ORAL ARGUMENT OF	PAGE
LAUGHLIN McDONALD, ESQ., on behalf of the Appellant	3
BARBARA E. ETKIND, ESQ., as amicus curiae	11
KAREN LeCRAFT HENDERSON, ESQ., on behalf of the Appellees	18

1 QUESTION: Mr. McDonald, what was the nature
2 of the 1966 change that you are describing?

3 MR. MC DONALD: The 1966 change instituted
4 a three-member elected, at-large county council with 5 additional home rule powers. The prior local governing 6 body had been an appointed commission form of government, 7 two commissioners appointed by the governor and then 8 the third member of the commission was a county supervisor.
9

10 That voting change in 1966 was never submitted 11 to the Attorney General and as a consequence at-large 12 elections have been used illegally in Edgefield County 13 and havenot been evaluated by any person, neither the 14 Attorney General nor the D.C. courts, to determine whether 15 or not they are racially discriminatory and their undeniable
16 consequence has been to exclude blacks totally from member-
17 ship on the county governing body throughout the use 18 of those unlawful, unprecleared, at-large elections.
19

20 Now, despite the failure, admitted failure,
21 of the county to submit to the 1966 Act, the lower court found 22 that preclearance was unnecessary because the Attorney
23 General had, so the court found, in fact, precleared 24 the 1966 Act when he precleared a change in 1971 involving 25

1 an increase in the size of the council from three to 2 five members and the lower court held alternatively that 3 preclearance of the 1971 increase in size as a matter 4 of law precleared the adoption of at-large voting in 5 1966.

6
7 The Appellants in this case, who are black 8 residents of Edgefield County, submit that the local -- 9 the lower court erred on both counts.

10 First of all, the Attorney General has made
11 it absolutely clear, both in correspondence with state 12 and local officials and also in briefs filed in this 13 case by the Solicitor General, that he was never asked 14 in the 1971 submission involving the increase in size
15 of the council to evaluate or preclear the 1966 adoption 16 of at-large voting.

17
18 The Attorney General has also made it clear 19 that he did not, in fact, evaluate or consider the 1966
20 change to determine whether or not it had a discriminatory
21 purpose or effect. He never treated the 1971 change 22 as one involving the adoption in 1966, of a change from 23 an appointed to an elected at-large local government, 24 and that the 1971 submission was not a submission of 25 the 1966 Act.

1           The lower court's finding that the Attorney
2 General "must have considered" the 1966 change is wholly 3 contradicted by the record and by the representations 4 of the Attorney General. He simply did not evaluate 5 the change made in 1966 and he has not done so to this 6 day and neither has the D.C. courts.

7
8           QUESTION: Mr. McDonald, what if the strictly 9 factual question of did the Attorney General, in fact,
10 evaluate the 1966 change was to be answered the way you
11 said it should, no, he did not. But, nonetheless, it 12 was perfectly clear that it had been totally, adequately
13 called to his attention, all of the significant data
14 were before him at the time he was looking at the 1971
15 change. Do you think the simple fact that he did not 16 actually get into the 1966 change was prevented from 17 becoming cleared as a result of the '71 submission?

18           MR. MC DONALD: I think if a belated submission
19 had been made and if the jurisdiction had fully complied
20 with the submission requirements that the Court has set 21 out in Allen and the United States versus Board of 22 Commissioners of Sheffield, and if the jurisdiction had 23 made a specific, though late, request that the change
24 could have been cleared. But, that was manifestly not 25 done here, because there was no request from the jurisdiction

1 in 1971 that the Attorney General precleared the 1966
2 change. The only request -- I think the record is unambiguous
3 on this point -- The only request made of the Attorney
4 General was to preclear and increase in size of the council, 5 to preclear the 1971 change and --

6 QUESTION: Well, supposing that the 1971 change, 7 just as you said, and I don't doubt it is, but it makes 8 some reference to what happened in 1966. When the Attorney 9 General see that, he says, now, wait a minute, it looks 10 to me like something has happened in 1966 that didn't -- 11 hasn't been called to our attention. Submit to me as 12 a supplement to your 1971 request for clearance all the 13 data that I will need on the '66 change.

14 MR. MC DONALD: Well, there was nothing ever 15 submitted to --

16 QUESTION: But, supposing that had happened.

17 MR. MC DONALD: Well, if it had been submitted 18 and if it had been considered, then it could have been 19 precleared, but it was not submitted. There was never 20 anything ever submitted to the Attorney General which 21 would indicate what the practice was in 1964. There 22 is simply no possible way the Attorney General could 23 have known other than that he was pressured or was able 24 to devine from things that were not before him.

25 The lower court concluded that the 1971

1 preclearance work is a matter of law to preclear the 2 1966 Act, but with all respect, that could not have 3 been --

4 QUESTION: It was also concluded as a matter
5 of fact, didn't it?

6 MR. MC DONALD: Which I believe to be patently
7 erroneous on this record.

8 But, this Court has made it clear that in order 9 to make a submission the jurisdiction has got to do --
10 It has to do at least two things. I has to make a sub-
11 mission. And, when Allen talks about making a submission 12 and Sheffield talks about making a submission, I take 13 it to mean that the jurisdiction has got to submit 14 sufficient information to allow the Attorney General
15 to make the kind of comparison which Congress had said
16 he or she must make under Section 5 of the Voting Rights
17 Act.

18 Now, that was manifestly not done here, because 19 there was never submitted through the Attorney General
20 any evidence as to what the practice in Edgefield County 21 was in 1964.

