would that do to your ar-
2 gument? What would that do with respect to this problem?

3 A You mean that in a particular county, for example, 4 in Wisconsin there might be a special misdemeanor court that 5 other counties---

6 Q There might be no other misdemeanor court anywhere 7 else in the state, in some states.

8 A It seems to me, Your Honor, that if there was a show-9 ing in such a case that community prejudice was such that it 10 was impossible to try that misdemeanor in that county that the 11 state would simply have to provide some means of trying him in 12 another county. The fact that a specific misdemeanor court did 13 not exist it seems to me would not be a barr to that. Certainly 14 another court would be able to try the case. Or the state court 15 would simply have the burden of providing some means of trying 16 it somewhere else. If it was going to try the case at all.

17 Q While I have you interrupted, what impact, if any, 18 is there from the fact that the Wisconsin legislature has now 19 extended the change of venue provisions to cover misdemeanor
20 cases, as I understand it?

21 A Your Honor, I don't think there's any impact at all 22 in this case, because the Wisconsin statute that changed the 23 law which we refer to in the reply brief, page 2, footnote 1 24 specifically makes that change in the law prospective only. The 25 section we quote there applies to the entire newly revised

1 criminal procedure code, and it says that the code shall gov-
2 ern procesutions commenced on or after July 1, 1970. It says 3 the prosecutions commenced prior to July 1, 1970, shall be 4 governed by the law existing prior thereto. This prosecution 5 was commenced prior to that date, the trial itself was in 1968.

6 Q. Mrs. DuBois does the record show, I wish to be sure 7 as to this, whether there was any offer of proof as to comm-8 unity prejudice?

9 A. Yes, Your HOnor. On the original motion for a change 10 of venue, which appears in the appendix at pages 23-25, the 11 defendant offered, he asked the Court to take judicial notice 12 of the massive news coverage of this defendant and of this 13 particular case. And in addition he proffered proof as to the 14 nature and extent of the coverage and as to the effect on the 15 community. The motion was denied out of hearing. The specific 16 grounds the judge agve were not that inadequate evidence had 17 been produced but that the Wisconsin statute prohibited a 18 change of venue.

19 Q. Does the fact that the jury was expeditiously sel-20 ected weigh against that any suggestion of community pre-21 judice?

22 A. Well, I don't believe that it does because our con-23 tention that change of venue may in some cases depending on 24 the circumstances be constitutionally required because voir 25 dire and continuance and other available megethods would simply

1 not be adequate to protect the defendants right to an impartial
2 jury trial. Therefore, the fact that in the particular case 3 voir dire may have been expeditiously dispatched doesn't affect 4 the constitutional claim. The preemptory challenges were all 5 exercised in this case and there's simply no way of telling 6 what else went on at the voir dire.

7 Q Do you know whether under Wisconsin procedure coun-8 sel has the right to question prospective jurors?

9 A Well, Counsel has the right to question prospective 10 jurors. The state makes the argument that the defendant had 11 an opportunity to show community prejudice in this case, either 12 on voir dire or on a motion for a continuance, or on a motion 13 for a new trial, and it's the failure to do this that deprives 14 him of -- . Our answer to that is that his claim is that the 15 circumstances are such that only a change of venue can protect 16 his right to an impartial trial.

17 There is no reason that he should be required to pursue 18 remedies which he considers inadequate in order to get a re-19 cord of community prejudice. And we contend this is so par-20 ticularly because pursuit of those remedies might involve 21 waiver of vital constitutional rights and might be fruitless 22 in particular, both with continuance and with voir dire.

23 Continuance under Wisconsin law, had the defendant moved 24 for a continuance, he would have waived his right to a speedy 25 trial. Secondly the kind of proof he might have been able to

1 get in on a motion for a continuance would have meant that he 2 would indeed have been able to get a fair trial in Wisconsin, 3 eventually, and it's that very thing that he's claiming he 4 could not get.

5 As far as voir dire is concerned, he is allowed under 6 Wisconsin law to ask questions of particular jurors, presum-
7 ably it is with respect to whether or not they have heard
8 particular information or seen things. But he would not be al-9 lowed to bring in outside witnesses to show that the community
10 as a whole is exposed to prejudice, which is the kind of evidence 11 that this Court found in Rideau was relevant. In Rideau this 12 Court found that it was not the exposure of the three jurors
13 that was shown on voir dire that was relevant, they found it 14 was the exposure of the community as a whole. In voir dire there 15 would be no way, in Wisconsin or in any jurisdiction that I 16 know of, that the defendant could show that kind of exposure 17 of the community as a whole.

18 He would be limited to showing simply the exposure of 19 particular jurors.

20 Q Mrs. DuBois, what do you say about the States' point 21 that there was no prima facie shown in the motion, there was 22 just general conclusions?

23 A Well, the defendant is faced with a statute which 24 prohibited, as Wisconsin courts had interpreted it, prohibited
25 a change of venue. He did make conclusory allegations---

1 Q Is there any rule of Court or law in Wisconsin that 2 says you can't file exhibits to a motion?

3 A No, Your Honor, he could have, and he did in fact file 4 an affidavit which is in the record, and he did also ask the 5 Court to take judicial notice of the news coverage which many 6 Courts have in this kind of case, considered news coverage of 7 the being attached, but the most important thing---

8 Q Could you have put into the record what he wanted the 9 Court to take judicial notice, namely the clippings that he 10 said were so inflammatory?

11 A Well, Your Honor, two answers. He could have put 12 some of the clippings into the record, but he was denied any 13 opportunity to bring in witnesses, which is another important 14 way of showing community prejudice. He was denied any oppor-15 tunity.

16 Q But was he denied the opportunity to put in a thous-17 and affidavits or forty five hundred clippings, was he?

18 A No, he wasn't Your Honor, but that may be an inade-19 quate way of showing community prejudice.

20 Q Well, I mean, doesn't the Court have some control 21 over the fact that he wants prima facie shown?

22 A I agree. If either the trial court or the Supreme 23 Court of Wisconsin had ruled that his failure to get community
24 prejudice into the record had anything to do with his failure 25 to produce proof on the change of venue motion, but neither

1 of them went on those grounds.

