| 1 | PROCEEDINGS |
|----|--|
| 2 | (12:59 p.m.) |
| 3 | CHIEF JUSTICE REHNQUIST: We'll hear argument |
| 4 | now in case No. 90-967, Guy Wooddell, Jr. v. International |
| 5 | Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. |
| 6 | Mr. Meckler. |
| 7 | ORAL ARGUMENT OF THEODORE E. MECKLER |
| 8 | ON BEHALF OF PETITIONER |
| 9 | MR. MECKLER: Thank you, Mr. Chief Justice, and |
| 10 | my it please the Court: |
| 11 | There are two questions presented in this case. |
| 12 | The first question dealt with the right to a jury trial |
| 13 | under title I of the Labor Management Relations Disclosure |
| 14 | Act, LMRDA, and that particular issue has been conceded by |
| 15 | the respondent, and as a result, I don't intend to argue |
| 16 | the merits of that issue. |
| 17 | QUESTION: Do you want us to rule on it? |
| 18 | MR. MECKLER: Well, it seems to me the most |
| 19 | appropriate thing to do |
| 20 | QUESTION: Well, what if we disagree with both |
| 21 | of you? |
| 22 | MR. MECKLER: Well, I understand that's |
| 23 | possible. I think the most appropriate thing to do is to |
| 24 | remand, reverse and remand on that issue. |
| 25 | QUESTION: Hold it, the court below disagreed |
| | |

| 2 | MR. MECKLER: The court below did disagree with |
|----|--|
| 3 | us. I think there's a the point I'm trying to make is |
| 4 | that the matter should be remanded to the circuit court |
| 5 | in light of the concession, and in light of Terry, let |
| 6 | them reconsider the issue. |
| 7 | QUESTION: Well, I think that we're wanting to |
| 8 | deal right now with the argument before this Court. I |
| 9 | think you'd be quite justified in saying that you submit |
| 10 | that matter on your brief and save a little time for |
| 11 | rebuttal. |
| 12 | MR. MECKLER: Fine. That's what I'll do, Your |
| 13 | Honor. |
| 14 | Moving then to the second question presented, |
| 15 | which is, does section 301 of the Labor Management |
| 16 | Relations Act create a Federal cause of action under which |
| 17 | a union member may sue his union for violation of the |
| 18 | union constitution. And this is a case where the words of |
| 19 | the statute mean something. And what they mean is that a |
| 20 | cause of action is created in this particular situation. |
| 21 | Now, the language of the statute in pertinent |
| 22 | part are as follows; suits for violations of contracts |
| 23 | between an employer and a labor organization or between |
| 24 | any such labor organizations may be brought in any |
| 25 | district court. The first question that must be answered, |

1 with you.

| _ | or course, is whether a union constitution is a joi |
|----|--|
| 2 | contract. And that question has been answered already by |
| 3 | this Court in the affirmative in the Plumbers case. |
| 4 | The second question which we then must move on |
| 5 | to is, can a nonsignatory to a 301 contract between unions |
| 6 | sue to remedy a violation of that contract, and can they |
| 7 | sue under 301. And in essence, I think the Court has also |
| 8 | answered that question in Smith v. Evening News, and |
| 9 | answered it in the affirmative. |
| 10 | Admittedly, Smith v. Evening News dealt with the |
| 11 | other half of this statute, the two halves being contracts |
| 12 | between a labor organization and an employer and contracts |
| 13 | between labor organizations. Smith held that when we're |
| 14 | talking about contracts between a labor organization and |
| 15 | an employer, a nonsignatory who in that case who had |
| 16 | benefits arising out of that contract could bring suit |
| 17 | against the employer in that case. |
| 18 | The same principle is just as applicable in this |
| 19 | case. There is no language in the statute that suggests |
| 20 | any basis for differentiation in the treatment of |
| 21 | collective bargaining agreements, the first type of |
| 22 | statute excuse me, the first type of contract defined |
| 23 | in this statute, and union constitutions, the second type |
| 24 | of contract defined in this statute. |
| 25 | Now the Smith court made it clear that the |

| 1 | between language in the statute, that is between, in this |
|----|--|
| 2 | case, any labor organizations referred to contracts and |
| 3 | not suits. The statute is very open-ended in its |
| 4 | language. It says, suits for violations of contracts |
| 5 | between any such labor organizations may be brought in |
| 6 | district court. What we have here is a claim that there |
| 7 | is a violation of one of these types of contracts. |
| 8 | Therefore, a cause of action, a Federal cause of action, |
| 9 | exists to remedy that violation. |
| 10 | Now there are a number of policy reasons which I |
| 11 | suggest to the Court lend weight to our position in |
| 12 | addition to the language of the statute, which is clear, |
| 13 | Plumbers, which is clear, and Smith v. Evening News, which |
| 14 | is also clear. What are some of these policy reasons to |
| 15 | hold that union members may bring suit under 301 against |
| 16 | their union for violation of union constitutions? |
| 17 | First of all, it's been long determined by this |
| 18 | Court that when we are in the area of 301, 301 contracts, |
| 19 | that substantive Federal law must apply. That was this |
| 20 | Court's determination way back in the Lincoln Mills case, |
| 21 | and a long line of precedent following Lincoln Mills. And |
| 22 | there's good reason for that, particularly in this |
| 23 | context, because of the uniformity that applying Federal |
| 24 | substantive law brings to the process. |
| 25 | Uniformity in the context of the enforcement of |

