2 CHIEF JUSTICE BURGER: We will hear arguments
3 next in Planned Parenthood Association of Kansas City, 4 Missouri against John Ashcroft, Attorney General of 5 Missouri, and the related case. Mr. Susman, you may 6 proceed whenever you're ready.

7 ORAL ARGUMENT OF FRANK SUSMAN
8 ON BEHALF OF PLANNED PARENTHOOD ASSOCIATION OF MISSOURI

9 MR. SUSMAN: Mr. Chief Justice, and may it
10 please the Court:

11 We are here today on a case that the Eighth 12 Circuit decided exactly one year ago today.
13 Restrictions in question here, like all legislative 14 abortion restrictions, adversely and disproportionately 15 affect minors and indigent women who frequently lack the 16 maturity, education, sophistication and financial 17 resources to overcome the additional legislative hurdles 18 placed in front of them while seeking to exercise some 19 reasonable control over their reproductive functions.

20 There are basically only four of the 21 restrictions at issue here today before this Court.
22 There were many others decided by the district court, 23 and some of those were not appealed to the court of 24 appeals; there were others that were appealed to the 25 court of appeals and were not further appealed to this

1 Court.

2 Those four issues involve minors, the 3 in-hospital provision after 12 weeks, the requirement of 4 two doctors being in attendance when an abortion is 5 performed on a viable fetus, and lastly, a requirement 6 that pathology be done by a certified pathologist on all 7 specimens regardless of the length of pregnancy.

8 Before addressing those four issues, though, I 9 would be remiss if I did not respond in part to the 10 argument and to the brief of the Solicitor General, 11 which brief was jointly filed in this case as well as in 12 the Akron case, although his argument was solely taken 13 during the time of the Akron matter.

14 It seems that his brief -- and as supported by 15 his oral argument and he so states on page 3 of that 16 brief -- that the primary underpinning of his argument
17 is, and I quote, "that the legislature has superior 18 factfinding capabilities." I would submit to this Court 19 that that is absolutely not true; that at best, it is 20 fallacious and at worst it is probably naive.

21 Initially, at least certainly in Missouri and 22 with all other state legislatures with which I am 23 familiar, the assignment as to which committee any 24 particular piece of legislation goes has a lot to do 25 with whether those in power in that particular

1 legislative body desire that piece of legislation to 2 pass or to fail.

3 And secondly, the factfinding that goes on, if 4 any, -- and very little goes on in Missouri, and I have 5 attended many of these legislative findings in these 6 various pieces of legislation, not only in this case but 7 in the Danforth case -- they are not open hearings, they 8 are not hearings that invite an unbiased, an impartial 9 and a fair hearing of evidence. Frequently, speakers 10 only on one side of the issue are asked to attend, and 11 there certainly is no great factfinding ability that 12 would be superior to the type of hearing that goes on in 13 court. Particularly the type of open hearing, unbiased 14 hearing, that went on in this case.

15 As the Court is aware in this case, it was not 16 just one, but there were two district court trials 17 because certain issues the appellant court felt, and 18 particularly in regard to the in-hospital issue, had not 19 been fully decided as to the necessary facts that needed
20 to be resolved, so said the Eighth Circuit, and so it 21 was remanded to the district court for a second trial.

22 In addition, I would suggest the bootstrap
23 argument also suggested by the Solicitor General that 24 appears on page 9 of his brief, that legislatures fully 25 take into account all of the constitutional implications

1 of those enactments which they pass judgment on because 2 of the fact that they all take an oath to uphold the 3 Constitution, which we are here today discussing, is 4 awesome.

5 QUESTION: We've said that in a number of our 6 opinions.

7 MR. SUSMAN: That's correct.

8 QUESTION: Why is that so startling to you?

9 MR. SUSMAN: It is not startling, but I do not 10 feel that they accurately do it. If, in fact, they did, 11 these cases would not be here today. Whether they --

12 QUESTION: Well, that's one of these 13 generalizations which has the value of many 14 generalizations. But we have said as much in a number 15 of our opinions.

16 MR. SUSMAN: Yes, you have, Mr. Chief 17 Justice. But the fact that they may, even -- although 18 unintentionally, not pay the proper price for the 19 Constitution is the reason that the cases are brought, 20 and often successfully. Because they have avoided or 21 ignored or not correctly applied that oath which they 22 have taken.

23 QUESTION: Do you think that, say a judge of 24 the court of appeals who takes an oath to follow the 25 Constitution who writes an opinion that is reversed by

1 this Court is not being faithful to his oath?

2 MR. SUSMAN: No, I think he's being faithful 3 to the oath if he intentionally tries to apply it to the 4 best of his or her ability.

5 I think the suggestion of heavy deference to 6 the legislative judgment on policy issues, which is 7 suggested very strongly by the Solicitor General -- and 8 in those cases that he suggests of different segments of 9 society have strongly competing views is a terrifying 10 thought.

11 The entire concept of fundamental basic rights
12 is sought to be undermined and discarded in one fell 13 swoop. Constitutional rights will then be bargained by 14 lobbying interests in the legislature, and woe be it to 15 the minority who seek to rely on basic equality, justice 16 and decency for their protection.

17 A comment by Justice Blackmun, as to whether 18 or not Roe versus Wade or Marbury versus Madison was 19 being sought to be overruled I think is apropos. If one 20 is to adopt the suggestions of the Solicitor General, 21 179 years of constitutional history would appear to fly 22 out the door.

23 I would suggest lastly in this regard that the 24 government's somewhat simplistic suggestion of how to 25 resolve this matter and how to avoid any further

1 abortion cases coming before this Court creates more 2 problems than it purports to solve. It basically would 3 eliminate the entire concept, in my opinion, of 4 fundamental rights.

5 The first issue that I would wish to address 6 in our chapter, in our section that was passed, is the 7 issue of the minors. I would somewhat simplify this 8 particular argument by noting that with two possible 9 exceptions, it is a question of statutory construction.
10 Those two exceptions would be whether or not this act 11 does require or insure that appellate review be swift 12 and complete.

13 Respondents take the position that since this 14 statute was enjoined the day following its enactment, 15 the day following it went into law, since it has never 16 been in practice in the state of Missouri, that the 17 Supreme Court of the state of Missouri has waited to 18 enact any rules covering appellate review in these cases.

19 I don't know and would not speak to the reason
20 they have waited. It is clear that in the three years 21 since the statute has been on the books that no rules 22 have been adopted. But again, in all candor, the 23 statute has never been in effect to this date.