2 The only contention--- The trial judge on that motion---

3 Q Do you say that we are prohibited from affirming on 4 that ground?

5 A I would say, not for that reason, Your Honor, but 6 I would say that where he proffered proof---

7 Q Where is this proffer of pooff?

8 (No response)

9 Q Page 24a?

10 (No response)

11 Q All I saw was a general statement which asked the 12 Court if they ever read the newspapers.

13 (No response)

14 Q There was an affadavit. Page 24a of the record.

15 A It's on page 23a of the record. The defendant re-16 quests that this Court take official notice of the massive 17 news coverage by all news media in this community, of the ac-
18 tivities of this defendant. Such activities as have been relat-19 ed to him, or the alternative that the defendant be permitted 20 to offer proof of the nature and extent thereof, its effect 21 upon this community and the right of the defendant to an im-22 partial jury trial.

23 Q Which newspaper article are you asking that Court to 24 take judicial notice of?

25 A Your Honor, there are masses of newspapers.

1 Q Well which one?

2 A None of them were attached, that is true. The Court--

3 Q You mean you want the Court to go back and research 4 through the newspapers and find the clippings?

5 A Your Honor, we're not---

6 Q Wouldn't you agree that it would have been much 7 simpler to have presented what you wanted the Court to take 8 judicial notice of?

9 A Your Honor, the defendant was faced with the statute 10 prohibiting change of venue. He came in and proffered proof and 11 asked the Court to take judicial notice. He also attached a 12 note by Father Groppi.

13 If the Court did not go on the ground that these things 14 were inadequate. If the Court had said at that point that these 15 things were inadequate, the defendant could have produced more 16 proof. What the Court ruled was that the defendant had no right 17 whatsoever to produce any proof and it did not even rule that 18 that proof was inadequate.

19 Q So you want to send the case back so that that evi-20 dence can be put in?

21 A No. Your Honor at this point the only appropriate 22 remedy would be to reverse the conviction, because at this 23 point to put in proof that's three years old as to the kind 24 of community prejudice that existed in---

25 Q You just want us to release it?

1 A I want the Court to---

2 Q You don't want a remand, you want just an out and 3 out reversal.

4 A A reversal so that the defendant could have a new 5 trial at which he could have an opportunity to show the kind 6 of community prejudice which would justify a change of venue 7 if indeed under circumstances---

8 Q Well, that's what I thought you were saying. You didn't 9 want a complete reversal, and turn him loose, did you?

10 (No response)

11 Q I understood you to say that it wasn't clear in this 12 case that a change of venue in a misdemeanor case in this state 13 was completely unpermissable. That it was only in this case 14 and that the decision of the trial court and then the subse-15 quent affirmance in the State Supreme Court that it became 16 clear. That the rather ambiguous language of the state statute 17 meant in only felony cases could you get a change of venue and 18 that they were absolutely forbidden in misdemeanor cases.

19 A It has never been held by the Supreme Court of Wis-20 consin, but I believe that it was commonly understood, by 21 Counsel in Wisconsin, that this was not allowed, that changes 22 of venue were not allowed in misdemeanor cases, and this is 23 that the language of the statute is that ambiguous because it 24 presumes that no change of venue is allowed. It permits change 25 of venue in a felony case---

1 Q Well, maybe by implication, I suppose, but I thought 2 you'd agreed earlier with Justice Blackmun when he said the 3 statutory language wasn't all that clear, and now in your re-4 sponses to Mr. Justice Marshall you say that the reason that 5 a better factual case wasn't put in for a change of venue was 6 that Counsel for the defendant knew he had a hopeless case 7 anyway because clearly there couldn't be a change of venue.
8 It seemed to be a little inconsistent. I wondered what you---

9 A I think that the statute and that the practice in 10 Wisconsin was fairly clear. That no change of venue would be 11 allowed in this case, and I think he produced adequate proof, 12 in any event an adequate proffer of proof so that the judge 13 should either have said this is not enough evidence or allowed 14 him to have an evidentiary hearing.

15 Q Well if, going back to a point raised before, if there 16 was that much community prejudice wouldn't it normally be a 17 matter that Counsel would explore very extensively in examining 18 the jurors? To be sure that he had eliminated such of those 19 persons that had been tainted by that excessive coverage that 20 you claim?

21 A There is no way of telling exactly what kind examin-22 ation that was made in this case but under Wisconsin law, as 23 under the law in most jurisdictions, the juror who has been 24 exposed to prejudicial news coverage may stay on the jury so 25 long as he can tell the judge that he has not formed an irrevoc-

1 able opinion that the defendant is guilty.

2 Q Did you make a motion for a new trial, Counselor?

3 A Your Honor, yes, after the motion for a change of 4 venue there was a motion before trial to dismiss challenging 5 this statute. There was also a motion for a new trial after-6 wards challenging the statute and in both cases the---

7 Q But did you ask, in your motion for a new trial, to 8 submit any evidence with respect to community prejudice?

9 A At that stage there was no evidence submitted, but 10 again, our argument is that the reasons that it's unnecessary 11 to submit evidence, or that it's unfair to require the defen-12 dant to get new evidence in at that stage is because it would 13 be fruitless.

14 In the first place---

15 Q The Court, I take it, the Wisconsin Court said that 16 they certainly weren't holding that you didn't have a right to 17 a fair trial.

18 A They say that Your Honor---

19 Q And that on a motion for a new trial that if there 20 had been evidence of strong community prejudice you could have 21 concluded---

22 A They say that, but this is the first case in which 23 they've indicated in any way that the way to get change of venue 24 on community prejudice into the case is on a motion for a new 25 trial and there are several cases indicating that the standard

1 for reversal on an unfair trial theory is entirely different 2 from the standard on a change of venue.