| 1 | a 301 contract, in this case a union constitution, brings |
|----|--|
| 2 | to us predictability, it brings to us labor stability. |
| 3 | It's far better from a policy perspective to have |
| 4 | decisions made on interpretations of union constitutions |
| 5 | which may apply to as many as all 50 States, and in this |
| 6 | instance, in this case it does, to be determined by a |
| 7 | uniform policy of Federal law rather than determined by 50 |
| 8 | different State courts. If it were determined by 50 |
| 9 | different State courts, we could have many different |
| 10 | interpretations and we would be creating chaos. The whole |
| 11 | purpose of the Lincoln Mills concept is to do just the |
| 12 | opposite of that. |
| 13 | Now in addition, the application of Federal |
| 14 | labor law principles should not depend on who happens to |
| 15 | file suit. There are different if that were to occur, |
| 16 | and certainly under Plumbers, a local union has the right |
| 17 | to sue an international union on a union constitution, an |
| 18 | international union has the right to sue a local union on |
| 19 | a union constitution under 301. |
| 20 | If that were to occur, and individual members |
| 21 | were not permitted the right to sue under 301 on this |
| 22 | situation, we would end up with different meanings for the | shopping, which is something that we should try to avoid.

same constitutional provision depending upon who happened to sue. That would also lead, I'm sure, to forum

23

24

| 1 | And it would lead to uncertainty and lack of |
|----|--|
| 2 | predictability and a destruction of labor stability. |
| 3 | Now another policy consideration that I think |
| 4 | the Court should look to is the fact that oftentimes in |
| 5 | these kinds of cases, LMRDA claims, and that certainly, ir |
| 6 | this instance it's the same situation LMRDA claims are |
| 7 | intertwined with claims of a breach of a union |
| 8 | constitution. Frequently, in LMRDA claims, the question |
| 9 | of constitutional interpretation, interpreting the union |
| 10 | constitution, comes up in many instances. The courts have |
| 11 | always assumed that in rendering that interpretation, they |
| 12 | must look to Federal law to make a determination. |
| 13 | Now if we're in a situation where there is no |
| 14 | Federal cause of action in this context, are we going to |
| 15 | have claims involving intertwined claims of LMRDA |
| 16 | violations, union constitution violations, whereby on some |
| 17 | of those provisions, in some instances the court makes a |
| 18 | determination based on Federal law, yet on the same |
| 19 | constitutional provisions, the court makes a determination |
| 20 | based upon State law? It seems to me that doesn't make a |
| 21 | lot of sense. |
| 22 | QUESTION: Mr. Meckler, do you think Congress |
| 23 | had in mind when it passed section 301 an intent to |
| 24 | Federalize internal disputes between unions and its |
| 25 | members? |

| 1 | MR. MECKLER: Yes, I think it did. And I say |
|----|--|
| 2 | that because |
| 3 | QUESTION: I would have thought the evidence |
| 4 | might be to the contrary. |
| 5 | MR. MECKLER: Well, it seems to me the evidence, |
| 6 | the main basis of evidence in that regard is the language |
| 7 | of the statute itself. And the language of the statute |
| 8 | itself is very open, very open-ended. It says if one of |
| 9 | these 301 contracts is violated, then there shall be a |
| 10 | Federal cause of action. Now, had Congress chosen to |
| 11 | exclude some type of 301 contract, or what is now a 301 |
| 12 | contract, from that scheme of things, it could have easily |
| 13 | chosen some language to do so. It did not. It left it |
| 14 | very open-ended. |
| 15 | QUESTION: If Congress has chosen to indicate a |
| 16 | Federal policy, such as Justice O'Connor was inquiring |
| 17 | about, to Federalize, they could have equally well done |
| 18 | that. |
| 19 | MR. MECKLER: Well, I suppose that's true, but |
| 20 | as the Court looked at in Plumbers, the it's very clear |
| 21 | that at the time of the passage of section 301 back in |
| 22 | 1947, union constitutions were the primary form of |
| 23 | contracts between labor organizations. And it was well |
| 24 | established at that time that union constitutions were |
| 25 | contracts between labor organizations. Congress chose |

| 1 | those very words. That choice of words, it seems to me, |
|----|---|
| 2 | suggests congressional intent |
| 3 | QUESTION: You think the principal thing |
| 4 | Congress had in mind in the Taft-Hartley Act when it |
| 5 | defined the term were union constitutions? |
| 6 | MR. MECKLER: I don't think that that was the |
| 7 | principal thing. |
| 8 | QUESTION: I thought from what you said a moment |
| 9 | ago, maybe you did. |
| 10 | MR. MECKLER: No, Your Honor, I didn't mean to |
| 11 | suggest that. I think that it is one of the things that |
| 12 | Congress had in mind when it chose the language that it |
| 13 | chose in section 301. And I might add there is some |
| 14 | additional evidence of that in the statutory language |
| 15 | itself, and that is section (1)(b) of the act, |
| 16 | 29 U.S.C. 141(b), where Congress is talking about the |
| 17 | purpose of the statute and indicates that one of the |
| 18 | purposes is to protect the right of individual employees |
| 19 | in their relations with labor organizations. |
| 20 | Now, the document that defines relations with |
| 21 | labor organizations of individual employees, the most |
| 22 | likely document, at least, is a union constitution. So it |
| 23 | seems to me that there is certainly evidence in the |
| 24 | legislation itself to suggest that Congress intended to |
| 25 | include these types of disputes. |