24 The second exception that I would raise in 25 addition to the statutory construction problem on this

1 issue of the minors is that the statute makes absolutely 2 no exceptions whatsoever for any emergency of any kind,
3 even when life or health is threatened. Under all 4 possible scenarios, it is necessary that the minor, if 5 she cannot obtain the permission of one parent, go to 6 the juvenile court and go through this hearing and any 7 subsequent appeals that might come along the way, and 8 receive the court's sanction for this procedure, 9 regardless of the fact that her life or health is 10 immediately being threatened by the fact that the doctor 11 cannot perform the abortion.

12 And yet, it is interesting to note that 13 Section 3 of this same statute makes an exception of 14 this very like kind when it is necessary to perform an 15 abortion against the minor's will. It says if an 16 abortion is necessary to save the life of the minor, and 17 she doesn't want it and she says no, then the doctor may 18 proceed. But not the reverse. If she wants the 19 abortion and her life or health is threatened, he cannot 20 proceed until he receives, again, the sanction of either 21 one parent or the court.

22 With those two exceptions, then, we are back
23 to the statutory construction problem of Section 24 188.028.2(4). The district court found that the state 25 had not made any argument to convince it that its

1 interpretation of that statute was clear, that the use
2 of this conjunctive word "or" between the options
3 available to the juvenile court of a, b or c, the court 4 had the option to pick any of those, and not necessarily 5 in any order and not necessarily by rejecting others 6 first.

7 The appellate court disagreed. It came to an 8 opposite conclusion. We have suggested in our Reply 9 Brief recently filed with this Court that in light of 10 the difference of opinions of reasonable judicial minds, 11 that perhaps this Court should abstain from the issue
12 inasmuch as a decision by the Missouri state courts 13 would, in fact, or could possibly resolve any federal 14 constitutional question as to what, in fact, the statute 15 does mean.

16 There has never been an opportunity for the 17 Missouri state courts to rule on this issue, and perhaps 18 abstention is appropriate. Abstention, in an identical 19 type of situation, was the route taken by this Court in 20 1976 in Bellotti 1, and that position of abstaining in 21 that kind of an issue was recently affirmed in H.L.
22 versus Matheson in referencing Bellotti 1.

23 The second matter that we would address is the 24 in-hospital provision. This provision probably has the 25 most serious impact upon the actual delivery of abortion

1 services than any of the other provisions involved
2 before this Court in this case. And probably in the 3 other cases as well. It is clear that this provision 4 would stop and prevent more procedures from taking 5 place, than any of the other provisions involved or 6 under review.

7 As Justice Rehnquist indicated in the 8 Themopolous case, it is the practice of this Court to 9 take the factual findings of the lower courts as they 10 find them.

11 This case is unique in regard to the 12 in-hospital provision, as opposed to any of the other 13 district courts that have decided this issue, and there 14 have been many. This issue has been decided by the 15 District Court in Louisiana, in Kentucky, in Missouri 16 and very recently and unreported yet, in the last two 17 weeks, by courts in Illinois and Wisconsin. All have 18 found that this is an unreasonable regulation.

19 There were two separate district court trials
20 on this issue, as I indicated. And in fact, the trial
21 on remand, the second district court trial, -- and it
22 was specifically remanded for this particular issue
23 because the appellate court said, we want to know
24 specifically whether or not it is safer to perform 25 second trimester procedures in a hospital or in an

1 outpatient facility. And while the district court had 2 held the section unconstitutional, they had not in so 3 many words made that factual finding.

4 And when it was sent back on remand and the 5 second trial was held, respondents chose not to offer 6 any testimony whatsoever. And the only additional 7 witnesses at the trial on remand were those offered by 8 the petitioner.

9 The district court made some very specific 10 findings. These are all contained in the Joint Appendix 11 and the various opinions. They found, as a matter of 12 fact, that the D&E procedure is the safest second 13 trimester abortion technique currently available. They 14 found that second trimester D&E procedures are currently 15 performed in only one hospital in the entire state of 16 Missouri, that being in Kansas City, Missouri which is 17 on the western border.

18 QUESTION: Mr. Susman, where are the findings 19 on remand?

20 MR. SUSMAN: These are all in the Joint 21 Appendix on pages 12 through 14 -- actually, 12 through 22 14, and then the same findings by the appellate court, 23 or additional findings, are found on the Cross-Petition 24 at A61 and A116.

25 The district court went on to find that in the

1 last final year, when only hospitals could perform
2 abortions in Missouri -- that being 1979 -- that 540
3 second trimester D&E procedures were performed. The 4 district court ruled on this issue in January of 1980
5 and so it's fair to compare the year of 1980, if you
6 want to count it as a whole year, in which procedures 7 were available both in the hospital and both outpatient.

8 The court found, as opposed to the 540
9 performed in a hospital when it could only be performed 10 in a hospital in 1979, that in 1980 there were some 1400
11 second trimester procedures, 700 of which were performed 12 in hospitals and 690 in outpatient facilities.

13 And so what is clear is when the outpatient 14 facilities began to do them, they did not draw from the 15 patient population of the hospitals who had been doing 16 them previously. What they did, in fact, was merely 17 help to fill a certain portion of the unmet need for 18 second trimester procedures. They were not taking 19 patients from the hospitals.

20 In fact, as Dr. Henshaw testified, who is a 21 national expert on the issue of these types of 22 statistics, that Missouri in 1979, again with only 23 hospitals to perform these procedures, was only meeting
24 13 percent of the unmet need for second trimester 25 procedures. And in 1980, when both hospitals and

1 outpatient facilities could perform them, the unmet need 2 went from 13 percent of the met need up to 34 percent; 3 still leaving some 66 percent of the second trimester
4 need unmet in Missouri.

5 The court also found that there was 6 substantial interference. It certainly was much more 7 expensive, that they were not readily available by 8 reason of one hospital in the entire state being on the 9 western border, and in Missouri the other major 10 metropolitan area, St. Louis, is on the eastern border 11 of the state.

12 The appellate court found additional findings
13 to the district court. They found, as was argued, that 14 when Roe was decided in 1973, a D&E procedure was 15 virtually unknown in the United States. They also found 16 it was the safest procedure known, and they also made 17 the specific finding that non-hospital second trimester
18 D&E procedures are no more dangerous to maternal health 19 than hospitalized procedure.

20 QUESTION: Is that true throughout the period?

21 MR. SUSMAN: It was true throughout the period 22 that they were presently being performed in Missouri and 23 by the physicians who were the experts testifying.

24 QUESTION: No, I mean is it true about -- the 25 relative safety -- is it true throughout the second

1 trimester?