3 In the case of State vs. Nutley, which we cite in our 4 brief, the Wisconsin State Supreme Court case, they described 5 the two different standards very specifically. They describe 6 there that the standard on a change of venue motion is whether 7 there is ~~an argument~~ prejudice which might color the perceptions 8 of the jurors. They describe the standard on the reversal for 9 an unfair trial as whether the publicity was such that the 10 jurors could not help but predetermine the guilt of the def-11 endant.

12 Q What do you think the conditional standard is?

13 A I certainly don't think it's the second, and I don't 14 think this Court has made it quite clear in these cases that 15 it would not be a standard that the jurors clearly couldn't 16 help but predetermine the guilt of the defendant.

17 The other problem with introducing this evidence on a mo-18 tion for a new trial and the other reason that it would be 19 fruitless is that there's no indication that a change of venue
20 would be possible in Wisconsin even if such a motion were won.

21 Q Suppose the trial judge, at the conclusion of the 22 trial, after he had seen the whole panorama, decided that this 23 could have been a miscarriage of justice because of community 24 feeling permeating the jury. He might then, on some broad 25 ground, independent of the statute, decide to grant a new trial.

1 Isn't that so?

2 A. He might decide to grant a new trial, but a new trial
3 in the same community. I think that given this Wisconsin stat-
4 ute denying change of venue, that there would be no possibility 5 of their granting a change of venue and its our obvious con-6 tention in this case --- I mean, it's Groppis contention in 7 this case that a simple -- I mean, granted a new trial under 8 these circumstances would really be the same as granting a 9 continuance. That's his contention. That that would be an 10 inadequate remedy. Because, under the circumstances in this 11 particular case because of his continued civil rights activity, 12 because the prejudice really resulted from his notoriety as 13 a person, not from the facts of the particular crime.

14 There's no reason to believe that the prejudice would 15 disappear. In any event, our only real contention is that he 16 was entitled at least to a hearing to show that a continuance 17 would not have been an adequate remedy.

18 I'd just like to point out that the two cases which have 19 really dealt with a statute like Wisconsin's both held that on 20 a record where the defendant had no opportunity to get commun-21 ity prejudice in the change of venue motion hearing, the fact 22 that there was no community prejudice in the record is irrel-23 evant.

24 I'd like to just briefly discuss the argument. Our basic 25 argument is the statute is in violation of the defendants

1 rights, both under the due process and under the equal pro-
2 tection clauses of the Constitution.

3 We start with the fundamental proposition that a criminal 4 defendant in our system has a right to have his innocence or 5 guilt determined on the evidence by an impartial trier of fact.
6 Whether the case is a felony or a misdemeanor, a petty or a 7 serious offense. Since Wisconsin law provided that the trier
8 of facts in all criminal cases be a jury, it's our contention 9 that the defendant had a Federal due process right to all pro-10 ceedures essential to insure that that jury was impartial.

11 The Court below and the State contend that change of 12 venue is only one of several methods of insuring impartiality.
13 But it's our contention that the other methods available to him 14 deal with pretrial publicity have inherent limitations and that 15 therefore change in venue may under some circumstances be con-16 stitutionally necessary.

17 Continuance, as I said, may be ineffective, publicity may 18 revive and because it conflicts with the defendants right to 19 a jury trial.

20 Voir dire may also be ineffective for reasons I've already 21 described. And also for reasons that this Court in Rideau re-
22 cognized. In Rideau this Court based its finding that due pre-23 cess required a change of venue. In that case all the exposure
24 of the community to prejudicial publicity. It specifically re-25 fused to base its finding on a particularized examination of the 1 transcript of the voir dire proceedings.

2 If change of venue is required, depending on the circum-
3 stances, by due process, then we contend that it cannot be 4 limited to felony cases. But that there is no rationale for 5 this distinction because as this case indicates, community 6 prejudice may arise from the personality, the notoriety of the 7 individual, rather than the particular crime, and also from the 8 substance of the activities, not just from the technical charge.

9 Q Supposing you prevail. You think that Father Groppi 10 could get a fair trial now?

11 A I would think that there's no way of knowing, Your 12 Honor. I think that the only---

13 Q But you'd have the new statute in play, wouldn't you?
14 I suppose the new statute would give the judge a---

15 A Your Honor, I think that if we prevail, I think that 16 the solution would be a reversal of the conviction, and a new 17 trial at which he would have an opportunity to show that he 18 has a right to change of venue.

19 We don't claim that he has an absolute right to change of 20 venue. We don't claim that in this case. We don't know. We 21 claim he has a right to a hearing in which he can introduce 22 evidence to show that, that under the new statute of course 23 he would have that right in any event. Also under this Courts 24 reversal.

25 Q If the Court limited you to affidavits and exhibits

1 would you say that's a denial of due process?

2 A I'm sorry Your Honor I missed---

3 Q If the Court said that the only way you can show 4 prejudice is by affidavits and exhibits, would you say that's 5 a denial of due process?

6 A I would say that, Your Honor, I -- answer that as 7 an absolute rule. I can see that there might be circumstances 8 in which it was necessary to bring in people from the commun-9 ity to actually testify. Also it's been recognized that one of 10 the best ways of showing community prejudice is not the tradi-11 tional ways that have been used in the past, but is by some 12 kind of opinion poll, something that---

13 Q What more you want then, than you have in this case?

14 A You mean what more opportunity than there was in this 15 case?

16 Q Yes.

17 A Your Honor, I think that---

18 Q Your only complaint is that the judge would not let 19 you put on evidence. That's your only---

20 A No. It's not just that. It's that the judge would not 21 deal with the merits of the situation. The judge did not rule 22 that he would refuse to take judicial notice of the massive news 23 coverage. He did not rule that that---

24 Q That I agree on, for the sake of my question. But 25 you made no effort to. He couldn't have restricted you from

1 filing exhibits. He couldn't have restricted you and prohib-
2 ited you from filing affidavits. And we would have had some-3 thing to go on. But here, all we have is the affidavit of the 4 defendant that on the advice of his lawyer he didn't think he 5 could get a fair trial. That's all we have. Is that right?

