P R O C E E D I N G S

CHIEF JUSTICE BURGER: Mr. Bell, I think you may proceed whenever you are ready.

CFAL ARGUMENT OF F. CORTEZ BELL, III, ESQ.
ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONERS

MR. BELL: Thank you.
Mr. Chief Justice, and may it please the Court:
The instant matter before the Court this afternoon, Paton v. Yount, presents this Court a broad, general question dealing with the impact of pretrial publicity upon the ability to select and empanel a fair and impartial jury, as well as a question dealing with what if any standard is to be provided to the federal courts for purposes of reviewing a state court conviction. However, contained within that broad and general question is a much narrower, much smaller question. However, that question is very important, and that being what standard is to be applied by a federal court to a state court determination of the impartiality of not only just one juror but of a jury panel as a whole.

Now, the basic factual history setting forth these particular issues have previously been exhaustively covered both in the record and in the brief of counsel.

1           With regard to the 2254 analysis, the 2 respondents in their brief rather summarily dismiss this 3 particular issue. However, it is the petitioners' 4 assertion that this issue is very important not only to 5 this particular case but also to the federal circuits 6 and the federal district courts. The courts since the 7 inception of federal habeas corpus review have 8 constantly struggled with the question as to how much 9 deference should be given to a state court
10 determination, and of course, as part of that struggle, 11 that has led to a conflict between the state and the 12 federal court systems.

13           With the amendment in 1966 of Section 2254 by 14 adding a provision 2254(d), Congress initially made an 15 attempt to attempt to alleviate some of this particular 16 conflict. However, it seems that due to the recent 17 influx of cases that have been decided on the basis of 18 2254, that particular provision has led to more 19 litigation rather than ceasing the litigation in the 20 various federal courts.

21           It wasn't until this Court's decision in 22 Sumner v. Mata in 1981 that this court orally addressed 23 in that particular opinion what standard of review, what 24 should the federal courts do with regard to state court 25 determinations.

1 QUESTION: Of what?

2 MR. BELL: State court determinations
3 basically as to factual matters.

4 QUESTION: Fact, yes.

5 MR. BELL: Yes, not the mixed questions of 6 fact and law.

7 With regard to that particular decision, it 8 set forth that the federal courts must not only note the 9 provisions of 2254, but that they must go one step 10 further and indicate the basis of their analysis so the 11 reviewing court could review their determination, on 12 what basis did they decide that the state court 13 determination as to a factual matter would not be 14 accorded the presumption of correctness?

15 Now, in essence, what we have in the present
16 case before the court today, we have a state trial court 17 and Pennsylvania State Supreme Court determination as to 18 the issue of juror impartiality. So the first question
19 that must be addressed is is this a factual
20 determination, or is this a determination of a mixed 21 question of fact and law?

22 QUESTION: This was at the second state trial, 23 was it not, Mr. Bell?

24 MR. BELL: Yes, this was at the second state 25 trial in 1970.

1 QUESTION: Fourteen years ago?

2 MR. BELL: Fourteen years ago, yes.

3 QUESTION: Is it correct that this, the act
4 charged in the indictment occurred in 1966?

5 MR. BELL: Yes. The actual occurrence in this 6 particular case was April 28 of 1966. The first trial
7 was held with a decision being reached by the jury 8 October 7 of 1966, and then the second trial occurred in 9 November 20th of '70, 1970.

10 With regard to the issue as to whether this is 11 a factual determination, I would submit to the court 12 that what we have in essence here is a determination of 13 a credibility issue by the trial court judge, in this 14 particular case, Judge Charry, and hearing the 15 indications from the person on the voir dire, that 16 person indicating as to whether they had an opinion, did 17 not have an opinion, whether it was fixed or unfixed, or 18 even where they could set that opinion aside, what the 19 trial court judge was doing in that case was determining 20 the credibility of that particular person, was what they 21 were saying is believable based upon their demeanor, 22 their tone, the inflection in their voice.

23 Now, this particular issue as to credibility 24 is a very difficult issue to determine on the basis of 25 appellate review. As this Court has indicated that

1 based upon a record before the appellate courts and any 2 appellate court this applies to, even within the States, 3 it is very difficult to have a flavor of what went on 4 actually during the course of the trial, during the 5 course of the voir dire examination. So what we have 6 here is a determination by the trial judge as to these 7 individual jurors and as to the panel as a whole, the 12 8 individuals that were selected, that they were 9 impartial.

10 Now, based upon this Court's decision in 11 Marshall v. Longberger, which indicated that a 12 credibility determination of a witness is such that it
13 should, or great deference should be given to the trial 14 judge, in this particular case, the trial judge in 15 Clearfield County. I submit to the Court that what we 16 are dealing with here is an issue as to fact, not a 17 mixed question as to the law in fact. The law in this 18 particular case, Irvin v. Dowd, which the Federal Court 19 of Appeal in the Third Circuit applied to this 20 particular case, I submit to the Court was misapplied.
21 What the Court of Appeals did in essence was determine 22 the statistical analysis based on the individuals as a 23 whole who were not selected for the panel for various 24 reasons, and used that in order to overturn the sworn 25 testimony of the individuals on their voir dire

1 indicating that either yes or no, they had opinions, and 2 yes or no, that they would set them aside.