2 MR. SUSMAN: I would suggest that it is 3 probably not true. But I think in conjunction with that 4 we have to realize of what percentage of procedures we 5 are talking about that are done beyond 18 weeks. 98 6 percent of all abortion procedures are conducted prior 7 to the 18th week.

8 QUESTION: Well, if the evidence showed that 9 this relative safety was true only up to the 16th week, 10 for example, the statute arguably might be 11 unconstitutional, to that extent. But why on its face?

12 MR. SUSMAN: Because first of all, all second 13 trimester procedures were not really an issue in this 14 case. The evidence only went to the method of D&E, and 15 the other methods, the installation methods, whether 16 they be saline, prostaglandin, urea or a combination of 17 many other types of chemicals were not in issue in this 18 case.

19 QUESTION: No, but the question is whether 20 hospitalization is necessary.

21 MR. SUSMAN: Correct. As to whether --

22 QUESTION: Throughout the period, throughout 23 the second trimester.

24 MR. SUSMAN: Then if it does not eliminate 25 that period of time when it is not safer, then it has

1 not been narrowly tailored.

2 QUESTION: But why is it invalid on its face?
3 This isn't a First Amendment case.

4 MR. SUSMAN: I'm not sure but this requirement 5 is, in fact, invalid on its face. I think one has to 6 have factual evidence on this particular type of 7 requirement. I think the requirement itself on its 8 face, in fact, is very beguiling and very deceptive.
9 And only when one hears the evidence and listens to the 10 physicians who perform the procedures, and looks at the 11 statistics, then can one look past the beguiling nature 12 of the statute on its face and see that, in fact, it 13 does not bear out that, in fact, it is not safer.

14 QUESTION: I'm talking about the evidence that 15 was submitted.

16 MR. SUSMAN: Yes.

17 QUESTION: The evidence did not suggest that 18 aborting throughout the second trimester was as safe as 19 childbirth.

20 MR. SUSMAN: No, there was no evidence
21 discussing the higher range of the second trimester.

22 QUESTION: Well, what did it discuss?

23 MR. SUSMAN: Theoretically, it would even be 24 past --

25 QUESTION: What did it discuss?

1 MR. SUSMAN: It discussed -- the experts who 2 testified, and the statistics, mainly went through 18 3 weeks.

4 QUESTION: And -- well, what was the period
5 during which the testimony indicated that aborting was 6 as safe as childbirth? For what limits?

7 MR. SUSMAN: The district court found through 8 the 18th week. It makes a reference in a footnote, to 9 the 18th week of pregnancy.

10 QUESTION: And tell me again who was the 11 district judge?

12 MR. SUSMAN: Judge Elmo Hunter, now senior 13 status.

14 QUESTION: Mr. Susman, does Missouri license
15 outpatient clinics at all?

16 MR. SUSMAN: No, Your Honor, although that's 17 not a complete answer. We have an ambulatory surgical 18 licensing law that licenses certain ambulatory surgical 19 centers as opposed to hospitals. Those would be the 20 only two classes of institutions licensed by the state; 21 hospitals and ambulatory surgical centers. But the 22 definition of what is an ambulatory surgical licensing 23 center and, therefore, deciding whether or not you have 24 to apply, does not cover abortion facilities, and there 25 is not a single abortion facility in the state that is

1 licensed as an outpatient surgical center.

2 QUESTION: Are abortion procedures
3 specifically barred by the regulations?

4 MR. SUSMAN: No, Your Honor. But it has to do
5 with certain portions of the definition of what is such 6 a facility, and abortion facilities do not fit into the 7 definition.

8 For example, two of the parts that I recall 9 offhand, one says that you must have, to be in the 10 definition, a permanent staff of physicians. Many 11 abortion facilities --

12 QUESTION: More than one or just a permanent 13 -- ?

14 MR. SUSMAN: It just says a permanent staff.
15 And secondly, it also as part of the essential 16 definition says that there must be a physician present 17 on the site at any time that a patient is present.

18 QUESTION: Without regard to the surgical 19 procedure?

20 MR. SUSMAN: Abso -- well, that's what the 21 definition says, yes, Your Honor.

22 QUESTION: In any event, the clinics you 23 represent were not licensed --

24 MR. SUSMAN: Both of these clinics are 25 not-for-profit agencies, tax exempt under the IRS.

1 QUESTION: And your position is that they 2 would not have been licensed if they had applied for a
3 license.

4 MR. SUSMAN: I don't know whether they would 5 have been licensed, but the statute clearly does not 6 require it, no one has ever suggested it. In fact,
7 that's not true that it hasn't been suggested. Letters 8 have been written to the state by other people 9 suggesting that these places have to have licenses, and 10 the state has never taken any action in that regard, and 11 the clinics do not feel they have to comply.

12 I would save some time for rebuttal, but I
13 would point out that the Clinic for Reproductive Health 14 Services, which is one of the plaintiffs here, is 15 licensed, in fact, by the city of St. Louis. Not a 16 state license, but the city of St. Louis issued it a 17 license.

18 QUESTION: In the prior case there was 19 testimony referred to by the president or past president
20 of the American College of Obstetricians --

21 MR. SUSMAN: Dr. Schmidt.

22 QUESTION: -- that all second trimester
23 procedures should be in a hospital. Was there any such 24 testimony in this case?

25 MR. SUSMAN: Well, curiously enough, that same

1 Dr. Schmidt testified in this case. Now, of course, his 2 testimony came prior to the change in the ACOG
3 standard. But in our case, he says -- and this is found
4 in the Joint Appendix, page 154 -- on cross examination 5 he admits that doing these procedures outpatient is 6 acceptable if it works all right.

7 You know, the proof is in the pudding. He 8 might not be comfortable doing them, and he doesn't do
9 abortions, If people are doing them and the bottom line 10 is that they work all right, then it's acceptable. And 11 he was then asked the follow-up question of whether he 12 knew of any untoward effects and wasn't it working all 13 right, and he said yes, it was.

14 I'll reserve the remaining time.

15 CHIEF JUSTICE BURGER: Mr. Ashcroft, Mr.
16 Attorney General?

17 ORAL ARGUMENT OF JOHN ASHCROFT, ESQ.

18 ON BEHALF OF JOHN ASHCROFT, ATTORNEY GENERAL OF MISSOURI

19 MR. ASHCROFT: Mr. Chief Justice, and may it
20 please the Court:

21 The balancing of rights reached by this Court 22 in Roe versus Wade included an explicit recognition of 23 compelling state interests which justify, if not 24 require, state regulation of abortions to protect the 25 individual health and safety of citizens. No state can

1 properly ignore this responsibility; indeed, the state
2 of Missouri has not.