22 Secondly, not only does the jurisdiction have 23 to make a submission of evidence, but it also has to 24 make a request that a particular change be precleared.
25 That, again, was not done here. There is absolutely

1 nothing in the record to indicate that the submitting 2 jurisdiction ever requested that the 1966 adoption of 3 at-large elections be precleared.

4           The Voting Rights Act itself doesn't prescribe 5 any formal procedures, as you know, for the submission
6 of voting changes, but this Court has been very con-7 sistent and quite explicit in Allen and Sheffield and 8 in City of Rome in requiring jurisdictions to make a 9 sufficient request and, secondly, to make a request that 10 a specific change be precleared.

11           It seems to me that the critical fact in this 12 case is that neither the Attorney General nor the D.C.
13 courts have ever done, with respect to the 1966 adoption
14 of at-large elections in Edgefield County, what the Congress
15 said and what this Court has said must be done and that 16 is they must be evaluated to determine whether or not 17 they have a discriminatory purpose or effect.

18           It has been suggested it is in some sense unfair
19 to the jurisdiction to require it to do so. I think 20 nothing could be further off the mark. If the change 21 is one that is not discriminatory, then the jurisdiction,
22 if it submits the '66 change, will have it precleared 23 and that will be the end of the Section 5 issue. They 24 will be out, if you will, a postage stamp and some time 25 of the county attorney.

1           If, however, the change is one that is dis-
2     criminatory, and I would submit that one cannot read
3     the opinion of the single-judge court, the 1980 opinion
4     deciding the dilution claim in this case, and conclude 5     anything other than that the at-large system has the 6     most aggravated and racially discriminatory impact in 7     Edgefield County.

8           If, indeed, the change is one that is dis-
9     criminatory, I think no one could defend the 17-year
10    non-compliance and non-submission by the local jurisdiction.

11           The Attorney General in this case did everything, 12    we submit, that he was requested to do by the local 13    jurisdiction. He was requested to preclear a change 14    involving an increase in the size of the council. He 15    did precisely that. He did exactly what the Congress 16    envisioned that he would do.

17           If there is any failure to comply with the 18    law, it most clearly is the failure of the local 19    jurisdiction to comply with the submission requirements
20    of Section 5 and submit the 1966 Act.

21           Appellants respectfully ask this Court to do 22    no more than to enforce the provisions of Section 5 of 23    the Voting Rights Act and to require Edgefield County
24    to submit promptly the 1964 change to at-large elections
25    so that someone, the Attorney General or the D.C. courts

1 will have an opportunity to evaluate those changes to 2 determine whether or not they have a racially discriminatory 3 purpose or effect.

4 CHIEF JUSTICE BURGER: Ms. Etkind?

5 ORAL ARGUMENT OF BARBARA E. ETKIND, ESQ.

6 AS AMICUS CURIAE

7 MS. ETKIND: Thank you, Mr. Chief Justice,
8 and may it please the Court:

9 It seems to us that a theme underlying both 10 the decision below and Appellees' argument is that the 11 Attorney General should have known that the change to 12 at-large elections was involved in South Carolina's 1971
13 submission, because that notion presents great potential
14 for eroding Section 5 rights. I would like to address 15 it first.

16 In the Voting Rights Act of 1965, Congress
17 was concerned not only with eliminating existing forms 18 of voting discrimination, but also with preventing any 19 form of discrimination local jurisdiction might devise 20 in the future.

21 The method Congress choose to protect against 22 new forms of discriminations was to require each covered 23 jurisdiction, before implementing any voting change,
24 to submit it for scrutiny by an independent body. Congress
25 selected the District Court for the District of Columbia

1 and the Attorney General to conduct this independent 2 scrutiny.

3 This right of minority voters to be free from 4 voting changes that have not been found to be non-5 discriminatory can only be ensured if the reviewing bodies'
6 attention is, in fact, brought to bear on the precise 7 change in question.

8 When preclearance is sought in the District
9 Court, that focus is assured by the requirement that 10 the jurisdiction file a complaint specifying the changes 11 it wishes to have precleared.

12 Similarly, this Court has held that when a 13 jurisdiction seeks preclearance by the Attorney General,
14 the statute requires the jurisdiction to state unambiguously 15 the changes it seeks to have approved.

16 When a jurisdiction fails to carry that burden, 17 preclearance cannot be based on a determination that 18 the Attorney General should have known that the change 19 required preclearance.

20 Such a result defeats the right afforded by 21 Section 5 which is the right to actual scrutiny of voting 22 changes before they are limited.

23 Such a result also inures who the intended 24 beneficiaries of the Voting Rights Act are. Section 5 was 25 not intended to benefit the Attorney General or the local

1 jurisdiction, but rather minority voters are the intended
2 beneficiaries of Section 5.

3 Accordingly, this is not a contest between 4 Edgefield County and the Attorney General in which the 5 county's failure to make an unambiguous submission can 6 be excused by some purported contributory negligence
7 of the Attorney General.

8 For reasons I shall state, we dispute that 9 the Attorney General was negligent in his preclearance
10 of the 1971 submission. But, in any event, his role 11 under the statute is not an adversarial one, but more 12 of a judicial one. Hence, in the absence of statutory 13 compliance by the jurisdiction, any alleged fault by 14 the Attorney General cannot be attributed to the intended 15 beneficiaries of the Act so as to defeat their rights.