3 In essence, we also have a decision not only 4 as to this credibility, but also as indicated before 5 this particular Court, in various other cases of the 6 court. Prior to the beginnings of 2254(d), which was in 7 1966 -- and I just note in passing that Irvin v. Dowd 8 predated that in 1961 -- the various decisions of this 9 Court mention this issue as to juror impartiality and 10 the struggle that was working with regard to it. Clear 11 back in 1878 in Reynolds v. United States, they talk 12 about publicity at that early date, and they indicated
13 the struggle that once again occurred with challenges 14 for cause as to publicity, as to prejudice, as to the 15 jurors to be selected, and also in the Holt v. United 16 States in 1910. At that particular time with regard to 17 those cases, the Court did not deal with a 2254 analysis
18 but simply indicated that a state court determination 19 with regard to those particular issues, which it did 20 indicate at that time was a mixed question of fact and 21 law, should be dealt with by the Court by granting great 22 deference to the trial court decision.

23 Even in Irvin v. Dowd there is a citation to 24 the Reynolds case and to Holt indicating once again that 25 unless the error is manifest as shown by the record

1 before this particular Court, that the court should 2 defer to that particular case.

3           As I mentioned, since the 2254 came into 4 effect, this Court has on several occasions dealt with 5 this particular issue once again, initially in Sumner v.
6 Mata, which was once again a mixed question as to fact 7 and law dealing with a photographic display to various 8 witnesses. There were several questions addressed at 9 that particular time, in particular dealing with the 10 circumstances surrounding the identification as to 11 whether the victim had sufficient time in order to 12 accurately see what occurred and who her assailants
13 were, or the assailants were, whether the witness failed 14 to give an adequate description to the authorities, and 15 thirdly, whether there was any pressure placed upon the 16 individual by prison officials in order to get him to 17 identify this particular individual.

18           Now, this Court has on two occasions with 19 regard to Sumner v. Mata addressed this particular 20 issue. Initially in 1981 the Court vacated the 21 decision, remanded it back to the Court of Appeals for 22 purposes of applying a 2254 analysis to these particular 23 matters. The Court of Appeals retained jurisdiction, 24 rendered its decision. the issue came back up before 25 this particular Court once again in Sumner v. Mata in

1 1982, I believe, and it was once again vacated and 2 remanded by this Court on the basis that the Court of 3 Appeals had improperly applied 2254 to this factual
4 determination.

5 In Marshall v. Longberger, as I have mentioned 6 to the court this morning or this afternoon, that was a 7 case dealing with a murder prosecution where the State
8 or the Commonwealth attempted to use a prior conviction 9 of the individual in order to fit it into its aggravated 10 circumstances range such that they could gain the death
11 penalty. With regard to that particular case, the Court 12 has held that a federal court has no license to 13 redetermine the credibility of the witnesses. In that 14 case, the Court of Appeals, what they have done there 15 was they attempted to redetermine whether this 16 individual's plea of guilt in another state which was 17 used for purposes of attempting to gain this conviction, 18 whether that was voluntarily entered. They went into 19 great depth dealing with the guilty plea colloquy, etc.
20 And this Court indicated that the federal courts 21 shouldn't redetermine that issue as to credibility, they 22 should allow it to stand and accord it the deference of 23 2254(d).

24 And most recently, in the case of Fusham v.
25 Spain in this Court in 1983, December of 1983, in this

1 particular case, a juror who was on a case subsequently 2 realized during the course of the testimony that she had 3 some knowledge at to the victim involved in another 4 homicide which indirectly related to this particular 5 case through one of the witnesses. She had some ex 6 parte discussions with the court with regard to that,
7 and the record indicates that more or less he indicated
8 as long as it is not brought up again, I don't think you 9 have a problem.

10           However, defense counsel after the conviction
11 discovered that this occurred. Obviously he filed a 12 petition before the court, a hearing was held, and the 13 court at that particular time -- this is the lower 14 court, the trial court -- made a determination with 15 regard to that particular juror that her -- she was not 16 biased, she was not prejudiced as a result of that.
17 This Court, upon reviewing that, held in essence that 18 this was a determination of fact because it dealt with 19 impartiality, it dealt with the credibility to be 20 accorded that particular witness.

21           So the petitioners before this Court at this 22 particular time would assert to this Court that what we 23 have in this particular case is a question as to this 24 credibility, and who better to make a determination as 25 to --

1 QUESTION: May I interrupt you with a 2 question, Mr. Bell?

3 MR. BELL: Certainly.

4 QUESTION: Judge Garth in his concurrence
5 concentrated on the one juror, I think his name was Erin 6 or some such name.

7 MR. BELL: Yes.

8 QUESTION: And as to him, he said there was no
9 fact problem because the district, or the state judge 10 didn't make any finding concerning him.

11 How does your argument -- does your argument
12 respond to Judge Garth's concern?

13 MR. BELL: Yes. In essence with regard to Mr.
14 Ervin, who is the major problem for the prosecution in 15 this particular case, his voir dire examination, the 16 trial court did not specifically refer to his testimony 17 in any of its opinions. It indicated I believe once as 18 the respondents have brought up, as the trial court said
19 at one point that most if not all of the individuals 20 seated had a -- did not have a fixed opinion. The 21 Pennsylvania Supreme Court, which under Sumner v. Mata 22 is a state court determination, their review on appeal, 23 did specifically state that with regard to Mr. Ervin and 24 the other individuals -- they did not mention Mr. Ervin's 25 name in essence, but they did state that upon their

1 independent review as to Mr. Hrin and all the others, 2 they could find no problems not only with regard to 3 whether a change of venue could be required, or as to 4 the issue as to whether challenges for cause were 5 improperly resolved by the court.

6 QUESTION: Yes, but Justice Roberts didn't 7 mention the problem that Juror Hrin had a predisposition 8 to find the man guilty and put the burden on the 9 defendant to explain why he was innocent.