3 In the spring of 1979 the elected
4 representatives of the people, together with the people
5 themselves, wrestled with the concept of the proper role 6 for the state of Missouri in regulation abortions, 7 consistent with -- consistently with constitutional 8 imperatives.

9 After hearings and testimony in both houses of 10 the legislature and debate in both chambers of the 11 legislature, along with substantial public discussion, 12 the state of Missouri forged a comprehensive program 13 meeting its responsibility to safeguard the wellbeing of 14 our citizens, and a program which would be subject to 15 change by the legislature in the light of adjusting 16 factors that they felt were necessary.

17 Four crucial elements of the state's 18 comprehensive program in relation to that abortion 19 regulation framework are before the Court today; the 20 second trimester hospitalization requirement, the second 21 doctor requirement for abortions of viable, unborn
22 children, the consent provision for minors, a pathology 23 requirement, and these are to be considered in this 24 proceeding.

25 The proceedings before the trial court and the

1 Circuit Court of Appeals were basically a legislative 2 process assessing the wisdom of the Missouri enactments.
3 It's clear, inasmuch as the enactments have never been 4 in place, they were enjoined, all of the sections that 5 were challenged were enjoined within 24 hours after they 6 went into effect.

7 The trial objections made by the state 8 relating to standing and ripeness were brushed aside as 9 the district court plunged headlong into its assessment 10 of expert witnesses. So this is a case where we are 11 assessing an uninterpreted, unenforced statute, but a 12 statute which is alleged to be one which is infirm and 13 unconstitutional.

14 As a result of both the trial and appeal of 15 this case centered on policy-related testimony regarding 16 what can best be characterized as a significant debate
17 within the medical profession. This effort really 18 replicated what a legislative process should be. The 19 legislature had drawn conclusions about that debate when 20 it enacted the statutes earlier.

21 Of the four abortion matters raised in this 22 Court, the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals substantially 23 agreed with the legislative judgment of the Missouri 24 legislature on the consent issue relating to minors, and 25 overruled the Missouri legislature on the other issues,

1 the issues of a second trimester hospitalization, a 2 second doctor in the event of the abortion of a viable, 3 unborn child, and a requirement for pathology.

4 The requirement for hospitalization for 5 abortion procedures conducted after the 12th week of 6 pregnancy was ruled unconstitutional below. And I
7 believe that the district court and the Eighth Circuit
8 Court of appeals erred in so doing.

9 The basic premise I believe that we can 10 understand from Roe versus Wade is a premise that the 11 state has an interest in guarding and protecting the 12 health of individuals; and secondly, that the state can 13 regulate to protect that interest. I think given that 14 interest and the ability of the state to regulate, most 15 states would accept that responsibility and so do.

16 The problem that we see is that regulation is 17 impossible if this Court is to retreat from the bright 18 line drawn in Roe where it divided the time of a 19 pregnancy into areas when the state could exercise its 20 judgment.

21 If, indeed, the courts are to pursue the 22 latest statement of the medical society or even a vocal 23 minority of individuals in the medical community, to 24 change what is allowable in terms of state statutes, I 25 think we'll find states in an impossible position; not

1 only impossible in terms of ever making judgments which 2 can withstand tests, but we'll be finding ourselves here 3 over and over again relitigating issues over and over.

4 Roe clearly set forth some guidelines, and I
5 urge this Court not to retreat from its indication that 6 there are certain specific times in which the state 7 should be able to rationally regulate in relation to the 8 compelling interests of the state.

9 I believe that there is clear evidence in the 10 record of this case that the state can rationally 11 conclude that the facilities available in hospitals are 12 reasonably related to the objective of the preservation 13 and protection of maternal health.

14 I believe that the record in this case
15 supports the concept that the state can rationally 16 conclude that a second doctor at the abortion of a 17 viable, unborn child is rationally related to the 18 state's separate and distinct interest in the potential 19 life of that child.

20 These are concepts which are --

21 QUESTION: May I interrupt with a question 22 before you go on to the second doctor issue? On the 23 hospital requirement in the second trimester, do you 24 challenge any of the district court's finding on the 25 remand as clearly erroneous?

1 MR. ASHCROFT: We believe that there is a 2 great deal of testimony that indicates that medical 3 debate is going on here as to whether or not it is as 4 safe or safer to require these in the hospital.

5 QUESTION: I understand. Do you challenge any 6 of the district court's findings? He found, for 7 example, that there is an impairment in the number of 8 second trimester abortions that are performed in that 9 period by reason of the hospital requirement. Should we 10 take that as an established fact?

11 MR. ASHCROFT: The finding is an established 12 fact. I don't think that we have conclusive evidence to 13 that regard in the record.

14 QUESTION: Are you urging that we set aside 15 the finding as clearly erroneous?

16 MR. ASHCROFT: No.

17 QUESTION: Should we decide the case on the 18 assumption that the finding is correct?

19 MR. ASHCROFT: Even if you find that the 20 finding is correct, I am urging this Court to --

21 QUESTION: If that's true, is it not 22 established that this requirement does reduce the number 23 of abortions that are performed during this period? So 24 at least, it establishes some burden on the choice; now, 25 whether it's constitutional is still a separate

1 inquiry. But must we not assume that?

2 MR. ASHCROFT: The state of Missouri is 3 willing to concede that the choice for an abortion in a 4 hospital is more difficult than the choice in a clinic 5 facility.

6 QUESTION: So in consequence of the statute, a 7 fewer number of abortions in this period are performed, 8 at least performed lawfully. Now, is there --

9 MR. ASHCROFT: The state is unwilling to 10 concede that. While it may be more difficult to reach 11 the decision, the state isn't in a position to say that 12 that decision still will not be reached. It may not 13 provide a threshold which is so significant as to impair 14 anyone's real willingness to reach the decision.

15 QUESTION: What I'm wondering is what happens 16 to these women who want abortions during this period and 17 are not going to hospitals by reason of the statute; are 18 they safer or less safe by reason of the requirement?

19 MR. ASHCROFT: Are they safer by not going to 20 the hospital or less safe than --

21 QUESTION: I mean, are they going someplace
22 else that may be an unlawful choice, or are they giving 23 up their opportunity that they want? What are they 24 doing?

25 MR. ASHCROFT: There is no evidence in the 1 record of this case to indicate that the women are going 2 to unlawful sources for abortion.

3 QUESTION: General Ashcroft, Justice Stevens
4 asked you about a finding of fact the district court 5 made that the effect of the statute -- and I'm simply 6 repeating what I thought either he said or you said -- 7 that the effect of the statute is to cut down the number 8 of abortions actually performed. Is that what the 9 district court found?