| 1 | QUESTION: I take it under your view that if |
|----|--|
| 2 | there were an auto lease or a lease for a building between |
| 3 | one labor union and another, that that would be a 301 |
| 4 | suit, or am I incorrect about that? |
| 5 | MR. MECKLER: Well, I think there's a question |
| 6 | there, to be sure, but the question is a Federal question. |
| 7 | The question of whether there is some benefit that's |
| 8 | included in the constitution from which the plaintiff |
| 9 | derives some benefit, some term in the constitution |
| 10 | QUESTION: No, no. Just suppose one labor |
| 11 | organization sues another over an auto lease. |
| 12 | MR. MECKLER: I believe that probably falls |
| 13 | within the language of the statute. Of course, here we're |
| 14 | here on a union constitution, and this Court has already |
| 15 | decided that a union constitution is a 301 contract. The |
| 16 | type of contract that Your Honor refers to certainly |
| 17 | hasn't been decided by this Court yet. |
| 18 | QUESTION: Mr. Meckler, how do you distinguish |
| 19 | Lockridge? I mean, the action that's alleged to have |
| 20 | occurred here would certainly be a violation of the act in |
| 21 | and of itself. So why shouldn't the board have the first |
| 22 | chance to pass on it the Garmon preemption, in other |
| 23 | words? |
| 24 | MR. MECKLER: Well, I distinguish Lockridge on a |
| 25 | couple basis. First of all, I think Lockridge in fact |

| 1 | supports our argument in one respect, and that is that it |
|----|--|
| 2 | suggests that matters such as this are matters that are to |
| 3 | be committed to the Federal branch of government, not the |
| 4 | State branch of government. In that case, of course, it |
| 5 | was the NLRB, not the Federal courts. |
| 6 | But the difference in Lockridge, it seems to |
| 7 | me |
| 8 | QUESTION: But to be committed not as a contract |
| 9 | violation, but as a violation of the act. |
| 10 | MR. MECKLER: Well, yes, that's true, but I |
| 11 | think the important thing there is that the Court |
| 12 | indicated that it's a matter of Federal concern. Now |
| 13 | that's point number one. |
| 14 | Point number two is Lockridge preceded Plumbers. |
| 15 | I believe that Plumbers changes the landscape because |
| 16 | Plumbers tells us that a union constitution is a 301 |
| 17 | contract. Now Lockridge never considered the question of |
| 18 | 301 at all, never considered whether a union constitution |
| 19 | was a 301 contract. Now we know that it is. And from |
| 20 | that point of view, I would have to distinguish Lockridge |
| 21 | on that basis. But I think Lockridge in some respects |
| 22 | supports our position. |
| 23 | Another point or policy reason, it seems to me, |
| 24 | is that the idea of judicial efficiency it seems a far |
| 25 | better practice for a plaintiff in such a case to litigate |

| 1 | the | issues | all | in | one | forum | rather | than | in | two | different |
|---|-----|--------|-----|----|-----|-------|--------|------|----|-----|-----------|
| | | | | | | | | | | | |

- 2 forums.
- Finally, I think we need to have a remedy here.
- 4 We have a union constitution which is the basic document
- 5 defining the rights of union members, vis-a-vis their
- 6 union. And it's violated, at least
- 7 plaintiffs -- petitioners claim it's violated. And the
- 8 circuit court tells us there's no remedy for that
- 9 violation. They tell us on the one hand that there's no
- 10 State contract claim because 301 preempts it. They tell
- us on the other hand that there's no 301 claim. There has
- to be a remedy for this kind of a contractual violation.
- 13 Otherwise the union constitutions aren't worth the paper
- 14 they're written on, the protections that they may afford
- 15 union members are worthless.
- 16 And as this case stands here before the Court
- 17 today, there is no remedy.
- QUESTION: Well, maybe they were wrong about 301
- 19 preempting it.
- MR. MECKLER: Well, maybe they were. I don't
- 21 understand logically their inference there. But it seems
- 22 to me if you look at 301 itself, it's clear that 301
- 23 includes this type of dispute. 301, as I said, the words
- 24 of 301 -- as Your Honor was talking about earlier in some
- of the arguments this morning, the words of 301 I think

| 1 | are | the | key | to | this | case. |
|---|-----|-----|-----|------|-------|-------|
| 2 | | | QT | JEST | TION: | Does |

QUESTION: Does 301 mention a suit between a

3 union and a member?

4 MR. MECKLER: No. Nor does it mention a suit

5 between an individual member or employee and a employer.

6 Nor does it mention a suit between an individual member

7 and a union.

8 QUESTION: It does mention a suit between two

9 unions.

10 MR. MECKLER: It does mention a suit -- well, it

11 talks about -- no, Your Honor, I beg to differ with you

12 there. It mentions a contract between two unions, and it says that suits may be brought for violations of such 14 contracts.

16

22

15 QUESTION: Exactly. But it doesn't mention a contract between a union and a member.

MR. MECKLER: No, it talks about contracts

18 between two or more labor organizations, I think, is the 19 language of the statute.

QUESTION: Exactly.

MR. MECKLER: And the point being this Court has already decided, in Plumbers, that union constitutions are

23 that kind of a contract, are a 301 contract. Therefore,

24 it becomes a matter of 301 concern, it becomes a matter of 25 Federal concern, Federal courts' concern.