10 MR. BELL: Your Honor --

11 QUESTION: Justice Roberts didn't mention that 12 problem, did he?

13 MR. BELL: No, he did not specifically address 14 that. The petitioner's position with regard to that 15 particular matter, and in specific, with regard to Mr.
16 Hrin, we did not feel that he entered the jury box with 17 an opinion. The testimony at the voir dire obviously is 18 ambiguous. At one point he said I can enter with an 19 open mind. In the next sentence, practically, he says 20 that he would require some evidence before he would 21 change his opinion. It certainly is ambiguous.

22 What we would submit to the Court are two 23 things with regard to that. First of all, as to his 24 testimony that he would require some evidence, he has 25 never indicated that he would require some evidence by

1 either the prosecution or the defense to change that.
2 He simply says that he would enter the box with an open
3 mind. At one point he does indicate in the voir dire
4 examination that he would listen to the evidence 5 presented and decide the case solely on the evidence and 6 the facts presented to the court.

7 We would submit that he did not enter with an 8 opinion. He entered to the extent where he said, hey, I
9 have heard this publicity to some extent. My opinion
10 that I had was based upon what I have read in the paper, 11 et cetera. And as a result of that, I do have an 12 opinion. I cannot go in there and totally cleanse 13 myself of any thought of it. It is still there 14 regardless. However, he indicated that once evidence 15 has started to be presented, we submit once the 16 prosecution started to present evidence, he will begin 17 to develop with his open mind an analysis as to that, he 18 would look at it as to an open mind.

19 Judge Charry in his denial of the challenge
20 for cause in essence based it upon the fact that he said 21 that he could go in with an open mind. However, even 22 after that challenge for cause, what occurred was that 23 defense counsel continue to question Mr. Hrin when on 24 questioning him after that point, and on page 89a of the 25 record before this particular Court, he questioned with

1 Mr. Hrin with a, in essence a double question. He asked
2 him whether he could set aside his opinion, whether it
3 was solid, unsolid, or however you wish to describe it,
4 or whether he could enter the jury box and would need 5 some evidence before he could change his mind, and he 6 asked him to think about it beforehand.

7 In response to that, he said I have to.
8 Defense counsel said is that a yes or a no, or could I 9 please have a yes or no, and he said I think I could 10 enter it with a very open mind. And then he related it 11 to some of the requirements of his day-to-day use, he 12 being a chemist. He indicated that oftentimes, whenever 13 you go into a procedure believing or even thinking that 14 a certain outcome was going to come, even time tested 15 tests that he has run before, during the course of that 16 test circumstances change, things are shown to him 17 through those tests which make him change his mind as to 18 what the proper analysis would be.

19 With regard to Mr. Hrin's specific, we would 20 indicate to the Court that although the defense did 21 challenge him for cause, as I have indicated, and it was 22 denied, they continued to question him, and at that time
23 we would submit he did give a proper response.

24 QUESTION: Mr. Bell, did the respondent appeal 25 the trial court's denial of the challenge for cause to 1 Juror Hrin to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court?

2 MR. BELL: Yes, they did, but they did not 3 mention this very specifically.

4 QUESTION: They didn't mention him
5 specifically?

6 MR. BELL: No, they do not.

7 QUESTION: How about on habeas to the United 8 States District Court?

9 MR. BELL: Okay.

10 QUESTION: Was Juror Hrin mentioned
11 specifically?

12 MR. BELL: On habeas in the United States
13 District Court, even in the initial pro se petition
14 filed by Mr. Yount in this case, he was mentioned 15 specifically. The District Court opinion addresses not 16 only Mr. Hrin but all the jurors individually and sets 17 forth within his opinion various points of their ver-18 dire examination that he feels are appropriate to 19 establish whether they do or do not have an opinion.

20 QUESTION: The District Court also denied a 21 motion to amend the habeas petition for failure to 22 exhaust claims.

23 Did any of those unexhausted claims relate to 24 Juror Hrin in any way?

25 MR. BELL: In essence, the unexhausted claims

1 basically dealt with his counsel and the fact that he 2 had ineffective assistance of counsel.

3           You are correct under Rose v. Lundy, the 4 District Court gave him the option as to whether he 5 wished to either amend his petition at that time or 6 withdraw it and proceed to exhaust his state court 7 remedies.

8           I do not recall as to whether he specifically 9 addressed that his counsel was ineffective due to a 10 failure to either further challenge Mr. Hrin after these 11 statements or not.

12           In essence, with regard to Mr. Hrin, however, 13 after that initial challenge for cause was denied and he 14 was questioned and gave a proper response, what occurred 15 was the defense counsel subsequently accepted him as a 16 juror even though they did have peremptory challenges 17 still remaining to them at that particular time.

18           What I think is important in this case, 19 however, and we shouldn't lose sight of it, is nine of 20 the jurors were accepted by the defense without 21 challenges of any kind, either challenges for cause or 22 peremptorily. With regard to those particular 23 challenges, it's important to note that one of the 24 challenges was used as to Mr. Hrin, the challenge for 25 cause. The other two came with regard to the last two

1 actual jurors who were selected. Those particular 2 individuals had even indicated on their voir dire that 3 they had no particular opinion as to the guilt or 4 innocence of this individual. However, the defense, 5 since they were out of peremptories, did challenge them
6 for cause, and those were denied.

7 Those are the three challenges for cause by 8 the defense with regard to this particular jury.

9 QUESTION: You say at the close of the jury
10 selection the defense had still available to it 11 unexhausted peremptory challenges?

12 MR. BELL: At the close of the jury selection 13 of the actual jury itself, not dealing with the 14 alternates, but the actual jury itself, no, they did not 15 have peremptories left. They had used them all. The 16 last two individuals who were placed on the jury were 17 placed there after they had exhausted, and the defense 18 merely challenged for cause on whatever basis, I'm not 19 sure, in essence, that they had an opinion.