10 MR. ASHCROFT: The district court --

11 QUESTION: Well, let me get to my basic 12 question I want to put to you. I was under the 13 impression this statute had been enjoined from taking 14 effect, and I'm curious to know if the district court 15 did find that this was the effect of the statute, how it 16 could have been other than a very hypothetical finding 17 in view of the fact that the statute had never been in 18 effect.

19 MR. ASHCROFT: I think the district court 20 looked to a time in Missouri when hospitalization was 21 required. That was preceding this statute. We had 22 another statute passed earlier which required 23 hospitalization. Now, that was not challenged at the 24 time it was in effect, and it was when this statute 25 would go into effect that the challenge took place, and

1 the suspension of -- and the availability of abortions
2 in clinics --

3 QUESTION: So his finding related to a time
4 period during which this statute wasn't in effect.

5 MR. ASHCROFT: It was based upon information
6 from a time period when this statute was not in effect, 7 and that's why the state is reluctant to agree with the 8 conclusion in that matter.

9 QUESTION: Wouldn't it be possible that one 10 explanation might be that they went elsewhere into 11 another jurisdiction?

12 MR. ASHCROFT: It is possible. Both of the 13 major metropolitan areas in Missouri are located on the 14 border of the state; either in St. Louis or Kansas City, 15 and there is quite an exchange of clientele.

16 QUESTION: Where do people go from St. Louis?
17 East St. Louis?

18 MR. ASHCROFT: They might go into Illinois
19 somewhere. In Kansas City, they might --

20 QUESTION: East St. Louis. You just cross the 21 bridge.

22 MR. ASHCROFT: Yes, sir. Yes, Your Honor.

23 QUESTION: Are you suggesting that the 24 statistic is not too reliable?

25 MR. ASHCROFT: I am suggesting that it's not

1 an inevitable statistic. I can understand that the 2 court may have --

3 QUESTION: Well, the court found that -- and 4 the court of appeals agreed with it -- said it was 5 supported by the evidence.

6 MR. ASHCROFT: That's correct. I believe that 7 there is some evidence to support it. I disagree that 8 it's a conclusion that you have to reach. I believe --

9 QUESTION: Normally, on your statement of the 10 standard, we would normally then accept that finding.
11 Is that not so?

12 QUESTION: Well, you would say that even if we 13 judge the case on that basis, you should win. That's 14 your submission. Even if the number of abortions 15 weren't what they would have been without the 16 hospitalization requirement. You say that you're 17 entitled to impose the --

18 MR. ASHCROFT: Yes. My view is that there's a 19 substantial compelling interest that exists already in 20 the state for maternal health. And we have come -- the 21 legislature has concluded that that interest is 22 furthered and is reasonably related to the 23 hospitalization requirement; that the imposition of that 24 hospitalization requirement is justified on that basis.

25 QUESTION: Is there any evidence in the record

1 as to the number of illnesses or such, or complications
2 that were caused by reason of second trimester abortions
3 being performed other than in a hospital?

4 MR. ASHCROFT: There is some evidence about 5 complications and deaths outside of hospitals, but 6 basically, this evidence which was in the case took 7 place prior to the suspension of the law, during a 8 period of time when second trimester abortions were 9 required to be in hospitals in the state of Missouri.

10 I think Dr. Willard Cates of the Center for 11 Disease Control in Atlanta testified that of the 18 12 deaths that he had examined, 11 of them had been clinic 13 settings and 7 of them from hospital settings, relating 14 to those deaths in those abortion cases.

15 QUESTION: Mr. Attorney General, you heard 16 some questions in the previous case about legislative 17 history and whatnot. Is there any legislative history 18 underlying this statute?

19 MR. ASHCROFT: Missouri does not record -- 20 other than the fact that hearings may have been held and 21 the like -- that there is --

22 QUESTION: They keep no record of hearings?

23 MR. ASHCROFT: That's correct. There is, to 24 my knowledge, no verbatim account of what was said or --

25 QUESTION: Are there any legislative findings

1 that precede this statute?

2 MR. ASHCROFT: Not to my knowledge.

3 It is argued in this case that there is a 4 change in technology that has resulted in the concept of 5 hospitalization for second trimester abortions being 6 outdated. I think it's important to look at the record 7 in the case and to analyze the testimony presented.
8 There was an overwhelming consensus among the medical 9 experts at trial that the vast majority of abortions in 10 post 12-week pregnancies belonged in the hospital.

11 Some of the record is confusing because the 12 Center for Disease Control statistics reflect what are 13 known as weeks of gestation rather than weeks of 14 pregnancy. Weeks of gestation are counted from the last 15 menstrual period, and according to Dr. Cates, who is the 16 Chief of Abortion Surveillance there, you have to 17 subtract two weeks from any of their statistics in order 18 to find out what the real impact is on weeks of 19 pregnancy.

20 The only disputed area really is early 21 trimester D&E abortions. There is a dispute in the 22 medical community and a debate which indicates that up 23 to 15, 16, some say up to 18 weeks of gestational age, 24 those can be done safely in a clinic setting.

25 QUESTION: Well, the district court found 18

1 weeks. Didn't it?

2 MR. ASHCROFT: Yes, sir.

3 QUESTION: And the court of appeals affirmed 4 that.

5 MR. ASHCROFT: Neither the district court nor 6 the court of appeals acknowledged to any willingness to 7 differentiate between the weeks of gestation statistics, 8 which were supplied over and over again, and the 9 Missouri statute's requirement for weeks of pregnancy.

10 Now, Dr. Cates of the Center for Disease
11 Control, who was the most experienced of the witnesses 12 testifying in behalf of the plaintiffs, indicated that 13 at the end of the 15th week, which would be the end of 14 the 13 week in pregnancy terms rather than gestational 15 terms, that hospitalization would be appropriate.

16 I think what we're talking about in those 17 kinds of circumstances when you put him in conjunction 18 with the expert witnesses of the state, is an overlap 19 perhaps of about seven days.

20 It's important also to note some other 21 things. Of the 45 percent of the death cases that Dr.
22 Cates investigated, indicated that the physician had made 23 a mistake of at least four weeks in judging the fetal 24 age before performing the abortion. And as a matter of 25 fact, the Center for Disease Control statistics are all

1 arrived at after the fact of the abortion through 2 post-abortion techniques.