6 A The affidavit of the defendant is also news coverage 7 which is not in the record but which was before the judge and 8 which was objected to---

9 Q Well, I don't read the Milwaukee newspapers.

10 A Your Honor, this Court has held in other cases, I 11 believe, well, in a case like Colon vs. Alabama that where the 12 Court refused to consider the issue or hold a hearing, that 13 that in itself is a denial of due process. And what we're as-14 king is a refusal not just to hold a hearing but to consider 15 the issue on the merits, that is a denial of due process.

16 That, for instance in the stated ex rel. Rico vs Biggs
17 case which declared unconstitutional a statute like this, there 18 is absolutely nothing in the record. All that happened was 19 exactly what happened in this case, where the defendant came in 20 and asked for a change of venue, the Court said that it wasn't 21 allowed for, and it was ruled that he at least had a chance to 22 at least be heard on the merits. It wasn't just that he denied 23 him a hearing, he refused to decide him on the merits, that 24 this coverage which he knew of which was inadequate or that 25 the coverage should have been brought in.

1 I would like to reserve whatever time I have.

2 Q Very well, Mrs. Dubois. Mr. Tinglum?

3 ARGUMENT OF MR. SVERRE O. TINGLUM, ESQ.

4 ON BEHALF OF APPELLEE

5 A MR. TINGLUM: Mr. Chief Justice, and if the Court 6 please.

7 I would like first of all just to mention briefly what is 8 a difference of opinion about the statement of facts. The 9 respondent did not take issue in the brief with the statement
10 of facts presented in the appellants brief. The misunderstanding 11 arises in this fashion. That the statement of facts in the 12 appellants brief contains considerable detail of what happened 13 at the trial, what the testimony of this witness was and what 14 the testimony of that witness was. And our disagreement arises 15 in that the defendant takes a position that such facts do not 16 have any relevance whatsoever with respect to the issue which 17 the appellant seeks to raise and seeks to have decided by this 18 Court.

19 The ground rules of this Court, as I understand them, 20 and as expressed by this Court in Meany vs. Hollohan and other 21 cases is that an appellant who seeks reversal of his conviction 22 on the grounds that he has been denied a constitutional right 23 must show that he and not some hypothetical member of the class
24 has been denied. Now

25 Now the constitutional right that the appellant seeks to

1 have vindicated here, is the Sixth Amendment right to trial by 2 an impartial jury. That is, a jury that is not affected by 3 community prejudice to the point where it cannot judge the 4 issues of fact impartially in the case. The constitutional 5 right sought to be vindicated is not change of venue, but the 6 right to an impartial jury.

7 Now the appellant says that under certain circumstances, 8 and this expression, or something similar to it, is found four 9 different places in the briefs filed by the appellant, the 10 Court is told that under certain circumstances a change of 11 venue may be constitutionally necessary even in a misdemeanor 12 case to protect the defendants right to a fair trial by an 13 impartial jury.

14 And the reason, we contend, that the appellant repeatedly 15 says, under some circumstances, this may be constitutionally 16 necessary is because the appellant recognized that this Court 17 has not been given a factual record, a factual setting, in 18 which the constitutional issue can be decided.

19 The question that the appellant seeks to raise is cer-20 tainly an interesting one, it's a tantalizing one, there's not 21 much law previous authority on the subject. There will apparently 22 be less in the future because of the trend among the states 23 to grant changes of venue in all criminal cases and not to 24 limit the right to change of venue to felonies or capital crimes 25 or make such other distinctions.

1           It's the respondents position that the Court is being 2 asked to give an advisory opinion, and this Court has repeat-3 edly said in the past that it does not sit to give advisory 4 opinions.

5           Now the Wisconsin Supreme Court, in this case, decided, 6 made the decision on the constitutional issue raised and ar-
7 gued by the parties in that Court. And it's the respondents 8 position here that the Wisconsin Supreme Court should not have 9 done so. Because it did not have a factual record that would 10 raise the constitutional issue.

11           No one, to my knowledge raised to the Wisconsin Supreme 12 Court the question of the standing to challenge the consti-13 tutionality of that statute. The Court, there, had to , 14 when you look at the record, deal in abstractions, and this 15 Court has said, in the pasc, specifically refering to United 16 Public Workers vs. Mitchell, as one case, where this Court 17 has said it will not deal in abstractions, but it must be 18 presented with concrete, legal issues in factual settings be-19 fore it will undertake to decide the constitutionality of a 20 statute.

21           Q     I had understood the appellants theory to be that 22 since the trial court denied the motion for a change of venue, 23 not on the ground that there was no sufficient showing of 24 community prejudice, but rather on the ground that no matter 25 how much community prejudice you may show I cannot and will

1 not listen to any evidence along those lines because the stat-2 ute of this state absolutely forbids me to grant a change of 3 venue so any hearing on community prejudice would be a waste
4 of time for both of us. Therefore, we must assume in this case 5 that what this case amounts to is a denial of a hearing on 6 community prejudice and we may perhaps assume that there could 7 have and would have been an extraordinary showing of it, right 8 along the lines of Rideau against Louisiana, but that the 9 District Court said even assuming that kind of a case, I can't 10 hear it and won't hear it because I can't grant a change of 11 venue, anyway.

12 It makes it a little bit like that Chicago censorship 13 case where there was no evidence, either, really, of what the 14 movie was, but assuming the very most offensive imaginable 15 kind of a movie, the question was, was there any power to have 16 a prior restraint of the showing?

17 (No response)

18 Q. That is the position that Justice Heffernan took 19 in the dissent, wasn't it?

20 A. Yes, it is. As a matter of fact, the only Justice of 21 the Wisconsin Supreme Court that addressed himself, that seemed 22 to address himself to the appellants standing to raise the is-23 sue of constitutionality was Mr. Chief Justice Hallows, who 24 wrote a concurring opinion in which he expressed an opinion
25 on the constitutional question, but said that this record

1 showed no prejudice and therefore he would vote to affirm the 2 conviction below.