20 QUESTION: But at the time Mr. Hrin was placed 21 on the jury, at that time they did have a peremptory 22 challenge.

23 MR. BELL: Yes, they had more than one. They 24 had quite a few left to them at that particular time.

25 In essence, Your Honors, once a determination

1 is made with regard to the issue as to what deference or 2 what is begun with the state court determination as to 3 juror impartiality, at that point then we must apply the 4 test as to pretrial publicity, etc., to determine what 5 if anything had occurred in this particular case.

6 Now, the Court of Appeals decision, in essence
7 they indicate they apply an Irvin analysis. However, I 8 would submit to the court that that is more or less 9 misconstrued here. The Court of Appeals placed great 10 reliance upon the number of individuals that were 11 excluded, upon the overall picture, the overall 12 publicity, the number of individuals that were 13 challenged for cause, and the percentage. I believe 14 they indicated it was something like 77 percent.

15 However, this case can be distinguished from 16 Irvin v. Dowd. First of all, this case is a case that 17 falls under 2254(d), and dependent upon this Court's 18 decision as to whether this is a question of fact or a 19 mixed question, we get into the area as to what is to 20 happen after 2254(d) with regard to cases such as Irvin 21 v. Dowd. The instant case involves a situation where 22 the actual counsel conducted the voir dire examination.
23 In Irvin v. Dowd the judge himself conducted voir dire 24 examination. In Irvin v. Dowd, we have to look at the 25 scope of the voir dire allowed. Obviously in this case

1 we did not have voir dire as long as was exhibited in 2 Irvin v. Dowd. However, in essence, what occurred was 3 since counsel was themselves conducting it, there were 4 many leading questions, there was great leniency given 5 to both counsel with regard to their conduct of voir
6 dire. I think even the Court of Appeals does indicate 7 that great leniency was given.

8           That is what led, I would submit to the Court, 9 to the lengthy voir dire, this constant bickering. If 10 you look at the total voir dire, there is constant 11 bickering back and forth between counsel and the court 12 as to what the extent of the voir dire should be, how 13 far it should go, whether questions have been asked and 14 answered, constantly, over and over again.

15           So the scope of the voir dire is different, 16 and also we have a difference in the degree of 17 publicity. In Irvin v. Dowd, the very day before he went 18 to trial, there was a newspaper article published that 19 indicated he had confessed to the crime involved in that 20 particular case.

21           In the Yount case, basically the press that 22 occurred just prior to trial, yes, it did indicate that 23 this was a retrial that was coming once again before the 24 Court of Common Pleas of Clearfield County, but in 25 essence, what it did at that particular time was

1 basically factual indications. There is a great dispute 2 even with the basic factual determinations to which we 3 are certain 2254 apply. The Court of Appeals says that 4 there were 66 newspaper article in between the end of 5 the second trial and the beginning of the -- excuse me, 6 between the end of the first trial and the beginning of 7 the second trial. In our brief we submit to the Court 8 that there were 15.

9           What has occurred here is, and in Judge 10 Charry's opinions he also, I believe he says 17, what 11 has occurred here is that we are trying to compare
12 apples with oranges more or less. The Court of Appeals 13 is looking from the end of the first trial to the 14 commencement of testimony in the second trial. Judge
15 Charry in his opinions which they hold are erroneous 16 because he does not come up with the same 66, he is 17 indicating from the end of the first trial to the 18 beginning of jury selection.

19           Granted, there were a lot of articles 20 published during the course of the voir dire. Several 21 panels were exhausted during the course of the voir dire 22 examination.

23           QUESTION: How long was it between the first 24 and the second, or the commission of the crime and the 25 second trial?

1           MR. BELL: Okay. The commission of the crime
2 occurred April of 1966. The second trial went to trial 3 with the jury verdict being returned November 20 of 4 1970. In essence we have four years.

5           QUESTION: Four years, four years.

6           MR. BELL: Yes.

7           QUESTION: May I ask on the voir dire, the 8 jury was sequestered during the trial, wasn't it?

9           MR. BELL: Yes, it was.

10          QUESTION: But not during -- the people who 11 were on the venire were not sequestered until after they 12 were chosen? Is that how it was done?

13          MR. BELL: That is correct, Justice Stevens.
14 As an individual was selected for voir dire, he was 15 sequestered.

16          QUESTION: But then that would mean that all 17 the stories -- and the voir dire lasted for how long?

18          MR. BELL: The voir dire lasted, and once 19 again, that is subject to question by various people -- 20 the voir dire lasted, the petitioners would assert, 21 seven and a half days. I believe the decision of the 22 Court of Appeals may make reference to the fact that it 23 lasted eleven or twelve days.

24          QUESTION: Well, say it was seven days for the 25 purpose of my question.

1 MR. BELL: Yes.

2 QUESTION: But the jurors who were not
3 selected until the end of the seven days would have read
4 the stories presumably during the first five or six 5 days.

6 MR. BELL: That is correct.

7 QUESTION: Yes.

8 MR. BELL: What we have to look at, though, is 9 at the beginning, the very beginning of voir dire, the 10 court --

11 QUESTION: Mr. Bell, where did you learn to 12 pronounce voir dire the way you pronounce it?

13 MR. BELL: I believe it is Pennsylvania, Your 14 Honor.

15 QUESTION: Oh.

16 MR. BELL: With regard to the jury selection,.
17 in essence, what occurred there was -- and there is 18 great dispute --

19 QUESTION: Do you think it's right?

20 MR. BELL: Your Honor, I would not hedge to 21 make a guess at that.

22 With regard to the selection, as I indicated, 23 and with regard to this, the Court at the very beginning 24 of the selection process instructed the persons on the 25 first panel that they should not read any press with

1 regard to the case. It is correct that some of the very 2 last jurors were selected from subsequent panels who 3 would have had a chance to review it not knowing that 4 they were even involved in the particular proceeding.