16 The requirement that a jurisdiction state
17 unambiguously the changes it wishes to have precleared 18 is entirely consistent with the Section 5 scheme. That 19 provision requires the voluntary submission of voting 20 changes by covered jurisdictions and places on them the 21 burden of proving absence of discriminatory purpose or 22 effect.

23 This Court has recognized that the Attorney
24 General simply does not have the resources to police 25 all the states and subdivisions covered by the Act.

1 He receives thousands of Section 5 submissions each year
2 and the statute affords him only 60 days in which to 3 act on them.

4 Moreover, as this Court has also emphasized,
5 the Attorney General cannot be charged with knowledge
6 of all the nuances of local law. By contrast, the submitting 7 jurisdiction knows exactly which changes it wants to 8 clear and it is not too much to expect that it state 9 those changes clearly so the Attorney General will be 10 sure to focus on them and, thus, bring to bear the scrutiny 11 that minority voters are entitled to under the Act.

12 Here, it cannot be seriously claimed that Appellees 13 or South Carolina ever made an unambiguous request for 14 preclearance of the change to at-large election.

15 The court below found as a fact that South
16 Carolina did not submit the change before it was implemented 17 in 1966 and it is strange credulity to suggest that the 18 1971 submission was an unambiguous request for approval 19 of the prior change.

20 The only changes brought about by the '71
21 legislation, as Mr. McDonald said, which would redistrict
22 Edgefield County into five rather than three districts 23 and to increase the number of council members from three 24 to five.

25 The Act was so entitled and South Carolina

1 never indicated there were any other voting changes subject
2 to the preclearance requirement, much less requested 3 preclearance of them.

4 The court below relied on the fact that the 5 1971 legislation contained a provision for at-large elections
6 but the Attorney General knew from the face of the '66
7 statute that the at-large provision was not new in '71.

8 Appellees contend that the Attorney General
9 also should have known from the face of the 1966 statute 10 that the at-large provision was first enacted in that 11 year and, thus, was a change requiring preclearance.
12 But, the Attorney General did not know from the 1966 13 statute that its provision for at-large elections was 14 not a mere codification of prior law as was the identical
15 1971 provision and, in any event, what the Attorney General 16 perhaps should have known or should have inquired into 17 is irrelevant. The right guaranteed minority voters
18 under Section 5 is actual scrutiny of voting changes 19 before they are put into effect.

20 Of course, if the Attorney General, in fact, 21 had considered a particular change, regardless of whether 22 he had been unambiguously requested to do so, Section 23 5 interests would have been protected, but that is not 24 what happened here.

25 The only information the Attorney General had

1 in 1971 were in the difference between the 1966 and the 2 1971 legislation. In order to have evaluated the initial 3 change from a combined appointed, elected council to 4 a council entirely elected at large, he would have needed 5 the pre-1966 information.

6 Accordingly, if the Attorney General considered
7 the at-large feature at all, he did so only in the context 8 of comparing an at-large, three-member council with an 9 at-large, five-member council.

10 QUESTION: Ms. Etkind, if we agree with your 11 presentation and conclude that Edgefield County never 12 had the preclearance for the '66 election by virtue 13 of the action in 1971, do we have to reach the second 14 question --

15 MS. ETKIND: No.

16 QUESTION: --raised on the '76 election?

17 MS. ETKIND: No.

18 QUESTION: May I ask this question?

19 MS. ETKIND: Yes.

20 QUESTION: Is it agreed that the 1966 Act was 21 filed with the Attorney General while he was considering 22 the Act of 1971?

23 MS. ETKIND: It wasn't file. He requested
24 a copy of that Act and it was given to him in the context 25 of the '71 submission.

1 QUESTION: So, he received it?

2 MS. ETKIND: Yes.

3 QUESTION: And, what maps were made available
4 to the Attorney General at that time?

5 MS. ETKIND: I believe it was the map showing 6 the three districts as set up under the '66 legislation
7 and the three districts set up under the '71 legislation.

8 QUESTION: May I ask this? Does the AG's office --
9 Do you -- Well, you are not in the Attorney General's 10 office. Does the Attorney General have computer information 11 stored that shows the requests that have been made and 12 shows obviously requests that have not been made?

13 MS. ETKIND: As I understand it, the Attorney
14 General does have that computerized system, but he didn't 15 have it in 1971.

16 QUESTION: No files that would have enabled 17 him to check to see whether requests had ever been made?

18 MS. ETKIND: Well, there were files and he 19 could have checked, but it is our submission that the 20 burden was not on him to do that checking, and in view 21 of the large number of submissions, that burden should 22 not be put on him.

23 QUESTION: How many submissions are made in 24 a year now?

25 MS. ETKIND: Well, in 1982 he received requests

1 for preclearance of more 14,000 changes.

2 QUESTION: What does that work out per working 3 day? Have you done that? We can figure it later.

4 MS. ETKIND: I believe there was a reference
5 to that in Justice O'Connor's dissenting opinion in the 6 Port Arthur case, but I don't remember the exact figure.

7 QUESTION: Okay.

8 MS. ETKIND: It is our submission that because 9 the change to at-large elections itself has never been 10 subjected to scrutiny under Section 5, the Attorney General's 11 objection should be in force.