14

| 1 | There are benefits flowing, obviously benefits |
|----|--|
| 2 | flowing |
| 3 | QUESTION: Would you be making the same argument |
| 4 | if the 301 didn't mention contracts between two or more |
| 5 | labor organizations? |
| 6 | MR. MECKLER: I don't think so. I mean I think |
| 7 | that if it did not mention that language, then Plumbers |
| 8 | never would have happened and we wouldn't be here today, |
| 9 | probably. |
| 10 | QUESTION: Why not? Why not? |
| 11 | MR. MECKLER: Because the statutory language |
| 12 | defines the bounds here. And the bounds include contracts |
| 13 | between labor organizations. And contracts between labor |
| 14 | organizations, by definition now, include union |
| 15 | constitutions. |
| 16 | QUESTION: Yeah, but it still doesn't mention |
| 17 | contracts between a union and a member. |
| 18 | MR. MECKLER: It doesn't mention contracts |
| 19 | between a union and a member, but I would suggest to the |
| 20 | Court that a union constitution is a contract between |
| 21 | labor organizations by virtue of its usage over years, and |
| 22 | more importantly by virtue of Plumbers. That's what |
| 23 | Plumbers tells us. |
| 24 | I think I'm going to conclude my argument at |
| 25 | this point and reserve the remaining time for rebuttal. |
| | 15 |

| 1 | QUESTION: Very well, Mr. Meckler. |
|----|--|
| 2 | Mr. Cloppert, we will now hear from you. |
| 3 | ORAL ARGUMENT OF FREDERICK G. CLOPPERT, JR. |
| 4 | ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS |
| 5 | MR. CLOPPERT: Thank you, Mr. Chief Justice, and |
| 6 | may it please the Court: |
| 7 | The issue before this Court is the intent of |
| 8 | Congress in enacting section 301 of Taft-Hartley, |
| 9 | specifically the provisions for suits for violation of |
| 10 | contracts between any such labor organization and its |
| 11 | applications to union constitutions in a situation such as |
| 12 | we have here. |
| 13 | QUESTION: You do concede the jury trial issue? |
| 14 | MR. CLOPPERT: That is correct, Your Honor. |
| 15 | QUESTION: Although the court of appeals ruled |
| 16 | in your favor? |
| 17 | MR. CLOPPERT: That is correct. It was before |
| 18 | this Court came down with the Terry decision. |
| 19 | QUESTION: That's before Terry? |
| 20 | MR. CLOPPERT: That is correct, Your Honor. |
| 21 | The state of the law in union constitutions is |
| 22 | important. In 1947, at the time the Taft-Hartley was |
| 23 | passed, a union constitution defined two separate types of |
| 24 | relationships. It defined a relationship between the |
| 25 | international union and a member, and it defined a |
| | |

| 1 | relationship between the international union and its |
|----|--|
| 2 | subordinate bodies, the local unions, and so forth. And |
| 3 | in both instances, these relationships were considered a |
| 4 | contract. |
| 5 | So 11 years later, in Gonzales, this Court |
| 6 | looked at a union constitution. At that time a member had |
| 7 | been discharged from the union. He brought a breach of |
| 8 | contract suit in California, and the contract being the |
| 9 | union constitution. The issue came up, well, was this |
| 10 | preempted? Should these issues be Federalized? And the |
| 11 | Court at that time said no, that issue should not be |
| 12 | Federalized. |
| 13 | The next year in 1959, Congress enacted the |
| 14 | first comprehensive regulation of the internal affairs of |
| 15 | unions in the Landrum-Griffin Act. There, for the first |
| 16 | time, was mentioned union constitutions and any kind of |
| 17 | regulation of union constitutions. |
| 18 | Approximately 12 years later, in Lockridge, this |
| 19 | Court revisited Gonzales, essentially the same issue, the |
| 20 | union constitution breach of State breach of contract |
| 21 | in State court. And because there was impacted the union |
| 22 | security provision in the collective bargaining agreement, |
| 23 | the Court in Lockridge held that there should be Garmon |
| 24 | preemption, NLRA preemption. But both the majority and |
| 25 | the dissent in Lockridge recognized that a breach of |

| 1 | contract of the union constitution could be brought in |
|----|--|
| 2 | State court except in this instance there was a possible |
| 3 | conflict, and so the Court preempted it. |
| 4 | Then 10 years later, in Plumbers, this Court |
| 5 | addressed the relationship between the union and its |
| 6 | subordinate bodies in union constitution, and held that |
| 7 | that relationship was a 301 contract. And that is why we |
| 8 | are here today, because of a footnote in Plumbers. |
| 9 | Crucial to deciding this case is understanding |
| 10 | the nature of a union constitution. It's not a collective |
| 11 | bargaining agreement, it's not an employment contract, |
| 12 | it's not a lease. A union constitution is a charter of an |
| 13 | organization, the same way you would have a charter of the |
| 14 | YMCA, the YWCA, the Knights of Columbus, or another |
| 15 | organization. Parts of it define the relationship between |
| 16 | the international union and the local unions, and part of |
| 17 | it defines the relationship between the international |
| 18 | union and the individual members. So you have parts of a |
| 19 | constitution that deal with a call to the convention in |
| 20 | how you run your convention. You have other parts that |
| 21 | deal with the merger, consolidation, trusteeship of local |
| 22 | unions. You have other parts that deal with the finances |
| 23 | of the international union, obviously something important |
| 24 | and sacred to the union. And it defines the per capita |
| 25 | that a local pays the international and how those dues are |