3 I don't think it's unreasonable at all, if 4 we're talking about an aperture of seven to maybe 14
5 days early in the second trimester, to give the state 6 the right to demand a margin of safety inasmuch as 7 doctors who are making the evaluations about whether or 8 not they're to conduct the abortion in a hospital or not 9 are frequently involved in having difficulty estimating 10 the fetal age in the pre-abortion context.

11 After the abortion, it's clear that the fetal 12 age is easier to estimate, but that certainly doesn't 13 leave us with much leeway or much protection.

14 I think the point that I would like to make is 15 that there is a medical debate about a small fragment of 16 second trimester abortions. That medical debate relates 17 to early D&E procedures. Some would say that those go 18 to the end of the 15th week of gestation or the end of 19 the 13th week of pregnancy, as Dr. Willard Cates does, 20 or some would carry it as far as the district court 21 found.

22 In the situation where there is a medical 23 debate that rages, and there are significant medical 24 experts and credible individuals who will testify that 25 they all belong in a hospital in the second trimester,

1 and there is a debate relating to just a small aperture
2 and just a narrow portion of procedures, I think the 3 state ought to have the ability to opt as a policy to 4 require second trimester hospitalization.

5 And I do not believe the technology has 6 advanced to such a degree in relation to this matter as 7 to take us away from the ability of the state in scoring 8 this debate to err on the side of safety, if you will, 9 and require its citizens who choose to have abortions in 10 the second trimester to have them in a hospital setting.

11 QUESTION: Mr. Ashcroft, one other question.
12 Are there any other areas of medical debate with which 13 you're familiar where the state legislature in Missouri 14 has opted on one side or the other of the debate, and 15 said they must do it the safer way? Or is this just 16 specifically abortion-related legislation.

17 MR. ASHCROFT: Well certainly, this enactment 18 is abortion related. But --

19 QUESTION: But is there any other counterpart 20 in any other field of medicine where the legislature has 21 said, for example, in heart surgery or something else, 22 you may perform one technique and not another?

23 MR. ASHCROFT: I don't know in reference to a 24 specific technique. Now we have, of course, a lot of 25 statutes relating to health care, the hospitals, what

1 standards they have to meet and those kinds of things 2 which --

3 QUESTION: Do you have any others which say 4 you must do it in a hospital?

5 MR. ASHCROFT: I don't have an awareness of 6 any other statute requiring that a particular surgical 7 procedure must be in a hospital.

8 QUESTION: You had the example in the Danforth 9 case of amniocentesis as being proscribed.

10 MR. ASHCROFT: That's correct.

11 QUESTION: There's an example where your 12 legislature undertook a medical determination.

13 MR. ASHCROFT: That's correct, and it was not 14 allowed and declared unconstitutional by this Court.

15 QUESTION: Could the legislature of a state
16 constitutionally require that all childbirths take place 17 in a hospital, absent an emergency?

18 MR. ASHCROFT: I believe that it could.

19 A second --

20 QUESTION: Would be a little hard to enforce, 21 I think.

22 (Laughter.)

23 QUESTION: And who would pay for it?

24 QUESTION: The reservation of "absent 25 emergency" would take care of that problem, wouldn't it?

1 MR. ASHCROFT: That would be my understanding.

2 QUESTION: Would lack of money be an emergency?

3 MR. ASHCROFT: No, I don't think it would, and 4 I don't think the lack of money would really prevent 5 that --

6 QUESTION: So that a poor woman who couldn't 7 afford a hospital had a baby, she'd commit a crime. Is 8 that right?

9 MR. ASHCROFT: We've made provision in 10 Missouri for individuals who seek -- are having children 11 who don't have the resources to afford the hospital 12 setting to be provided for in the hospital.

13 The second point that I'd like to make is to 14 address the issue of the need for a second doctor in the 15 operating room, or in attendance I would say more 16 specifically at the time an abortion is performed in a 17 case where there is a viable, unborn child. This is 18 really related to the third trimester of a proceeding.
19 Viability, according to the medical experts who 20 testified at trial, only occurs in the third trimester.
21 The earliest solid testimony in the record indicates 22 that 24 weeks; the consensus I believe would place 23 viability at 26 weeks.

24 Roe v. Wade indicated that there are, indeed, 25 separate and distinct interests in the state in the

1 potential of life, and that interest can be protected 2 reasonably.

3 It's my view that the state of Missouri has 4 harmonized in a significant way the interests of the 5 mother and the interests of the unborn potential life in 6 its statute. And I think it's done so quite well.

7 I should add that in the third trimester, the 8 law, as I understand it, is that there is no right to an 9 abortion except when the woman's health is endangered, 10 and therefore, we are not talking about the same kind of 11 right relating to the woman in the third trimester that 12 we are in the second and first trimester.

13 We have two sets of rights then that are to be 14 guarded by the state and two interests that are 15 present. The maternal health interests, and the 16 interests in the state in the potential life. There is 17 significant testimony in the record, particularly the 18 testimony of Dr. Elizabeth James who was the Director of 19 Neonatal Intensive Care, a unit at the University of 20 Missouri Medical Center, that indicates that children 21 who leave the environment of the mother at 26 weeks now 22 have a 50 percent chance of survival. At 28 weeks, the 23 record in the medical center is a 75 percent chance of 24 survival.

25 She provided testimony indicating that she

1 thought it was necessary that a second individual be in 2 attendance at the time, and that that second individual 3 could be crucial in a couple of ways. First of all, the 4 most important thing for a premature child, a newborn, 5 at that stage of development is that they begin to 6 respire, and the ability to get respiration going is a 7 job which requires the attendance of a physician.

8 Secondly, circulation, and she indicated that 9 heart massage may be necessary. She pointed to the fact 10 that this is crucial that it be done expeditiously 11 because a failure to respire can result in 12 neurological damage, so that while a child might 13 survive, it might not survive with the same quality that 14 it would otherwise have.

15 Given the fact that Roe v. Wade talked about 16 the potential for meaningful life existing, I think when 17 we're talking about that effort to make sure that the 18 respiration is there and we avoid neurological damage is 19 part of it, I believe that we are guarding that 20 adequately.

21 The Eighth Circuit struck this down saying 22 that there are occasions when doctors might perform an 23 abortion in the period of viability using the D&F, 24 dilatation and evacuation, technique. That technique, 25 concededly, if it's carried through, will destroy the

1 fetus. It dismembers the fetus, usually especially as 2 in larger fetuses which you would expect at late times 3 in development, as it withdraws the fetus from the 4 environment of the mother, and I think it's clear that 5 that fetus is not going to survive.