12 CHIEF JUSTICE BURGER: Ms. Henderson?

13 ORAL ARGUMENT OF KAREN LeCRAFT HENDERSON, ESQ.

14 ON BEHALF OF THE APPELLEES

15 MS. HENDERSON: Mr. Chief Justice, and may it pleas
16 the Court:

17 The single issue before the Court this afternoon
18 is whether or not Edgefield County, South Carolina, with 19 respect to its county council, is in compliance with 20 Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act. This is not a Section 21 2 issue and this is not a constitutional issue. This 22 is whether or not Section 5 has been complied with.

23 And, with respect to that issue, we have three 24 points which we would like to address.

25 Number one, the 1971 Act prescribed the current

1 method of electing the Edgefield County council today.
2 There has been no change since 1971.

3 Number two, the '71 Act was precleared in its 4 entirety; that is all of its provisions, the five-member
5 council, the five residency districts, the at-large method
6 and the two year term were all contained in the '71 Act
7 and they were all precleared in 1971.

8 And, number three, the home rule changes, if 9 they are Section 5 changes at all, were precleared on 10 August 28, 1975 when the Attorney General precleared
11 the Home Rule Act.

12 Now, the lower court found as a fact that the 13 preclearance of the 1971 Act precleared that Act in its 14 entirety and we submit that that finding is not only clearly 15 erroneous as it must be to be reversed, but it is immanently
16 correct that there was in fact and by operation of law
17 a preclearance of the '71 Act in its entirety.

18 The '71 Act begins by striking out all of the 19 election provisions of the 1966 Act and that is important, 20 we think, because the '71 Act specifically says the section 21 of the '66 Act which relates to method of election is 22 hereby -- is amended by striking it out and placing it
23 with the following. It replaces the '66 Act with provisions 24 which add two members so that they now have a five-member 25 county council.

1                   It changes all of the residency districts.
2                   There had been three. It adds two and changes the 3                   composition of all five.

4                   It provides once again for an at-large method
5                   of elections and for two-year terms.

6                   It was submitted along with 17 other pieces 7                   of legislation and the submission says simply this:
8                   "That in accordance with provisions of Section 5 of the 9                   Voting Rights Act, there are submitted herewith copies 10                  of the following Acts" and the 1971 Act is one of them.

11                  QUESTION: Was there any reason why the '66
12                  one wasn't submitted?

13                  MS. HENDERSON: No, Your Honor, there isn't.

14                  The next act that took place was that the Attorney 15                  General wrote to Edgefield County and said that he needed
16                  additional information. He needed boundary maps, he needed 17                  voter registration statistics, he needed population 18                  statistics, and he also needed the election provisions 19                  now in force.

20                  That requested was acted upon and he received 21                  all that he asked for including a copy of the 1966 Act.

22                  His next action was not to ask what was in 23                  effect on November 1, 1964 or was 1966 precleared, but 24                  his next act was to preclear the 1971 Act. And, his 25                  preclearance letter says simply, "the Attorney General

1 does not interpose any objection to the change in question."
2 That is the enactment itself at No. 521 of 1971.

3 In other words, as this letter manifests, he 4 precleared all of the provisions of the 1971 Act.

5 Perhaps more important --

6 QUESTION: May I ask a question? The 1966
7 Act, do you agree that that was a voting change?

8 MS. HENDERSON: Yes, Your Honor.

9 QUESTION: That was a change?

10 MS. HENDERSON: Yes, it definitely was.

11 QUESTION: And, is it your position that that 12 was implicitly cleared in '71 or it became unnecessary 13 to clear it when you had a different scheme in '71?

14 MS. HENDERSON: Our position is it was superseded
15 by the 1971 Act because the 1971 Act provides completely 16 for the method of electing Edgefield County council.

17 QUESTION: So, you do not contend that the 18 action in 1971, in effect, cleared the '66 change?

19 MS. HENDERSON: We don't contend that it reached 20 back or -- Yes, reached back and cleared the '66 --

21 QUESTION: So, your position is that you -- 22 that clearance in '71 cleared the entire statute regardless 23 of how many changes it made?

24 MS. HENDERSON: Yes, Your Honor, we do. And, 25 we think --

1           QUESTION: And, regardless of how many features
2 of the statute were previous changes that had never been 3 precleared.

4           MS. HENDERSON: Because of -- Your Honor, that 5 is correct. Because of the way the statute is phrased, 6 the fact that the '66 Act is completely struck out, we 7 think that it might have been different if the '71 Act
8 had said line 3 of the '66 Act is amended from three 9 to five and something like that.

10          QUESTION: So, it really comes down to a question 11 of who had the duty to find out how many changes there 12 were. Your submission is that the Attorney General should 13 have found out how many changes there were to satisfy
14 himself and his argument is you should have told him 15 what the changes were?

16          MS. HENDERSON: Yes, Your Honor.

17          QUESTION: That is the whole fight.

18          MS. HENDERSON: I think it is important to 19 note that we were, back then in the early years of the 20 Voting Rights Act, and it was not too long after the 21 watershed case of Allen, and I think if we -- I don't 22 know that we even need to compare duties, but I think 23 the Attorney General being charged with the enforcement
24 of the Voting Rights Act probably has more knowledge
25 of what it that was a voting change than Edgefield County

1 did at that time.

2 QUESTION: May I ask this one other question? I tal 3 it your submission would be precisely the same even if 4 the 1966 Act had not been given to the Attorney General?

5 MS. HENDERSON: Yes, for this reason, and this 6 is what I am getting into and that is we think that '71
7 Act precleared the present method of electing Edgefield 8 County council by operation of law as well as in fact.