| 2 | All these parts of the constitution go to that |
|----|--|
| 3 | relationship between the international union and the |
| 4 | subordinate bodies. |
| 5 | There are other parts of union constitutions |
| 6 | that define the relationship between the union and its |
| 7 | members. There are provisions for qualifications for and |
| 8 | admission to membership as well as the admission dues or |
| 9 | initiation fees. There are provisions that relate to the |
| 10 | pension plan, to how many years a member must have to |
| 11 | qualify for death benefits. And finally, there are the |
| 12 | duties of the local union officers to its members, and |
| 13 | that's the part of the constitution that's at issue here. |
| 14 | QUESTION: Well, which of the two categories |
| 15 | does that fall into? Does that deal with the relation |
| 16 | between the international and members? |
| 17 | MR. CLOPPERT: Yes, Your Honor. |
| 18 | QUESTION: Or does it deal with the relationship |
| 19 | between the international and its subordinate unions? It |
| 20 | deals with both, it seems to me. It says what the |
| 21 | subordinate unions have to do with respect to the members. |
| 22 | So it deals with the members and it also deals with the |
| 23 | subordinate unions. So maybe there's a third category. |
| 24 | MR. CLOPPERT: The international constitution |
| 25 | prescribes duties for the local union and the local union |

1 to be allocated.

| 1 | officers. And among the duties that are prescribed is the |
|----|--|
| 2 | business manager shall do such and such for his the |
| 3 | members. Now that, to me, is a personal |
| 4 | QUESTION: So it does speak to the rights of the |
| 5 | members of the union. |
| 6 | MR. CLOPPERT: Right. That speaks to the rights |
| 7 | of the members of the union, not to the |
| 8 | QUESTION: But it also speaks to the duties of |
| 9 | the officers of the union. |
| 10 | MR. CLOPPERT: Those are the local union |
| 11 | officers. |
| 12 | QUESTION: Right. |
| 13 | MR. CLOPPERT: Not the international |
| 14 | QUESTION: So therefore it does |
| 15 | MR. CLOPPERT: Those are the duties of the local |
| 16 | unions officers. |
| 17 | QUESTION: I understand. |
| 18 | MR. CLOPPERT: And that's the |
| 19 | relationship that's almost a third kind of thing where |
| 20 | you have a relationship that I'll get to later between the |
| 21 | local union and its members. You have the local union |
| 22 | bylaws. |
| 23 | QUESTION: It seems to me it says the local |
| 24 | union owes a duty to the international to do something for | the members of the local union. Right? Isn't that what

| _ | ic basically says: |
|----|--|
| 2 | MR. CLOPPERT: No, Justice Scalia. I see that |
| 3 | as an obligation in the constitution that governs the |
| 4 | officer and the member. It doesn't say anything about the |
| 5 | international. Now, if the member if the officer |
| 6 | doesn't do that, that's obviously a violation of the |
| 7 | international constitution, but that doesn't express a |
| 8 | relationship between that officer and the international |
| 9 | union. |
| 10 | We're concerned here with the legislative |
| 11 | intent. And it's clear that section 301 of Taft-Hartley |
| 12 | has been discussed. It doesn't talk about internal union |
| 13 | affairs, it talks about contracts between any such labor |
| 14 | organizations. And as this Court saw in the Plumbers |
| 15 | case, there is just no legislative history to assist this |
| 16 | Court. |
| 17 | With that in mind, I think the Court should then |
| 18 | look at Landrum-Griffin, which was passed 12 years later, |
| 19 | that was the first comprehensive regulation of the |
| 20 | internal affairs of the labor unions that dealt with their |
| 21 | members. In section 103, in fact in three sections, it |
| 22 | specifically said that we do not preempt preexisting |
| 23 | rights. |
| 24 | And let me address a few of those because I |
| 25 | think this is crucial with the understanding of what the |

| 1 | state of the law was in '47, '59, and so forth. Let's |
|----|--|
| 2 | look at what Landrum-Griffin did as far as not preempting |
| 3 | preexisting rights. In section 103 it said, nothing |
| 4 | contained in this title shall limit the rights and |
| 5 | remedies of any member of the labor organization under any |
| 6 | State or Federal law, or before any court or other |
| 7 | tribunal, or under the constitution bylaws of any labor |
| 8 | organization. |
| 9 | Section 403 has essentially the same provisions |
| 10 | relative to union elections. Then there is another |
| 11 | savings clause in section 603 that provides, nothing in |
| 12 | this act shall take away any right or bar any remedy to |
| 13 | which members of a labor organization are entitled under |
| 14 | such other Federal law or law of any State. |
| 15 | This understanding that there was no disturbing |
| 16 | the preexisting rights was also had by the commentators at |
| 17 | the time, and we have cited Professor Summers' article in |
| 18 | our brief. Professor Summers in that article says that |
| 19 | one of the minor disputes in Landrum-Griffin during the |
| 20 | congressional debates was between whether there would be a |
| 21 | complete preemption of other rights or whether there would |
| 22 | be a coexistence of rights. And he said there occurred a |
| 23 | coexistence of rights. |
| 24 | QUESTION: Mr. Cloppert, let me understand what |
| 25 | your case is. You're asking us to look at all union |

| 1 | international constitutions and to divide their provisions |
|----|--|
| 2 | into two types. |
| 3 | MR. CLOPPERT: That is correct, Justice Scalia. |
| 4 | QUESTION: And you're confident that we can tell |
| 5 | as to each of those which of them is type one that |
| 6 | involves the relationship between the international and |
| 7 | the local, and type two, which involves the relationship |
| 8 | between the international and individual members of the |
| 9 | local. |
| 10 | MR. CLOPPERT: I have all that confidence in the |
| 11 | Court. If I may, Justice Scalia, we have a Federal |
| 12 | system |
| 13 | QUESTION: And just let me add, and you're |
| 14 | confident that a provision that says, a member of the |
| 15 | local is entitled to get certain service from a vice |
| 16 | president of a local. That falls into the first |
| 17 | category I'm sorry yes, that falls into the first |
| 18 | category. That involves the relationship between the |
| 19 | inter no. The second category, that involves the |
| 20 | relationship between the international and the individual |
| 21 | member, not the relationship between the international and |
| 22 | the local. |
| 23 | MR. CLOPPERT: When you're dealing with the |
| 24 | individual, those are individual rights. When the |
| 25 | international is merging, consolidating, putting into |