3 Q Page 20a and 21a, what is that document? It appeass 4 not to---

5 A 20a and 21a as I understand it, Mr. Justice Marshall, 6 is a document that was submitted to the trial court at the time
7 the trial court denied the motion to change the venue.

8 The defendant, as I understand it, presented this document 9 at 20 and 21, to the trial court and asked the court to sign 10 this document in which the court would find facts that were 11 more or less in accordance with the affidavits submitted by the 12 defendant and its also my understanding---

13 Q But I don't even know what it was attached to, do 14 I?

15 A By the--

16 Q Was it a separate document, or---

17 A I understand it was a separate document.

18 Q Well, how did it get in the record?

19 A It, I don't know---

20 Q You don't know---

21 A A fugitive document---

22 Q I can't blame you for it.

23 A I don't know.

24 Q -- It said in the record that the label--- facts --- 25 and conclusions of law, no other explanation. Do you know

1 A I don't know.

2 Q Did you challenge the inclusion decided in the ap-3 penix?

4 A I did not. I---

5 Q At best, it should have been labeled "proposed", 6 or something of that kind, should it not?

7 A It perhaps should have, but I assumed that this was 8 a document that the defendant asked the trial judge to sign 9 and he said No, I'm not going to sign it. You can file it if 10 you want, but I'm not going to sign it. I assume that's how 11 it found its way into the record but I don't know.

12 Q Do you know whether it is or it is not in the original 13 record, in the trial court and in the record before the Su-14 preme Court of Wisconsin?

15 A No, I do not. Again, I assume--- 16 Q I'm not suggesting you have a responsibility for this.

17 You did not bring the case here, of course.

18 A I don't know.

19 Q What position did the prosecution take below on this 20 question of publicity and burden of proof and the like?

21 A The prosecution at the trial court level took the 22 position that it would, that a change of venue, that the whole 23 question of a change of venue would be a problematic matter for 24 legislative regulation and that the Wisconsin legislature had 25 only acted to grant a right to change venue in felony cases.

1 The prosecution at the trial court level took the position that 2 inasmuch as the legislature had not granted, extended the right
3 to change of venue in misdemeanor cases, that it would resist, 4 and it did resist, or oppose the motion for a change of venue.

5 Now, regardless of, I feel somewhat at a disadvantage, 6 because here's the Wisconsin Supreme Court that has decided 7 the very issue that I claim would not be proper for this Court 8 to decide. Here again, this Court has said in the past, in the 9 Tilesen case, in Prant vs. Board of Public Instruction that 10 this Court will exercise its independent judgement on the 11 question of standing and will not simply follow the lead of 12 a state Supreme Court.

13 The Court has stated the question of standing as being one 14 of whether the defendant has sustained an injury by the stat-15 ute that is attacked, by enforcement of the statute that has 16 been attacked. The record in this case, when you compare it 17 with the record in Rideau, Irvin, Irvin vs. Dowd, Estes vs.
18 Texas, Sheppard vs. Maxwell, the record here doesn't even give 19 this Court an opportunity to say, well, it was even probable, as 20 it was even likely that this defendant had to go before a jury 21 from a community that was even probably prejudiced.

22 The facts simply aren't in the record.

23 Q Well, is it possible to say that the prosecution 24 prevented the presentation of such facts?

25 A No sir. I do not believe so. The Wisconsin Supreme

1 Court in its opinion said that there was no bar to the pre-
2 sentation of facts at trial court level. And the only thing
3 we find is this affadavit that has been discussed here earlier 4 on pages 24 and 25 which is in very general conclusory terms.

5 Now---

6 Q Well, then perhaps I misunderstood your last question.
7 I thought the state had taken a very positive position as to 8 the availability of a change of venue in a misdemeanor case 9 on grounds of community prejudice. And, if this is so, is the 10 state in a position to complain of the deficiency of the re-11 cord?

12 A I believe so and I think I misunderstood your earlier 13 question, and that is why I perhaps should have phrased the 14 answer differently.

15 The state could not have, that is the prosecution could 16 not have prevented, under any circumstances could not have 17 prevented the defendant from making a record of facts about 18 community prejudice. The opportunity was there for the de-19 fendant in the first place, to file, as Mr. Justice Marshall 20 has mentioned, to file affadavits, to file exhibits, newspaper 21 clippings, being denied that opportunity, after the first 22 denial of the motion, the defendant had many othtr opportunitits
23 to introduce the same evidence. A renewed motion for a change 24 of venue, with exhibits, with affadavits. The defendant had 25 an opportunity to file the same evidence with a motion for

1 continuance. It would have been relevant there. The defendant 2 had an opportunity to file the same type of evidence which 3 would have been relevant on a post trial or post verdict mo-4 tion for a new trial on the ground of community prejudice.

5 Furthermore, the defendant didn't avail himself of the 6 opportunity to make a record that courts have traditionally 7 considered of utmost importance, in community prejudice cases.
8 And that is a record on the voir dire examination. There cer-
9 tainly, we know that there's no request in the record anywhere 10 that the voir dire examination be reported. We have to assume 11 that there was a careful examination of jurors by defense 12 counsel at the trial, but we don't know. And the blame for 13 this can be laid at the door of defense, because it's the 14 defendss responsibility to make a record if it's goint to 15 stand of a constitutional issue, and hopes to show some re-16 viewing court that the defendant was denied a relevant con-17 stitutional right.

18 Q What was the name of that -- film case, in Chicago?

19 A I'm not---

20 Q That's quite a different area of the law, but I think 21 in this respect there is an analogy, having to do with the 22 right of censors. A movie, any movie, and the plaintiffs in 23 that case deliberately kept out of the record the nature of 24 the movie. And therefore asked the court to assume that it 25 was the worst possible kind of movie and said even on that

1 assumption our claim is there can be no censorship -- . There
2 was absolutely no evidence whatever of the nature of the movies
3 And the case was decided, the constitutional question was de-
4 cided as I remember by the Three Judge District Court and I 5 know by this Court that kind of a record, i.e. no record at 6 all.