9 The Plaintiff emphasized that he had only the 10 1966 Act before him. We don't know what he had before 11 him. We know he had at least the information that was 12 requested and we know that he had the '66 Act. But, we do
13 know that he did not have any authority to stop at the '66 Act 14 unless it had been precleared and we do know that he was 15 required to under Section 5, compare it to November 1st of 16 '64. We also know that he was authorized to review the 17 pre-existing elements, even assuming that they had been 18 precleared, the at-large and the two-year term under Lock-19 hart, and could have objected to those pre-existing 20 elements in the context of the '71 changes.

21 And, most important, we know that we must presume 22 that he followed the law, that is that he acted within 23 his authority.

24 The Plaintiffs say that there is nothing in the 25 record to show that he knew was at force on November 1st

1 of '64 and we say there is nothing in the record to show
2 that he didn't know what was in force on November --

3 QUESTION: Was the '66 law ever presented to 4 the Attorney General for preclearance up until this moment?

5 MS. HENDERSON: No, Your Honor, it hasn't been.
6 It was submitted in response to his request for the present 7 method of election in 1971.

8 We, of course, contend that that has been moot
9 ever since 1971, the '66 statute.

10 The presumption --

11 QUESTION: Do you mean that South Carolina
12 has been relieved of its duty? Its duty was to present 13 it for preclearance.

14 MS. HENDERSON: Yes, Your Honor.

15 QUESTION: And they have been excused of that?

16 MS. HENDERSON: No, Your Honor, we think we 17 have presented the present method of election in Edgefield
18 County for preclearance in 1971 and that it was precleared 19 in 1971 and there has been no change in the last 12 years.

20 This presumption that he acted within his authority, 21 that he did the only thing he was allowed to do, which 22 was to compare it to November 1st of '64, coupled with 23 no evidence to rebut it, we think, makes it conclusive.
24 But, we have even more information and that is in his 25 letter in which he requests additional information, he

1 discusses the other 16 statutes that were sent in with 2 this '71 Act and he says with respects to those 16, they 3 do not represent a change in voting practice or procedure
4 from November 1st of '64. So, we know that he knew that 5 November 1st of '64 is a determinative date and we have 6 no evidence to show that he treated the Edgefield County
7 act any differently from the way he treated the companion 8 statute.

9           While we have the burden to submit and we certainly 10 don't dispute that, the Attorney General, once he has 11 a submission before and the duty to either object to 12 it or to preclear it and once --

13           QUESTION: I thought you had said you had never 14 submitted it. You just said you had submitted it.

15           MS. HENDERSON: We submitted the present method
16 of electing the Edgefield County council.

17           QUESTION: But, not the '66 one.

18           MS. HENDERSON: That is correct. And, that 19 issue --

20           QUESTION: Be careful when you say you are 21 not including '66.

22           MS. HENDERSON: No, Your Honor, I certainly 23 am not including '66.

24           When we submitted the 1971 Act, he had the 25 duty either to object or to preclear it and once he

1    precleared it we are entitled to rely on that preclearance,
2    we feel, without having to ask him did you compare it
3    do 1964, did you preclear everything, does your letter
4    mean what it says and did you do your job? Whether that 5    preclearance was correct or not, once it was precleared, 6    it was precleared, and, otherwise, as this Court has 7    observed, the preclearance mechanism might never come
8    to an end and otherwise the sufficiency of a submission
9    might always be subject to challenge as it is here 12
10    years after we received preclearance.

11                Now, the Attorney General in 1980 for the first 12    time requested the submission of the 1966 Act. And,
13    the Plaintiffs say that this represents a consistent 14    position of non-preclearance and that it is entitled 15    to deference.

16                We say that for nine years and through two 17    submissions the Attorney General assumed that the Edgefield
18    County method of election had been precleared as prescribed 19    under the 1971 Act. First of all, in 1971, when he had 20    the '66 Act in front of him and must have seen either 21    that it hadn't been precleared or if it hadn't been pre-22    cleared, that it had, in fact, been superseded entirely
23    by the '71 Act --

24                QUESTION: You are saying then, Ms. Henderson, 25    that the Attorney General took a different position in 1 '71 than he did in 1980.

2 MS. HENDERSON: Yes, Your Honor. And, we think 3 when he had the '66 statute in front of him, he either
4 saw that it had been precleared, which the record says
5 that he did not do, that it had not been precleared, 6 and there is no record to show that it had been, or 7 he saw that it had been completely superseded by the 8 '71 Act and proceeded to compare all features of the 9 '71 act with November 1, 1964. That was his first opportunity.

10 Then in 1979, when he objected to the home
11 rule ordinance and resolution which merely continues 12 this '71 method of election, he began his objection letter 13 by saying ostensibly this is the same system of election.
14 Now, that wouldn't have been relevant if he hadn't assumed 15 that the same system of election had been precleared.
16 "There is to be no dragging out of this extraordinary 17 federal remedy." And, as the Court in USC Georgia found 18 an 11-year delay as inexcusable, we think that this late 19 attempt, 12 years after preclearance has been obtained, 20 is also inexcusable.

21 Now, the case should stop here because we have 22 a '71 preclearance, we have a stipulated fact that the 23 method of election has remained the same since 1971,
24 and we have cases and the Attorney General's own regulations 25 saying that a failure to object for any reason is not

1 reviewable. And, the case, as I say, should stop there.