- 1 trusteeship, chartering, those are all rights between two
- 2 labor organizations, and that's what this Court discussed
- 3 in Plumbers.
- 4 QUESTION: What other provisions of the
- 5 constitution do you think are Plumber-type provisions? I
- 6 mean it seems to me almost everything in the constitution
- 7 is ultimately designed for the benefit of the individual
- 8 union member.
- 9 MR. CLOPPERT: The per capita dues, that's the
- 10 support of the international union --
- 11 QUESTION: That involves what? That's type (a)?
- 12 That's a Plumber-type provision.
- MR. CLOPPERT: Right. It requires the local
- 14 unions to pay $5 per head to the international for the
- 15 international support.
- 16 QUESTION: That's an easy one. I agree with
- 17 that. I can see that one.
- 18 MR. CLOPPERT: I think our analysis takes care
- of many of the concerns that counsel mentioned here of the
- law being different depending on whether it's an
- 21 individual member bringing the lawsuit or it's an
- 22 organization.
- For example, let's go back to the Plumbers case.
- 24 What if some members in that local that was being
- 25 consolidated in New Jersey brought the lawsuit instead of

| 1 | the local? Well, you're affecting the relationship of the |
|----|---|
| 2 | international and its local, and that's a Plumbers case. |
| 3 | The issue should not be who is bringing the lawsuit. And |
| 4 | this Court, you know, decided that in Smith, that it's no |
| 5 | who's bringing the lawsuit, but it's the nature of the |
| 6 | rights or the nature of the relationship. And that's what |
| 7 | the Court should focus on. |
| 8 | QUESTION: And what is your touchstone? Is your |
| 9 | touchstone as to which category it falls into? How do you |
| 10 | figure that out? You ask yourself, is the purpose of this |
| 11 | duty that is imposed on the local, is the purpose of this |
| 12 | duty to benefit a particular member of the local? Is that |
| 13 | the criteria? |
| 14 | MR. CLOPPERT: The only way I can say it, |
| 15 | Justice Scalia, is does it deal with the relationship |
| 16 | between the international and the subordinate bodies? And |
| 17 | if it does, it's a Plumbers case. If it deals the |
| 18 | relationship between the international and its individual |
| 19 | members, that is an individual right claim, and that's |
| 20 | something that, you know for example in Gonzales, |

QUESTION: What about a provision that the local

Lockridge -- fines in Allis-Chalmers, the union sued to enforce fines in State court. And the -- under the union

| 1 | elections shall be conducted in a certain fashion? That's |
|----|--|
| 2 | an individual rights one? |
| 3 | MR. CLOPPERT: If it regulates right, |
| 4 | elections. |
| 5 | Just as petitioner has indicated, there could be |
| 6 | a judicial nightmare if you would accept the distinction |
| 7 | that Justice Scalia and I have been discussing. We think |
| 8 | there is potential for a great nightmare or quagmire if |
| 9 | you accept their argument where you Federalize every claim |
| 10 | based on a union constitution. |
| 11 | Most international unions have intermediate |
| 12 | bodies called district councils. The State of Kentucky |
| 13 | might be a whole district council, a place such as Ohio |
| 14 | might have three or four district councils. District |
| 15 | counsels have bylaws. There are generally 5, 10, 15 local |
| 16 | unions within the confines of that district council. Do |
| 17 | the district council bylaws then become a 301 |
| 18 | constitution? What about the local union bylaws? One of |
| 19 | the claims in this case is not only for breach of the |
| 20 | international constitution, but also for breach of the |
| 21 | local union. |
| 22 | The constitution of the IBEW provides that this |
| 23 | constitution shall become a part of all local union |

country that the IBEW has, are they then considered to be

So then all the local union bylaws throughout the

| 1 | 301 contracts that this Court's going to be required to |
|----|--|
| 2 | address? Now there are some independent local unions out |
| 3 | there. Would the Court look at the relationship between |
| 4 | that independent local and its members? Since there's not |
| 5 | another union involved, would that not be a 301 contract, |
| 6 | and would those be the only union constitutions that would |
| 7 | be enforceable in State court? |
| 8 | We also have the issue of the union suing |
| 9 | members. If they're going to Federalize every claim under |
| 10 | union constitution, then a claim such as this Court saw in |
| 11 | Allis-Chalmers, where the union was enforcing fines |
| 12 | imposed for crossing a picket line, the union could go |
| 13 | into Federal court and enforce all of those. In |
| 14 | Allis-Chalmers they were State court claims. |
| 15 | We think there is more problems if the Court |
| 16 | makes what appears to be a simple cut and Federalizes this |
| 17 | whole thing rather than making a determination based on |
| 18 | the relationship. |
| 19 | QUESTION: Was that an international in |
| 20 | Allis-Chalmers? Was that the international suing for the |
| 21 | fines? |
| 22 | MR. CLOPPERT: Yes. Yes. We think the |
| 23 | touchstone should be does it deal with the relationship |
| 24 | between the international union and the local unions. And |
| 25 | those are Plumbers-type cases, those are 301 collective |