6 It was thought then that this statute be 7 overbroad because we required it in all abortions 8 pursuant to the determination by the physician of 9 viability. I don't believe that it is so overbroad and 10 I don't believe it is infirm. And the court in Beal 11 versus Doe indicated that it's not until the time of 12 viability that the state has the right to unduly burden
13 the decision. But it's pretty clear that in that third 14 trimester there are such strong competing interests that 15 the state indeed has a right to place a heavy burden.

16 Secondly, I don't know that in the hospital
17 context, that a second physician is all that heavy a 18 burden which is imposed in this circumstance. Thirdly, 19 I think it's important to note that sometimes a decision
20 will be made to use the D&E procedure, and the D&E 21 procedure would not be carried out as a result of 22 complications encountered in the procedure itself. At 23 such time, another procedure might be invoked to 24 complete the surgery, and the potential life should be 25 guarded.

1 Another point that I think ought to be made in 2 relation to the alleged over-breadth of the statute in 3 this context is that when the doctor who is choosing 4 what type of abortion ought to be made is selecting 5 between procedures, his awareness that a second doctor 6 will be involved in the operation I think is a 7 therapeutic influence.

8 D&E procedures are generally faster and easier 9 to conduct, and the one doctor in this case that 10 testified that he used D&E procedures after viability is 11 the same doctor who testified that he believed that the 12 mother is always entitled to a dead fetus. And that he 13 would do, and generally did, nothing to try and protect 14 the life of any newborn that was a result of an 15 abortion; that it wasn't his responsibility and he had 16 no interest in that.

17 I don't believe that that's a position which 18 the state of Missouri can accept. We believe that that 19 potential for life is valid, that it's real, that it's 20 important and that we ought to protect it. And as a 21 result, I do not believe that the requirement of a 22 second doctor after viability is an overly-broad 23 requirement. It is a safeguard. It is perhaps 24 burdensome, but it is well justified as a result of 25 compelling interest of the state; that compelling

1 interest of the state being in relation to that 2 potential life of the unborn.

3 QUESTION: Does Missouri require the presence
4 of a second doctor with a premature normal birth?

5 MR. ASHCROFT: The Missouri law does not.
6 There is testimony in the record that indicates that it
7 is a surgical practice for such to be the case, and I 8 believe that it's a good practice and I think it's 9 appropriate for the legislature to recognize that and to 10 require it in these circumstances.

11 QUESTION: You would recommend that the 12 legislature do this?

13 MR. ASHCROFT: Pardon?

14 QUESTION: You would recommend that the 15 legislature pass a statute requiring the presence of a 16 second physician, second surgeon, second OB, whatever 17 you want, in the delivery room for a premature, normal 18 birth.

19 MR. ASHCROFT: Yes.

20 QUESTION: Your office would so recommend.

21 MR. ASHCROFT: Yes, I would.

22 QUESTION: Thank you.

23 MR. ASHCROFT: There are two other issues 24 which I want to address to the Court and call to your 25 attention. One has already been addressed by Mr. Susman

1 in this matter. That issue is related to the consent
2 provision of the statute.

3 These consent provisions, in my view, are as 4 close to a direct response to Bellotti 2 as you could 5 possibly get. It's almost -- well, it's just very 6 interesting that the statute was passed three weeks
7 before the decision, but it's very close. If the court 8 has a right to provide the consent absent parental 9 consent, the court is to do that if the plaintiff is not 10 mature enough to make a decision and only if the 11 plaintiff is not emancipated.

12 The court is to first decide whether or not 13 there's adequate maturity to reach the decision on the 14 part of the minor. The court secondly is to make a 15 determination as to whether or not the minor is, indeed, 16 emancipated. And thirdly, the court would provide for 17 consent and is limited to good cause in providing that 18 consent -- and good cause are the terms used in the 19 statute -- requiring legal grounds to be used for saying 20 if in the event the court determines the statute not to 21 be in the best interest of the minor, those have to be 22 good cause grounds for denying it.

23 The statute says that the court shall consider 24 the emotional development of the minor, the nature of 25 the abortion, the possible consequences of the abortion,

1 the alternatives to abortion, the intellectual 2 capability and understanding of the minor. We are 3 asking judges, who are sworn to uphold the Constitution
4 of the United States and who administer the law fairly.
5 There is an appeal procedure required in statute, and 6 the Supreme Court is directed in the statute, once it's 7 operative, to develop an expeditious appeal in the event 8 that injustice is done there.

9 I believe that the state has met its burden in 10 this case, that it is clearly covered by the Bellotti 2 11 decision, and as a matter of fact, this consent 12 provision which was upheld by the Eighth Circuit should 13 be affirmed by this Court.

14 QUESTION: Mr. Attorney General, did I 15 understand counsel for petitioner to say that the 16 Supreme Court of Missouri had not construed the consent 17 provisions and, therefore, we shouldn't address it here?

18 MR. ASHCROFT: I think that's what the 19 petitioner said. In his Reply Brief. That was the 20 first time we heard about abstention.

21 QUESTION: What is your answer to that?

22 MR. ASHCROFT: My answer is that the state
23 could accept abstention --

24 QUESTION: The construction by C.A. Eighth?
25 We could accept the construction by the Court of Appeals

1 for the Eighth Circuit?

2 MR. ASHCROFT: Yes, we could easily do that.
3 We argued abstention before the Eighth Circuit and 4 before the district court. And this is the first time 5 we've heard about abstention in this matter.

6 QUESTION: Well, Mr. Attorney General, does 7 Missouri have a certification procedure?

8 MR. ASHCROFT: No, we don't.

9 QUESTION: Then how could we get it for the 10 state courts?

11 MR. ASHCROFT: I would just assume that the 12 state courts would have to accommodate this Court by a 13 ruling.

14 QUESTION: Otherwise, we'd have to rely on the 15 Eighth Circuit's interpretation of the state law?

16 MR. ASHCROFT: Indeed, that is what I urge 17 this Court to do.

18 QUESTION: Was there any Missouri judge on the 19 Eighth Circuit panel?

20 MR. ASHCROFT: I don't remember, sir.

21 QUESTION: The answer is no.

22 CHIEF JUSTICE BURGER: Mr. Susman?

23 ORAL ARGUMENT OF FRANK SUSMAN, ESQ.

24 ON BEHALF OF PLANNED PARENTHOOD ASSOCIATION - Rebuttal

25 MR. SUSMAN: First of all, Justice Rehnquist,

1 if I might perhaps clear up some confusion. In the 2 Danforth statute, which was adopted in 1974 following
3 Roe versus Wade, there was a specific provision 4 identical to the one under challenge here that said all 5 abortions after 12 weeks must be in a hospital. So they 6 were prohibited by law from '74 up to '79 when that same 7 statute was put into a different chapter and just 8 re-enacted.