7 A I would say that I would think that that would be 8 just the reverse of our situation. That we have, in this 9 case. Because in that sort of a case, you can safely assume 10 for constitutional purposes that the film was the worst possible 11 kind of garbage. But in this type of case you cannot assume that 12 Milwaukee was aflame with prejudice and that there were lynch 13 mobs roving the streets and crowds inside and outside the 14 courthouse yelling for the defendants blood.

15 You don't have any of the facts that were presented in 16 the records in the Rideau case, where there had been a tele-17 vised confession, you don't have any of the facts that were 18 presented to this Court in Irvin vs. Dowd, or in Sheppard vs.
19 Maxwell.

20 It seems to be, to me, exactly the reverse. Of that 21 situation.

22 Q The Court has held that there at least can be sit-23 uations where in order to comply with the requirements of 24 due process of law, there must be a change of venue. You 25 agree with that?

1 A Yes, I do.

2 Q The Rideau case is ont that comes to mind.

3 A Yes.

4 Q In this case, as I understand it, the state of 5 Wisconsin has said even in a Rideau case there cannot be a 6 change of venue if its a misdemeanor.

7 A That's correct. That's what the Wisconsin Supreme 8 Court said.

9 Q Right

10 And it's my, the respondents position here---

11 Q That it didn't deed to decide that.

12 A That it didn't need to decide that and shouldn't have.
13 Because it didn't have.

14 Now, if---

15 Q But you're really not defending the basic decision 16 of the State Supreme Court, are you?

17 A No.

18 Q That's the only issue here, though, isn't it?

19 A I don't believe it is, because this Court said that 20 it will exercise its independent judgement on the matter of 21 standing. And that, so that that is a new issue, and we 22 don't have to go to the Wisconsin Supreme Court to look at the 23 basis for their decision, because they didn't decide that 24 issue.

25 Looking at the record, all we know about this case was

1 that there was an arrest, at the end of August, 1967, there 2 were six postponements along the way that cannot be laid at 3 the door of either the defense or the prosecution, one of them
4 was caused by a mistrial. But there were a number of post-5 ponements. There was an affidavit of prejudice filed against 6 a judge and it was honored.

7 There were no exhibits filed. There was no renewal of the 8 motion for a change of venue. There was no request of the 9 Court that the voir dire examination be reported. The voir
10 dire was conducted and finished in one half a day, the jury 11 was selected. The state put in its case all in the course of 12 one afternoon. The defense put in its case the following morn-13 ing.

14 Q Was thereeever a motion made for a continuance based 15 on prejudice?

16 A No sir.

17 Q Did Counsel say that such a motion would have had 18 unfortunate consequences to the defense in the sense of a 19 speedy trial?

20 A Yes. The---

21 Q If you make a motion like that, for a continuance, 22 you waive your right to a speedy trial? Is that what you said?

23 A That's correct. And they may have a very valid rea-24 son for wanting a speedy trial and not wanting a continuance 25 and it was the defendants right to insist on observance of that

1 constitutional right to a speedy trial, therefore the def-
2 endant should not be compelled to make that motion in order
3 to make a record of community prejudice. That is the defense 4 position.

5 Q Although a change of venue would involve some delay.

6 A A change of venue would involve some delay. It or-7 dinarily does.

8 Q Was there any request in the moving papers as to 9 where the appropriate venue might be?

10 A It was in general language, to some county, as I 11 recall, where an impartial trial may be had.

12 Q But none was suggested specifically?

13 A No county was suggested specifically, and the motion
14 is on page 23. The motion is for a change of venue to a com-
15 munity where prejudice against this defendant does not exist 16 but there's no specific county mentioned or requested by the 17 defendant.

18 The record, then, we've examined what's in the record.
19 But that leaves unanswered the basic question. Was there pre-20 judice in Milwaukee? Was there? Were there lynch mobs? Was 21 there tremendous intensity of feeling in Milwaukee either 22 bearing on this incident or on other incidents in the defendants 23 history?

24 Were there crowds? Was there a carnival atmosphere? All 25 the facts that were presented to this Court in these other

1 cases that are relied upon by the defendant, were in the re-
2 cord. But they're not here.

3 We don't know whether the editorials mentioned in this 4 affidavit, the editorials are described as being sometimes 5 critical or frequently critical, of the defendant. This is 'nt 6 saying that an editorial has condemned this man or has pre-7 judged him on the issue of his guilt or innocence in this par-8 ticular case.

9 Q I don't recall that the motion identified the source 10 of those editorials as the Milwaukee Journal or the Sentinel, 11 or any other papers.

12 A No, sir, it did not.

13 Q I don't understand your argument because even if they 14 had been in en masse, in great detail, they would not be ad-15 missable. By your own interpretation of the statute. They're 16 irrelevant.

17 A Obviously, unless the trial judge had been so tre-18 mendously impressed by this evidence that he would have taken 19 a more careful look at the statute and decided to construe it 20 differently. But, you're correct, Mr. Justice Douglas. But.
21 The filings of the affidavits and of the reams of newspaper 22 clippings, if there were such, with the, as an exhibit to be 23 attached to this motion, with these matters of record in this 24 case and would have given the reviewing court an opportunity 25 to look to see whether there was a likelihood that an impartial

1 jury could not be impaneled to hear this case.

2 Q Well, why should a reviewing court act like a trial 3 court? And look in the first instance at evidence which the 4 trial court has said I won't look at at all, and the trial
5 court does it because of an error of law? Wouldn't an appellate 6 court just reverse and remand and have a trial judge take the 7 evidence in the first place?