| 1 | bargaining let's call them 301 collective bargaining |
|----|--|
| 2 | contracts because I want to distinguish it from the |
| 3 | 301 I'm sorry. Those are 301 constitution claims, so I |
| 4 | can distinguish it from the collective bargaining. |
| 5 | And acts that deal with the relationship between |
| 6 | the union, whether it's an international or local union, |
| 7 | with the members, those are claims that should be |
| 8 | considered in State court. |
| 9 | If there are any other questions, I thank you |
| 10 | for your time. |
| 11 | QUESTION: Thank you, Mr. Cloppert. |
| 12 | Mr. Meckler, you have 9 minutes remaining. |
| 13 | REBUTTAL ARGUMENT OF THEODORE E. MECKLER |
| 14 | ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONER |
| 15 | MR. MECKLER: Thank you, Mr. Chief Justice. I |
| 16 | just want to touch on a few points. First of all, with |
| 17 | respect to the question that Justice Scalia asked about |
| 18 | provisions relating to governing union elections. It |
| 19 | seems to me that is a perfect example of a type of |
| 20 | provision that the interest flows in all sorts of |
| 21 | different ways. I think the international has an interest |
| 22 | in local unions' elections being conducted properly. |
| 23 | Certainly the local itself has an interest in that. |
| 24 | Certainly the members themselves have an interest in that. |
| 25 | It goes all three ways there. |
| | |

| 1 | QUESTION: There wasn't always an interest in |
|----|--|
| 2 | it, of course, or it wouldn't be in the constitution. Of |
| 3 | course, it always have an interest. But I think it is |
| 4 | perhaps possible to draw a line between those in which its |
| 5 | interest is purely a selfish one, namely I get $5 a head, |
| 6 | for example, for all of your local members, how much the |
| 7 | international is entitled to as membership fees from the |
| 8 | local, and those provisions which are not just for the |
| 9 | benefit of the international, but really, it's the |
| 10 | international being beneficent to the members of the |
| 11 | local. You will treat your members this way, that way, |
| 12 | and the other way. Can't one draw that distinction? |
| 13 | MR. MECKLER: I think you're going to get into |
| 14 | all sorts of problems drawing those distinctions, number |
| 15 | one. Number two, when we have a union constitution and we |
| 16 | know it's a 301 contract, it seems to me it's a Federal |
| 17 | question what those categories are, if in fact we can make |
| 18 | those kinds of categorizations, and I don't think you can. |
| 19 | Because things don't fit into neat labels here. |
| 20 | Let me also point out, and |
| 21 | QUESTION: Give me an example of one that really |
| 22 | is the hardest to categorize, doesn't fit into a neat one. |
| 23 | I'm sorry, I should have thought you would have guessed |
| 24 | that somebody might ask you. |
| 25 | MR. MECKLER: Well, okay, and I probably should. |

| 1 | Let | me | try | to | clear | my | mind | a | second | and | think | of | one. | I |
|---|-----|----|-----|----|-------|----|------|---|--------|-----|-------|----|------|---|
|---|-----|----|-----|----|-------|----|------|---|--------|-----|-------|----|------|---|

- 2 can think of one where there's a provision in a
- 3 local -- in a constitution, that requires before a
- 4 referendum vote is held, before a referendum vote is held,
- 5 a mail ballot referendum vote, that the local must conduct
- a meeting. The members must discuss the issue and vote on
- 7 whether or not that referendum vote should be authorized.
- 8 Okay?
- 9 It seems to me if the local were then to go
- 10 ahead and conduct a referendum for whatever reasons
- 11 contrary to that provision, that local members would
- 12 certainly have an interest in that. Certainly the local
- 13 itself would have a clear interest in that. And the
- 14 international which would want its local to be run
- 15 according to one, the written constitution, and two, in an
- appropriate manner, would have a very strong interest in
- 17 that.
- I litigated a similar case like that, and that
- 19 happens. That kind of stuff happens all the time. And it
- 20 seems to me that that kind of situation shows us how
- 21 unworkable these kinds of categorizations are.
- Let me just make another point as far as that
- 23 goes. It seems that the proposition put forth by the
- 24 respondents in this case is directly in contradiction to
- 25 Smith. Because what Smith tells us is there's you know,

| 1 | there's lots of different provisions in collective |
|----|--|
| 2 | bargaining agreements, too. Some of them may flow |
| 3 | directly to the union, between the union and the company. |
| 4 | Some of them may flow to the individual employee. In |
| 5 | Smith, the Court found that the provisions in question |
| 6 | flew I mean flowed, excuse me, to the individual |
| 7 | employee. |
| 8 | Now they're suggesting that if they flow to the |
| 9 | individual employee, there's no Federal cause of action; |
| 10 | if they don't flow to the individual employee, then there |
| 11 | is a cause of action. Smith says just the opposite. |
| 12 | QUESTION: Yes, but Smith was when you're |
| 13 | talking about collective bargaining agreements, you kind |
| 14 | of have a presumption based on the whole history of labor |
| 15 | law that all collective bargaining agreements have an |
| 16 | impact on interstate commerce. I'm not sure the same |
| 17 | presumption applies to every provision of every union |
| 18 | constitution, or every contract between two unions. |
| 19 | MR. MECKLER: Well, it seems to me Plumbers |
| 20 | answers the question and tells us that union constitutions |
| 21 | are contracts within the meaning of 301. And I think, as |
| 22 | I understand your question, Justice Stevens, it really |
| 23 | goes to the dissent that you wrote in that very case. |

That's right. But I think the arguments that were made in QUESTION: It goes to positions being rejected.