9 So you had a clear period of from 1973 to 1980 10 when all second trimester procedures statutorily had to 11 be done in a hospital.

12 QUESTION: Do you know why the 70 provision 13 respecting hospitals from 1974 to 79 in effect then was 14 not challenged, whereas this one, which you say is 15 identical, was?

16 MR. SUSMAN: I do.

17 QUESTION: Okay. Will you tell me?

18 (Laughter.)

19 MR. SUSMAN: Be more than happy to. Many 20 states adopted this kind of provision immediately
21 following 73 as the first type of legislative response
22 to Roe versus Wade. There were no challenges anywhere 23 to my knowledge against this type of provision in those 24 early years. It was only after medical advances and 25 times changed. And the changes that occurred were the 1 following.

2 One, D&E, which was virtually unknown in this 3 country in 1973, became the most prevalent second 4 trimester procedure in the United States over a period
5 of years. Secondly, the second underpinning of this 6 Court in Roe versus Wade in the dicta referring to 7 hospitals, was a reference to the American Public Health 8 Association's policy of saying do them in a hospital.
9 The American Public Health Association changed their 10 policy. Planned Parenthood Federation changed their 11 policy. The American College of OB-GYNs changed their 12 policy.

13 And for the first time, people thought, when 14 they were beginning to do these things and they were 15 being done successfully in those states which had not 16 enacted this type of restriction, that those states that 17 had it should be challenged.

18 QUESTION: They thought that our 19 constitutional doctrine should change because views of 20 organizations like the American Public Health
21 Association changed?

22 MR. SUSMAN: No. But in fact, this Court
23 refers in a footnote to relying upon the APHA's standard 24 of saying that it should be done in a hospital. And 25 that standard changed.

1 In reference to the second doctor requirement,
2 I think we must note that the state was witness for the 3 petitioner, it's true, but it was the state's 4 statistician who, by law, keeps track of all the 5 abortion procedures done in Missouri, that the only form
6 of second trimester abortion in Missouri is the method 7 of D&E. And every witness, including those for the 8 respondents, agreed unanimously and without exception 9 that there is no chance of survival of a fetus when one 10 performs a D&E procedure. And therefore, it is totally 11 irrational to require a second physician to be in 12 attendance when no one indicated that there was any 13 possibility of survival.

14 There are no other types of procedures done in 15 Missouri. At least, none had been done at the time of 16 trial.

17 QUESTION: That doesn't answer his argument
18 that the second doctor provides an additional protection 19 against using that procedure when it may not be the 20 appropriate procedure.

21 MR. SUSMAN: That second physician, while they 22 might have some idle conversation, has no direct say in 23 that decision. They are not the surgeon. And in fact, 24 it is standard policy, and there was evidence at the 25 trial to this effect, that when you have a second

1 physician present, such as at a large university medical 2 setting and you have a premature delivery, that the 3 second patient, the child, once it is born, does not 4 become the patient of the neonatologist whom you have 5 standing by until such time as that delivering 6 physician, the obstetrician, chooses to turn that child 7 over to the neonatologist. It is his decision when that 8 turning over of that second patient who has come into 9 existence occurs. He must turn the patient over.

10 Merely being there accomplishes nothing, 11 particularly when in fact, no procedure is being done in 12 Missouri that would permit such a survival.

13 We think the analogy to the prohibition in the 14 Danforth case of the saline procedure is identical. The 15 court in that case held -- and all of this language is 16 totally analogous here. You said in 1976 the state 17 would prohibit the use of a method which the record 18 shows is the most commonly used nationally by physicians 19 after the first trimester, and which is safer with 20 respect to maternal mortality than even continuation of 21 the pregnancy until normal childbirth. And the latest 22 study, which appears in the July issue of the Journal of 23 the American Medical Association by Dr. Cates indicates 24 that abortion is now as safe as childbirth up to the 25 16th week. And moreover, you went on to say as a

1 practical matter, it forces a woman and her physician to 2 terminate a pregnancy by methods more dangerous to her
3 health than the method outlawed. Everything you said
4 then in Danforth is equally applicable to the provision 5 under consideration here.

6 The second doctor requirement I think I have 7 discussed. I would only refer this Court back to its 8 language of Collati in 1979, in which you said that Roe 9 stressed, repeatedly the central role of the physician, 10 both in consulting with the woman about whether or not 11 to have an abortion, and in determining how any abortion 12 was to be carried out.

13 This standard over the past 10 years has 14 proven itself, I suggest, in exemplary fashion. The 15 medical community has distinguished itself by providing 16 abortion services in a safe and disciplined manner. I 17 would disagree with my brother here that there is some 18 great medical debate being waged either in the 19 literature or in the public forums of this country over 20 whether or not it is safe to do abortions outpatient.
21 There is nothing in the literature to substantiate any 22 such debate.

23 Certainly, they had medical experts at the 24 trial; medical experts who all were morally opposed to 25 abortion, who had never performed an abortion. Now,

1 we've already discussed with Dr. Schmidt, a past
2 president of ACOG testified in our trial who also 3 testified in Akron. And the only medical expert they 4 had who had experience doing abortions and called by 5 them, Dr. Nathanson, Dr. Nathanson says it's just as 6 safe out of the hospital as it is in. And he is the 7 only expert they had who had ever done abortions.

8 Abortion today is the most widely-publicized 9 and scrutinized medical procedure because of all the 10 legal implications, but the delivery of abortion health 11 care in this country has not been found wanting to any 12 degree. Excessive legislation in this field can only 13 produce the very untoward medical and health 14 consequences that the respondents would suggest to you 15 they're trying to prevent.

16 But instead, I suggest to you that the real 17 purpose of all of these statutes and of all of these 18 sections is to thwart the free exercise of the right.
19 It is the very essence of medicine that the physician be 20 able to adjust the course and consequences of treatment 21 to the individual patient. Codifying medicine is the 22 very antithesis of the medical arts.

23 Women have more rights in the third trimester 24 after viability, for reasons of life or health, than 25 they have under Section 188.028 for minors when even if

1 you're dying, you still have to go to court or get a 2 parent, and there's no exceptions, or you have in 3 hospital. There is no emergency exception whatsoever in 4 the in-hospital requirement, either. No exception.

5 You're better off being in the third
6 trimester; at least then you have some hope.

7 Thank you.

8 CHIEF JUSTICE BURGER: Thank you, gentlemen, 9 the case is submitted.

10 (Whereupon, at 2:06 p.m, the case in the 11 above-entitled matter was submitted.)