2           However, the Plaintiffs' second issue is that 3 the Home Rule Act effected changes which require a submission
4 of Edgefield County's ordinance and resolution, which, 5 as I mentioned, continue unchanged the '71 method of 6 election. The only change effected by the Home Rule
7 Act is in power. It expanded the powers of all South
8 Carolina counties.

9           The Plaintiffs again stipulate that the Home
10 Rule Act has only changed the powers; that is that the 11 method of election has remained unchanged by the Home
12 Rule Act. And, the Attorney General really, in his letter 13 of objection, appears to agree with it, because again
14 he says ostensibly this is the same system of election.
15 In other words, the Home Rule Act has not changed the 16 method of election.

17           Edgefield County assumed these new powers,
18 these expanded powers, as of July 1, 1976, and it assumed
19 the powers pursuant to the Home Rule Act, which was pre-20 cleared in August of '75 and the lower court so held.

21           The lower court relied on a decision from our 22 local three-judge court concerning Charleston County
23 which was in the exact same situation. It had a pre-home 24 rule method of election which had been precleared and 25 it continued that under home rule and the decision, Woods

1     versus Hamilton, held that if a South Carolina county
2     kept its method of election unchanged by home rule, then 3     it would not need to submit its implementing ordinance
4     which merely readopts that method of election.

5             The Attorney General was a party to that law 6     suit and that decision was not appealed. And, even as 7     recently as this year, the Attorney General took the 8     same position in the case that is now pending in the 9     D.C. District Court involving Sumter County in which 10    the defendant Attorney General urged the court to find 11    that the preclearance of the Home Rule Act precleared 12    only the right provisions which were the holding of the 13    referenda and the expansion of the powers.

14            The ordinance and the resolution itself, and 15    they are found in the Joint Appendix beginning at 183, 16    do not mention powers and they do not change the method 17    of election. They simply continue the method of election.

18            Again, the lower court so held.

19            Significantly, we think the Attorney General's 20    objection letter notes its rather uncertain jurisdiction.
21    First, by beginning and saying ostensibly this is the 22    same system of election. It later says that while the 23    formal structure has remained the same, it then characterizes 24    its home rule preclearance as being beyond recall and 25    if the Home Rule Act had been something other than what

1 was represented to us we might not have precleared it.

2 It is a very uncertain type of objection letter.

3 But, nevertheless, Edgefield County did make 4 a good faith attempt to comply with it and as the record
5 reflects it set up public hearings, it established a 6 committee to draft single-member districts, and then the 7 Woods versus Hamilton decision came, which said if you 8 are a South Carolina county and make no change in your 9 method of election, you don't need to submit your ordinance
10 and resolution, and, again, the Attorney General did 11 not appeal that.

12 We would urge the Court to affirm, of course,
13 on both of the issues, but particularly with respect 14 to the second issue; that is that the home rule changes, 15 if they were changes under Section 5, have been precleared.
16 Consider the effect of the implicit holding of the lower 17 court which is that they were, in fact, Section 5 changes 18 or otherwise they wouldn't have had to be precleared.

19 We think that before the Court expands the Voting 20 Rights Act into a non-election law; that is simply an 21 expansion of powers, that it should consider the language 22 of the Act itself, its own previous decisions, and 23 particularly the City of Lockhart decision where just 24 recently the Court said it had the entire election system 25 in front of it and could determine the pre-existing --

1 the constitutionality of the pre-existing elements as 2 well as the changes, but never once talked about the 3 fact that it went from a general law city to a home rule 4 city; that is a change in power.

5 Accordingly, despite the second non-issue that 6 we think the Plaintiffs have raised with respect to the 7 Home Rule Act, we end with the identical issue that we 8 began with; that is the 1971 Act prescribes a current 9 method of election. It was precleared in its entirety
10 in 1971.

11 To reverse the lower court, we think, would 12 signal at least two things. First of all, that the 13 sufficiency of a submission is always subject to challenge, 14 even 12 years after preclearance was obtained and despite 15 the 60-day language in the Act, and we think the second 16 thing it would signal is non-election changes; that is 17 something like the expansion of powers is subject to 18 preclearance.

19 But, if the Court affirms, on the other hand, 20 it would signal at least two things. First, that once
21 a covered jurisdiction complies with the Voting Rights
22 Act, that the integrity of its state and local legislation
23 will remain undisturbed; and, second, that the preclearance
24 provisions of the Voting Rights Act are to be limited 25 to their intended scope. And, all of this is not to

1 leave the Plaintiffs without a remedy, because pending
2 in this very lawsuit is a Section 2 issue, a constitutional 3 issue, and a 1983 issue, which, of course, go to the 4 merits of the present method of election.

5 The Plaintiffs also have, under our state law,
6 a political remedy, because our Home Rule Act now allows 7 ten percent of the registered voters of any county to 8 petition for a referendum to change to the single-member 9 district.

10 QUESTION: Ms. Henderson, under -- I would 11 think it is under your submission that if a locality, 12 city or county or state passes a new ordinance or a new 13 law and you just put it in the mail to the Attorney General
14 and say, please clear this, that that clears every possible 15 change that might be involved.

16 MS. HENDERSON: No, Your Honor, that isn't 17 our position.

18 MS. HENDERSON: Well, it sounds like it. Do
19 you mean isn't the submitter supposed to go on and say 20 here is what we want cleared?

21 MS. HENDERSON: Yes, Your Honor. And those 22 are what the regulations require which, of course, were 23 not in effect in 1971.

24 QUESTION: Well, all right. Would you say
25 then that just mailing the ordinance or the Act in 1971

1 would be enough?