24

| 1 | that dissent would be much stronger in case like some of |
|----|--|
| 2 | the hypotheticals that have been talked about where it's |
| 3 | more clearly there's a much more clear absence of |
| 4 | legislative history suggesting it. In other words, I can |
| 5 | see contracts between unions resolving jurisdictional |
| 6 | disputes and so forth would fall right into the |
| 7 | whole same kind of Federal interest involved in |
| 8 | collective bargaining agreements. |
| 9 | But when you're talking about leasing |
| 10 | arrangements, such as Justice Kennedy identified, and some |
| 11 | of these more or less minor disputes, it is kind of hard |
| 12 | to see the Federal interest. I guess you argue also |
| 13 | there's a Federal authority to create common law in |
| 14 | interpreting the relationship among unions and their |
| 15 | members. |
| 16 | MR. MECKLER: Well, that's correct, although I |
| 17 | think the question presented here is a little more limited |
| 18 | than that, really. |
| 19 | QUESTION: I know, but once you get if you |
| 20 | win, then that's the next step, obviously. There will be |
| 21 | a Federal common law in this whole area of union versus |
| 22 | member relationships. |
| 23 | MR. MECKLER: I would have to agree with you |
| 24 | there. You know, Justice Stevens |

QUESTION: Let me just ask one other --

ALDERSON REPORTING COMPANY, INC. 1111 FOURTEENTH STREET, N.W. SUITE 400 WASHINGTON, D.C. 20005 (202)289-2260 (800) FOR DEPO

| 1 | MR. MECKLER: I'm sorry. |
|----|--|
| 2 | QUESTION: Are you limiting your position to |
| 3 | cases in which the union constitution actually defines the |
| 4 | relationship between an international or a national and |
| 5 | locals? You wouldn't make the same argument if you just |
| 6 | had a union which had no subdivisions, would you? |
| 7 | MR. MECKLER: I'm not sure you mean like an |
| 8 | independent local? |
| 9 | QUESTION: An independent local has its own |
| 10 | constitution. |
| 11 | MR. MECKLER: Well, I think you probably fall |
| 12 | outside the language of the statute because we've got to |
| 13 | back to the language of the statute. The language of the |
| 14 | statute says between labor organizations. |
| 15 | QUESTION: Right, and your labor organizations |
| 16 | are the parent and the subsidiaries, or the |
| 17 | MR. MECKLER: That's right. There are, to just |
| 18 | answer your question about, you know, the effect on |
| 19 | interstate commerce. It seems to me there are plenty of |
| 20 | provisions in constitutions that clearly do have effects |
| 21 | on interstate commerce. For example, provisions, I know |
| 22 | like in the Teamsters' constitution, there's provisions |
| 23 | that govern the ratification of collective bargaining |
| 24 | agreements. Obviously those are going to have an effect |
| 25 | on interstate commerce. |
| | |

| 1 | There's provisions that govern hiring halls in |
|----|--|
| 2 | this constitution and many other constitutions. Those |
| 3 | certainly have an effect on interstate commerce. And, you |
| 4 | know, this Court has recognized many cases in the context |
| 5 | of collective bargaining agreements, BOCA-type cases in |
| 6 | the context of collective bargaining agreements, where I |
| 7 | suppose an argument could be made that they really don't |
| 8 | have an effect on interstate commerce. We're generally |
| 9 | talking in the garden variety BOCA-type case of a |
| 10 | discharge of one individual. That's generally what we're |
| 11 | talking about. |
| 12 | And it seems to me it works both ways with both |
| 13 | constitutions and collective bargaining agreements, we |
| 14 | have to treat them the same way. If there are some things |
| 15 | in there that aren't quite as wide in their reach and what |
| 16 | happens because of the language of the statute, they're |
| 17 | brought in anyhow. |
| 18 | QUESTION: I grant you Plumbers said that there |
| 19 | could be a suit on a contract between two unions and that |
| 20 | union constitutions are contracts. But the only kind of a |
| 21 | suit that 301 authorized with respect to union |
| 22 | constitutions was a suit on a contract between two unions. |
| 23 | MR. MECKLER: That's true. |
| 24 | QUESTION: Well, it didn't mention a suit on a |
| 25 | contract between a union and a member. |
| | |

| 1 | MR. MECKLER: We're not going to a contract |
|----|---|
| 2 | between a union and a member. We're going to a union |
| 3 | constitution, which Plumbers has told us is a contract |
| 4 | QUESTION: All right, it is a contract, but call |
| 5 | it a constitution or a contract and it is a contract, |
| 6 | Plumbers held that, but 301 doesn't authorize a suit on a |
| 7 | contract between a union and its members. |
| 8 | MR. MECKLER: Well, I go back, to answer your |
| 9 | question, Justice White, to the language of the statute |
| 10 | itself, which talks about the between language, which |
| 11 | Smith addressed, modifies contracts and not suits. It's |
| 12 | suits for violations of contracts between these various |
| 13 | entities. And I think I've answered your question. I |
| 14 | hope I've answered your question. |
| 15 | I see my time is up. |
| 16 | CHIEF JUSTICE REHNQUIST: Thank you, Mr. |
| 17 | Meckler. |
| 18 | The case is submitted. |
| 19 | (Whereupon, at 1:47 p.m., the case in the |
| 20 | above-entitled matter was submitted.) |