5 I believe the testimony, however, given at the 6 time indicated that their knowledge as to the case 7 recently was basically that it was coming up, that the 8 jury selection was going on with regard to the 9 particular case, not in essence as to the first trial or 10 otherwise.

11 I believe the total concept of the testimony
12 given with regard to the selection of jurors indicates 13 that in essence they were aware of the case from the 14 prior publicity that was given to it more than the most 15 recent publicity that it was coming once again to a new 16 trial.

17 Returning back to the publicity issue, there 18 are basically two manners in which this Court has 19 indicated publicity is reviewed, an utterly corrupt the 20 trial standard, which is Estes v. Texas, Sheppard case, 21 etc., and all the courts have agreed there was not this 22 type of publicity with regard to this case, or of an 23 actual prejudice claim. That is where the Court of 24 Appeals bases their particular decision that the 25 publicity was so extensive, that it so inflamed the

1 members of the jury with regard to this and the whole 2 community as a whole that as a result of that and 3 looking at the individuals and the sheer number of 4 individuals that either indicated they knew about the 5 case, had some opinion about the case, that the sworn 6 testimony of the individuals as a result of their 7 process of selection of the jury, should be disregarded 8 or should be more or less looked at in a different 9 light, I guess the Court would say.

10 With regard to that actual prejudice claim, 11 then, the petitioners would assert to this court that 12 the Court of Appeals did not actually apply Irvin v.
13 Dowd. They looked at Irvin v. Dowd, they placed their 14 decision upon Irvin v. Dowd, but due to the differences 15 between Irvin v. Dowd and this case, and the impact of 16 2254(d) on the deference to be given to a state court 17 determination, they did not in essence apply a full 18 analysis with regard to this case.

19 Your Honors, in conclusion at this particular 20 point, the petitioners would respectfully request that 21 this particular Court find that a state court
22 determination as to juror impartiality is a factual
23 determination. It is a determination based by the trial 24 court upon the credibility of those particular 25 individuals, and that based upon that particular finding

1 of this court, that 2254(d) does apply, we would ask 2 this Court to reverse the decision of the Court of 3 Appeals due to them not properly applying 2254(d). They 4 do technically make reference to it in Footnote 20, I
5 believe. They go on in Footnotes 21 and 22 to talk 6 about their application of it to this particular case, 7 so technically they have complied, they have gone a 8 little bit further and attempted to indicate their 9 analysis.

10           However, with regard to those items that they 11 address and the items that they seem to indicate that 12 they found error in the factual determination of the 13 Court, it is items as to the number of newspaper 14 articles involved; it is items as to whether there were 15 spectators in the courtroom or not. All these things go 16 into their analysis as to the publicity issue. But they 17 do not specifically deal in the majority opinion of the 18 court of appeals with this issue as to the individuals
19 selected for the jury and whether their examination 20 shows that they were biased or unbiased.

21           Mr. Chief Justice, at this time I would like 22 to wish to reserve the remainder of my time for 23 rebuttal.

24           CHIEF JUSTICE BURGER: Very well.

25           Mr. Schumacher?

1 ORAL ARGUMENT OF GEORGE E. SCHUMACHER, ESQ.,

2 ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENT

3 MR. SCHUMACHER: Mr. Chief Justice, and may it
4 please the Court:

5 The issues in this case have been clearly 6 defined, particularly that of the issue of whether or 7 not pretrial publicity infringed on the ability of my 8 client, Mr. Yount, to select a fair and impartial jury
9 in Clearfield County, Pennsylvania, during his second 10 trial in 1970. However, at least some reference to the 11 sensational nature of the first murder -- of the murder 12 in this case that was tried originally in 1966 is 13 appropriate because it was a sensational murder by a 14 high school teacher of his student that was closely 15 covered by the media. Each detail of his voluntary 16 surrender, of his confessions to the police, of the 17 pretrial procedures, of the trial in which he maintained
18 an insanity defense, were closely followed by the news 19 media.

20 QUESTION: In what year, 1966?

21 MR. SCHUMACHER: Yes, sir.

22 QUESTION: And now you're trying the case four 23 years later.

24 MR. SCHUMACHER: Four years later these jurors
25 now that are called before the same judge, the same

1 courtroom, following the reversal of the conviction by 2 the Pennsylvania Supreme Court for Miranda violations, 3 and who testify that a very high percentage of them,
4 something like 98 percent, recall the facts of this 5 case, have read about it, are familiar with it --

6 QUESTION: When you say they recall the facts 7 of the case, they recall that there was such a case is 8 what you mean, isn't it?

9 MR. SCHUMACHER: Correct, yes, sir.

10 QUESTION: Not all the facts.

11 MR. SCHUMACHER: No, there's no way of knowing 12 because that was never in the voir dire. All I can set 13 forth in the appendix are the newspaper articles that 14 were available and they could have become familiar 15 with.

16 What can be gathered from the facts of the 17 voir dire, however, are the many statements made by 18 people questioned that he admitted he did it before, he 19 confessed before, statements I think that are very 20 accurately revealed in the testimony of Vera Krapf, one 21 of the jurors who was a minister's wife and who when 22 questioned indicated that the people from the 23 congregation came to her and stated to her that it was 24 time, that she had been selected to appear before this 25 court, possibly to be selected as a juror, for her to

1 come forth and be counted, and she testified that these 2 people that came to her felt that he had received a fair
3 trial and is lucky he didn't get the death penalty.