8 A If the issue weren't a Sixth Amendment question 9 of whether or not this defendant had a fair trial and a fair 10 tribunal by an impartial jury. The issue raised, and the 11 only basis on which a reversal could be predicated is that the 12 defendant did not have a trial by an impartial jury and so 13 this Court has required in the past even in the Rideau case, 14 and in Sheppard, and in Irvin vs. Dowd, has required that h 15 there be something in the record so that this Court could say 16 this situation was so bad in that community that it's likely, 17 we don't ask that---

18 Q Let's say that this had been a felony case. and the 19 Petitioner wanted a change of venue on the grounds of prejudice 20 and the trial court said awfully sorry, but we don't listen to 21 evidence like that in this court. We just don't listen to it.
22 And he says, well, my confession was on television. Sorry, we 23 just don't listen to that, in our court, and he was convicted.
24 And, I suppose you would make the argument, it seems to me
25 like you would that unless there's some evidence in the record

1 no appellate court could reverse a refusal to accept evidence.

2 A Yes, sir, I have to make that argument, and I think 3 that's what this Court would have said in the Rideau case, for 4 example where there was a televised confession. If the record 5 brought to this Court in the Rideau case had had nothing in 6 it concerning---

7 Q So you've got---

8 A a televised confession, I don't think this Court
9 would have decided the Rideau case the way it did. If the Court 10 hadn't known about a televised confession, the Court couldn't 11 have acted the way it did.

12 Q So there's got to be some offer of proof with some 13 specifics.

14 A Yes, sir.

15 Q May I ask you what you understand to be meant by the 16 paragraph on page 214a of the opinion? I, f the defendant in 17 the present case, this is the Supreme Courts opinion, feels that 18 he is denied a fair and impartial trial, no such claim has been 19 made in this Court, that the issue can be raised and evidence 20 can be presented in the motion for a new trial based on a 21 denial of a fair and impartial trial. What do you understand 22 that meant?

23 A I understand that paragraph to mean, Mr. Justice 24 Black, that the court was saying if Counsel was convinced that 25 there was serious community prejudice, serious enough to warrant

1 a change of venue, Counsel could have made---

2 Q But it doesn't say "could have". So you can't.

3 A That's -- yes -- I'm sorry. I misunderstood your 4 question. Yes. The court was saying---

5 Q Despite---

6 A Yes---

7 Q Despite the affirmance he could raise a question in 8 the lower court now as to whether he has been denied a fair---

9 A Within that one year period.

10 Q What was that?

11 A Within the one year period following the conviction, 12 yes, sir.

13 Q That time has now elapsed?

14 A That time has now elapsed.

15 Q But would it elapse if it were still pending in the 16 court?

17 A Presumably the opportunity to file that motion in 18 the trial court was still there at the time that the Wisconsin
19 Supreme Court decision was rendered.

20 Q You say presumably. Doesn't this record show whether 21 the year had elapsed? Or if it had, as Justice Black suggested, 22 perhaps the pendency of the appeal would have suspended that.
23 Would -- the -- of that statute. Do you happen to know whether 24 the opinion of the Supreme Court of Wisconsin came down with-25 in a year after the conviction, or not?

1 A I believe it did, I don't have the date.

2 Q The main interest I have in it is, is the affirmance of 3 of the Supreme Court to be read as meaning that even now he 4 can make a motion for a new trial on the grounds that he was 5 denied a fair and impartial trial? It sounds to me like it 6 reads that way, but---

7 A I believe that that is the proper interpretation to 8 put on that paragraph.

9 Q Well, would it be a final judgement here?

10 A Pardon,---

11 Q Would it be a final judgement until that issue 12 had been determined?

13 A It would be in Wisconsin---

14 Q I mean here. For us. He still has a chance to challenge 15 is the main point they're raising. Would it be final here so 16 that we should dispose of it?

17 A I don't believe the appeal to this Court would toll, 18 would extend that one year period within which a motion can 19 be made to vacate a judgement in Wisconsin. I don't -- that's 20 my offhand opinion. I don't believe it would, sir.

21 Q It would occur to me that the Supreme Court in Wis-
22 consin in writing that opinion would not have said what it said 23 if this were an academic exercise. If the year had already 24 expired.

25 A It occurs to me too, but I just don't have the dates.

1 It seems rather odd to do so.

2 Q Now the footnote at that very place says that the 3 trial ended on February 9, 1968. And I think the opinion
4 came down during the August term of 1968. Doesn't that supply 5 your dates?

6 A Yes, the trial did end---

7 Q ---Page 205a of the record indicates that the opinion
8 of the Supreme Court of Wisconsin was the Fourth Day of Feb-9 ruary Anno Domini 1969. That's within a year, so as of the 10 time of the opinion, one year had not elapsed.

11 A No, it was five days short a year.

12 Q And now it has, long since.

13 A Yes.

14 Q In other words---

15 A While this remedy was being pursued by the defendant, 16 while this constitutional issue was being pursued on appeal---

17 Q Yes.

18 A With respect to the constitutional question, the due
19 process question, I believe that in order to, as I have said 20 before, in order to even reach the question, you have to begin 21 assuming a parade of horrible facts about Milwaukee in February 22 of 1968 which is the respondents position that this Court 23 should not and has in the past refused to do. There are two 24 cases other than this current case in the Wisconsin Suprme 25 Court that have discussed this question and they're both against

1 our position, with respect to the balance of the argument
2 I rely on in my brief. Thank you.

3 Q Mrs. Dubois, your time has expired, but we'll extend 4 that a little so you can offer a rebuttal.

5 A All right, I just have a few points to make---

6 Q We'll allow you four minutes. Mr. Wilkins---

7 A Thank you, Your Honor.

8 First, with respect to new trial. I just want to make 9 absolutely clear that under the two cases that we have found 10 dealing with the standards for reversal on the grounds that 11 the trial was unfair, on a motion after verdict. The standard 12 is entirely different from the constitutionally required stan-13 dard for a change of venue.

14 One case, the State vs. Nutley, says that reversal for 15 an unfair trial can be granted only where the publicity was 16 such that the jurors could not help but predetermine the issue.

17 The other case, in Zilmer vs. State, which is not cited
18 in our brief, its at 159 Northwest Second, 669, its a 1968
19 Wisconsin Supreme Court case. It says that you can reverse 20 only if the court is convinced that the defendant should not 21 have been found guilty.