2 MS. HENDERSON: I think in 1971, yes, Your 3 Honor.

4 QUESTION: You just mail it. I think that 5 is your position, that you just mail the ordinance and 6 you don't tell them what change, it is up to him to go 7 and look up all the changes there are.

8 MS. HENDERSON: No. I think it --

9 QUESTION: Well, what were you supposed to 10 do in 1971?

11 MS. HENDERSON: Well, we were supposed to submit 12 it, which we did.

13 QUESTION: Submit the Act or the ordinance.
14 What was it? Was it an ordinance?

15 MS. HENDERSON: It was an Act.

16 QUESTION: All right, it was an Act. What 17 else were you supposed to do?

18 MS. HENDERSON: Okay. We submitted the Act.
19 Now, in the absence of any regulations, the Attorney
20 General then wrote back and said we don't have sufficient 21 data and here is what we need in order to have sufficient 22 data. He did not ask us what changes do you want precleared
23 and, of course, I don't know what we would have said.
24 We probably would have said --

25 QUESTION: But, you did say something when

1     you sent it in, didn't you?

2                   MS. HENDERSON:  No.  We said preclear under 3     Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act.

4                   QUESTION:  And, you didn't say what a change 5     was or --

6                   MS. HENDERSON:  No.  No, Your Honor, we sent 7     the Act in and then the next thing that the Attorney 8     General did was to request the additional information 9     that he needed in order to make an evaluation.

10                  QUESTION:  That is probably what led the Attorney 11     General to write and ask for the '66 Act, isn't it?

12                  MS. HENDERSON:  Yes, I imagine so.

13                  And, I think the one thing that the Court should 14     bear in mind really is that we were dealing with the 15     early years of the Voting Rights Act and really what 16     this case involved is going back to the pre-Allen days
17     where perhaps mistakes were made by the covered jurisdictions
18     and perhaps mistakes were made by the Attorney General 19     himself and at this late date, 12 years later, to try 20     to reconstruct what we meant when we sent it in and what 21     he meant when he precleared it, we think, points out 22     the difficulty of trying to do it, first of all, and 23     also points up the reason why the 60-day deadline is 24     in effect and also points out the reason why the Section 25     5 preclearance is not the only remedy available to --

1           QUESTION: But, the Attorney General sent back
2 and said -- wants the '66 Act and then he decided that 3 the change between -- that the '71 Act effected as compared 4 to the '66 was all right. He precleared that.

5           MS. HENDERSON: He precleared the '71 Act,
6 Your Honor --

7           QUESTION: But, your assumption also is that 8 he also cleared the '66 Act as compared with the change --
9 The change that was effected by the '66 Act.

10          MS. HENDERSON: He precleared every provision 11 of the 1971 Act when he precleared the 1971 Act. And, 12 at that time, the '66 issue became moot, because the 13 '71 Act provided once again for at-large and provided 14 once again for all of the features of the present method 15 of election.

16          QUESTION: Where did you ever ask him to preclear 17 the '66 Act? You never asked him to.

18          MS. HENDERSON: The record reflects we have 19 never submitted the '66 Act.

20          QUESTION: Well, how could he preclear it if 21 you didn't ask for it?

22          MS. HENDERSON: He precleared --

23          QUESTION: Under the statute.

24          MS. HENDERSON: Your Honor, that issue became 25 moot when in 1971 the '66 Act was amended by striking

1 out all of the election provisions, replacing them with 2 new election provisions, and that was precleared.

3 We think the issue as to the '66 Act has been 4 moot since 1971.

5 QUESTION: Well, you a minute ago said it had 6 been precleared. You now say it is moot.

7 MS. HENDERSON: Well, as I have said --

8 QUESTION: You take the position that the '66
9 Act is precleared or it was mooted out by the '71 Act.

10 MS. HENDERSON: It is mooted out by the '71
11 Act.

12 QUESTION: And, you don't maintain it was pre-13 cleared?

14 MS. HENDERSON: We do not maintain that it 15 was ever submitted and we also --

16 QUESTION: Have any of the provisions of the 17 1966 Act been retained or were retained in the 1971 Act, 18 any whatsoever?

19 MS. HENDERSON: Yes, Your Honor.

20 QUESTION: What were they?

21 MS. HENDERSON: The '71 -- Both the '71 Act
22 and the '66 Act provide for at-large and for two-year 23 terms of office.

24 QUESTION: Yes. And, the number of districts
25 was increased from three to five.

1 MS. HENDERSON: And all five districts were 2 changed.

3 QUESTION: And all five districts were changed 4 and maps were submitted that showed the districts that 5 pre-existed '71?

6 MS. HENDERSON: Yes, Your Honor.

7 QUESTION: Your position is that the 1971 Act, 8 with those changes, has just completely supplanted the 9 1966 Act?

10 MS. HENDERSON: Yes, Your Honor, it did. It
11 struck out the '66 Act and replaced it with the present 12 method of electing the Edgefield County council. Some 13 of the features were the same as the '66 Act and some 14 of them were new.

15 QUESTION: And, the basic criticism of the 16 present statute is -- well, both of the statutes, I suppose, 17 was in theory the elections were at-large.

18 MS. HENDERSON: The 1979 objection to the ordinance 19 and resolution states that the new powers assumed by 20 the Edgefield County council in the context of at-large 21 has the potential for diluting the black vote. So, they 22 isolate the at-large feature in conjunction with the 23 expanded powers.