4 And this was the atmosphere in the community
5 from which this jury was selected and from which some 72
6 percent of the jurors admitted that they had an opinion 7 of guilt and were successfully challenged for cause, and 8 a higher number of jurors admitted opinions, the 9 question becoming primarily, as previously indicated, 10 whether particularly one of them, Juror Hrin, was so 11 prejudiced and partial that he should not have been 12 permitted to sit as a juror on this case.

13 So his testimony has already been mentioned in 14 the first argument, indicating that he admitted that he 15 had a fixed opinion and that he would require testimony 16 to be presented before he could change that opinion.

17 QUESTION: Mr. Schumacher, I think one of your 18 opponent's positions is that if one takes Juror Hrin's
19 various answers, as the first questioned by the defense, 20 then by the prosecution, one gets several different 21 versions of an answer to that question, that admittedly 22 that answer was given, but also something that could be 23 called contradictory to it.

24 Why isn't that an ambiguity in his overall 25 testimony that is best resolved by the trial judge?

1           MR. SCHUMACHER: This, Your Honor, we would 2 submit is a mixed question of law and fact which, under 3 Irvin, indicates the nature and strength of a 4 venireman's opinion, is a mixed question of law and 5 fact.

6           QUESTION: I don't see how that could possibly 7 be under -- after our decision in Sumner v. Mata and 8 after Congress changed the statute in 1966. If ever 9 there's a question of fact, it seems to me, it is 10 whether a particular juror had a fixed opinion about a 11 particular set of circumstances.

12          MR. SCHUMACHER: The difficulty, Your Honor, 13 in establishing that as clearly indicating an issue of 14 credibility is how that issue of credibility was 15 resolved adversely to Mr. Yount by the trial judge 16 whereas the Circuit Court of Appeals, examining exactly 17 the same record, came to the conclusion that it 18 indicated that he was not an impartial juror.

19          QUESTION: But, you're an experienced trial 20 lawyer, Mr. Schumacher. If you had your choice between 21 taking the resolution of a controversy like that from 22 someone who sat right there and heard the venireman 23 answer questions, saw the demeanor, and had -- or the 24 choice of taking the resolution of it by another
25 experienced judge sitting in Philadelphia and reading a

1 record, which one would you take, assuming they were 2 both equally competent?

3 MR. SCHUMACHER: Well, Your Honor, that is a
4 very difficult question to require me, representing Mr.
5 Yount to answer. Obviously the trial judge can see the 6 person, can hear the testimony, and can reflect on the 7 way it's given. However, it's the words here that are 8 spoken that are so important, not necessarily how 9 they're spoken, and the words nevertheless are in the 10 record that he would require evidence to put aside his 11 opinion, and that it is a fixed opinion even though at 12 some future time he says it isn't as fixed as it was 13 before. When the trial judge resolved that issue, he 14 said, he stated it was fixed, next he stated it isn't as 15 fixed as it previously was; therefore, it isn't a fixed 16 opinion, which I consider to be totally illogical, and I 17 would not accept that resolution of that issue whether 18 or not the man were before me or not.

19 QUESTION: But if a juryman says the defense
20 is going to have to shake me before I'll find him 21 innocent, wouldn't he be challengeable for cause?

22 MR. SCHUMACHER: Yes, sir.

23 QUESTION: Isn't that what this --

24 MR. SCHUMACHER: And was so.

25 QUESTION: Isn't that what this man said?

1                   MR. SCHUMACHER: Yes.

2                   QUESTION: And you got rid of a great many of 3 them that way.

4                   MR. SCHUMACHER: Right, with similar type -- 5 not I, but my client did so, 72 percent of the jurors on 6 this case, and as Irvin teaches, or at least there's 7 some doubt raised when a situation exists in a community 8 of this nature when 80 percent of the individuals that 9 participate in the voir dire have opinions, as to their 10 veracity in answering this questions of this nature.

11                  QUESTION: Well, is the test we employ one of 12 whether the trial judge committed manifest error when he 13 determined that the jurors were impartial? Is that our 14 test?

15                  MR. SCHUMACHER: Well, as I read Section 16 2254(d)(8), the determination must be made by the 17 federal habeas corpus case -- court as to whether or not 18 the determination is fairly supported by the record.
19 Now, the circuit court, when considering that issue 20 here, held that the ruling of the trial judge was 21 clearly erroneous.

22                  QUESTION: Well, as to Juror Hrin, you had him 23 answering a question, for instance, by saying I would 24 enter it, meaning the jury box, with an open mind.
25 There was a lengthy colloquy in the questions and

1 answers, and he gave answers which on balance perhaps 2 could lead the judge to find did not demonstrate any 3 kind of bias.

4 How, how can we justify overturning the trial
5 court's determination on habeas?

6 MR. SCHUMACHER: When he answered that he had 7 an opinion, that he had a fixed opinion, and he 8 indicated that he would definitely require evidence 9 before he could change that opinion and wouldn't change 10 his mind until facts were presented, those are 11 sufficient answers to alert this Court that the circuit 12 court was correct in its determination that he could not 13 sit as an impartial juror.

