Meet Lex!

Hello, my name is Lex the Tortoise! I am 8 years old and I live in Washington, D.C. Did you know that Washington is the capital of the United States?

I love to read, go swimming, and make art projects. And I really like the color green.

One of my favorite things to do is explore my hometown and visit all the museums and special buildings. Today I'm going to show you my favorite, the Supreme Court!

This building was built in 1935. That was a long time ago! Can you imagine visiting the Supreme Court when it first opened?

Present Day

What looks the same?
What looks different?

Differences between the Supreme Court Building in October 1935 and Today:

In 1935, clothing styles were different. Many visitors in the photo are wearing suits and nobody is wearing jeans. Hats were common, too!

The two large statues outside the building are missing! They were added shortly after the building opened. They are called Authority of Law and Contemplation of Justice.

Authority of Law

Can you see the word Lex written on the tablet? That is how you say the word law in Latin.

Contemplation of Justice

That's where my name comes from!

An ARCHITECT is someone who designs buildings. The architect Cass Gilbert designed the Supreme Court Building. He added lots of special details to make the building stand out.

CAN YOU MATCH THE WORDS BELOW WITH THE CORRECT PICTURE?

Columns are some of the special details Cass Gilbert added!
There are three types of columns:

DORIC COLUMNS
are the most common.
They are plain
and sturdy.

IONIC COLUMNS
are a little fancier. They have a scroll
on top.

CORINTHIAN COLUMNS
are the fanciest.
They have flowers and leaves on top.

There are 36 columns in the Great Hall, the large, beautiful space outside the Courtroom.

Take a close look!

Can you guess
—which type of
columns these are?

CIRCLE THE ANSWER:

DORIC

IONIC

CORINTHIAN

Each column is just over 24 feet tall.

A baby elephant is about 3 feet tall.

Let's count!

How many baby elephants can we
stack next to just one
Great Hall column?

 = 3 ft

CIRCLE THE ANSWER:

6 7 8 9

Look at the two lions! Lions are part of the decoration in the Great Hall.

Can you circle 9 differences?

Can
you help me
find my way to the Courtroom?

The Courtroom is found at the heart
of the Supreme Court Building!

The Courtroom

The Supreme Court is often called “the highest Court in the land” because it makes decisions all other courts in the country must follow. The Courtroom is where the Supreme Court Justices sit to hear oral arguments and announce their decisions.

ORAL ARGUMENT is when lawyers argue their case in front of the Justices. These arguments help the Justices make their decisions.

Courtroom Seek & Find

The American Flag: There are two—one on each side of the Bench. ▶

The Lectern: Lawyers stand here, directly in front of the Bench, and face the Justices during oral arguments.

Ionic Columns: There are columns all around the Courtroom. Each one has a scroll at the top. ▼

The Bench: This is where the nine Justices sit when they hear oral arguments in the Courtroom. The Bench is curved so they can see and hear each other better.

There are 9 Supreme Court Justices.
The Justices make important decisions about our country's laws.

Chief Justice Roberts

Justice Thomas

Justice Breyer

Justice Alito

Justice Sotomayor

Justice Kagan

Justice Gorsuch

Justice Kavanaugh

Justice Barrett

There is no rule or dress code that says each Justice has to wear a black robe. It is a TRADITION, something the Justices have been doing for more than 200 years.

Does your family have any traditions?

DRAW YOUR OWN PORTRAIT!

Draw yourself as you look now or use your imagination and draw yourself all grown up.

A PORTRAIT is a painting of a person, often someone famous. This is a portrait of Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, the first woman to become a Supreme Court Justice.

LET'S COLOR!

A SYMBOL is an image or object that is used to stand for something else. At the Supreme Court, tortoises are a symbol for the slow and steady pace of justice. Do you know the story The Tortoise and the Hare? Do you remember who won the race?

Can you name any other symbols?

There are tortoises—like
me!—all around the Supreme Court!

There are beautiful flowers on the ceiling in the Great Hall and the Courtroom called ROSETTES. These flowers are not symbols. The rosettes were added to make the Great Hall and the Courtroom look special.