24 QUESTION: What was the law in existence prior 25 to '66?

1 MS. HENDERSON: Prior to '66 there was an appointed 2 QUESTION: What was the date of the act that 3 governed that?
4 MS. HENDERSON: Oh, goodness, I think that 5 goes way back into the --
6 QUESTION: The Attorney General never asked 7 for that, did he?
8 MS. HENDERSON: No, he didn't.
9 QUESTION: So, he didn't know -- had no idea
10 what the change of the '66 Act effected?
11 MS. HENDERSON: Well, we think under -- by 12 operation of law --
13 QUESTION: He never asked you for anything
14 before then.
15 MS. HENDERSON: That is right. So, we don't 16 know -- We don't know how he knew it, but we know by 17 operation of law he had to know it, because he had to 18 compare it to --
19 QUESTION: He didn't have to compare it to 20 the '66 Act with anything. All he had to compare was 21 the '71 Act with the '66 Act.
22 MS. HENDERSON: Well, he could only stop at 23 the '66 Act if it had been precleared, because the 24 determinative date is November 1st of '64.
25 QUESTION: Well, that is not quite correct,

1 is it? He could stop at the '66 Act if he believed,
2 even erroneously, that the '66 Act made no change in 3 prior law.

4 If he was under the impression that there had 5 been at-large voting since before 1964, he wouldn't have 6 had to have precleared the '66 Act because it would not 7 have effected a change.

8 MS. HENDERSON: That is right, but when he 9 precleared the '71 Act, he had the authority to look 10 at all of them. And, if he had found at-large objectionable, 11 he could have objected to it in '71 if it had been instituted
12 in 1930.

13 QUESTION: But, under your view, a jurisdiction 14 could pass a new law with a dramatic change in it and 15 not submit it and the next year pass a carbon copy of 16 the new law and say here is what the old one was and 17 he would be presumed to have precleared the change he 18 didn't know about.

19 MS. HENDERSON: No, Your Honor. That is what 20 the Plaintiffs argue and I think that that couldn't -- 21 What they argue is you could conceivable pass a blatantly 22 discriminatory change, not preclear it, amend it, send 23 the amendment in --

24 QUESTION: The amendment have a minor change.

25 MS. HENDERSON: Right. And, if it is not

1 retrogressive from the blatantly discriminatory, then 2 it would have to be precleared.

3 First of all, under Lockhart, he does look 4 at all the pre-existing elements, so he would look at 5 that --

6 QUESTION: But, if he didn't look at. Say
7 he just was so busy with all these thousands of submission
8 that he didn't realize that there was a blatantly discriminatory
9 change the year before, you would be in the clear. I 10 mean, he has to be alert under your theory and look at 11 what happened in the time period preceding the immediately
12 preceding Act.

13 MS. HENDERSON: Your Honor, I think that under 14 today's regulations and under today's standards of submission,
15 we -- He also can send back the submission and say follow 16 our regulations.

17 QUESTION: Yes. But, if fails to do it, if 18 he is not alert --

19 MS. HENDERSON: Yes.

20 QUESTION: -- then you win.

21 MS. HENDERSON: We win on the Section 5, but,
22 of course --

23 QUESTION: Re certiorari you wouldn't win back
24 in '71. I mean, at that time, there wasn't any rule 25 about submitting.

1 MS. HENDERSON: That is right.

2 QUESTION: You do answer Justice Stevens, back in 3 1971 he was obligated to look back.

4 MS. HENDERSON: The Attorney General?

5 QUESTION: Yes. He was obligated to look back if he 6 ever wanted to raise a question about any uncleared item.

7 MS. HENDERSON: That is right. And I think that 8 once the 60 days go by and once he has failed to object, for 9 whatever reason, whether it is under a mistake of law or a mistake 10 of fact, then the Court has held in Morris v. Gressette that is 11 not subject to judicial review. But that doesn't leave an 12 unconstitutional change unchallengeable because you have still 13 got Section 2 and you have still got the constitutional 14 challenge or a 1983 challenge, all of which are still pending 15 in this case.

16 QUESTION: Well, now, what is required for the 17 voters to prevail under any of those alternative theories?

18 MS. HENDERSON: In the remaining issues? The dilution
19 order that Mr. McDonald alluded to was vacated after the Bolden 20 decision, and pending now is a real hearing on intent, so that 21 if they can show that the at-large method of election has been 22 put in place intentionally --

23 QUESTION: But if they can't show that, then there would 24 be no relief under your theory.

25 MS. HENDERSON: Your Honor, there is relief, and

1 there is relief that -- which is what I was talking about before -- 2 there is relief provided by state law, and that is the petition
3 to change the method of election to single-member district by a 4 referendum, and that takes merely a 10 percent petition, and the 5 black voters of Edgefield County, according to the latest statis-6 tics, comprise 44 percent of the elected voters.

7 There is also a 1983 issue pending, and it is possible
8 that they could prevail on that or on a 14th Amendment argument.

9 To conclude, we feel that for the reasons which we 10 have stated today, as well as those that are contained in the 11 brief, we would respectfully urge the Court to affirm the lower 12 court.

13 CHIEF JUSTICE BURGER: Very well.

14 Do you have anything further, Mr. McDonald?

15 MR. MC DONALD: Mr. Chief Justice, I have nothing
16 further unless members of the Court have questions.

17 CHIEF JUSTICE BURGER: No, apparently not.

18 Thank you, Counsel.

19 The case is submitted.

21 matter was submitted.)