14 QUESTION: Did the district court on habeas 15 specifically address the cause challenge to Juror Erin?

16 MR. SCHUMACHER: I don't believe so.

17 QUESTION: Why not?

18 MR. SCHUMACHER: There were --

19 QUESTION: Was it, was it specifically raised 20 in the petition for habeas?

21 MR. SCHUMACHER: Yes.

22 QUESTION: As to Erin?

23 MR. SCHUMACHER: Yes.

24 QUESTION: Where in the record does it show 25 that?

1 MR. SCHUMACHER: The habeas corpus petition is 2 in the record, and I cannot give you a page reference.

3 QUESTION: If you have a chance before you are 4 through, I would appreciate the page reference.

5 MR. SCHUMACHER: But as I recall, that was an 6 issue early in the case, and the district court neither 7 addressed specific matters pertaining to the -- it did 8 not address specific matters pertaining to the 9 publicity, but it did specifically address the testimony
10 of Juror Hrin in Judge Ziegler's opinion. The problem 11 with Judge Ziegler's opinion was that he stopped at the 12 crucial points where the questions that I'm indicating 13 would indicate juror bias and stressed some of the 14 points that Your Honor previously mentioned.

15 QUESTION: Well, but don't you think in all 16 fairness we have to look at the entire exchange on voir 17 dire relating to Juror Hrin, at all points where that 18 juror was questioned?

19 MR. SCHUMACHER: Yes, I do. I think that's 20 only fair. And I would also submit that the 21 Commonwealth arguing that the -- we were attempting to 22 mix apples and oranges is as similar as their attempting 23 to mix Longberger and Fusham with Irvin and Murphy
24 because there are totally different concepts involved 25 there with post-trial hearings in which credibility was

1 adjudicated in a completely separate and distinct 2 fashion than was accomplished in this case, and unless 3 this Court now is facing the prospect of reversing Irvin
4 v. Dowd, we would still rely on the position that the 5 nature and strength of the venieman's opinion is a 6 mixed question of law and fact, and as such, each of the 7 habeas corpus courts must independently review the 8 record before them, and there is far more support for 9 the analysis of the record by the circuit court in its 10 footnotes to its opinion than was done by the state
11 county court or the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

12 QUESTION: If this challenge -- was this 13 challenge made in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania?

14 MR. SCHUMACHER: Yes. The Pennsylvania
15 Supreme -- was this challenge --

16 QUESTION: Was the argument which prevailed
17 with the Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit that 18 Juror Hrin's testimony on voir dire should have 19 disqualified -- was that challenge made in the Supreme 20 Court of Pennsylvania?

21 MR. SCHUMACHER: I don't know. I didn't 22 represent him then, and there is nothing in the record 23 from which --

24 QUESTION: If it wasn't made there, why wasn't 25 it waived under Wainwright v. Sykes?

1                   MR. SCHUMACHER: But the general issue of jury
2 impartiality was raised as to all the jurors. The 3 entire transcript was presented to the Pennsylvania
4 Supreme Court, and the Pennsylvania Supreme Court 5 affirmed saying these findings are fairly supported by 6 the record, in other words, when the district trial 7 court held that it was not unfair and that there was -- 8 and that there was no public interest in the case and 9 practically no persons present in the court, and that 10 the jurors decided that the case on the law and the 11 evidence.

12                   QUESTION: But none of those sound like the 13 same issue -- those sound like kind of a bath of 14 publicity over the community as a whole rather than 15 focusing on one particular juror and saying from his 16 transcript of voir dire we can tell he shouldn't have 17 been seated.

18                   Was the latter point argued in the Supreme 19 Court of Pennsylvania?

20                   MR. SCHUMACHER: Well, I don't want to beg 21 your question; I want to answer it as directly as 22 possible. I didn't represent him then. I wasn't 23 there. I don't know for sure. There is nothing in the 24 record from which I can say it was and decided one way 25 or the other.

1 QUESTION: In other words, you have examined
2 the record and it doesn't tell us the answer to that 3 question.

4 MR. SCHUMACHER: That is correct.

5 QUESTION: And you will let me know if you
6 find where Juror Hrin was -- that issue was raised 7 before the district court, right?

8 MR. SCHUMACHER: I will.

9 I know that the Court of Appeals was very 10 specific in its treatment of 2254 and its analysis 11 indicating that this was a mixed question of law and 12 fact, and that it had independently analyzed the vci 13 dire testimony as well as the pretrial publicity, and of 14 course, we have never maintained that the publicity was 15 of such a nature as to utterly corrupt the trial as in 16 the Sheppard case, and have consistently maintained the 17 burden of requiring -- of prejudice in this case in 18 order to come forward and satisfy the test that he was 19 denied a fair trial.

20 But the Third Circuit in its opinion very 21 clearly pointed out that it felt this was a mixed 22 question of law and fact and that the determinations of 23 the state courts and the District Court for the Western 24 District of Pennsylvania were clearly erroneous. It did 25 so in several regards, in regard to the publicity, in

1 regard to the interest in the community, and another 2 factor involved is that apparently the trial court took 3 into consideration not merely the publicity which it 4 said had died down over a four year period of time, but 5 ignored the fact that the voir dire itself reflected the 6 interest of the community and the knowledge of the 7 community on what had taken place before.

8           Mr. Yount was retried in the same community, 9 in the same courtroom where he had been tried in 1966.
10 He was again retried in 1970. A completely different 11 case was presented, both by the prosecution and by the 12 defense. There was no rape charged in the second 13 trial. It was a murder case. Much of the confession, 14 the oral statements, had been suppressed. The weapon 15 that was alleged to be the murder weapon was 16 suppressed. The bloody clothing was suppressed. And 17 yet all of these items were in the publicity that this 18 jury had previously been exposed to.