22 I think the constitutional standard that this Court has 23 defined in cases like Rideau, Irvin, Sheppard, and a number 24 of others is a standard of potential for prejudice, not an 25 extreme liklihood that the defendant would be found guilty.

1       Secondly, on the continuance remedy, I think it's clear
2       that in a case like this, continuance would be inadequate
3       unless somebody like Father Groppi is simply to stop the kind 4       of civil rights activity in which he was engaged and continues 5       to be engaged.

6       Thirdly, in considering the adequacy of the record of 7       community prejudice made in this case, I think it's important to 8       recognize that this is not an entirely new issue that the 9       Court is being asked to decide. That in Rideau this Court made 10      it very clear that change of venue was a constitutionally re-11      quired method of guaranteeing jury impartiality in certain 12      circumstances.

13      All we asked for below, and all we're asking for now is 14      a change to prove those circumstances.

15      Finally, just a few points with respect to the record of 16      community prejudice in this court. I think that it's important 17      to recognize that when the defendants counsel went before 18      the judge in this case, and asked him to take judicial notice 19      of adverse news coverage, it was before that court at that time 20      which had been living for months, indeed, years with publicity 21      about Father Groppi, not before this Court.

22      Secondly, we believe it's fairly common for courts to 23      take judicial notice of, or to be asked to take judicial 24      notice of adverse news coverage, and that if they consider 25      that inadequate, and want to see it, or want some kind of 1 showing that they can ask for a hearing.

2 Thirdly, on the---

3 Q On that point, isn't it the conventional way, if 4 you're asking the Court to take judicial notice of a whole 5 category, at least to suggest by way of proffer some specific 6 instances?

7 A Your Honor, I think---

8 Q So as to alert the Court to the area.

9 A Yes. I think, Your Honor, in this case the defendant 10 did suggest, both in his affidavit, in the motion and also 11 in those proposed findings of fact, which you asked about, 12 the kind of television and newspaper coverage and to answer 13 finally and specifically that question about the proposed 14 finding of fact that appear, I think it's record 23, they 15 were rejected in the record at page 9, as the hearing on the 16 motion for a change of venue, and the court rejected those 17 findings of fact on the same grounds that it rejected the 18 proffer of proof, saying, page 9, that change of venue was 19 asked for in the motion, and will be denied, it not being 20 provided for in the Wisconsin Statutes. Also filed with the 21 court is the findings of facts and conclusion of law. I'll 22 leave that unsigned.

23 Q Let me clear up one thing. In the last page of your 24 appendix is a Notice of Appeal that this court filed in the 25 Supreme Court of Wisconsin. Now, that has a bearing on the

1 footnote in, as to the possibility of a new trial. When that 2 Notice of Appeal was filed, I would surmise what is on the 3 reverse side the certification, the third of April, 1969. Is 4 that correct? That's 233a and 234a. Is that the faith, then on 5 which you perfected an appeal to this Court?

6 A. I believe so, Your Honor. I'm not sure, I only know 7 that the opinion of the Supreme Court came down shortly before 8 the expiration of the year.

9 Q. What is the time of appeal on --- What was your 10 deadline here? Do you know?

11 A. Notice of Appeal to this Court was filed in the 12 Supreme Court of Wisconsin on May 6, 1969.

13 Q. Well, the time, the one year had expired by that 14 time, had it not?

15 A. Yes, Your Honor, because February 9, 1968 was when 16 he was tried, so it had expired at that time.

17 Q. That motion could have been made after the judgement, 18 there was still time to do it.

19 A. I think there was something like a few days, 3 or 20 4 days.

21 Q. Yes, but she'd made the motion for the hearing, 22 anyway.

23 A. There had been---

24 Q. I notice at page 232a--

25 A. Yes, there was a motion for rehearing in the Wiscon-

1 sin Supreme Court.

2 Q Well, it wasn't until after the year had expired, 3 in any event, that the proceedings in the Supreme Court were 4 concluded.

5 (No response)

6 Q Well, is the statute of limitations designed, in 7 your judgement to run from the date the judgement is final 8 or from the date of the trial? Here, of course, judgement is 9 not final until we dispose of the case.

10 A No, Your Honor, I think that there's no. My under-11 standing of Wisconsin law there'd be no question that it 12 ran from the date that it was final before. That it wouldn't 13 run from this Court's decision. There would not be any move, 14 now, for a new trial. If I understand Your Honor's question, I 15 think it's clear that the defendant would not now be able 16 to move for a new trial under Wisconsin law. That his year 17 has run.

18 Q My question is, if there is a statute of limitations 19 from the date of final judgement of one year, why is this 20 question not still open in the Court of Wisconsin to make 21 a motion for a new trial? On the grounds of an unfair trial.

22 (No response)

23 Q I think perhaps that the best answer to that is 24 that it doesn't say one year after final judgement.

25 A No---

1 Q It says one year after trial.

2 A Yes.

3 Q Well, suppose she had taken a hearing after an 4 appeal, and yet (inaudible). Do you think that you would 5 have been barred?

6 A Well, I think that the whole remedy of the motion 7 for a new trial is something that under Wisconsin law you make 8 after the trial, you try to correct certain errors, or ask 9 the court to rule again on certain errors. I think that it 10 is not designed to provide the kind of remedy for change of 11 venue---

12 Q Well, it might be, but the Supreme Court of Wisconsin
13 seemed to think it had the right at that time. I don't see 14 how it could be anything except for the finality of the 15 judgement.

16 A Well, I think that the--- 17 Q Which is final after appeal.

18 A Well, I think that it's perhaps that it was an after-19 thought of the Supreme Court of Wisconsin. The Supreme Court
20 of Wisconsin had never before that opinion suggested that a 21 motion for a new trial is the proper way to bring in community 22 prejudice just to find a change of venue. They've never 23 before suggested anything---

24 Q Never before been suggested, but it seems to have 25 been suggested, here. In this case, in this opinion of the 1 Supreme Court.

2 A Your Honor, to justify the constitutionality of the 3 statute. Thank You.

4 Q Thank you, your case is submitted.

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25