19           Mr. Yount testified in the first trial; he did 20 not in the second. A defense of temporary insanity was 21 presented in the first trial. In the second trial 22 character evidence was presented on his background, the 23 fact that he was a college graduate, a husband, a 24 father, had no prior criminal record, was a school 25 teacher in the community, in order to show that the

1 requisite intent for first degree murder was not 2 present, in an effort to reduce the degree of guilt.
3 And in this situation, jurors that were exposed to the 4 publicity of the first trial, jurors who had read and 5 heard, jurors who had fixed opinions of guilt, first of 6 all established through the voir dire and secondly -- I
7 must apologize to the Court. That is the correct
8 pronounciation in Pennsylvania, and I have difficulty 9 after 27 years of getting away from it.

10 QUESTION: That's the way we pronounce it out 11 in Minnesota, too, so you're all right.

12 QUESTION: I think it's the way we pronounce 13 it here even.

14 MR. SCHUMACHER: -- of obtaining a fair trial 15 by impartial jurors, and obviously the most direct 16 example of that, we submit, is Juror Hrin's testimony, 17 and would stand on it, taking it as a whole, indicating 18 that he testified that he had a fixed opinion that could 19 not be set aside unless evidence was presented that 20 would convince him to change his mind.

21 And the concurring opinion of the Third 22 Circuit of Judge Garth is most -- clearly analyzes this 23 specific aspect of the case.

24 The name of Mr. Hrin, Your Honor, is not 25 specifically referred to in the habeas corpus petition.

1 He at page 302a of the transcript refers in percentage 2 figures to the number of jurors who held opinions, but 3 his name is not specifically mentioned in the habeas 4 corpus petition.

5 QUESTION: Well, look at the paragraph 6 following it at 302a. Despite the fact that all 7 indicated they would judge the case on the evidence, two 8 stated that they would require petitioner to prove his 9 innocence. Does that refer to him?

10 MR. SCHUMACHER: Of the twelve seated jurors, 11 nine stated they had read about the case.

12 QUESTION: It's the next sentence.

13 MR. SCHUMACHER: Yes.

14 QUESTION: Wouldn't that reference more fairly 15 be read as challenging Jurors No. 2 and 10 who expressed 16 confusion over whether the defendant had to prove his 17 innocence?

18 MR. SCHUMACHER: May I have a moment, please?

19 When it says two stated that they would 20 require petitioner to prove his innocence, I --

21 QUESTION: Wouldn't that refer, then, to 22 Jurors 2 and 10 and not to Hrin, who was No. 6?

23 MR. SCHUMACHER: Excuse me.

24 QUESTION: Did you have briefs, did you have 25 briefs at the habeas corpus?

1 Did you have any written arguments?

2 MR. SCHUMACHER: We filed briefs and had two 3 hearings on the habeas --

4 QUESTION: Did you mention this specific 5 juror? He, I don't know.

6 MR. SCHUMACHER: Oh, I did, yes, sir. And 7 Judge --

8 QUESTION: Regardless of what your petition 9 said. about your state file.

10 MR. SCHUMACHER: Yes, and Judge Ziegler then, 11 in response to our briefs, specifically referred --

12 QUESTION: How about the arguments in the 13 state courts? of course.

14 MR. SCHUMACHER: I did not represent Mr. Yount 15 before the state courts. yes.

16 QUESTION: Were there briefs?

17 MR. SCHUMACHER: There were briefs filed.

18 QUESTION: Did they ever mention this 19 particular juror by name in the briefs?

20 MR. SCHUMACHER: My best recollection is that 21 they did. yes, I remember.

22 QUESTION: Mm-hmm.

23 MR. SCHUMACHER: When I was appointed to 24 represent him some three years ago, those briefs were 25 made available to me and I read them, and I am going by 1 my memcry of reading them.

2 QUESTION: They aren't in the record here, I
3 take it.

4 MR. SCHUMACHER: I -- I can't answer that 5 question. I don't know if they are.

6 QUESTION: Well, we could call for them, I 7 suppose.

8 QUESTION: Did your opponent contend that you
9 didn't exhaust your state remedies?

10 MR. SCHUMACHER: No. The only reference, Your 11 Honor, to the exhaustion of state remedies was that I 12 amended the habeas corpus petition to include an 13 incompetency of counsel claim, and then Rose v. Lundy, 14 and obviously I very hastily deleted.

15 QUESTION: If you prevail here, the case will 16 go back and possibly a new trial, what, in 1984, and 17 then an appeal from that if there's a similar verdict?
18 That would be 1985 in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, 19 and 1986 or 1987 back up here perhaps. Quite a long 20 time for a criminal case to be in the courts, isn't it?

21 MR. SCHUMACHER: Yes, sir.

22 QUESTION: Mr. Schumacher, where has this man 23 been all this time?

24 MR. SCHUMACHER: He's in Camp Hill,
25 Pennsylvania.

1 QUESTION: He has been incarcerated since 19-- 2 when?

3 MR. SCHUMACHER: Yes, sir, and that's the 4 reason my answer would be --

5 QUESTION: So the delay really hasn't done him
6 very much good, I guess.

7 MR. SCHUMACHER: He's been in jail for 17
8 years without a fair trial is my position.

9 QUESTION: So you think the longer the time,
10 the greater the injustice?

11 MR. SCHUMACHER: Well, I think so, and the 12 Commonwealth has indicates its willingness and ability 13 to retry him and has never indicated there was any 14 prejudice from the passage of time.

15 It was seven years between the denial of 16 the -- by the Supreme Court of the appeal and the 17 application for write of habeas corpus.

18 The position, I believe, has been clearly 19 briefed and set forth, Your Honors, unless there are any 20 additional questions.

21 CHIEF JUSTICE BURGER: Very well.

22 Do you have anything further, Mr. Bell?

23 MR. BELL: Not unless the Court has any 24 specific questions, Your Honor.

25 CHIEF JUSTICE BURGER: Thank you, gentlemen.
